Then Hurd went to the village police office and told a burelle constable to keep an eye on Miss Junk's "fureiner," as he learned Hokar was called. The policeman, a smooth faced individual, promised to do so after Hurd professed his credentials, and sauntered toward the Red Pig at some distance from the detective's heels. A timely question about the curry revealed, by the mouth of Miss Junk, that Hokar was still in the kitchen. "But he do seem alarmed like," said Matilda, laying the cloth.

"Let's hope he won't spoil the curry," remarked Hurd. Then, knowing Hokar was safe, he went into the bar to make the acquaintance of his other victim.

Captain Jarvey Jessop quite answered to the description given by Pash. He was large and sallowfaced, with red hair mixed with gray and a red beard that scarcely concealed the scar running from temple to mouth. He had drunk enough to make him cheerful and was quite willing to fall into conversation with Hurd, who explained himself unnecessarily. "I'm a commercial gent," said the detective, calling for two rums, plain, "and I like talking."

"Me, too," growled the sailor, grasping his glass. "I'm here on what you'd call a visit, but I go back to my home tomorrow. Then it's ho for Callao," he shouted in a singsong voice.

Hurd knew the fierce old chanty and sized Captain Jarvey up at once. He was of the buccaneer type, and there was little he would not do to make money and have a roaring time. Failing Hokar, with his deadly handkerchief, here was the man who might have killed Aaron Norman. "Drink up," shouted Hurd in his turn, "we'll have some more.

"On no condition, in extradition, Allowed in Callao."

"Gum," said Captain Jessop, "you know the chanty."

Hurd winked. "I've been round about in my time."

Jessop stretched out a huge hand. "Put it there, mate," said he, with a roar like a foghorn, "and drink up along o' me. My treat."

Hurd nodded and became jovial. "On condition you join me at dinner. They make good curries here."

"I've had curry," said Captain Jessop heavily, "in Colombo and Hongkong frequent, but Hokar's curries are the best."

"Ah!" said Hurd in a friendly, curious way. "Do you know this chanty?"

Jessop looked at him with contempt. "Know this chanty?" said he, with a grin. "Why, in course I do. I've been swinging my hammock here time in and out for the last thirty year."

"You'll be a Christchurch man, then?"

"Not me, mate. I'm Buckinghamshire—Stowley born."

Hurd with difficulty suppressed a [illegible] when the tall impecunious wretch had been pawned by a nautical man, and here was the man in question. "I should have thought you'd lived near the sea," he said cautiously, "say Southampton."

"Bhowanee no take one eye mans."

"Oh, I used t'go there for my ship," said the captain, draining his glass, "but I don't go there no more."

"Retired, eh?"

Jessop nodded and looked at his friend—as he considered Hurd since the invitation to dinner—with a bloodshot pair of eyes. "Come storm, come calm," he growled, "I've sailed the ocean for forty years. Yes, sir; you bet. I was a slip of a fifteen cabin boy on my first cruise, and then I got on to being skipper. Lord," Jessop smacked his knee, "the things I've seen!"

"We'll have them tonight after dinner," said Hurd, nodding, "but now, I suppose, you've made your fortune."

"No," said the captain gloomily, "not what you'd call money. I've got a standby, though," and he winked.

"Ah! Married to a rich wife?"

"Not me. I've had enough of marriage, having been the skipper of a mermaid with a tongue. No, sir," he roared out another line of some song floating in his muzzy head, "a saucy bachelor am I," then changed to gruff talk, "and I intends being one all my days. Standby I have—'tain't a wife, but I can draw the money regular and no questions asked." Again he winked and drank another glass.

Hurd reflected that perhaps Jessop had killed Aaron Norman for Mrs. Krill, and she was paying him blood money. But he did not care to press the question. He therefore proposed [illegible] to the sitting room.

A gentleman who admits to having succumbed to what he is pleased to call "that Carnegie feeling" is visiting Manchester.

Stylishly dressed and wearing a fur-trimmed overcoat, the unknown visitor approached a policeman at midnight and asked to be directed to a neighborhood in which common lodging-houses abound. The constable was startled by the request, but gave the desired information.

Shortly afterwards the policeman noticed the gentleman walking up Deansgate with a little crowd of wretchedly-clad and half-starved creatures around him. Invited to explain, the man with the fur coat said:

"The fact of the matter is I have only arrived back in Manchester today after an absence of eighteen years in the Colonies. My last night in Manchester was spent on one of the infirmary seats. I have just been up there now to invite as many outcasts as I could find to have a bed and a square meal."

Begs Although Offered Board

High County Constable G.o. Cochrane yesterday had a trip to Smith township after an old man named Hay, whom it seems has been sponging on residents there for his meals and beer. The old man has been offered the soft side of a bed in the House of Refuge, but he seems to prefer asking farmers for a meal and bed to taking the sure substitute for the same.

Dr. Gray's Assailants Were Punished

Yesterday the police court was crowded to its utmost standing capacity. A theatrical manager would have sighed with envy had he seen the crowds pouring in. The cause of this was the trial ahead of several young men who happened to be present Monday night when Dr. Gray, the coroner arrested a young man who hit him. It seems that a number of young men standing around the corner of Charlotte and George streets when they saw the scrap between Dr. Gray and his assailants thought the men attacking the doctor were justified in their action. The result of both yesterday and the day before at the police court, however, clearly demonstrated to the contrary.

Right Food

How the Baby was Saved

"When our first baby came it was soon apparent that his mother could not nurse him and it became necessary to feed him artificial food. We tried everything recommended by our family doctor, then consulted several other physicians in succession.

"We experimented with nearly every artificial food but could barely keep the baby alive, and at the age of five months he weighed no more than at birth. When eight months old he had gained very little, and his stomach and bowels were in such a condition that we despaired of raising him.

"A chance acquaintance recommended Grape-Nuts and we commenced feeding him on it, soaking it until soft in warm water, as milk would not stay on his stomach.

"From the very first we saw that we had found the right food at last and he began to improve immediately. We fed him on Grape-Nuts in this way and absolutely nothing else for several months and he grew so fast and became so fat and strong that our friends were surprised and could scarcely believe that it was the same child.

"He did not even begin to crawl or cut his teeth until after we put him on Grape-Nuts. Until that time he was weak and helpless and cried nearly all the time. Now he is a strong, bright, rosy-cheeked child of 3 1-2 years."

Culverwell Explains Trent Power Situation

Belleville Ontario (Liberal) says.—The following telegram was sent to the City Council last night by J. A. Culverwell, of Port Hope, the gentleman who has eighteen councils endorsing his Healey Falls operations. This is self-explanatory and is in the interests of Belleville.

The report in the Trenton newspapers that Deputy Minister Butler had promised dam No. 2 to Trenton people—or will be seen in the report of the Belleville deputation—has been countermanded by the Hon. Geo. P. Graham, who is the Minister of Railways and Canals:

Port Hope, March 25, '08.
Clerk and Council, Belleville;

Regarding Globe despatch from Ottawa re Belleville deputation asking for power from dam two, Trent canal near Trenton, eight to ten thousand horse-power is incorrect and nonsensical. The head is twenty-two feet and the officially recorded dry flow gives three thousand three hundred and thirty horse-power, or subtracting canal requirements and electrical losses only 1,500 horse-power delivered Belleville. The owners of whole of one side of that power is myself and associates, as also power of smaller dam No three—as confirmed again recently by Court of Appeal judgment.

Belleville's power requirements at present are nearly 4,000 horse power. Healey Falls is absolutely essential therefore, to help Belleville's future. Intriguing is now going on to get the Corporation of Trenton to secure dam two and then turn it over to R. Weddell, T. A. G. Gordon and Trent Power Co. (who now own part of dam No. 1)—and thereby stifle competition in Belleville.

Hope Belleville will continue to stop this disreputable duplicity.

J. A. CULVERWELL,
Managing-Director,
The Northumberland-Durham Power Co. Ltd., leases and owners parts Healey Falls (under Government rate regulation.)

Mr. Culverwell arrived at 9.30 and addressed the Council. He showed eight registered deeds and plans of two miles of Trent rapids and quoted a recent Court of Appeal judgment and also different settlements made by Government on canal in Peterborough district to endorse his statement.

He also quoted Deputy Minister Butler's Trent Canal report, where it states that he is unable to find any authority by Statute or common law to permit a diversion of water from a natural channel without compensation to the riparian owners, and that he values this at $3 per h. p. per annum. Other reports show canal requires one-sixth of the river flow.

To a question Mr. Culverwell said:—The reason power had not been supplied to Belleville was owing to the determined opposition made against him by people in Peterborough and Lakefield with the aid of departmental officials in delaying surveys. All surveys on the river are finished, half the contracts are let and yet the survey and work at Healey Falls has been left in abeyance. He wanted to say emphatically it was not the fault of the company nor was it the fault of Hon. Mr. Graham.

A Lazy Liver

May be only a tired liver, or a starved liver. It would be a stupid as well as savage thing to beat a weary or starved man because he lagged in his work. So in treating the lagging, torpid liver it is a great mistake to lash it with strong drastic drugs. A torpid liver is but an indication of an ill-nourished, enfeebled body whose organs are weary with over work. Start with the stomach and with it organs of digestion and nutrition. Put them in working order and see how quickly your liver will become active. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has made many marvelous cures of "liver trouble" by its wonderful control of the organs of digestion and nutrition. It restores the normal activity of the stomach, increases the secretions of the blood-making glands, cleanses the system from poisonous accumulations, and so relieves the liver of the burdens imposed upon it by the defection of other organs.

If you have bitter or bad taste in the morning, poor or variable appetite, coated tongue, foul breath, constipated or irregular bowels, feel weak, easily tired, despondent, frequent headaches, pain or distress in "small of back," gnawing or distressed feeling in stomach, perhaps nausea, sick headache, "risings" in throat after eating, and kindred symptoms of weak stomach and torpid liver, no medicine will relieve you more promptly or cure you more permanently than Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Perhaps only a part of the above symptoms will be present at one time and yet point to torpid liver or biliousness and weak stomach. Avoid all hot bread and biscuits, griddle cakes and other indigestible food and take the "Golden Medical Discovery" regularly and stick to its use until you are vigorous and strong.

The "Discovery" is non-secret, non-alcoholic, is a glyceric extract of native medicinal roots with a full list of its ingredients printed on each bottle-wrapper and attested under oath. Its ingredients are endorsed and extolled by the most eminent medical writers of the age and are recommended to cure the diseases for which it is advised.

Don't accept a substitute of unknown composition for this non-secret MEDICINE OF KNOWN COMPOSITION.

VOL. XXXVI. NO 76 — PETERBOROUGH, ONTARIO, SATURDAY, MARCH 28, 1908 — PRICE TWO CENTS

Voted Against Proposal to Create a New Province

Sudbury, March 27.—The secession movement got a hard frost here last night at the meeting in Lyman's Hall. Over 80 per cent. of those present voted against the proposal to create a new province, and Col. Gordon, who was chairman, declared the resolution in favor of secession lost.

Messrs. Gordon, McKay, McKim and Dr. Bain spoke in favor of it, and Dr. Howry and Mayor McLeod against.

The movement is now a dead letter.

WILL CARVE UP ONTARIO AFTER NEXT CENSUS

"In 1910 there will be another Dominion census. I do not wish to claim too much credit. I suppose I get all that is due me. But if it had not been for two circumstances, the fact that the 1901 census is some years old, and that another is coming in a couple of years, this redistribution would have been far more extensive. But under the circumstances we did not wish to go over the Province with a harrow."—Premier Whitney.

Only eight ridings remain to be passed upon by the Redistribution Committee of the Legislature. As to four of these, the Lanarks and Essexes, the Government has as yet made no announcement.

The ridings of Grey, Carleton and Russell are left as before the Redistribution. This was announced for the first time to-day.

OTTAWA DIVIDED.

Ottawa is divided as follows: East — Rideau, Ottawa, Hy, St. George's. West-Centre — Wellington, Dalhousie, Victoria.

The Redistribution Committee of the Legislature met at 12.30 yesterday afternoon, when Mr. Whitney announced that discussion of the new ridings in Huron and Middlesex, and the new plan for Toronto would be postponed for the present, as these are redistributions which have been criticised. Less controversial ridings would be taken up first.

GREY KEPT AS BEFORE

Grey was the first riding mentioned. It is left as before.

Then the following schedule was passed:

Hastings — Huntingdon changed from North to East Hastings.

Northumberland West riding gets South Monaghan from West Peterborough.

Peterborough — West riding loses South Monaghan to Northumberland and Lakefield to East Peterborough.

"Leeds and Brockville we propose to make something like we were when Mr. Dargavel and I were young men," remarked Mr. Whitney. The redistribution approved by the committee is that already published.

Russell—Same as before.

IN NEW ONTARIO.

In passing the New Ontario ridings the Premier said that Fort Frances will be known as Rainy River. The others are East and West Nipissing, Temiskaming, Kenora, Fort William, Port Arthur, Sault Ste. Marie, Algoma, Sudbury and Manitoulin.

Reid and Cardwell stood over for the present at Mr. Bowman's request.

FINISH BY TUESDAY

The committee will report to committee of the whole, and if there is a minority report that may be discussed there," said Mr. Whitney. "All being well, we should finish up the matter on Tuesday."

The next meeting day, however, was fixed for Wednesday.

The two Lanarks and the two Essexes are the only ridings to which the Government has not intimated its intentions.

"We don't know ourselves what we're going to do there," declared Mr. Whitney, "and it's as much your business as ours to make suggestions."

The other ridings yet to be passed are as follows: Two Brants, Cardwell, three Hurons, three Middlesex's, three Yorks, and Peel.

AS TO RELIGION.

Mr. May suggested a division of Ottawa further west than that proposed, as the west is growing and will soon overbalance the east in numbers. He also pointed out that the proposed division would practically divide the city into a Protestant and Catholic riding. He thought it was always better to mix the religions if possible.

"I agree with you," said Mr. Whitney, "but there are others who will present equally strong arguments against taking religion into consideration at all."

Mr. Clarke (Northumberland) again asked why Ottawa was not being created on the two members per riding plan designed for use in Toronto, but Mr. Whitney was not to be drawn out. "It is a matter for discussion in the House," he said.

The Ottawa schedule was passed.

PETERBOROUGH DEPUTATION WAITED ON PRIVATE BILLS' COM. YESTERDAY

Committee Approved the Bill Subject to Vote of Electors

A deputation headed by Mr. T. E. Bradburn, M.P.P., Mr. R. R Hall, M.P., and Mayor Rush appeared before the Private Bills Committee at the Parliament Buildings this morning with a bill allowing the Council to be composed of aldermen elected for a term of two years, one-half to retire each year.

The committee approved the bill, subject to a vote of the electors.

Permission was Asked to Loan $30,000 to Wm. Hamilton Co.

Committee Favors

At the meeting of the Private Bills Committee held at the Parliament Buildings this morning, a deputation from Peterborough headed by Mr. T. E. Bradburn, M.P.P., Mr. R. R Hall, M.P., and Mayor Rush, waited on the committee asking that authority be given the city to loan $30,000 to the William Hamilton Company, which had been forced into liquidation through the failure of the Ontario Bank. The assistance is for the expressed purpose of enabling the concern to continue in business.

Mr. G. Walter Green opposed the proposition. He is a Peterborough manufacturer, and his contention was that "every tub should sit on its own bottom."

"Let them carry on business as I carry on mine; I haven't asked for any favors," declared Mr. Green. "Don't allow these people to crush the life out of me. I insist upon them leaving me alone. Give me fair play."

Mr. F. D. Kerr, in support of the clause, pointed out that a large number of workmen depended for employment and livelihood upon the operation of the factory.

The bill, which authorizes assistance to a number of other local concerns, was reported by the committee.

To Prove Alibi in Murder Case--Bowin's Mother Broke Down

Detroit, Mich., March 27.—For the first time to-day Attorney Kennedy, for the defence, gave an inkling of what the line of defence will be in the Bowin murder trial.

To-day while William F. Grossfield, who keeps a second-hand goods store on the ground floor below Mrs. Welch's apartments, was upon the stand, in the course of the cross-examination, Attorney Kennedy asked the witness whether he knew Dan Scott, and whether he saw him go upstairs frequently. To both questions the witness answered "Yes." Then the lawyer asked:

"Did you hear Scott and Mrs. Welch engage in a bitter quarrel?"

JURY SENT OUT.

Grossfield said he had heard many bitter quarrels between the pair shortly before the tragedy.

At this point Prosecutor Gross objected and Judge Phelan had the jury taken out in charge of an officer, while he asked Lawyer Kennedy, point blank.

"Do you want to state enough of the defence's theory to justify the line of questioning you are starting upon?"

TO PROVE AN ALIBI.

"Do you mean to claim that Scott or somebody else killed this woman?"

For a moment the defendant's lawyer walk edup and down the space before the bench in deep thought. Then slowly: "I shall prove that the defendant did not kill Mrs. Welch, and was not there at the time."

"You may pursue your own line of inquiry," decided the judge.

MOTHER SOBS IN COURT.

Mrs. Bowin, who still sits silent and suffering, her head buried in her hands behind her son, broke down entirely to-day when the prosecuting attorney produced in court the blood-stained pillow upon which the head of the dead woman had rested when the body was found. With one look at the gruesome exhibit, the woman fell to sobbing. Then she turned pale and all but slipped from her chair. During this pitiful scene, however, her son gave her no more than the first curious glance, then he turned away unconcerned, and with a smile upon his lips amused himself by drawing pictures upon a sheet of paper with a pen.

A BOISTEROUS LOT.

Grossfield devoted his time to describing some of the scenes in Mrs. Welch's apartments over his store. Several evenings a week, he said, men and women would be in the place drinking, carousing, singing, playing the piano and using boisterous language. On some occasions these revelries made a mistake in the stairway and sought entrance to the witness' rooms. When refused one time they broke in the door.

Judgment Reserved in Local Option By-Law

Toronto, March 27.—A motion to quash the Campbellford Local Option By-law, passed last January, was argued before Mr. Justice Clute yesterday. It was claimed that deputy returning officers, poll clerks, married women, American citizens, absentee tenants, minors and scores of unqualified persons had been allowed to vote. Judgment was reserved.

Belleville Train Delayed by Flood

Yesterday morning a short distance this side of Campbellford, the trains coming this way had their own trouble owing to three feet of water that the spring freshets raised. The Lakefield train was sent down to relieve the temporary distress. The passengers got aboard the Lakefield train and arrived in the city only about twenty minutes late. The Belleville train itself got here about 40 minutes late.

An Omission

In our report of the exercises at the Y. M. C. A., which took place on Thursday evening last, we omitted to notice the sword dance in Highland costume by the Little Misses Jessie Cressman, Phyllis Dunne and Marguerite Sanderson, which was one of the features of the entertainment. These charming little maidens fairly captured the audience by their graceful and winsome performances.

Postum contains no coffee or other harmful substance, but includes the "vital phosphates" from the wheat.

Toronto Ball Team Show Up Well in First Game

University of Virginia, Charlottesville, March 27. — The Toronto Eastern Leaguers played their first practice game of the season this afternoon with the University of Virginia team. The weather was hottest yet experienced. Manager Kelley used three pitchers, three innings apiece—Mitchell, Kilroy and Connolly — and gave Eddie Rudolph a chance to work against the collegians. Gettman did not play so as to let Rudolph work.

Score, in favor of Toronto, 9-3.

The game was called at 3.30.

WALKING.

W. F. Grant, who made a reputation for himself last Thanksgiving Day in a walk from here to Markham and back, wants to enter in the big six day walking race which is to be held in Peterborough the latter part of April.

—o—

WALKING.

The long talked of walking match to open at Brock street rink on April 20th under the auspices of Mr. Geo. Stevens and others, is now an assured success. Mr. Stevens has entries that ensure the match being successful. To begin with, entries have been received from Hoagland, the man who won out at Convention Hall, Kansas City, and from other acknowledged experts on the pedestrian track.

Still, whether as a conformation of credit as entering in this match or as a parody on the King's English, may be presented the following letter received yesterday by Mr. Stevens. This letter read as follows:

New Queen's Hotel.
Sudbury, Ont., March 25th

Dear Sir,

Mr. Walter Harrow,

Got your letter with thanks.

Mr. Stevens,—I want you to put me in this race on 20th next month, April, as I sure start. I shall be hard at it now walking all I ham worth. I have just about the same as Hartley walking time. I think we shall be close together all throw the walk. As a Old England walker on the road and track for 30 years.

I ham a old champion of London, England, 50 years.

Remone yours,

MR. WALTER HARROW.

—o—

LACROSSE.

Jack Lee, of Winnipeg, is trying to organize a professional lacrosse team there. A professional lacrosse league is being boomed in the west, and if it goes through a raid on Eastern players may be expected.

The Capitals and Cornwall teams would, probably be the heaviest sufferers were the N. L. U. residence rule to be rescinded.

Newsy Lalonde is another spoken of possibility for Hamilton. He left for Cornwall yesterday—a visit, he says.

BASEBALL.

Jim McGuire, the ex-Yankee backstop and present manager of the Boston Americans, has a great quartet of youthful hurlers in Barrett, Geessler, Carlisle, McHale and Thomas.

Acting Captain Jimmy Mullen and the seven other Newark players are trying to figure out the line-up of the Indians for next season. It is no secret that several big league recruits will join the main squad of Indians at Wilmington next week, but who these players will be is a puzzle.

There is a great amount of criticism being indulged in by Boston fans concerning the sale of Sam Brown, the catcher, to Toronto. They think highly of Sam at the Hub, and consider him better in many respects than any of the catchers Kelley has on his staff at present.

The teams that are training down South just now are complaining of the horrible hailstorms, which will, no doubt, retard the ir practice somewhat. They are all hoping for good sunshiny weather so that they can loosen up a little.

Tom Loftus has returned to the baseball world after an absence of four years. He was elected president of the Three Eye League after a seven-hour deadlock, which for a time threatened to disrupt that organization. It has accepted. Loftus is one of the best known figures in the baseball world. He started in as a player first with the Dubuques, then with Comiskey on the St. Louis Browns. Afterward he went to Cleveland as manager, then to Cincinnati in a similar position. He was owner and manager of the Columbus team in 1906, 7, 8, 9. Then manager of the Chicago Nationals in 1900-1, and manager and part owner of the Washington Nationals in 1902-3. He quit the game in 1904.

A new baseball league composed entirely of colored players will be formed in the States, as there are hundreds of good players in their ranks they should put up a good article of ball. The Cuban Giants, colored, are considered as good as any semi-professional team in the country. The color line is all that keeps these fellows out of major league teams.

Buffalo is not likely to get Evans.

Hoagland, Who Won The Kansas City Walk, Will Compete Here

The coming big walk in the Brock street rink is assured of success, as many acknowledged pedestrians have signified their intention of taking part. To begin with, Hoagland, who won out at Kansas City, Mo., will be here. Mr. Hoagland during his trip to the city will be the guest of Mr. Geo. Graham, of the Oriental Hotel. Mr. Thos. Slater, Oswego, N.Y., will be the guest of Mr. Geo. Lipsett of the Maple Leaf Hotel. East Ward. Blake, the colored candidate for pedestrian honors, will be the guest of Mr. Chas. Nixon, proprietor of the Grand Hotel. There is no doubt but what this match will be witnessed by thousands of people.

How Much a Steamer Is Worth on Sunday

Yesterday morning his Honor, Judge Weller held Division Court in the County Council Chamber. Among other cases heard was one against Mr. C. J. Snyder, charged by a former Idle Wild hotel keeper with owing him a certain sum.

When the evidence was adduced in court, it seemed that whilst Mr. Snyder may have owed a certain amount, a contra account was rendered for services done by the steamer Sovereign in 1904. Mr. Snyder, it seemed owed some $19 for a board bill, owing to Mr. Hutchison, but the defendant had a contra account.

The gist of the argument in this case yesterday was really resolved to the sum of $13.50, charged by the steamer Sovereign for bringing eleven American visitors from Harwood to Idyl Wild one Sunday.

Mr. Reddie, K.C., of Millbrook, acted for Mr. Hutchison, and claimed that $3 was the amount that should have been charged by the Sovereign. His honor, when the case was argued, said, "Do you think that the captain of a steamer could get up steam, pay his crew and go after eleven passengers on a Sunday for $3?" His honor allowed the account against Mr. Snyder, less the amount for the services of the steamer Sovereign.

Unkind March Winds Play Havoc With Skin and Complexions

Put on your veils before venturing out while boisterous March reigns. It may be very exhilarating and beneficial to be out of doors when the wind playfully blows your hair "every which way," but remember that unless you are careful, this same playful March wind will dry and crack your skin until it will take weeks to bring back the delicate tints and the rose leaf texture a perfect complexion should have.

A safe and sure preservative for the complexion is a wash made as follows: Take 2 ounces of Rose Water, 4 ounces of Eppotone and 1 ounce of Cologne Spirits. You can get these ingredients at any drug store. Put the Eppotone in a pint of hot water (not boiling) and after it is dissolved strain and let cool. Then add the rose water and cologne spirits.

This wash is inexpensive and can easily be prepared at home. As a complexion tonic it is far more beneficial than any of the expensive preparations sold in the stores.

How Zam-Buk Cured a Bad Knee.

Mrs. S. F. Nicholls, 208 Quesnee St., Montreal, writes: "While returning home from a shopping tour, I slipped on the icy sidewalk and badly sprained my knee. I had to be assisted to the house where I was laid up for two weeks. My knee was very much swollen and painful. I bathed the injured member frequently with liniments I had in the house and they were not much good, so I sent for a box of Zam-Buk, as I had used this previously for cuts and burns and knew its value. EARTHQUAKE AND FIRE LAY MEXICAN CITY IN RUINS

Had 13,000 Inhabitants --Survivors in a State of Terror

Many Lives Were Lost

Mexico City, March 27.—The town of Chilapa, in the State of Guerrero, was completely destroyed by an earthquake last night.

Following the shock the ruins took fire, and the whole city is burning.

The populace is terror-stricken.

It is not known, even approximately, how many lives were lost.

Chilapa was a city of 13,000 inhabitants.

A SEVERE CONVULSION.

Albany, N.Y., March 27.—It was discovered at the Tate Museum to-day that an earthquake of high intensity and long duration had been registered by the seismographs there last evening. The main shock was preceded and followed by other disturbances which seem to have originated in the same zone, the several shocks probably marking successive stages of a convulsion that is one of the severest recorded at Albany during the past year.

The following statement was made at the Museum: "It would appear from the records obtained at Albany, that the disturbances were centered at some locality about 2,500 miles distant in a southwesterly direction. This brings them within the seismic zone of Mexico, where shocks have been felt recently, and their identity with the earthquake reported in this morning's despatches from the northern part of that country seems probable."

OTTAWA RECORDED IT.

Ottawa, Ont., March 27. — The Dominion Observatory seismograph recorded last evening at 6.10 one of the severest earthquake shocks since San Francisco. It lasted two hours. Another one, almost as strong, was recorded at 10.54 at night. The disturbance was calculated to be in the north of South America. Beautiful records of all the tremors were obtained.

Mexico and the Danish West Indies report being severely shaken, walls being wrecked, but no one killed.

The destroyed town of Chilapa lies 115 miles south of Mexico City. It was the seat of a bishop and several important manufactories were located there.

Women Who Wear Well.

It is astonishing how great a change a few years of married life often make in the appearance and disposition of many women. The freshness, the charm, the brilliance vanish like the bloom from a peach which is rudely handled. The matron is only a dim shadow, a faint echo of the charming maiden. There are two reasons for this change, ignorance and neglect. Few young women appreciate the shock to the system through the change which comes with marriage and motherhood. Many neglect to deal with the unpleasant pelvic drains and weaknesses which too often come with marriage and motherhood, not understanding that this secret drain is robbing the cheek of its freshness and the form of its fairness.

As surely as the general health suffers when there is derangement of the health of the delicate womanly organs, so surely when these organs are established in health the face and form at once witness to the fact in restored comeliness. Nearly a million women have found health and happiness in the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It makes weak women strong and sick women well. Ingredients on label—contains no alcohol or harmful habit-forming drugs. Made wholly of those native, American, medicinal roots most highly recommended by leading medical authorities of all the several schools of practice for the cure of woman's peculiar ailments.

For nursing mothers, or for those broken-down in health by too frequent bearing of children, also for the expectant mothers, to prepare the system for the coming of baby and making its advent easy and almost painless, there is no medicine quite so good as "Favorite Prescription." It can do no harm in any condition of the system. It is a most potent invigorating tonic and strengthening nervine wisely adapted to woman's delicate system by a physician of large experience in the treatment of woman's peculiar ailments.

THE OCEAN LOSING ITS TERROR

Much has been said about the "shrinking" of the globe through the incessant improvements of the means of transportation and communication. Wonders, in truth, never cease, though their frequency breeds an unscientific indifference to them.

The opening of the New York submarine tubes was received almost as a matter of course. The automobile races from Peking to Paris or from New York to Paris astonish no one. The establishment of new ocean records recently passed unnoticed. The new records were made by the "floating skyscrapers," the Mauretania and Lusitania. The former steamship made the run from New York to Queenstown in 5 days and 5 minutes; the latter reported gains which foreshadowed an even shorter time for "crossing."

A five-day schedule across the Atlantic is expected to become the regular and normal thing for the two great vessels named. And even that record will not long remain unchallenged. Already there is talk of a four-and-a-half-day schedule.

Such achievements wipe out the distance between the two worlds and rob the ocean of its terror. They stimulate travel and intercourse, for even the most timid, the poorest "sailors" and the worst sufferers from seasickness will regard five days on the ocean as a trifling drawback to the pleasures of sightseeing and contact with foreign lands and peoples.

Nor are the five-day schedules a luxury of the very rich. Second-class accommodations are now as comfortable as first-class were not long ago, and even the "steerage" need not mean hardship, over-crowding and neglect.

The world is shrinking and the oceans are being tamed for all of us, rich and poor alike. That is why hundreds of thousands of laborers are crossing and recrossing the Atlantic and servant girls are taking European vacations.

ENGINEERING MAGAZINE

Magazine for April is given to an illustrated description of the rescue appliances in use in the mines of France, by Jacques Boyer, a prominent consulting engineer and professor in one of the large engineering schools of Paris. M. Boyer's paper on the practical development and use of these devices in France is a most timely contribution, in view of the rapidly increasing importance of the subject of their general introduction in Great Britain and the United States.

Other illustrated features are a further instalment of T. Kennard Thompson's series on hoisting machinery for handling materials, begun in this March number, covering cranes, cableways and transporting conveyors; and a practical discussion on the design of steam piping for industrial plants of moderate size by W. E. Housman. C. E. Knoeppel begins a valuable series of articles on organization and supervision in manufacturing plants with a discussion of the adjustment of organization for utmost efficiency; P. J. Darlington concludes his examination of the fundamental principles of organization and management, the first part of which was presented in March; and J. Cecil Nuckols describes a complete and efficient system for the purchasing department. Sidney G. Koon contributes a comparative study of the efficiency as fighting machines of large and small battleships and an interesting discussion of modern American industrial conditions as seen by the workingman is presented by a New England machinist. The number also carries the full Review of the Engineering Press and The Engineering Index.

THE DRAGON FLY.

Singularly Adapted to Its Life of Aerial Piracy.

No one could fail to be struck with the singularly perfect adaptation of the dragon fly's structure to a life of aerial piracy. The four wings are large and in proportion to their weight enormously strong. Each is supported by a wonderfully arranged network of slender ribs, which give the necessary rigidity to the thin, transparent membrane forming its basis. The muscles by which the wings are moved are massive and powerful and are so arranged among themselves that the animal is capable of steering its course with an unerring accuracy which any bird might envy. In this power it is largely aided by a marvelous keenness of sight, for in addition to the two great, gorgeously colored compound eyes which make up so much of the head the insect possesses three smaller "simple" eyes, making five eyes in all. The prey when overtaken is seized and devoured by means of powerful, sharply toothed jaws.

An animal which lives such an active life naturally requires a very perfect breathing apparatus, and this is amply provided by a system of holes on the sides of the body which open into an elaborate network of air tubes, supplying every part of the system. The air in these tubes is constantly renewed by the regular compression and dilatation of the body by special muscles.—Chambers' Journal.

HIBERNATION.

How and Why Some Animals Exist All Winter Without Food.

The philosophy or nature of hibernation and why and how it is that the hibernating creatures can go so long without food are interesting studies.

In the first place, the creature in order to enable it to sustain life throughout the long winter during which it hibernates is endowed with the capacity of accumulating within its body a large quantity of fat. This fat is to the animal what a well stocked coal cellar is to a fire, and until the whole of it has been consumed the tissue of the body proper remains untouched. It has been ascertained that animals can endure the waste of tissue until it amounts to 40 per cent of their normal weight. Should the weight be reduced beyond that point the result is death. But nature comes to the rescue of the hibernating creatures in another way. When the hibernation begins, respiration and digestion almost cease (in some cases they cease absolutely), and the circulation is only just active enough to sustain life. As a consequence of this the wear and tear is reduced to the minimum, and the creature is enabled to pull through.

Horses and Music.

Regimental horses have been the subjects of musical tests, and nearly all enjoyed the experience, only a very small percentage of the animals remaining indifferent to sweet harmonies, while equally few showed active dislike. The great majority were soothed, inspirited or excited by music. Most of the horses, like the war chargers one may suppose them to be, enjoyed the bugle above any other instrument and neighed gallantly when it was sounded, but thoroughbreds and colts generally were found to prefer the shrill treble of the fife, which roused them to great and sometimes unmanageable enthusiasm. This was the more significant because the fife was an unfamiliar instrument to them, not being generally used, as is the bugle in the French army.—Paris Cor. London Telegraph.

Model of Economy.

A certain farmer who lives out in the county and who is noted for his closeness in money matters has a twelve-year-old son, who is as industrious as his father is penurious.

Recently the father and son made a compact whereby the latter would receive 10 cents for every cord of wood he sawed and piled in the wood shed. Immediately the boy became very busy at the wood pile, and his earnings have been piling up at a rapid rate, his mother keeping her son's hard earned savings for him.

"What are you going to do with all your money?" the thrifty youth was recently asked.

"Goin' to buy a new saw with it," was the reply.

Benjamin Constant.

Benjamin Constant, having sided with Napoleon during the hundred days, felt the need of justifying himself when Louis XVIII. returned to power. He wrote the king a letter with that end in view and called upon Mme. Recamier to discuss the subject. She asked him quietly:

"Have you finished your letter?"

"Yes."

"Are you satisfied with it?"

"Entirely satisfied. I have almost persuaded myself."

Marrying.

Everybody is expected to marry once, and there is not much talk when you marry the first time, but people look wise when you marry the second time and roar when you marry the third time.

Very Interesting.

"What do you find so very interesting about society?" asked the ordinary person.

"Watching people trying to get in," answered Miss Cayenne.

"REINCARNATION" IN INDIA.

Weird Stories That Babies Have Souls of British Officers.

Within the last few weeks a most extraordinary case of alleged reincarnation—claimed to be the soul of a British officer—has made its appearance in Burmah. It is the second of its kind in recent years, and has accordingly attracted widespread attention.

Reincarnation is a fundamental doctrine of Buddhism, and a reincarnation of a human identity, in human form, though changed in outward aspect, is called a "minza." As a rule, the "minza" is an ordinary looking child, in no way different from his childish companions.

A few years back A. W. Tucker, district superintendent of police in Pegu, was killed by a gang of dacoits whom he rashly attacked at close quarters after discharging his revolver and without waiting to reload it. His call to his orderly to fetch ammunition gave the clew to the dacoits, and they killed him.

Just about the time this tragedy was being enacted in one part of the district a humble Burmese woman gave birth to a baby boy who in time, before the days of his babyhood were well over, claimed to be no less a personage than the murdered police officer. So circumstantial were his accounts of the encounter with the dacoits as to appear the narrative of an eye-witness, and when questioned on various other points in connection with the life of the deceased officer he is asserted to have answered with such exactitude that the Burmese people who flocked to hear him discourse were convinced of the truth of his assertions. Peculiarities of action and speech were faithfully reproduced, and, generally, quite a sensation was created.

Within the last few weeks a still more interesting case of "minza" has made its appearance, and I cannot do better than quote the account of a Rangoon Times correspondent from Meiktilla:

"There is a little blue-eyed, light-haired boy here, between 3 and 4 years old, the son of hard-working and matter of fact Burmese parents belonging to the laboring classes, who until quite recently prattled like any other child of that age. The other day, however, he astonished his mother by gravely claiming that he was the late Major D. J. Welsh, Border Regiment, come to life again, and went on to describe the house where he had previously lived, the number of ponies he had, and other personal matters.

"His mother was frightened, and called in the neighbors, to whom the queer albino repeated his story, describing how he and two others—a lady and a gentleman—were drowned in the Meiktilla lake in a boating accident during a storm at night in March, 1904, when the three and only occupants of the boat perished.

"That is the year in which Mrs. Reade, Lieut. A. W. Quinlan, and Major Welsh, both of the Border Regiment, did lose their lives in this manner (as a consequence of omitting to put down the centreboard of their sailing boat).

"Large crowds assemble daily to hear the little child-man speak. Of course, skeptics will say that it is a 'put up job.' The answer to this is that Burmese coolies are not given to romancing to such an extent. Several methods have been applied to test the genuineness of the child's utterances, and people are satisfied that he has not been tutored.

"The parents would have to be wideawake sharpers indeed to succeed in foisting such a story on the public through the instrumentality of a mere infant, and there is no suggestion that they are not what they appear to be—viz., simple-minded folk."

MISERABLE AND UNTRUTHFUL.

Countess Says She Never "Squealed" on King Edward.

"A miserable and untruthful story has been running in the American papers about me for 12 years," said the Countess of Warwick to a reporter recently when interviewed at the Hotel Webster, New York.

"Twelve years ago there was a baccarat scandal in England, in which the present King was mixed up. Ever since then, at stated intervals, the American press has connected me with it, referring to me as the 'Babbling Brooke.' Just before my arrival it started again.

"I want to say there is not the slightest truth in it. At the time I was in mourning for my stepfather, and knew nothing about it. I never played cards in my life. I don't know one from another, and I have never been inside the house where this game occurred. It is the work of enemies who dare not publish it in the English papers, so get the American papers to injure me."

English Sunday Condemned.

Germans have no more friendly feeling towards the English Sabbath than Britons entertain towards the Continental Sunday. Just recently a conference was held at Frankfort, which had for its object the promotion of the observance of the Sabbath and the introduction of the rigid laws which prevail on that day throughout England.

The very idea seems to have set the Germans' teeth on edge, for in the same town recently a mass meeting was held to protest against the introduction of the English Sunday into Germany. The meeting was characterized by great enthusiasm. Herr Steinbach, the principal speaker, declared that the "English Sunday" would drive the population of Germany, which was now extremely sober, into the public-houses to drown the Sabbatarian dullness in beer.

Herr Hessenberg, another speaker, declared that even one Sunday in London brought on a severe attack of melancholia, necessitating a "cure" in order to restore his balance of mind.

In the opinion of Herr Steinfurth, the observance of Sunday in England was purely external. German people would rise up in thousands to resist any attempt to foist the "English Sunday" upon them.

A strongly-worded resolution to this effect was unanimously adopted.

NOW LISTEN!

Please read carefully what follows, and if you decide to take advantage of what the "Canada Southern Oil & Gas Co., Limited," of Tilbury, Ont. (no personal liability), is now offering you, the result will be that instead of getting 3 per cent. for your savings, you will get at least from 10 to 25 per cent. that others are harvesting.

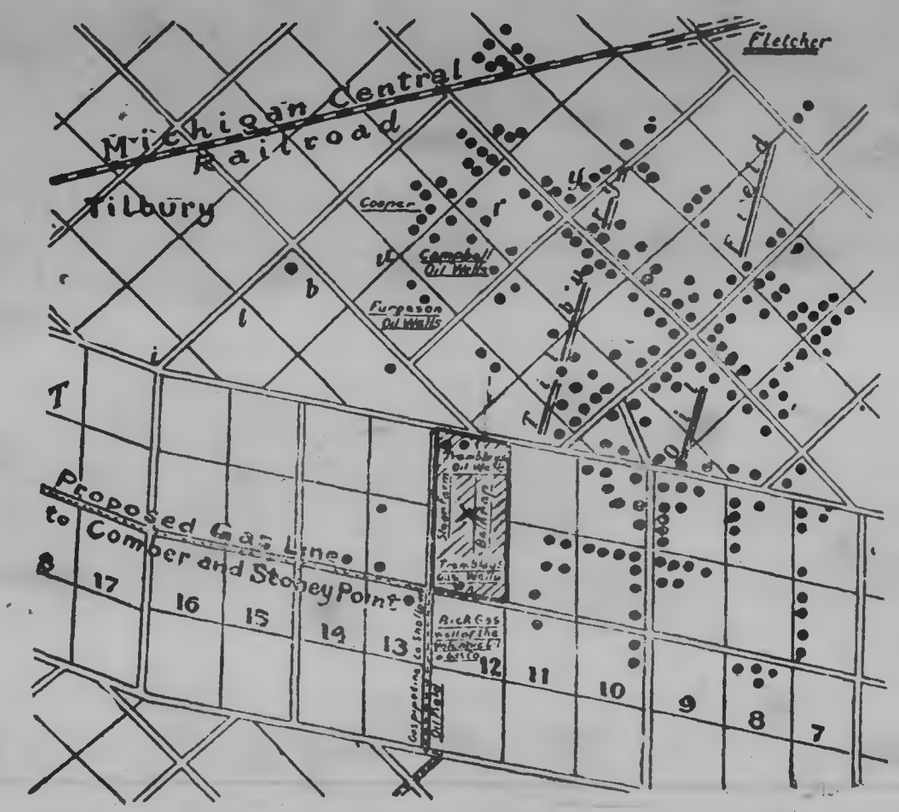
Your savings will be eight times more than the original amount by the mere fact of the higher rate of interest you will get.

Remember that this is no wildcat scheme, as you can see by the facts hereinafter mentioned.

Dr. Bell, the famous Canadian geologist, early in 1878 reported that there was an oil and gas field in the Townships of Tilbury and Romney, County of Kent, Ont. As soon as the discovery of the oil was made in Tilbury in 1906, our American neighbors, who are experts in good things, did not hesitate to invest hundreds of thousands of dollars, and now, in fact, control the two thirds interest in our oil field of Tilbury; and this happened because we Canadians hesitated to invest a few thousand dollars in the exploration of the oil mines of Tilbury, which already give a monthly production valued at $75,000, without adding the revenue derived from the gas.

We have said that this is not a wildcat scheme, because the "Canadian Southern Oil & Gas Co., Limited," has secured an option at a very moderate price on properties situated in the oil and gas field of Tilbury, upon which three successful tests have been made, being Lot No. 12, M. R. N., Tilbury East, 200 acres, indicated with a cross upon the map of the field.

COUNTY of KENT, ONTARIO



Three wells only have been drilled at an average depth of 1,400 feet.

The first one proves to be a rich gas well, the two others are good oil wells, combined with a strong production of gas.

The Company has also secured the franchises for the distribution and sale of natural gas into the Townships of Romney, Tilbury East, North and West and also into the thriving villages of Comber and Stoney Point.

The gas well is properly equipped and already is supplying the motor power to the Romney oil field and is getting one-third of the gross revenue of the gas sold.

The oil wells are completely equipped with one 15 h. p. gas engine, derrick, tanks, boiler, pumps, tubing, pipe-line, jerk-line, jack, etc., and are producing daily. The oil is sold to The Imperial Oil Company, Sarnia, and is delivered at the tanks and shipped through its pipe-line to Pere Marquette R. R. Station at Merlin, a distance of 3 miles.

Our properties are already giving daily a net revenue of about $35.00—that is to say, more than 10 per cent. of the whole capital stock of the Company.

This revenue may be made four times greater by the drilling of other wells and the construction of the gas-line to Comber and Stoney Point.

Fritz Cirkel, Esq., of Montreal, consulting mining engineer and mining expert to the Dominion Government, who lately made an inspection of the said property, concluded his report as follows:

"In summarizing the actual results already obtained from the operations of the Sloan (wells the writer is forced to the conclusion that the property under consideration is a very valuable one. Located as it is in the western extremity of the producing Tilbury oil field, in close proximity to wells which produce from 40 to 50 barrels of oil (and even more) per day of 24 hours (I refer to the Ferguson, Campbell and Cooper properties, located about 1,200 feet distant to the north, see plan attached hereto), it bids fair to become a producer of oil and natural gas of no small measure.

The Tilbury field has already the reputation of being a large producer and powerful companies have entered the district with a view of securing properties of known and established value.

There is one factor to which I would like to draw your special attention and that is the future of natural gas. To-day, the market in that part of the country, for this commodity is not sufficiently large to dispose of all the gas the wells can produce but there is no question that in the near future factories will be established on central points, which will eventually consume for various purposes, especially for power, all the gas which can be produced in the field.

Besides this there are quite a number of towns and villages in the western part of the Niagara Peninsula, which may use the gas for heating, lighting, and also for power purposes and it is only a question of time when this will be realized.

The economy of the application of natural gas to power purposes is already evidenced all through the field, as coal or any other power cannot be regularly obtained, and that at high figures. Having therefore, a powerful gas well on the (Sloan) property, it is evident that a great saving is effected from this source alone; for instance, for the operation of ten oil wells, the cost of power required per day would amount to between twenty and twenty-five dollars, which, in 300 working days per year, would represent a saving of from six thousand to seven thousand five hundred dollars.

In conclusion, I may say that this property, with proper and economic management, can be made highly remunerative; I entertain, no doubt, that if properly developed, it will show similar results as those of so many other locations in the vicinity, whose developments have of so many other locations in the vicinity, whose developments have been so vigorously pushed in the past.

Respectfully submitted,
(Signed) FRITZ CIRKEL.

This Company organized under the laws of the Northwest Territories of Canada, owns and operates the Galbraith mine located at Lund breck, Alta. They have four vertical seams of coal traversing their property, aggregating over 40 feet in thickness. Three of these seams are developed to a depth of 350 feet, and as they pass through the Company's lands for nearly a mile, some idea of the amount of coal may be had.

The present output of the mine is about 200 tons per day. These shipments will be rapidly increased, as the C.P.R. allows its cars to be loaded with coal for points in the U. S.

The property is situated at Mancos, Colo., and consists of 160 acres, fully paid for. The Company expects to secure at least 400 acres or more, we are negotiating for it now and the terms are satisfactory and there is coal on the same, and they also intend to secure some Coal Mines of which they have the refusal. Some of the best coal mines in Colorado are in this district, as well as some of the richest gold and silver mines. In fact this is one of the richest parts for mineral in the State of Colorado, and the Company has the refusal to several prospects on reasonable and easy terms.

guessing he was being trapped. The man was so large and uncouth that Hurd felt behind his waist to see that his revolver was loose and could be used should occasion arise.

Miss Junk brought in the dinner with her own fair hands, and explained that Hekar had made the curry, but she didn't think it was as good as usual. "The man's shakin' like a jelly," said Matilda. "I don't know why."

The detective nodded, but did not encourage conversation. He was quite sure that Hekar was being watched by the smooth faced policeman and could not get away. Besides he wished to talk to Captain Jessop. Miss Junk, seeing that she was not needed, retreated after bringing in the curry and left the gentlemen to help themselves. So here was Hurd in a pleasant room, seated before a well spread table and with a roaring fire at his back, waiting his opportunity to make Captain Jarvey Jessop confess his share in the dual murders of Lady Rachel Sandal and Aaron Norman.

CHAPTER XX.

CAPTAIN JESSOP ate as greedily as he drank strong waters and did full justice to the curry, which was really excellent. Hurd did not broach any unpleasant topic immediately, as he wished the man to enjoy his meal. If Jessop was guilty, this dainty dinner would be the last of its kind he would have for many a long day. Moreover, Hurd wished to learn more of the mariner's character and plied him with questions, which the unsuspecting sailor answered amiably enough.

"Me an' you might become mates, as it were," said Jessop, extending his large hand again and again. "Put it there."

"Well, we'd want to know something more about one another to become real mates," laughed Hurd.

"Oh, you're a commercial traveler, as you say, and I'm the captain of as fine a barkey as ever sailed under Capricorn. Leastways I was, afore I gave up deep sea voyages."

"You must miss the ocean, living at Stowley."

"Inland it is," admitted the mariner, pulling out a dirty clay pipe at the conclusion of the meal, "and ocean there ain't round about for miles. But I've got a shanty there and live respectable."

"You are able to, with the standby," hinted Hurd.

Jessop nodded and crammed black tobacco, very strong and rank, into the bowl of his pipe with a shaking hand. "It ain't much," he admitted, "folks being stingy. But if I wants more," he struck the table hard, "I can get it. D'ye see, Mister Commercial?"

"Yes, I see," replied Hurd coolly. Jessop was again growing cross, and the detective had to be careful. He knew well enough that next morning, when sober, Jessop would not be so disposed to talk, but being mummy he opened his heart freely. Still, it was evident that a trifle more liquor would make him quarrelsome, so Hurd proposed coffee, a proposition to which the sailor graciously assented.

"Cawfee," he observed, lighting his pipe and filling the room with evil smelling smoke, "clears the 'ead, not as mine wants clearing, mind you. But cawfee ain't bad, when rum ain't t' be 'ad."

"You'll have more rum later," hinted Hurd.

"Put it there," said Jessop, and again the detective was forced to wince at the strong grip of a horny hand.

Miss Junk appeared in answer to the tinkle of the bell and removed the food. Afterward she brought in coffee, hot and strong and black, and Jessop drank two cups, with the result that he became quieter. Then the two men settled down for a pleasant conversation. At least Jessop thought so, for he frequently expressed the friendliest sentiments toward his host. Then Matilda appeared with a bottle of rum, a kettle and two glasses. When she departed, Hurd intimated that he would not require her services again that night. This he whispered to her at the door, while Jessop was placing the kettle on the fire, and before returning to his seat he quietly turned the key. So he had the mariner entirely to himself and got to business at once while the kettle boiled.

"You have known this place for years, I believe," said Hurd, taking a chair opposite to that of Jessop. "Did you ever drop across a man who used to live here called Lemuel Krill?"

The other man started. "Whatever makes you ask that?" he inquired in a husky voice.

"Well, you see, as a commercial I trade in books, and had to do with a secondhand bookseller in Gwynne street, Drury lane. It seems that he was murdered," and he eyed Jessop attentively.

The sailor nodded and composed himself with a violent effort. "Yes," said he in his husky voice, "so I heard. But what's he got to do with Lemuel Krill?"

"Oh," said Hurd carelessly, "it is said Aaron Norman was Krill."

"Might ha' bin. I don't know myself," was the gruff reply.

"Ah! Then you did not know Lemuel Krill?"

"Well," admitted the captain reluctantly, "I did. He was the landlord of this here pub and a cuss to drink. Lor', 'ow he could drink and did too. But he run away from his wife as used to keep this shanty, and she never heard no more of him."

"Until she found he was rich and could leave her five thousand a year," said Hurd absently; "so like a woman."

"You seem to know all about it, mister?" said the sailor uneasily.

"Yes, I read the papers. A queer case that of Norman's death. I expect it was only right he should be strangled, seeing he killed Lady Rachel Sandal in the same way."

Jessop, resting his hands on the arms of his chair, pushed it back and stared with a white face. "You know of that?" he gasped.

"Why not? It was public talk in this place over twenty years ago. I understand you have been hereabout for thirty years," went on Hurd carelessly, "possibly you may recollect the case."

Jessop wiped his forehead. "I heard something about it. That there lady committed suicide they say."

"I know what they say, but I want to know what you say."

"I won't be arsked questions," shouted the captain angrily.

"Don't raise your voice," said the detective smoothly; "we may as well conduct this conversation pleasantly."

"I don't converse no more," said Jessop in a shaky voice and staggered to his feet, rapidly growing sober under the influence of a deadly fear. Hurd did not move as the man crossed the room, but felt if the key was safe in his pocket. The sailor tried to open the door and then realized that it was locked. He turned on his host with a volley of bad language and found himself facing a leveled revolver.

"Sit down," said Hurd quietly; "go back to your chair."

Jessop, with staring eyes and outspread hands, backed to the wall. "Who are you, anyhow?" he demanded, hardly able to speak.

"Perhaps that will tell you," said Hurd, and threw the warrant on the table. Jessop staggered forward and looked at it. One glance was sufficient to inform him what it was, and he sank back into his chair with a groan, leaving the warrant on the table. Hurd picked it up and slipped it into his pocket. He thought Jessop might destroy it, but there was no fight in the mariner.

"And now that we understand one another," said Hurd, putting away his weapon, "I want to talk."

"Shan't talk," said Jessop savagely.

"Oh, yes, I think so; otherwise I can make things unpleasant for you."

"You can't arrest me. I've done nothing."

"That may be so, but arrest you I can, and I have done so now. Tomorrow morning you will go to London in charge of a plain clothes policeman while I go to Stowley."

"To my crib? No, I'm blest if you do."

"I shan't go immediately to your crib," rejoined Hurd dryly, "though I may do so later. My first visit will be to that old pawnbroker. I think if I describe you—and you are rather a noticeable man, Captain Jessop—he will recognize the individual who pawned [illegible] with him short after the murder of Lady Rachel Sandal."

To Get Rid of Mice.

To do away with mice a mixture of equal parts of flour and plaster of paris is said to be excellent. No moisture is applied to the powders, but all food is put away and the mixture left on a plate where the mice will get it. After one repast they return no more.

The Sandwich Islands.

While the Sandwich Islands were nominally Christian territory in 1862, they have since reverted to heathenism through the influx of Chinese, Japanese and Koreans as well as many Mexicans.

Asbestus Shingles.

Asbestus shingles made of asbestus fiber and cement absorb 5 per cent of their weight in water.

Silk Culture.

Piedmont, Italy, produces about three times as many cocoons as any other Italian province and in proportion to its size is perhaps the most prolific silkworm district of the world.

Velvet.

In connection with the inalienably clinging character of velvet it may be noted that this stuff takes its name from the Italian "velluto," shaggy, offering in this respect a parallel with "satin," which comes from the Latin "seta," a bristle.

The Largest Monastery.

The largest monastery in the world is the Franciscan at Quito, Ecuador.

Coal.

The first mention made of the use of coal as a fuel is in the records of the abbey of Peterborough in the year 850 A. D., where is found an entry for twelve cartloads of "fossil fuel."

Winds in Arabia.

The whirling winds of Arabia sometimes excavate sand pits to the depth of 300 feet, the rim usually being three times that depth in diameter. A sand pit thus made may be entirely obliterated in a few hours and another excavated within a short distance of it.

Made Money in Colonies.

A gentleman who admits to having succumbed to what he is pleased to call "that Carnegie feeling" is visiting Manchester.

Stylishly dressed and wearing a fur-trimmed overcoat, the unknown visitor approached a policeman at midnight and asked to be directed to a neighborhood in which common lodging-houses abound. The constable was startled by the request, but gave the desired information.

Shortly afterwards the policeman noticed the gentleman walking up Deansgate with a little crowd of wretchedly-clad and half-starved creatures around him. Invited to explain, the man with the fur coat said:

"The fact of the matter is I have only arrived back in Manchester today after an absence of eighteen years in the Colonies. My last night in Manchester was spent on one of the infirmary seats. I have just been up there now to invite as many outcasts as I could find to have a bed and a square meal."

Rheumatism

I have found a tried and tested cure for Rheumatism! Not a remedy that will straighten the distorted limbs of chronic cripples, nor turn bony growths back to flesh again. That is impossible. But I can now surely kill the pains and pangs of this deplorable disease.

In Germany—with a Chemist in the City of Darmstadt—I found the last ingredient with which Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy was made a perfected, dependable prescription. Without that last ingredient, I successfully treated many cases of Rheumatism; but now, at last, it uniformly cures all curable cases of this heretofore much dreaded disease. These mad-like granular wastes, found in Rheumatic Blood seem to dissolve and pass away under the action of this remedy as freely as does sugar when added to pure water. And then, when dissolved, these poisonous wastes freely pass from the system, and the cause of Rheumatism is gone forever. There is now no real need—no actual excuse to suffer longer without help. We will, and in confidence recommend

"I trust that no one will think from this that I want my name in public for any cause only to let sufferers know where they may find relief from many ailments.

"I can truly say I have been much benefited by the use of Peruna. I feel better than I have for two years. It is the best medicine that I know for pelvic troubles.

"I have taken medicine from the doctors and found no relief; but when I began taking Peruna I could see that before I had finished taking the first bottle it was doing me good."

Cold Developed into Catarrh.

Mrs. N. P. Lawler, 428½ N. Broadway, Pittsburg, Kas., writes:

"Peruna is a sovereign remedy for catarrh. Last spring I caught a severe cold which developed into a serious case of catarrh. I felt weak and sick and could neither eat nor sleep well.

"A friend who had been cured of catarrh through the use of Peruna advised me to try it and I did so at once. I expected help, but nothing like the wonderful change for the better I observed almost as soon as I started taking it.

"In three days I felt much better and within a week I was well. I continued taking the entire bottle and within two weeks I was in fine health. Peruna is a wonderful medicine."

Catarrh of the Bowels.

Mrs. Maggie Durbin, 1321 North St., Little Rock, Ark., writes:

"I was troubled for five years with a chronic disease. I tried everything I heard of, but nothing did me any good. Some doctors said my trouble was catarrh of the bowels, and some said consumption of the bowels. One doctor said he could cure me; I took his medicine two months, but it did me no good.

"A friend of mine advised me to try Peruna and I did so. After I had taken two bottles I found it was helping me, so I continued its use, and it has cured me sound and well.

"If anyone wants to know what Peruna did for me if they will write to me I will answer promptly."

Pains in the Side.

Mrs. Julia Braxton, Apollo, Pa., writes:

"Peruna has cured me of heart trouble and pains in the side.

"A year ago I was expected to die at any time, and the doctor was sometimes called at two o'clock in the morning. But I am thankful to say that I do not now have to send for a doctor now.

"Since I have used your Peruna as you advised me, I am well and able to do all my housework.

"I have all the faith in the world in Peruna as it cured me and I know that it will cure others.

"I cannot praise Peruna enough for what it has done for me."

Stomach Trouble.

Miss Anna Carsten, Clayton, Ill., writes:

"Your Peruna did me so much good.

"I am feeling so well now and have no trouble with my stomach."

Miss Nettie E. Bogardus, R. F. D. 21, Westfield, N. Y., writes:

"I have been a great sufferer from sick headaches, but am now entirely free from that trouble. I have not felt so well in ten years as I do now. I would recommend Peruna and Manalin to all sufferers. I will say, God bless Dr. Hartman and his wonderful remedies."

Stomach Catarrh.

Miss Julia Butler, R. R. 4, Appleton, Wis., writes:

"For the past six years I suffered with catarrh of the stomach, causing loss of sleep and appetite, with frequent severe pains after eating.

"My sister advised me to try Peruna.

"I took your treatment and my appetite returned speedily.

"I gained strength and flesh and am in perfect health.

"I am so thankful your medicine has done me so much good."

Mrs. O. D. Robinson, 48 St. Felix St., Brooklyn, N. Y., writes:

"I have taken Peruna and it did me more good than all my two years' treatment by special physicians. I can really say that I feel like another person. No more swollen feet and limbs. No more bloating of the abdomen. No more shortness of breath. No more stiff and sore joints. You have no idea what your treatment has done for me. It certainly has prolonged my life and made a new woman of me.

"O, such a blessing I have received through your kindness, doctor, and the assistance of the medicine which you so kindly prescribed. I am able to work since I began your treatment, but before I was not able to help myself, much less work for any one else. All praise is due to Dr. Hartman and his treatment."

Removing Ice from the Rink

Yesterday some fifteen or twenty men were busy cutting out the ice and removing the same from the rink. Mr. Stevens during the morning called at the police station and asked the chief if he could place the ice on the streets and allow the same to melt and be thus carried away. Chief Roach told him that he had no authority to override a by-law. This settled the matter, that the city would not cart away ice to suit even an interesting walking match.

However, if Mr. Paige's International League supplies as good a brand of ball as the promoter promises, the majority of the fans in this city will probably be satisfied."

SIR WILFRID LAURIER PLANS AN EARLY ELECTION--MAY APPEAL TO ELECTORS WITHIN THREE MONTHS

A Hurry-Up Call to Liberals to Get Ready for Federal General Election

Reorganizing Government

Ottawa, March 30. — There is a hurry-up call out to friends of the Liberal party to get ready for a federal general election within two months.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, pleased or otherwise, by the civil service commission report, feels that a blow has been received by his government that demands immediate remedy. That remedy he will take by reorganizing his government and with a reorganized cabinet going to the country—before Premier Whitney.

Liberals claim they have a sufficient portion of the supplies put through to carry on the government for more than two months after April. And it is remarked here that Mr. Fielding very adroitly took R. L. Borden, M.P., into camp in getting so much of supply accepted.

It is also remembered now that Sir Wilfrid Laurier appeared to rather welcome than frown on the opposition tactics that resulted in the delay and bold-up business of the fusilade of charges made.

Sir Wilfrid, with a cunning that merits the term The Chief, was delighted to act the victim of scandal charges so long as it took time, for it was time he was sparring for, waiting for the bomb-shell, the civil service commissioner's report, that would upset the applecart of some weak ministers and give cause for a show of statesmanship.

Then came the bomb-shell.

Now Sir Wilfrid announces he will have an investigation into the departments that have come under the censure of the civil service commissioners. With a royal commission appointed and at work, with the country shouting graft and scandal at the government, Sir Wilfrid can very properly end with a vast show of statesmanship ask the governor for dissolution. And he will. Minister Brodeur and Minister Borden will go out. Even optimistic Liberal members admit this now, though the country has long felt these retirements were due. Hon. A. B. Aylesworth will become Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario. Younger nerves and perhaps stronger blood will be brought in to put a new face on the government with which to face the country.

Alabama Congressman Told to Prepare for Death

Washington, D.C., March 28—Louis Lundy, the negro, who was shot by Representative J. Thomas Heflin of Alabama, last night, after an altercation on a street car, is greatly improved to-day, and will recover, according to the hospital authorities. The bullet, which entered his head above the left ear, has not been found, and an X-ray examination will be made to locate it.

The case was not called this morning, but it is believed that it will be heard early Monday morning. Mr. Heflin's bail bond of $5,000 was continued. Thomas McCleary, of New York, who received one of the shots fired by the congressman in his leg, was only slightly injured.

Mr. Heflin gave out for publication copies of several letters (anonymous) received by him since his unsuccessful effort on Feb. 22 to incorporate a "Jim Crow" car amendment to a local street railway trackage bill. Among these was the following: "Prepare to meet your God; go guarded night and day from now on until your death. Fear and tremble. There is not a step between you and death, vile wretch.

Another letter read: "Let you and your friends some fine afternoon in a crowded street car arise and give a bevy of colored ladies your seats, not forgetting to proclaim who you are, and if there should be any colored gentlemen in the car he will follow your magnanimous example."

In view of these threats he had a few days ago been given permission to carry a weapon.

How Primary Pupils Are Admitted

For the information of those having young children to be entered at the local public schools, it might be noted that Inspector Mowat has the following to say as to how and when such little ones may be admitted:

According to the regulation of the Board of Education, children who have not previously attended a public school, are admitted to the primary division only during the first two weeks in January, April and November.

As parents prefer to have their children begin school after the Easter holidays, and as these fall in the middle of April this year, the Board has decided to extend the time of admission to the end of the week following the Easter vacation.

Parents may send their children on April 1st, but as the Easter vacation will follow so shortly afterwards, it is suggested that they better wait until after these holidays are over, when they will be admitted as May pupils.

Woman Has Slept for Over Fifty-Two Days

Los Angeles, Cal., March 28—Mrs. Beulah Hawkins has now surpassed all records for long sleeps in the State, according to authorities at the hospital here. The woman rests on a cot in a cataleptic trance. To-day was the fifty-second day of the aged woman's sleep. February 5th she was removed to the hospital and has spoken but two words since. A score of attempts made to awaken her have been without success.

Bowin Seemed to be Favorite of Woman Who was Murdered

Detroit, Mich., March 27 — Frank Heggner, who drives an express wagon when he is out of jail, was the most interesting witness who has been called in the Bowin murder trial up to this time. Heggner was called by the prosecution, but his cross-examination has already reached over twice as much time as his direct examination did, and he is not yet through. He is a rough-looking man of perhaps 35 years, of stalwart build, and with odd-looking eyes, over which the lids droop halfway at all times. He lived at the Welch place, he said in answer to questions, although he paid no room rent. He is a driver for Dan Scott.

[redacted] IN A FAVORITE.

To Prosecutor Gross, Heggner said that he knew Bowin and that the latter came very frequently to Mrs. Welch's rooms. The young man seemed to be an ardent admirer of one of the girls in the place. Bowin was at the place during Mrs. Welch's last day of life, according to the witness, who saw him there. He thought Bowin stayed quite a long time. He added that the prisoner had seemed to be quite a favorite of the old woman, who gave him money and let him have the freedom of the place at all times. He could not say that Bowin displayed any especial fondness for her, although he took what money was given him and had no hesitation in accepting favors.

Upon cross-examination by Mr. Kennedy, Heggner gave the evidence which may be accepted later as the keynote of the defence's theory. While Heggner was undergoing a fast crossfire of questions from the lawyer, he told of being at the house on Mrs. Welch's last night alive. He heard her engaged in what quarrel with some man whose name the witness did not know. She declared that the other man owed her money for room rent, and that he had not paid her. The man's voice was heard in angry declaration that he owed her nothing, but she disputed with him, and the bitter altercation was plainly audible in Heggner's room. Heggner did not hear the end of the quarrel distinctly.

The next morning when he went away the old woman had not appeared, and though he tried to awaken her she could not. The door of her bedroom was locked. During the day he said Dan Scott attempted to call her on the telephone, but received no response.

NOTED THE MOANS.

Mrs. Kittie Fisher, housekeeper at the Grossfield apartments, next door to the Welch place, produced two note books in which she had made a note of hearing the old woman moan during the night of her death. The witness, who now lives herself in the former Welch home, and sleeps in the room in which the murder was committed, said that she had no idea that Mrs. Welch was in any trouble when she heard her moans. She had made a note of it, however, on the theory that it might come handy at some future time.

"I got up at three o'clock that Friday night," she said, "and when I went into the kitchen I heard groans from the adjoining apartments where the Welch place was. I told Mr. Grossfield, but did nothing more except to write it down." She added that she had not heard the piano in the Welch home play after 7 o'clock on the night of the murder. The day on which the body was found, she said, she was returning from the theatre when she heard the newsboys crying their extras. All about the murder at 76 Congress street. She thought perhaps her employer had met with some trouble, and hurried home to see.

OLD FRIEND TEARFUL.

On the front seat in the audience section of the court room Friday afternoon sat a grey-haired, plainly dressed woman, who wept silently into her handkerchief during most of the session. She sat crying before court opened, and cried hard when the prisoner was brought in, and his mother took a seat behind him. She explained that, while not related to any of the principals, nor directly interested, she was an old friend of the Bowins and sorrowed with the mother. The latter suffers intensely during the trial. Her frail body trembles and shivers at frequent intervals while the witnesses are telling their stories, and she keeps her face buried in her hand, with her eyes closed.

The prisoner's cheerfulness never leaves him, and he is apparently very proud of the sensation he creates.

RELIGIOUS ITALY SEEMS TO BE IN A CHAOTIC STATE

Anti-Clericals are Making War Upon All Organized Christianity and are Gaining in Strength

Rome, March 28.—It is a brave man, one of deep convictions, who to-day holds to the views of the modernists in Italy. That may explain why the Protestant Church makes so little headway in King Victor Emmanuel's country, and why the Waldensian board of evangelization sometimes feels discouraged though never willing to relinquish the fight that it has been making for years to win converts.

Rev. Alberto Clot, the pastor of the Protestant Church at Grotte, Girgenti, South Sicily, is one of the men most qualified to speak of the situation. He was educated at Edinburgh and is in constant communication with the headquarters of the church in the Cottian Alps, Pinerolo and Turin. The mission work of his church is carried on over practically the whole of Italy by a staff of 50 pastors, 10 evangelists, 12 teacher evangelists, 50 teachers and 8 colporteurs. They have studied the question of modernity and viewed it from all points, so that Mr. Clot speaks with authority.

DIFFERENT MOVEMENT.

"You must make a distinction between the anti-clerical and the modernist movement," he said. "The anti-clerical feeling is strong in Roman Catholic provinces, and is directed against us almost as much as against the Church of Rome. It favors us a little for the simple reason that it realizes that we have nothing in common with the Vatican, though it will not be long before it will be manifested equally against every form of organized Christianity.

"But the modernist movement is another matter. It is regarded by the Roman Church as an attack from within, made by her own sons, and their future to be crushed out as a foe to the church. But at bottom it bears in its breath principles of religious reform and aims at the restoration of the gospel as to its rights.

"The movement is making little headway in Italy. It has gone deep, and it will go deeper. But there must be remembered the almost omnipotent power of the Roman Church over its subjects and adherents. Take the case of Signor Minocchi, Professor of Hebrew in the University of Florence. Recently he gave a public lecture on the Garden of Eden during the course of which he explained this allegorical nature of the Genesis narrative as distinct from the historical. This was distinctly a modernist view, and he was immediately required by Rome to retract. This he positively refused to do, and as a consequence has been unsupported as divinus.' Now, the significance lies just here. Prof. Minocchi treats the Vatican decree just as he would treat the pious opinion of a critic. He smiles bravely and refuses to keep silence.

MANY MURDERS FORMERLY.

"I do not know whether there be any kind of working union between us and the modernists. A bridge has been thrown out between them and us, and it is for them to cross it one day or another. I am located at Grotte, in Girgenti, in the heart of the sulphur mining district, an industry that is at present in a very depressed condition, as last year over 100,000 emigrants left the island for the United States and Canada. My work is almost entirely among Roman Catholics, and our schools are full to overflowing with the children of Catholic parents. Six years ago we had 90 children in our day schools, now we have over 800, and last year I had to refuse admission to about 80 for want of room."

Gathering of Unemployed Turned Into Anarchist Demonstration

New York, March 28. — Two men were killed and a number of persons injured this afternoon when a peaceable meeting of the unemployed in Union Square developed into an anarchistic demonstration, and a bomb was thrown and exploded.

A crowd of 10,000 had assembled, in which were many women. Several speakers of local prominence had been announced to make addresses. A force of 150 policemen, most of them mounted, were on duty in the square to maintain order.

As the big crowd assembled numerous red hats and red flags were to be seen. At some signs of disorder the police started to disperse those who were responsible for the disturbances and drove many of the men and women into the streets around the square.

Little or no resistance was offered as the square was almost cleared of the throng, when one of the men engaged in the demonstration rushed swiftly into the park and threw a bomb, which burst near the Union Square fountain, in the rear of which a squad of policemen had been stationed. There was a cloud of smoke and a loud report and a number of persons were seen to fall.

The police report that two men were killed and several injured. The crowd, now composed of sightseers as well as those who had taken part in the meeting of the unemployed, was panic-stricken and fled rapidly.

Selig Silverstein, a man about 30 years old, who lived in Brooklyn, is accused by the police of having thrown the bomb. Silverstein was taken to Bellevue Hospital in a dying condition.

Silverstein's right hand was blown off and one leg was almost severed from the body. One of the dead men was Irwin Ransky.

Will Inquire Into the Evil Arising from Sale of Liquor in Peterboro

The Social Adult Bible class of the George Street Methodist Church at its meeting yesterday afternoon, listened to an address by the Rev. E. A. Pearson on "Temperance." After the conclusion of the address the one hundred members present discussed the growth of the liquor trade in Peterborough, as compared with other cities of a similar size. After a lengthy discussion on the class appointed a committee of three, giving them the power to enquire into the evils arising from the sale of liquor in Peterborough, and further that the committee be in a position to report to the City Council at any time to assist them if necessary in altering if possible the existing conditions. The following gentlemen compose the committee: R. J. Soden, G. W. Powell, Ald. Johnston.

POLICE

At Saturday's session of the police court two young men of the city, as a result of imbibing too freely of the cup that inebriates. A young married woman who lives on George street went into the witness box, and in a straightforward way told his worship a story of having been annoyed by the undesired but insistent attention paid her by one of the men. According to the evidence she gave, it seems that the young man placed a wrong interpretation on the young man's innocent actions. Whilst sitting at a window of her house, she happened to cough as the young man went by. After hearing her cough, he was under the impression that the sound conveyed an implied desire for a flirtation. He then walked up and down several times in front of the house, and even came to the front door and stared in through the glass panel. The witness turned the lights out and told the man to go away. Instead of doing this he made use of indecent and insulting language. His Worship gave the young man a heart to heart talking to, and said he should be ashamed to bother a decent woman in that way. A fine of $5 was imposed and V. to be paid forthwith. A friend of the would-be flirt was assessed $2 for having been drunk. It seems that the latter came to the police station and became abusive. He was quickly placed in the "cooler" and paid $2 for making the mistake of looking for trouble in the police station.

Revival Services at George St. Church

Tonight a series of revival meetings will be begun in the George St. Methodist Church. These meetings will be under the direction of the Men's Social Adult Bible Class, and promises to be productive of much good. The pastor, Rev. E. A. Pearson, will be present at the services, and will take an active part. A special song service will precede each meeting, and they will be bright and attractive as ever.

Harry Orchard Feels That He Ought to Die

Boise, Idaho, March 28.—Harry Orchard, confessed murderer of former Governor Frank Steunenberg, emphatically refused to apply to the Board of Pardons for remission of the death sentence. His attorney will see that the application is made as the law does not require personal application from the condemned. Orchard said last night that he had committed the crime and felt that he ought to pay the full penalty.

Catholic Marriage Laws

The presbytery of Halifax of the Presbyterian Church in Canada has addressed to the Lieutenant-Governor of Nova Scotia an appeal for an authoritative declaration as to what law prevails in the province in regard to the regulation of marriage. The cause of the unusual action is a recent pronouncement of the Catholic archbishop in connection with the recent encyclical on marriage. The authoritative tone assumed in these documents has seemingly led some to think that they have the civil force of statute law. They are, of course, binding only on Catholics and then only in their ecclesiastical relations, unless in some country or province, where the church makes the law of the state. A marriage in Nova Scotia performed according to the law of the province would be civilly effective, though it might be held to be illicit under ecclesiastical law, either of the church of Rome or any other established religious organization. The purpose of the Catholic Church in connection is to surround the marriage ceremony with safe guards and to prevent its being degraded or performed in secrecy. The rules it makes in the connection, however, in this country only bind its voluntary adherents, and has been held here and in other places do not affect the civil status of those who may choose to disregard them. They are rules, however, worthy of respect for their purpose, and both Catholics and Protestants who are to marry would do well to seriously consider them and all that they mean before making up their minds to disregard them.

Much Trouble with the Local Creeks

The warm weather of the past few days caused much trouble Saturday by the creeks in the western part of the city suddenly rising greatly. The Downey street creek in particular overflowed its banks and flooded the whole neighborhood. Many cellars have several feet of water in them. A number of men were kept busy all of Saturday in the vicinity of the William Hamilton Manufacturing Company's foundry trying to keep the creek clear. As it was many residents in that part of the city have their cellars flooded and cannot operate their furnaces. The creek there was considered dangerous by heavy pieces of timber floating down, and making a dam.

C.P.R. Steamers Alone Will Bring in 3,500

Montreal, March 28.—The volume of immigration to Canada is turning out to be much larger than expected, the steamers coming in this week alone bringing over 6,000 immigrants. C.P.R. steamers are bringing over 3,500, and Allan Line boats close to 2,000. A large proportion are from the British Isles.

WALKING.

The latest entry received by Mr. Stevens for the walking race to be held in the Brock street rink is that of Charles Rae, of Hunter, who is credited with a performance while training of walking a distance of 44 miles in eight hours.

BASEBALL.

Joe Bean, manager of the Jersey City ball team, says his pitchers are reporting in time, and that he will have enough of them to form a full team. Most of his pitchers have had plenty of experience in fast company, and Bean expects to get the best kind of work out of them as soon as the playing season opens. The best twirlers he has now are Del Mason, Moore, George Pfannmiller, Bill Foxen, Lew Wiltse and Ike Plank.

The Pirates have had some hard luck this spring. Manager Fred Clarke enumerates the list of unfortunate events befalling the Pittsburg club as follows: Wagner injured, Gibson ill for a month, Storke is not in shape, Tommy Leach's misfortune put him out of practice, Pittsburg wants a third baseman and a shortstop.

Unfounded Rumors are Contradicted

It seems that the rumors current Saturday to the effect that Mr. Andrew E. Tully, of Smith, had been drowned in a creek which flows near his residence, are utterly without foundation. It is to be regretted that the rumors arose out of a statement made jokingly by a friend of Mr. Tully's, who had been out to see him. The unfortunate joke was taken in good faith, and rumors quickly spread throughout the city. Mr. Tully is an unmarried man, living alone, but the reports of his death were on Saturday contradicted by a niece of Mr. Tully's. Quite a deal of unnecessary anxiety was caused by the unfounded story.

Many Lives were Lost and Three Mexican Towns Destroyed

City of Mexico, March 28.—It is estimated that between 100 and 200 lives have been lost in the earthquake and subsequent fire at Chilapa in the State of Guerrero. The town, which has a population of 15,000, was practically wiped out of existence. The number of injured is estimated at 2,000.

Costepec, Conception and Tetillila, towns with a total population of about 2,500, were also destroyed, and it is reported that many persons were injured.

Chilapa is 115 miles south of Mexico City. Communication has been cut off except for couriers.

War Chief Are Fellow Convicts

St Petersburg, March 28. — Lieutenant General Stoessel, who yesterday began to serve ten years in prison for cowardice and treason in surrendering Port Arthur to the Japanese, occupies a room in the fortress of St. Peter and St. Paul adjoining that of Rear Admiral Nebogatoff, who is serving a like sentence for surrender to the Japanese in the battle of the Sea of Japan. The room is about twenty feet square and overlooks a little garden where the officers are permitted to promenade.

Stoessel's family has received permission to refurnish his cell. The officers of the fortress run a private mess of their own, and to this Stoessel has been admitted.

The general's transfer to the fortress yesterday was unexpected. He persisted until the very last in hoping that the Emperor would pardon him. The fortress officials were not prepared for his reception. There was no room available, and to secure one they were forced to dispossess two officers who had served under Admiral Nebogatoff.

Round-the-Wold Steamship Service

has been reached between the Canadian Pacific Railway and the French line of steamers, "Chargeurs Reunis," whereby a round-the-world steamship service will shortly be inaugurated in which the Canadian route will play an important part.

The "Chargeurs Reunis" runs ships around the world in one direction only. Leaving Antwerp they sail through the Suez Canal to Hong Kong, to Yokohama, Honolulu, San Francisco, thence down the Pacific coast through the Straits of Magellan and back to Antwerp again. After the first of May next, Vancouver will be substituted for San Francisco, as a port of call on the American continent.

This has been made possible by an agreement made with the Canadian Pacific Railway by which that road is to transport passengers and freight from Vancouver on through bills of lading to interior points in this country or across this country to Europe or again, into the United States. The passenger rate has been settled at $165 in gold from Yokohama to Vancouver.

After the first of May next, three large passenger steamers are to run directly from Yokohama to Vancouver on a thirteen day schedule to Europe by the Canadian Pacific. From Vancouver these steamers will go to Seattle, Tacoma, San Francisco, Mexican, Central and South American ports, thence by the Magellan Straits, Rio de la Plata and Brazilian ports, back to Europe. As may be seen, this round-the-world service only runs one way.

This French company is also placing two steamers on the route between Kobe, Japan, to Yokohama, and Honolulu to San Francisco and Vancouver and thence back to Kobe. These steamers will not carry passengers.

French-Canadians Coming Back from States

Montreal, March 29. — According to Mr. Rene Dupont, "repartriement" agent of the Dominion Government, whose duty it is to try and induce French Canadians who have emigrated to the United States to return to Canada, the hard times across the border are driving a great many families of French people to return to their old homes in this country. Mr. Dupont says that, in the factory towns of New England, where small French colonies have been flourishing for many years and have been added to year by year, work is very hard to obtain. This means that the French-Canadians must look elsewhere and most of them are either turning back to their old homes in this province or making for the new lands of the west. Almost all of them have money, saved during their sojourn in the States, and they are almost certain to settle down as prosperous hard working farmers.

Raise Big Fund for Suffrage

London, March 30. — Widespread and serious attention is directed to the plea for woman suffrage following the mass meeting at Albert Hall on Thursday night. The occasion is pronounced the most significant of its kind in the history of the movement. A dramatic element was imparted to the meeting by the unexpected appearance of Mrs. Parkhurst and seven other co-workers who had been released from jail a day before their sentences expired. But the great feature of the meeting was the financial support which developed. Responding to a plea for funds, women contributed $25,000 without leaving the hall. There also were many promises of annual donations. One was made by a woman who said she was selling her home to devote her life and her fortune to the cause. The movement has now become formidable because of the enthusiasm and self-sacrifice of the leaders.

MORMONS ARE COMING.

Cardston, Alta., March 30. — A very heavy movement of Mormons from Utah is in progress to this section, the population of the town being temporarily doubled, and all accommodations exhausted. The season's trek from Utah promises to assume proportions of an invasion, and it is threatened that shortly there will be more Mormons north than south of the international boundary.

MOTHERS MUST HAVE ABUNDANT STRENGTH

No Mother Can Rear a Healthy Child Unless She is Strong Herself.

A woman's anxieties multiply tenfold about the time the new baby is expected.

If her strength is exhausted and her blood weak, it goes hard in the hour of trial.

Ferrosone should be used because it makes the blood nutritious and rich. By instilling new strength into every part of the body, it uplifts your spirits at once.

Childbirth is certainly made easier by Ferrosone. The following statement expresses the earnest gratitude of Mrs. M. E. Duckworth, of Durham. It is a woman's story—of her own ease—told that other women may profit by her experience:

"Before baby was born I was in a weak, miserable, nervous state. I had no reserve strength. I tried to build up, but nothing helped me. I looked upon the coming day with dread, knowing I was unequal to the occasion.

"Ferrosone braced me up at once. It gave me strength and spirits, brought back my nerve and cheerfulness. From my experience with Ferrosone I recommend it to all expectant mothers."

There is more concentrated nourishment in Ferrosone than you can get from anything else. It supplies what weak systems need. Simply take one tablet at meals and you'll feel benefited in a thousand ways.

Ferrosone makes healthy, virile, vigorous women; try it. 50c per box of fifty tablets, or six for $2.50, at all dealers.

PETERBOROUGH, MARCH 30, 1908

Teachers in the boys' schools throughout Greater New York are planning to send 3,000 boys into the country next June to spend their vacations as farm laborers. Over 2,500 boys, it is said, have already been enrolled in an organization formed for this purpose. The plan is the outcome of an experiment tried last summer, as an indirect result of which one of the boys sent out at that time is now taking a course at Cornell University, and others have induced their parents to buy farms. This not only bids fair, apparently, to become a popular phase of nature study,—for this will furnish the boys with an exceptional opportunity for studying nature at her very best—but as well may help to solve some social problems which are now commanding the attention of social reformers. It will also serve as a practical demonstration of the opportunities that farming offers, and may lead to the occupation of unoccupied or abandoned farms in the not very distant future.

Late Mr. J. T. Paterson

A Man Prominent in Insurance and in Literary World--An Authority on Insurance

Much regret is felt in Peterborough over the death of Mr. J. T. Paterson, brother of Mrs. A. W. Patterson and Mr. Thos. Paterson, the well known broker, Simcoe street. Mr. Paterson has had a prominent career in the insurance world. He lectured some years ago in Toronto to the L. O. F., on which occasion several Peterborough gentlemen were present. He visited here about four years ago. The Allentown Morning Call, in referring to his death, says:

J. Thompson Paterson, an insurance actuary of international reputation and the free lance writer whose works and writings in the insurance journal, "The Counsellor," led to the sensational insurance investigations in New York State, died in this city very suddenly last evening after a short illness.

Mr. Paterson had been a resident of this city since last March when, in a search for health, he came into this section and became identified with a new insurance project then forming in this city, and now known as the National Alliance. Here he found conditions that gave him hope of prolonging his life many years than he had hoped for and he determined to remain here. In December, however, he had another severe spell of his old illness, stomach trouble, and though he recovered he had a relapse on Tuesday last. Running in the Y.M.C.A. dormitories, and being well known to the young man who frequent this place, he was visited by many. Last evening several came in to see him. When they enquired how he was feeling he replied that he was feeling fine and asked one of them to get him a drink of water. As the boy went to perform the errand, Mr. Paterson, without another word, fell dead.

Mr. Paterson was born of Scottish parentage in Canada about fifty-seven years ago. He was educated for the Presbyterian ministry, and up to twenty years ago served in that profession in Canada. His voice failing him and having a natural taste for math matical studies, he took up actuarial work and entered the insurance business. Later he went to England, where he was engaged in insurance brokerage and later came to America and followed actuarial work in New York and other large cities. He was in the constant employ of prominent insurance companies and was called into consultation on many important problems that arose in the leading countries in the three countries in which he did business. For ten years he lived in New York city, the last two of which he ventured into insurance journalism, becoming the editor of "The Counsellor," a decidedly free lance publication. His exposé of the business methods of New York insurance companies led to their prosecution of him for criminal libel and the attention of the state and nation was attracted to the men who battled the powerful corporations and their officials. By very means possible they attempted to rid themselves of the shrewd Scotchman who had put them up a tree. The whole matter resulted in the sensational insurance scandals that resulted in the revision of the insurance laws in nearly every state in the union. In connection with the investigation Mr. Paterson was summoned to Albany to aid as an expert in the work of investigation. In recognition of his work, Charles Hughes, now governor of the State of New York, and the chief prosecutor of the investigation, sent Mr. Paterson a bound edition of the proceedings in full.

In March of last year Mr. Paterson came to this city and outlined the plans upon which the National Alliance was founded and of which Captain Charles Spangler became the first president and Mr. Paterson the actuary and general manager. The order now has more than 800 members in nine different branches. Mr. Paterson paid close personal attention to the work and only on Monday last visited Bath in the interest of the company.

The man's demise was undoubtedly hastened by the extraordinary grief that has come upon him within the past eight months. In July a son, a talented artist, died rather suddenly in New York. Within a month Mr. Paterson's wife followed.

There survives him a son living in New York; a sister and brother, above referred to, living in this city; a sister, Mrs. J. W. Brown, Chicopee Falls, Mass., And a brother, William M., a prominent business man of Boston, Mass.

Culverwell Explains Trent Power Situation

Belleville Ontario (Liberal) says,—The following telegram was sent to the City Council last night by J. A. Culverwell, of Port Hope, the gentleman who has eighteen councils endorsing his Healey Falls operations. This is self-explanatory and is in the interests of Belleville.

The report in the Trenton newspapers that Deputy Minister Butler had promised dam No. 2 to Trenton people—as will be seen in the report of the Belleville deputation—has been countermanded by the Hon. Geo. P. Graham, who is the Minister of Railways and Canals:

Port Hope, March 25, '08.

Clerk and Council, Belleville:

Regarding Globe despatch from Ottawa re Belleville deputation asking for power from dam two, Trent canal near Trenton, eight to ten thousand horse-power is incorrect and nonsensical. The head is twenty-two feet and the officially recorded dry flow gives three thousand three hundred and thirty horse-power, or subtracting canal requirements and electrical loss, only 2,560 horse-power delivered Belleville. The owners of whole of one side of that power is myself and associates, as also power of smaller dam two three—as confirmed again recently by Court of Appeal judgment.

Belleville's power requirements at present are nearly 3,000 horse power. Healey Falls is absolutely unavailable therefore, to help Belleville's future. Intriguing is now going on to get the Corporation of Trenton to secure dam two and then turn it over to R. Weddell, T. A. G. Gordon and Trent Power Co. (who now own part of dam No. 1)—and thereby stifle competition in Belleville.

Hope Belleville will continue to stop this disreputable duplicity.

T. A. CULVERWELL,
Managing-Director.

The Northumberland-Durham Power Co. Ltd., leases and owners parts Healey Falls (under Government rate regulation.)

Mr. Culverwell arrived at 9.30 and addressed the Council. He showed eight registered deeds and plans of two miles of Trent rapids and quoted a recent Court of Appeal judgment and also different settlements made by Government on canal in Peterborough district to endorse his statement.

He also quoted Deputy Minister Butler's Trent Canal report, which says that he is unable to find any authority by Statute or common law to permit a diversion of water from a natural channel without compensation to the riparian owners, and that he values this at $2 per h. p. per annum. Other reports show canal requires one-sixth of the river flow.

To a question Mr. Culverwell said:—The reason power had not been supplied to Belleville was owing to the determined opposition made against him by people in Peterborough and Lakefield with the aid of departmental officials in delaying surveys. All surveys on the river are finished, half the contracts are let and yet the survey and work at Healey Falls has been left in abeyance. He wanted to say emphatically it was not the fault of the company nor was it the fault of Hon. Mr. Graham.

LINES TO LOUISA.

[The same being our forty-seventh maid who has gone to smash elsewhere.]

A week ago we had a maid
Whose memory will never fade.
You should have seen Louisa!
She piled the plates on which we dined
So very high they called to mind
The leaning tower of Pisa.

At other times they did not lean
When carried by our kitchen queen
(Whose other name was Dennis).
But rose as straight as spire or tree,
And then her model seemed to be
The campanile, Venice.

The leaning tower was first to go,
And when it hit the floor below
The havoc was appalling!
At once another crash occurred,
And then, alas, we knew we heard
The campanile falling!

I see its shattered remnants yet.
'Twas half our wedding dinner set—
The other half was Pisa.
My chatelaine her protest filed.
"Pray leave," she cried, "ere I go wild,
For Pellon on Ossa piled
Would be your next, Louisa!"

Pat was having an argument with a friend who was well posted in ancient history.

"How foolish of you to contend that the ancient Irish were more advanced than the ancient Egyptians," said his friend. "Why, the Egyptians must have been understood electricity, as wires corresponding to our own telegraph wires have been found in Egypt."

"That may be," answered Pat, "but the fact that no wires have been found in Ireland proves beyond a doubt that the Irish were in the habit of using wireless telegraphy."—Philadelphia Ledger.

NOW LISTEN!

Please read carefully what follows, and if you decide to take advantage of what the "Canada Southern Oil & Gas Co, Limited," of Tilbury, Ont. (no personal liability), is now offering you, the result will be that instead of getting 3 per cent. for your savings, you will get at least from 10 to 25 per cent. that others are harvesting.

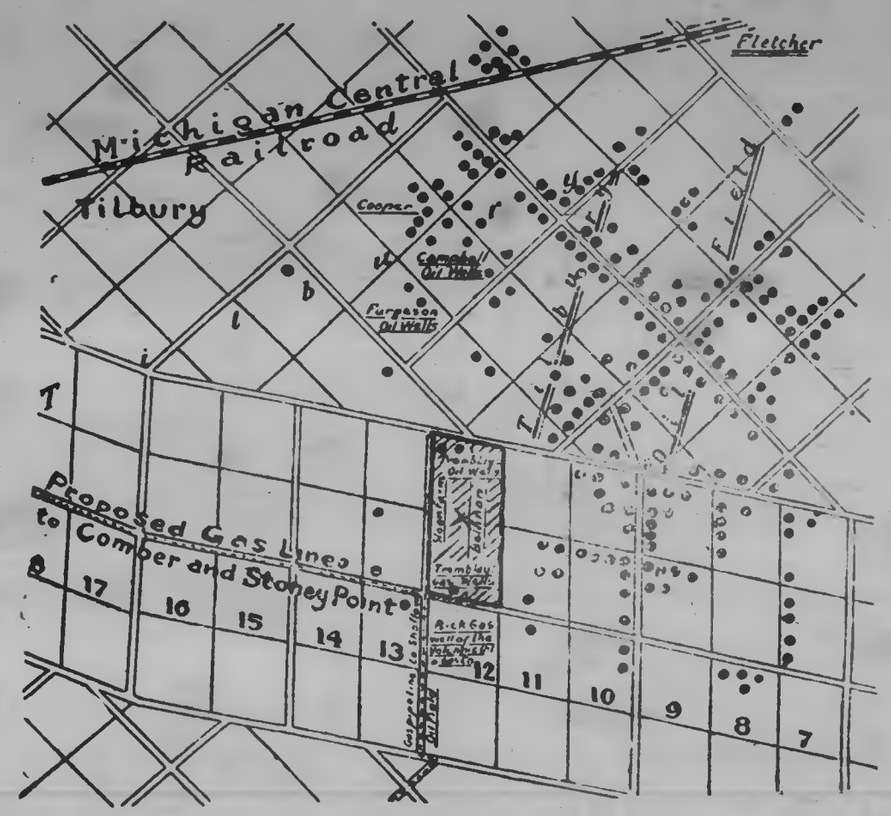
Your savings will be eight times more than the original amount by the mere fact of the higher rate of interest you will get.

Remember that this is no wildcat scheme, as you can see by the facts hereinafter mentioned.

Dr. Hel, the famous Canadian geologist, early in 1878 reported that there was an oil and gas field in the Townships of Tilbury and Romney, County of Kent, Ont. As soon as the discovery of the oil was made in Tilbury in 1906, our American neighbors, who are experts in good things, did not hesitate to invest hundreds of thousands of dollars, and now, in fact, control the two thirds interest in our oil field of Tilbury; and this happened because we Canadians hesitated to invest a few thousand dollars in the exploration of the oil mines of Tiloury, which already give a monthly production valued at $75,000, without adding the revenue derived from the gas.

We have said that this is not a wildcat scheme, because the "Canadian Southern Oil & Gas Co., Limited," has secured an option at a very moderate price on properties situated in the oil and gas field of Tilbury, upon which three successful tests have been made, being Lot No. 12, M R N., Tilbury East, 200 acres, indicated with a cross upon the map of the field.

COUNTY of KENT, ONTARIO



Three wells only have been drilled at an average depth of 1,400 feet.

The first one proves to be a rich gas well, the two others are good oil wells, combined with a strong production of gas.

The Company has also secured the franchises for the distribution and sale of natural gas into the Townships of Romney, Tilbury East, North and West and also into the thriving villages of Comber and Stoney Point.

The gas well is properly equipped and already is supplying the motor power to the Romney oil field and is getting one-third of the gross revenue of the gas sold.

The oil wells are completely equipped with one 15 h. p. gas engine, derrick, tanks, boiler, pumps, tubing, pipe-line, jerk-line, jack, etc., and are producing daily. The oil is sold to The Imperial Oil Company, Sarnia, and is delivered at the tanks and shipped through its pipe-line to Port Marquette R. R. Station at Merlin, a distance of 3 miles.

Our properties are already giving daily a net revenue of about $35.00—that is to say, more than 10 per cent. of the whole capital stock of the Company.

This revenue may be made four times greater by the drilling of other wells and the construction of the gas-line to Comber and Stoney Point.

Fritz Cirkel, Esq., of Montreal, consulting mining engineer and mining expert to the Dominion Government, who lately made an inspection of said property, concluded his report as follows:

"In summarizing the actual results already obtained from the operations on Sloan (wells the writer is forced to the conclusion that the property under consideration is a very valuable one. Located as it is in the western extremity of the producing Tilbury oil field, in close proximity to wells which produce from 40 to 60 barrels of oil (and even more) per day of 24 hours (I refer to the Ferguson, Campbell and Cooper properties, located about 2,000 feet distant to the north, see plan attached hereto), it bids fair to become a producer of oil and natural gas of no small measure.

The Tilbury field has already the reputation of being a large producer and powerful companies have entered the district with a view of securing properties of known and established value.

There is one factor to which I would like to draw your special attention and that is the future of natural gas. To-day, the market in that in that part of the country, for this commodity is not sufficiently large to dispose of all the gas the wells can produce but there is no question that in the near future factories will be established on central points, which will eventually consume for various purposes, especially for power, all the gas which can be produced in the field.

Besides this there are quite a number of towns and villages in the western part of the Niagara Peninsula, which may use the gas for heating, lighting, and also for power purposes and it is only a question of time when this will be realized.

The economy of the application of natural gas to power purposes is already evidenced all through the field, as coal or any other power cannot be regularly obtained, and that at high figures. Having therefore, a powerful gas well on the (Sloan) property, it is evident that a great saving is effected from this source alone; for instance, for the operation of ten oil wells, the cost of power required per day would amount to between twenty and twenty-five dollars, which, in 300 working days per year, would represent a saving of from six thousand to seven thousand five hundred dollars.

In conclusion, I may say that this property, with proper and economic management, can be made highly remunerative; I entertain, no doubt, that if properly developed, it will show similar results as those of so many other locations in the vicinity, whose developments have of so many other locations in the vicinity, whose developments have been so vigorously pushed in the past.

Respectfully submitted,
(Signed) FRITZ CIRKEL.

Good coal stock is a safe and sure investment. Galbraith shares are especially attractive.

Modest Capitalization Large Coal Reserves

This Company organized under the laws of the Northwest Territories of Canada, owns and operates the Galbraith mine located at Lundbreck, Alta. They have four vertical seams of coal traversing their property, aggregating over 40 feet in thickness. Three of these seams are developed to a depth of 350 feet, and as they pass through the Company's lands for nearly a mile, some idea of the amount of coal may be had.

Shipping Steadily

The present output of the mine is about 200 tons per day. These shipments will be rapidly increased, as the C.P.R. allows 119 cars to be loaded with coal for points in the U. S.

What they offer at 25c per Share for a short time

The property is situated at Mancos, Colo., and consists of 160 acres, fully paid for. The Company expects to secure at least 400 acres or more, we are negotiating for it now and the terms are satisfactory and there is coal on the same, and they also intend to secure some Coal Mines of which they have the refusal. Some of the best coal mines in Colorado are in this district, as well as some of the richest gold and silver mines. In fact this is one of the richest parts for mineral in the State of Colorado, and the Company has the refusal to several prospects on reasonable and easy terms.

In our opinion the prospects of the Company are very bright, and a rapid advance in the price of the stock is sure to take place in the near future. Full information can be had by calling at our office.

dal, to whom the said brooch belonged."

"It's a lie," said Jessop hoarsely, and sober enough now.

"Quite so, and perhaps it is also a lie that a man resembling yourself tried to get certain jewelry from a lawyer named Pash".

Jessop lost his self control, which he was trying desperately to preserve, and rose to his feet white faced and haggard. "Who are you?" he shouted; "who are you?"

"Doesn't the warrant tell you?" replied his companion, not at all upset. "My name is Billy Hurd. I am the detective in charge of the Norman murder case. I've been looking for you for a long time, Mr. Jessop."

"I know nothing about it."

"Yes, you do; so sit down and talk away."

"I'll break your head!" cried the captain, swinging his huge fists.

"Try"—Hurd whipped out his revolver, but did not rise—"at the risk of getting a bullet through you. Pshaw, man, don't be a fool! I'm making things as easy for you as possible. Create a disturbance, and I'll hand you over to the police. A night in the village lockup may cool your blood. Sit down, I tell you."

The sailor showed his teeth like those of a snarling dog and made as to strike the seated detective; but suddenly changing his mind, for he saw well enough in what danger he stood, he dropped into his chair and, covering his face with his hands, groaned aloud. Hurd put away his revolver. "That's better," said he pleasantly; "take a tot of rum and tell me all you know."

"I'm innocent," groaned Jessop.

"Every man is innocent until convicted by a jury," said Hurd calmly. "Consider me a jury, and I'll size up your case when I hear all. Are you innocent of both murders?"

"Lady Rachel committed suicide," said Jessop, raising a haggard face. "Yes—I stick to that, sir. As to Krill's death in London, I didn't touch him; I swear I didn't."

"But you saw him on that night?"

"How can you prove that?"

"Very simply. Norman—or Krill if you prefer the old name—took certain jewelry to Pash for safe keeping shortly before his death. You presented to Pash a paper, undeniably written and signed by the old man, saying that the jewelry was to be given up to bearer. Now, before taking the jewelry to Pash, Krill could not have written that paper, so you must have seen him during the few hours which elapsed between his visit to Pash and his death."

This was clearly argued, and Jessop could not contradict. "I left him quite well and hearty."

"In the cellar in Gwynne street?"

"Yes, in the cellar," admitted Jessop.

"At what time?"

"About half past 8—say between 8 and 9."

"Well, what happened?" asked Hurd, smoking quietly.

The sailor twisted his big hands and groaned. Then he laid his head on the table and began to sob, talking brokenly and huskily. "I'm done for," he gasped. "I'd know'd it would come—no—I ain't sorry. I've had a nightmare of a time. Oh—since I pawned that brooch"—

"Ah. Then you did pawn the brooch at Stowley?"

Jessop sat up and wiped his eyes. "Yes, I did. But I pull my cap down over my eyes and buttoned up my pea jacket. I never thought old Tinker would ha' knowed me."

"Wasn't it rather rash of you to pawn the brooch in a place where you were well known?"

"I wasn't well known. I only come at times, and then I went away. Old Tinker hadn't seen me more nor once or twice, and then I pulled down my cap and"— Jessop, badly shaken, was beginning to tell the episode over again when Hurd stopped him.

"See here," said the detective. "You say that you are innocent?"

"I swear that I am," gasped Jessop.

"Well, then, I'll give you the benefit of the doubt. My business is not to hang innocent people. Take a glass of rum and tell me all you know, beginning with your first meeting with Krill and running down through the death of Lady Rachel to your last meeting in the Gwynne street cellar."

"And when you know all?"

—"Then I'll see what is to be done."

"Will you arrest me?"

"I have arrested you. Don't make conditions with me, man," said Hurd, with a stern face. "The night is growing late, and I want to get to the bottom of this business before we go to bed. Take some rum."

Seeing there was nothing for it but to make a clean breast, Captain Jarvey Jessop wasted no further time in useless lamentation. He could have smashed Hurd easily enough, even though there was the risk of being shot, but the fracas would bring others on the scene, and Jessop knew he could not deal with the police. Therefore he took a stiff peg and became quieter—in fact, when once started on his confession, he appeared to be rather relieved.

"It's been a nightmare," said he, wiping his forehead. "I'm glad it's come to the lawr, that I am. I met Krill as he was then, some twenty-five year back by chance, as you may say"—he cast a strange look at the detective, which the latter noted—"yes, by chance, Mr. Hurd. I found he kept the pub here, and this bein' no distance from Southampton, I took to remain' down here when the barkey was at anchor. Me an' Krill became great mates, and I'd what you might call free quarters here—yes, sir—it's a fact."

"Very generous of Mr. Krill," remarked Hurd dryly and wondering why the man was keeping back.

"Oh, he was right enough as a mate when not drunk, but the liquor made a howling dorg of him. I've seen many drunk in many places," said Jessop, "but any one who held his liquor worse Krill I never did see. He'd knife you as soon as look at you when drunk."

"But he evidently preferred staying."

"Hold on, mate," said Jessop, with another deep pull at the rum. "I'm comin' to that night. We was both on the bust, a y'may say, and Mrs. Krill she didn't like it, so got to bed with the child."

"How old was the child?"

"Maud? Oh, you might say she was thirteen or fifteen. I can't be sure of her age. What's up?"

For Hurd, seeing in this admission a confirmation that Maud was not Krill's child and could not inherit the money, had showed his feelings. However, he made some trivial excuse, not wishing to be too confidential, and begged Jessop to proceed.

"Well, mate," said the captain, filling another glass of rum, "y'see the lady had come earlier and had been put to bed by the missus. I never saw her myself, being drinking in this very room along o' Krill. But he saw her," added Jessop emphatically, "and said as she'd a fine opal brooch, which he wish he'd had, as he wanted money and the missus kept him tight."

"Krill was a judge of jewels?"

"Traveled in jewels once," said the [illegible] "Bless you, he could [illegible] a

An English Amenity.

A striking difference between our manners and those of our English cousins was shown one day at a garden party. The hostess, an American, was speaking to one of her guests, an Englishwoman of rank.

"Dear Lady B.," she said, "here are some sandwiches which I made with my own hands, particularly for you. You know I've often told you about our American sandwiches and how good they are. Here are different sorts, lettuce and cucumbers, if you care for 'grass,' or if you like a savory better try the cream cheese ones with pimentoes. I've some sweet ones, too, raisins and nuts chopped together—which will you try first?"

She held a plate in each hand, a plate filled with dainty looking sandwiches, and they were extended invitingly toward her guest, who looked at them critically, then said in the clear, high pitched voice of the well bred Englishwoman:

"Oh, thank you, so kind of you, but do you know I never touch the sweety things?"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Chance For a Home Run.

A clever teacher who has the power of calling out originality in her pupils says that she would have no use for text books if she took time to answer all the startling questions asked in the classroom. One day the attraction of gravitation was under discussion when one of the boys said that he didn't see any need of it, anyway.

"It seems to me," said he, "there's no particular use in having the earth attract things. Now, when the apple fell and made Newton think out the reason for it, that apple might just as well have stayed where it was until somebody gathered it."

"You play ball, don't you?" asked the teacher. "Well, suppose you knock the ball very high, what happens?"

"It falls."

"But if there were no attraction toward the earth it wouldn't fall. Don't you think that might prove inconvenient?"

"My," cried the boy, "what a lucky chance for a home run!"

Heart Strength

Heart Strength, or Heart Weakness, means Nerve Strength, or Nerve Weakness—nothing more. Positively, not one weak heart in a hundred is, in itself, actually diseased. It is almost always a hidden tiny little nerve that really is all at fault. This obscure nerve—the Cardiac, or Heart Nerve—simply needs, and must have, more power, more stability, more controlling, more governing strength. Without that the Heart must continue to fail, and the stomach and kidneys also have these same controlling nerves.

This clearly explains why, as a medicine, Dr. Shoop's Restorative has in the past done so much for weak and ailing Hearts. Dr. Shoop first sought the cause of all this painful, palpitating, suffocating heart distress. Dr. Shoop's Restorative—this popular prescription—is alone directed to these weak and wasting nerve centers. It builds; it strengthens; it offers real, genuine heart help.

If you would have strong Hearts, strong digestion, strengthen these Nerves—re-establish them as needed, with

Mr. R.B. Rogers Gets Large Contract

The many friends of Mr. R. B. Rogers, D. L. S., will be pleased to learn that the firm of Dennon and Rogers, of which he is a partner, has been officially notified that the firm has been awarded the contract of Section No. 2 of the Trent Valley canal. Work will be begun on the Rice Lake section at once, and the magnitude of the contract may be judged when it involves the expenditure of about $700,000.

Great Demand for Firewood

Notwithstanding the comparatively warmer weather of last week, City Relief Officer Finch Miller had to hand out quite a large supply of badly needed provisions on Saturday night. It seems that the shortage of firewood places this commodity in great demand. The poor of the city find it almost impossible to procure good wood of any kind and hardwood is at high price and difficult to procure. The general demand for food, however, has become much easier.

Humorous Debate at St. John's

To-night a most interesting programme is promised in the A.Y.P.A. Guild room of St. John's Church, the occasion being the regular fortnightly meeting. The programme includes a debate on the subject, Resolved, "That Women Talk More Than Men." The affirmative side will be led by Mr. Charles Coleman and Mr. Charles Reid will lead the negative. It is hoped that there will be a large number present.

Mr. H. J. Booth in the City

Mr. H. J. Booth, who presented "Zephra" in Peterborough a year ago, was in the city on Saturday and was warmly greeted by many friends. Mr. Booth came here from Kingston, where a new version of "Zephra" will be produced at an early date. Mr. Booth has been in the Limestone City for some time. He has conducted operas in many cities since leaving Peterborough and has met with the greatest success. There is a possibility that he may present another opera in Peterborough in the near future.

Death of Mrs. David H. Moore

The many friends of Mrs. David H. Moore, of 607 Brock street, will be shocked to-day to learn that this lady passed away somewhat unexpectedly yesterday evening at about 5.30 o'clock. The late Mrs. Moore has been ill for some months, but the end came suddenly. Mrs. Moore's daughter, Lilian, who has been visiting with friends in Ottawa, was wired yesterday morning to the effect that the worst was feared. She arrived here by a special train from the Capital during the afternoon, shortly after 4 o'clock.

The late Mrs. Moore was 53 years of age. She was a member of the congregation of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church.

The deceased, who was a daughter of the late Mr. Wm. McKay, leaves to mourn her loss her husband and two children, Mr. Ernest and Miss Lilian.

The funeral arrangements were not available last night.

Plain Truth

From Thirty Year's Experience

The plain truth from simple honest folk is the very best testimony anyone can ask. Here's what a N. H. man says about coffee.

"As I have had 30 years' experience with coffee and its effects, I may be permitted to say something pertinent to the subject.

"My appetite began to fail, food disturbed my stomach, bowels became badly constipated, was restless, sleep so greatly disturbed I dreaded to go to bed.

"My stomach got so bad I could not eat anything for supper but milk and a cracker. In the evening I would be so thirsty nothing would satisfy me but a cup of strong, cold coffee.

"Coffee was my invariable drink for breakfast, with a doughnut or piece of toast. I was all the time consulting the doctor, taking digestive preparations to help the stomach, and cathartics to move the bowels, frequently having attacks of terrible pain in the bowels which would necessitate calling the doctor.

"After many years of this I became convinced that something must be done.

"At last I got hold of Postum and began using it in place of coffee and have continued to use it daily for the past 6 years. The improvement was gradual, but sure. For the system requires time to recover from the damage done by coffee and feel the full benefits of Postum.

"Improvement has continued from the very first, to the present. Digestion grew better, bowels became regular, and at bed-time I now anticipate a good night's sleep with pleasure.

"The change from coffee to Postum has made a wonderful change in my condition. It could not be expected that a man 51, with a 3 years' and 16 months' service in the army, could be made young again. But I do honestly believe I state the plain truth when I say that if I had not changed from coffee to Postum I should have been, by this time, a helpless invalid, if alive."

Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read "The Road to Wellville" in pkgs. "There's a Reason."

Cures Woman's Weaknesses.

We refer to that boon to weak, nervous, suffering women known as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

Dr. John Eyerman of the Editorial Staff of THE ECLECTIC MEDICAL REVIEW says of Unicorn root (Helonias Dioica) which is one of the chief ingredients of the "Favorite Prescription":

"A remedy which invariably acts as a uterine invigorator * * * means for normal activity of the entire reproductive system. Helonias in Helonias we have a remedy par excellence for debilitated conditions of the reproductive organs, whether existing as a result of chronic disease of the pelvic viscera, or arising in the course of some constitutional disease. In the treatment of chronic disease peculiar to women it is strongly to the point that a cure is effected in so much less time when Helonias is given with such drugs as may be indicated in the case. Dr. Pierce further says: "The following are among the leading indications for Helonias: Uterine pain, flatulency, or aching in the back, with leucorrhœa; chronic atonic (sluggish) conditions of the reproductive organs of women, with depression and irritability; nervous prostration, with chronic diseases of the pelvic viscera; want of sexual desire, with corresponding sexual impotency (in male), due to a weakened condition of the reproductive system; extreme nervousness, with disordered digestion, and a dragging sensation or heaviness in the pelvic region; pain in the ovarian region, or in the extreme lower part of the abdomen."

In more or less of the above symptoms [illegible] Favorite Prescription" [illegible] Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription [illegible] effects of which [illegible] Helonias, or Helonias, and the medicinal properties of which it most faithfully represents.

Golden Seal root, another prominent ingredient of "Favorite Prescription," Prof. Finley Ellingwood, M. D., of Bennett Medical College, Chicago, says: "Golden Seal is an important remedy in disorders of the [illegible] and general [illegible] it is useful."

Prof. John M. Scudder, M. D., late of Cincinnati, says of Golden Seal root:

"In relation to its general effects on the system, there is [illegible] which [illegible] it is useful in [illegible] Dr. R. Bartholow, M. D., of Jefferson Medical College, says of Golden Seal:

"Valuable in uterine hemorrhage, menorrhagia (leading to congestive dysmenorrhœa painful menstruation)."

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription faithfully represents all the above named ingredients and cures the diseases for which they are recommended.

C.P.R.'s. Annual Seed Distribution

The annual distribution of seeds from the floral department of the Canadian Pacific is now taking place, and as a result of the efforts of Mr. N. S. Dunlop, the C. P. R. floral enthusiast, during the coming summer there will be a streak of flowers and shrubs across the whole continent from St. John to Vancouver Island, which will tend in no small degree to give travellers an idea of the beauty of the country. From a small beginning this floral scheme of the big rail way has become almost a national institution, and the interest in it is growing very fast amongst the employees of the C. P. R., especially those in small stations, where they have time to go in for gardening, and where there is frequently keen competition as to who can grow the finest display around the station and office building. This year Mr. Dunlop has received hundreds of applicants for packages of seeds. Each package contains twenty-nine varieties, as follows: Alyssum, sweet; antirrhinum, giant flowering; aster, early flowering Comet; aster, Semple's; balsam, rose-flowered; candytuft, mixed colors; carnation, Marguerite; centaurea, Imperialis; climbers, dianthus, Mourning Cloak; everlasting flowers, godetia, mixed; gaillardia, Aristata; kochia or Summer Cypress; mignonette, 1908; nasturtium, California Giant, climbing; nasturtium, California Giant, pansy, Giant Trimardeau; petunia, large flowering single; phlox Drummondi; poppies (Burbank's Silver Lining and Maid of the Mist); scabiosa, salpiglossis; stocks Dwarf German Ten Weeks; sunflower, Chrysanthemum Flowered; sweet-peas, Spencer's Hybrid Mixture; verbena, giant flowering, and zinnias, mammoth mixed.

The scheme is evidently becoming a greater success every year. "During the past few months," said Mr. Dunlop, "I have had hundreds of letters from railway agents, section men and others who received these packages of seeds, telling of the great pleasure they derived from them. The work has proved a blessing to thousands of employees of the Company in the lonely districts of the West, where both they and their families have taken great interest in beautifying the stations with their garden work. This year we expect to have more railway gardens than ever before, and the result cannot but be both beneficial to the Road and its employees, as well as a source of pleasure to travellers along the line."

Inquest on Howard Resumes Today

The inquest on the body of the Hiawatha Indian, Ben Howard, who was killed near Downers' Corners on the G. T. R., will be resumed by Coroner Dr. Gray this morning at 10 o'clock in the Council Chamber. The inquest which was opened some days ago in Mr. A. Comstock's undertaking establishment, was postponed until to-day, as the local authorities were anxious to ascertain, if possible, where the young man procured the whiskey or other alcoholic liquor that in all probability led to the poor fellow's death.

IS LAW REGULATING FEES OF CORONER'S WITNESSES EQUITY?

Citizens Had to Pay Subpoened Witness His Actual Expenses Out of Their Private Funds

Yesterday morning just after the evidence had been taken from witnesses in the inquest held on the death of Mr. Benjamin Howard, the recently deceased Hiawatha Indian athlete, a peculiar sample of law or justice was in evidence. It will be noted that in our report of the inquest on young Howard contention in this issue that a young man named Culverson had been brought here from Deseronto by the coroner's subpoena as an important witness, presumably in the interests of the prosecution.

Now, as before said, just after the evidence was all in, and the jury was holding private session to consider their pending verdict, County Crown Attorney R. E. Wood, who had temporarily left the Council Chamber, returned and said to Coroner Gray: "Now, Doctor, the young man Culverson, was brought here from Deseronto to give evidence in this case, and I find that no allowance has been made for his travelling or other expenses. He had to borrow some $5 or $6 to come here. There is no compulsion on either the city or the county to pay this money back, and I think it would be most evidently wrong that he should be out of this money. I'll tell you what I'll do, sooner than see Culverson lose this money, I'll put up a share of it myself, what will you and the rest contribute to?"

Coroner Gray explained that he had either written or verbally told Culverson that if he would attend the inquest and give evidence of importance that his expenses, etc., would be refunded or paid. However, Culverson's evidence threw no light on the point sought to be elucidated. The Doctor, however, continued by saying that, in the circumstances, he would pay a share sooner than see the man stuck. He acknowledged that Culverson could not, under the present law collect his expenses from either the city or county and that, had he refused to come, he would have been brought here under arrest.

At this point Mr. Wood and the coroner each "dug down to their jeans," to use a current slang term, and contributed several pieces of paper printed in green, black, white and with a red seal. County Constable Cochrane also contributed some legal timber, including paper and silver money, and the worthy taking the evidence of the inquest also was assessed some of his hard earned lucre. The whole amount contributed by this philanthropic group certainly was sufficient to repay Culverson's expenses.

The main point at issue, however, is not how much or how willingly these citizens put up their money. The question is this. Here was a question possibly involving, either an accidental death or a condemnable murder. A witness subpoenaed in all good faith by the coroner is brought here presumably to give evidence of a kind affecting the whole jurisprudence of the province. To give evidence in a case affecting the sanctity of human life, a case affecting a ward of the Dominion, protected by law, still forbidden to participate in the right (?) to use strong liquors, that supposed to have used the all-at fire water. To give evidence to support the Crown prosecutor's effort to protect society. This witness brought by the Crown from a considerable distance had the option to come here at his own considerable expense or await the arrival of a county constable who would bring him "nolens volens" under arrest to give evidence. On his arrival and after giving evidence under oath, and presumably truthful, the stranger finds himself in a strange city out of pocket and with no redress. Of course where to obtain the money is his actual spent to aid in the administration of justice.

It may seem an easy solution, in such a case, that a good hearted coroner, county attorney or constable will condone the seeming injustice of the law by contributing private funds to repay the witness' expenses. This, however, is probably an exceptional combination of kindred cases. Why should the Crown look to private citizens, as it was in such position they contributed to pay crown witnesses. The amount severally contributed was comparatively trifling, but a great principle was involved.

Bowling Alley Will Pay License

It seems that Chief Rozell is on the war path after the proprietor of the new bowling alley, recently opened as the former Bradburn Opera House. Mr. Hay, the proprietor himself, an old newspaper sporting editor, and acquainted with every detail of sports as they should be reported, obtained a provincial charter to operate this most recent addition to Peterborough's popular places of amusement. This charter, it is claimed, really places the bowling alley referred to under the category of "clubs," and thus exempt from local license taxation. However, Mr. Hay, having in mind the fines and after-thoughts of his customers, we understand, has decided to submit to the "powers that be," and will pay the $50 per annum demanded, sooner than allow the patrons of the place to be subpoenaed as witnesses. The payment of this license involves more than the $50 per year asked, but Mr. Hay is determined to save his patrons from any and all future possible annoyance from pervasive troubles, whether it costs money or not.

Province to Appeal for Change in the B.N.A. Act

Toronto, March 30. — A resolution introduced into the Legislature this afternoon by Premier Whitney, hints at an appeal to the Imperial Government for amendments to the B. N. A. Act to safeguard Provincial rights from Federal encroachment. The House will be asked to concur in the resolution to-morrow, and in the meantime it will be considered by the leader of the opposition. The resolution arises from the bill introduced in the Senate to incorporate the Ontario and Michigan Power Co., a concern which seeks wide privileges in New Ontario, and which the bill declares to be for the general advantage of Canada. Mr. Whitney said that this bill "probably reaches out to grasp control by parliament of every imaginable form of enterprise in which any citizen may purpose to enter."

The resolution goes on to say that the House views with alarm the repeated encroachment of parliament upon territorial rights, and declares that this is contrary to the spirit if not to the letter of the British North America Act. It further declares that there has been an unwarrantable and illegal interference with the territorial sovereignty of the province.

If the House passes the resolution it will object in blanket form to reported encroachments by the Dominion as well as to the one of which specific complaint is made.

Coroner's Inquest on Body of Howard Concluded Yesterday

Yesterday morning the Coroner's Jury, summoned by Dr. Gray on March 23rd, to enquire into the cause of the death of the young Hiawatha Indian, Benjamin Howard, met in adjourned session in the Council Chamber.

The first witnesses heard were Doctors Cameron and Young. Dr. Cameron, assisted by Dr. Young, who made the post-mortem examination, then read the report of the post-mortem.

Joseph Snyder, employed by the G. T. R. testified to having heard that a man had been killed near Downer's Corners. He went with three others to the spot and brought the body to the city on a hand car.

Several Hiawatha Indians testified to having seen Howard in the city on Saturday, March 21st. They all swore that they did not see him drink, nor did they drink themselves, although in several bars with Howard.

Michael Crowley, of Otonabee, testified that he first saw Howard that Saturday night on his sleigh at Downer's Corners. It was dark and he did not know whether he had an Indian on his sleigh nor whether Howard was drunk. Witness went into a store at the Corners and did not see Howard again. A man named Harris told him he had advised Howard not to walk down the railway track. The jury then went into executive session and considered the evidence. After deliberating for about an hour they rendered a verdict that the late Benjamin Howard came to his death by accident, to wit, by having been run over near Downer's Corners by a Grand Trunk Railway train.

The coroner then dismissed the jury.

Witness from Oshawa Sent Bowin a Bible at Percy's Own Request

Tried to Break Him from His Evil Associations in Detroit

Why She Left Bowin

Detroit, Mich., March 28.—Miss Alice Smith, the sweetheart of Percy Bowin, whose character is spotless after the closest investigation, was an interesting witness for the prosecution Saturday afternoon. Under her protracted examination, Miss Smith was much affected, and when she left the stand she could hardly stand. Sustaining herself from falling by a severe effort, she kept herself in control until she could lean upon her brother's arm until she was outside the court room. Then she broke down, and in the clerk's private office she wept and sobbed as if her heart would break.

Miss Smith is an attractive young woman, who became acquainted with Bowin last summer in Oshawa, Ont. He kept company with her there, she testified, and when she came to Detroit a few weeks later she asked him to come also. He did so later, and in Detroit he continued his attentions to her. Finally she learned of his association with the girls in Mrs. Welch's place and told him he would have to end his relations with those women or end their acquaintance. He did not stop, and when next he called she declined to see him.

"Mrs. Welch offers to keep me and support me if I'll be her beau," Bowin told the girl. He told her he was receiving money from different women in the tenderloin district. When Bowin was arrested in Woodville, Ontario, and brought back to Detroit, Miss Smith called twice at police headquarters and talked with him. He told her he did not kill Mrs. Welch, and asked for a Bible, which she sent him. Later he asked her to write his parents and have them move to Detroit.

"Detective Chief McDonnell tells me if my people are citizens of the United States and I confess, I can be pardoned in five years," he told her. The next day his confession was made public. This confession he now repudiates.

Miss Smith produced a letter she received from Bowin Jan. 5, just after the murder, in which he states that he is down and out, penniless, and begs her to send him some money.

Georgia Riley said she knew Bowin and that he came to her the night of the murder.

"I'm going away with a lady who has money," he told her.

The Best Home Remedy for Rheumatism

Very Fine Prescription for Kidney Trouble, Anyone Can Prepare

A large New York health publication tells its readers of a number of simple and safe prescriptions that can be made at home. The following, however, for the cure of rheumatism and kidney and bladder troubles receives the greatest praise, viz., Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. These simple, harmless ingredients can be obtained at any good prescription pharmacy at little cost and mixed by shaking well in a bottle.

The dose for adults is a teaspoonful after each meal and at bedtime, drinking a full tumblerful of water after each dose. It is further stated that this prescription is a positive remedy for kidney trouble and lame back, weak bladder and urinary difficulties, especially of the elderly people and one of the best remedies to be used to rheumatic afflictions, relieving the aches and pains and reducing swellings.

A well-known local druggist states that this mixture acts directly upon the eliminative tissues of the kidneys; cleanses these spongelike organs and gives them power to sift and strain the poisonous waste matter and uric acid from the blood which is the cause of rheumatism.

Cut this out and hand to some sufferer which would certainly be an act of humanity.

Pope's Dress Costs $50,000 Per Year

Rome, March 30. — It is not generally known that the Pope, modest and unassuming as he is, is obliged to spend one quarter of a million francs (or $50,000) per year for dress, and that the material and character of his official garments, moreover, compel him to employ a small army of seamstresses, lacemakers, etc.

From time immemorial the official wardrobe of the Popes has been manufactured in a building near the Vatican palace under the eyes of a papal Chamberlain who looks after the precious stones and gold and silver ornaments used on the Pontifical robes. There is a male head tailor, but the sewing and embroidering is done exclusively by women and girls.

As the Pontiff wears only white garments, constant renewal of his everyday wardrobe is a matter of necessity. Pope Pius, who hates extravagance, tries to mend things by wearing black alpaca sleeve protectors — an innovation that fills Vatican Gold Sticks with horror—yet he ruins many a white gown by ink spots or other stains.

The Pope's state robes and those he wears for priestly functions are festooned with furs, laces, pearls, diamonds, and other precious stones, the arrangement of which demands an artistic eye and numerous well directed needles.

The Chamberlain having charge of the gold and silver ornaments and the jewels sees to it that they are accounted for minutely every time a garment is delivered to the palace or returned for alterations. The chief seamstress is the accountant for the laces and furs.

Catholic princesses and others take care that the Pope never wants for laces and furs for his garments; such are received periodically from royal ladies all over the world.

Doctors Testify as to Could Girl's Death--Saunders will be Free

Preliminary Investigation of Charge Against Dr. Fletcher

A Good Reputation

Toronto, March 30.—The preliminary investigation into the charges against Dr. Ashton Fletcher and Harry Saunders was proceeded with in the police court this morning.

Dr. J. Hardy Told stated that he had been summoned by Dr. Ashton Fletcher over the 'phone to administer an anaesthetic to the late Ellen Gould for the purpose of performing a necessary operation. After the operation had been performed the patient became worse, and Dr. Fletcher thought it advisable to send her to the hospital. On Tuesday night the girl died.

Dr. Fletcher suggested an autopsy, but this could not be obtained," said Dr. Todd.

"What did you think the cause of death?" asked Crown Attorney Corley.

"I did not diagnose the case on examining the patient, but I thought it would probably be peritonitis and septicaemia. Dr. Fletcher asked me if it would be all right to put the cause of death down as a ruptured pustule and peritonitis. I told him that I did not know, as I had nothing to do with the case.

"Dr. Fletcher has always had the best reputation so far as I know," said Dr. Todd, who further stated that the given cause of death did not appear unreasonable from his own knowledge of the case.

"I suppose we can say that the necessary operation was splendidly successful, but the girl died!" was Crown Attorney Corley's observation.

Dr. Silverthorn was called and he stated that, having performed the post-mortem examination he arrived at the conclusion that death was caused by blood poisoning. He stated that in examining the parts of the body which were to all appearances the basis of the infection.

The Crown Attorney announced that the charge against Harry Saunders would be withdrawn, and that he would be discharged.

"She told me of her trouble, and I advised her to allow it to take its course. I was engaged to be married to her in June. She said that something would have to be done. I saw Dr. Fletcher and he told me that $50 was generally charged in cases of that kind. He mentioned that $20 and $30 was sometimes paid, depending on the nature of the case. I met the doctor at my uncle's place. It was agreed that we should go and see him on Sunday afternoon. When we got there she went upstairs, and I went into the parlor. She was upstairs from one-half to three-quarters of an hour. When she came down she was looking pale, and I asked her what the matter was. The doctor replied that she was just a little nervous, and that she would be all right in a day or two.

"I went home with her, and we played cards for a little while. Then she went to her own room, and about 12 o'clock she became very ill. On Monday her condition grew serious, and Dr. Fletcher thought it advisable to have a nurse. After an operation which was thought necessary on Tuesday morning she became better. During the day, however, it was considered advisable to have her removed to the hospital, and that night she died.

"Dr. Fletcher told me afterwards what had caused death. I thought he was pneumonia, but I mistook the word for peritonitis."

To Mr. Curry the witness stated that he never made any arrangement to pay Dr. Fletcher anything.

"When we went to his place I did not think that it was for the purpose of having an operation performed, but simply to ascertain whether she was ill," said the witness, although he further pointed out that in his interview with Dr. Fletcher prices charged for having such an operation performed were discussed.

Strathconas Banqueted and Hon. J.R. Stratton Presents Trophy

"For it's always fair weather when good fellows get together." Such was the opening of the one hundred guests who attended the banquet tendered to the champion Strathconas by the Peterborough City Hockey League at Hooper's gentlemen's cafe last night. The tables were all tastefully decorated with red and white ribbon, the Strathcona colors. In the centre of the head table rested the Examiner trophy, emblematic of the hockey championship, and on each of the two other tables hockey sticked draped in red and white ribbon, made a fitting centrepiece. The Strathcona's club members were all seated at one table and the representatives of the other city team occupied the chairs at the other. At nine o'clock Chairman Clark gave the word, and the guests sat down to the sumptuous repast provided by Mr. Welsh.

While justice was being done to the good things, music was provided by the Mandolin Club, which was a feature of the evening.

After the last course had been removed and cigars lighted, Mr. F. A. Clarke requested the guests to drink to the health of the greatest living monarch, King Edward, the Seventh. The "Strathconas" were the next on the toast list, and the Hon. J. R. Stratton rose, and in a few words formally presented the Examiner cup to the Strathconas, who have won the trophy for the second time. In his presentation address Mr. Stratton said: Mr. Chairman and gentlemen, I take great pleasure in presenting to the Strathconas the Examiner trophy, emblematic of the city hockey championship. I think you will all agree with me when I say that they rightly deserve the honor of being city champions, as they were undoubtedly the best club in the league. Strathcona have now won the cup twice, and a third time would give them possession of the trophy for keeps, and for the sake of competition I sincerely hope that next year some other club, Bridgenorth, for instance, will be returned the winner. It is not the value of the trophy so much, but for the sake of furthering the sporting interest that you are playing for, and I heartily wish the Strathconas and the city league every success for the future, and now, gentlemen, drink to the health of the Strathconas, for they are jolly good fellows.

In response to this toast, W. J. Mitchell, manager of the Strathconas, rose, and in a few words thanked the officers and executive of the P.C.H.L. on behalf of his club for the royal way in which the league had treated them. The success of the league, Mr. Mitchell said was due to Mr. Stratton's good sportsmanship in donating the trophy for competition among the clubs.

The toast to the Sister Clubs was proposed by Mr. Clarke and responded to by Mr. Rose of the High LifeClubs, Mr. Quinn of Lakefield, Mr. Kelly of Bridgenorth, and Mr. Doherty of Norwood.

The toast to "Kindred Sports" was proposed by Mr. Chris Graham and responded to by Mr. Watson and Mr. McWilliams. Mr. Chris Graham proposed the health of the Hon. J. R. Stratton, the best sport in Peterborough. After his health had been drank, Mr. Stratton fittingly replied.

Mr. George Lynch proposed the health of Mr. Clarke, the president of the league, who in replying said that the league had been a great success, both financially and from a sporting standpoint.

The toast to the "Ladies," proposed by Mr. Jas. Lewis, was responded to by Mr. Fred Craig of the Examiner staff.

During the evening a number of vocal solos were rendered by Messrs. Jas. Browne, M. Johnston and W. McIlroy, and Mr. George Lynch told a number of funny stories, while the Mandolin Club provided the instrumental part of the entertainment. The evening closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

What a Stout Woman Should Wear

"It is a mistake for a fat woman to wear long, loose, sweeping lines. She should wear fitted or semi-fitted clothes, and choose dark materials," said a prominent dressmaker, notable for making "good figures" of stout women. "My success in making stout women appear thin, however, is due, in reality to the fact that I can make them thinner if they will take my advice. I advise all the stout ones to go to their druggist, get 1-2 ounce of Marmola, 3-4 ounce of Fluid Extract Cascara Aromatic, and 4 3-4 ounces of Syrup Simplex. These ingredients are mixed together at home and taken in teaspoonful to a dose after meals and at bedtime."

"All three are simple, wholesome remedies that cannot do harm to anyone. They even help to improve the health, while they way they reduce fat is truly astonishing. I have known a woman to lose over thirty pounds between visits to me. It takes the fat off symmetrically, too, without causing wrinkles, does not interfere with the diet in any way, and does not require a whole lot of fatiguing exercise to show results. I wonder more dressmakers do not try this plan of mine, for the ingredients are cheap, easily secured, and pleasant to take, and, as I said, really improve one's health and appearance."

Heroic Rescuers Lost Lives in Mine Explosion

Cheyenne, Wyo., March 30. — Between sixty-five and seventy miners, it developed yesterday, lost their lives in explosions late Saturday night in coal mine No. 1 of the Union Pacific Coal Company at Hanna. The explosions were caused by gases and coal dust, and each was followed by fire.

The first explosion occurred at 8 o'clock in the afternoon, killing eighteen miners, including a superintendent and three bosses. The second explosion occurred at 10.30 o'clock, snuffing out the lives of from forty to fifty rescuers, including State Inspector D. M. Ellis. The names of the men killed in the first explosion are shown on the company's books, but those of the rescuers are not known, as no record was kept of those who volunteered for this dangerous work.

The wildest excitement prevailed in Hanna and at the mine, where hundreds of persons congregated, including widows, children and other relatives of the victims. Men and women ran about wringing their hands, and crying, while many little children, separated from their mothers, sobbed with fear.

"Heavy work, severe straining and evil habits in youth brought on a double varicocele. When I worked hard the aching would become severe and I was often laid up for a week at a time. My family physician told me an operation was my only hope—but I dreaded it. I tried several specialists, but soon found out all they wanted was my money. I commenced to look upon all doctors as little better than rogues. One day my boss asked me why I was off work so much and I told him my condition. He advised me to consult Drs. Kennedy & Kennedy, as he had taken treatment from them himself and knew they were square and skilful. I wrote them and got THE NEW METHOD Treatment. My progress was somewhat slow and during the first month's treatment I was somewhat discouraged. However, I continued treatment for three months longer and was rewarded with a complete cure. I could only earn $18 a week in a machine shop before treatment, now I am earning $36 and never lose a day. I wish all sufferers knew of your valuable treatment.

That peculiar weakness so common in the spring, is demoralizing to body and mind alike.

Stupid, absent-minded and dull, you feel the need of a stimulating tonic.

To impart quickness and great vitality to the entire system nothing acts like Ferrozone.

In a short time it makes you feel fit and fine, creates a feeling of youth and strength that's surprising.

Ferrozone revives and braces the sick by because it nourishes and builds up the organs that are weak. As a spring tonic appetizer and blood strengthener it is unequalled.

A well known resident of Utopia, Ont., Mr. H. H. Postle, writes: "From long experience I am convinced that everyone requires medicine in the spring. As a rule the blood is thin and impure and the whole system is congested with poisons that should be carried off. I use Ferrozone because it clears up the system, gives you an appetite and makes you feel well. One winter I had serious palpitation of the heart, nervous headaches, and an extreme tired feeling. Sleep was not restful and by spring I was in bad shape. I took six boxes of Ferrozone and was made the picture of health."

SECESSIONISTS ANSWERED

About a year ago the surface of public affairs in Ontario was at least slightly ruffled by a breeze of secession from the northern and western portions of the Province which the people there love to call New Ontario. Numerous and varied arguments were presented in favor of the creation of a separate province out of those districts, but on the whole these arguments were based on the common ground of complaint that the voice of New Ontario was not sufficiently strong in the Legislature and that therefore her interests were not safeguarded and her development hampered thereby.

As a secession movement this agitation was not taken seriously, says the Montreal Star, for thoughtful men saw the folly of burdening the people of those sparsely settled districts with the maintenance of the expensive machinery of provincial government, realizing also that there existed in the Government and Legislature of Ontario, the power to redress all well founded grievances. Still the agitation served its purpose, for it brought forcibly to the attention of the whole province New Ontario's demands, and contributed largely to the redress which, in many ways, has since been granted and which is now being completed by means of Mr. Whitney's redistribution bill.

Heretofore that part of New Ontario lying between the western boundary of Quebec and the eastern boundary of Manitoba was divided into seven provincial constituencies. According to the proposed re-arrangement there are to be eleven constituencies, a gain of four seats in the Legislature. Hereafter New Ontario will be stronger when the division bell rings in the Ontario Assembly.

Two of the new constituencies have been carved out of the old district of Nipissing and each is the seat of great mineral wealth and stands for conspicuous phases of New Ontario life. One to be known as Temiskaming, bordered on the east by the lake of that name, will contain the rich silver district of Cobalt, and the other to the west, known as Sudbury, will have within its limits the principal nickel deposits on this continent and one of the largest nickel mines and smelting plants in the world. The new constituencies are also to be created in the country west of Port Arthur.

The eleven members to be returned to the next House of Assembly from this part of Ontario should be able to represent pretty effectively the mining and lumber interests of the newer portion of the province. Secession is dead but New Ontario is stronger publicly than ever.

Sulphur and Silver.

When one takes sulphur internally it causes a gas, called sulphureted hydrogen, to be given off by the skin. This blackens silver, hence when taking sulphur it is wise not to wear silver trinkets.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

NOW LISTEN!

Please read carefully what follows, and if you decide to take advantage of what the "Canada Southern Oil & Gas Co, Limited," of Tilbury, Ont. (no personal liability), is now offering you, the result will be that instead of getting 3 per cent. for your savings, you will get at least from 10 to 25 per cent. that others are harvesting.

Your savings will be eight times more than the original amount by the mere fact of the higher rate of interest you will get.

Remember that this is no wildcat scheme, as you can see by the facts hereinafter mentioned.

Dr. Bell, the famous Canadian geologist, early in 1878 reported that there was an oil and gas field in the Townships of Tilbury and Romney, County of Kent, Ont. "As soon as the discovery of the oil was made in Tilbury in 1956 our American neighbors, who are experts in good things, did not hesitate to invest hundreds of thousands of dollars, and now, in fact, control the two thirds interest in our oil field of Tilbury; and this happened because we Canadians hesitated to invest a few thousand dollars in the exploration of the oil mines of Tilbury, which already give a monthly production valued at $75,000, without adding the revenue derived from the gas.

We have said that this is not a wildcat scheme, because the "Canadian Southern Oil & Gas Co., Limited," has secured an option at a very moderate price on properties situated in the oil and gas field of Tilbury, upon which three successful tests have been made, being Lot No. 12, M R N., Tilbury East, 200 acres, indicated with a cross upon the map of the field

Three wells only have been drilled at an average depth of 1,600 feet.

The first one proves to be a rich gas well, the two others are good oil wells, combined with a strong production of gas.

The Company has also secured the franchises for the distribution and sale of natural gas into the Townships of Romney, Tilbury East, North and West and also into the thriving villages of Comber and Stoney Point.

The gas well is properly equipped and already is supplying the motor power to the Romney oil field and is getting one-third of the gross revenue of the gas sold.

The oil wells are completely equipped with one 16 h. p. gas engine, derrick, tanks, boiler, pumps, tubing, pipe-line, jerk-line, jack, etc., and are producing daily. The oil is sold to The Imperial Oil Company, Sarnia, and is delivered at the tanks and shipped through its pipe-line to Pere Marquette R. R. Station at Merlin, a distance of 3 miles.

Our properties are already giving daily a net revenue of about $35.00—that is to say, more than 10 per cent. of the whole capital stock of the Company.

This revenue may be made four times greater by the drilling of other wells and the construction of the gas-line to Comber and Stoney Point.

Fritz Cirkel, Esq., of Montreal, consulting mining engineer and mineralogist to the Dominion Government, who lately made an inspection of the said property, concluded his report as follows:

"In summarizing the actual results already obtained from the operation of the Sloan wells the writer is forced to the conclusion that the property under consideration is a very valuable one. Located as it is in the western extremity of the producing Tilbury oil field, in close proximity to wells which produce from 40 to 50 barrels of oil (and even more) per day of 24 hours (I refer to the Ferguson, Campbell and Cooper properties, located about 2,000 feet distant to the north, see plan attached hereto), it bids fair to become a producer of oil and natural gas of no small measure.

The Tilbury field has already the reputation of being a large producer and powerful companies have entered the district with a view of securing properties of known and established value.

There is one factor to which I would like to draw your special attention and that is the future of natural gas. To-day, the market in that part of the country, for this commodity is not sufficiently large to dispose of all the gas the wells can produce but there is no question that in the near future factories will be established on central points, which will eventually consume for various purposes, especially for power, all the gas which can be produced in the field.

Besides this there are quite a number of towns and villages in the western part of the Niagara Peninsula, which may use the gas for heating, lighting, and also for power purposes and it is only a question of time when this will be realised.

The economy of the application of natural gas to power purposes is already evidenced all through the field, as coal or any other power cannot be regularly obtained, and that at high figures. Having therefore, a powerful gas well on the (Sloan) property, it is evident that a great saving is effected from this source alone; for instance, for the operation of ten oil wells, the cost of power required per day would amount to between twenty and twenty-five dollars, which, in 308 working days per year, would represent a saving of from six thousand to seven thousand five hundred dollars.

In conclusion, I may say that this property, with proper and economic management, can be made highly remunerative; I entertain, no doubt, that if properly developed, it will show similar results as those of so many other locations in the vicinity, whose developments have of so many other locations in the vicinity, whose developments have been so vigorously pushed in the past.

Respectfully submitted,
(Signed) FRITZ CIRKEL.

precious stone in no time. ...I he sat drinking with me, and every now and then got out of the room, when he'd stop away for perhaps a quarter of an hour at the time."

"Did he mention the opal brooch again?"

"No," said Jessop, after reflection, "he didn't. But he got so drunk that he began to show fight, as he always did when beosy, though a timid chap when sober. I concluded, wishing no sow, to git to my hammock, and cut upstairs. Then I went by mistake into the room of that pore lady, carrying a candle, and saw her tied to the bed-post stone dead, with a silk handkerchief round her neck. I shouted out blue murder, and Mrs. Krill, with the kid, came tumbling down. I was so feared," added Jessop, wiping his forehead at the recollection, "that I ran out of doors."

"What good would that do?"

"Lor', I dunno," confessed the man, shivering, "but I wos skeered out of my life. It wos rainin' pitchforks, as y'might say, and I raced on through the rain for an hour or so. Then I thought, as I wos innocent, I'd make tracks back, and I did. I found Krill had cut."

"Did his wife tell you?"

"Oh, she wos lying on the floor insensible where he'd knocked her down. And the kid—Lor'," Jessop spat, "she was lying in the corner with her lips fastened together with the brooch."

"What?" cried Hurd, starting to his feet. "The same as her—the same as Norman's was?"

Jessop nodded and drank some rum. "Made me sick, it did. I took the brooch away and slipped it into my pocket. Then the kid said her father had fastened her lips together and had knocked her mother flat when she interfered. I brought Mrs. Krill round and then left her with the kid, and walked off to Southampton. The police found me there, and I told them what I tell you."

"Did you tell about the brooch?"

"Well, no, I didn't," confessed Jessop coolly, "and as the kid and the mother said nothing, I didn't see why I shouldn't keep it, wantin' money. So I went to Stowley and pawned it; then took a deep sea voyage for a year. When I come back, all was over."

"Do you think Krill murdered the woman?" asked Hurd, passing over for the moment the fact that Jessop had stolen the brooch.

"He said he didn't," rejoined the man with emphasis, "but I truly believe, mister, as he did, one of them times when mad with drink and out of the room. He wanted the brooch, d'ye see, though why he should have lost the loot by sealin' the kid's mouth with it I can't say."

"When did you come across Krill again?"

"Ho," said Jessop, drawing his hand across his mouth, "'twas this way, d'ye see. I came round here lots, and a swell come, too, a cold"—

"Grexon Hay," said Hurd, pointing to the photograph.

"Yes, that's him," said Jessop, starting, "and I hated him just, with his eyeglasses and his sneerin' ways. He loved the kid, now a growed, fine gal, as you know, and come here often. In June—at the end of it anyhow—he comes and I hears him tells Mrs. Krill, who was always looking for her husband, that a one eyed bookseller in Gwynne street, Drury lane, had fainted when he saw the very identical brooch showed him by another cove."

"Beecot. I know. Didn't you wonder how the brooch had left the pawnshop?" asked Hurd, very attentive.

"No, I didn't," snarled Jessop, who was growing cross. "I knew old Tinker's assistant had sold the brooch and he didn't oughter t' have done it, as I wanted it back. Mrs. Krill asked me about the brooch and wanted it, so I said I'd get it back. Tinker said it was gone, but wrote to the gent as bought it."

"Mr. Simon Beecot of Wargrove, in Essex."

"That wos him; but the gent wouldn't give it back, so I s'pose he'd given it to his son. Well, then, when Mrs. Krill heard of the one eyed man fainting at the sight of the brooch she knew 'twas her husband, as he'd one eye, she having knocked the other out when he was sober."

"Did she go up and see him?"

"Well," said Jessop slowly, "I don't rightly know what she did do, but she went up. I don't think she saw Krill at his shop, but she might have seen that Pash, who was Mr. Hay's lawyer, and a dirty little ape o' sorts he is."

"Ha," said Hurd to himself, "I thought Pash knew about the women beforehand. No wonder he stuck to them and gave poor Miss Norman the go-by." He rubbed his hands and chuckled. "Well, we'll see what will come of the matter. Go on, Jessop."

"There ain't much more to tell," grumbled the captain. "I heard of this, and I wasn't meant to hear. But I thought I'd go up and see if I could get money out of Krill by saying I'd tell about the murder of Lady Rachel."

"You are a scoundrel," said Hurd quietly.

"I was 'ard up," apologized the captain, "or I wouldn't, not me. I'm straight enough when in cash. So I went up in July."

"On the 6th of July?"

"If that was the day of the murder, yes. I went up and loafed round until it was dark and then slipped through that side passage at 8 o'clock to see Krill."

"How did you know where to find him?"

"Why, that Hay knew about the chap and said as he did business in a cellar after 8. So Krill let me in, thinking, I s'pose, I was a customer. He'd been drinking a little and was bold enough. But when I said as I'd say he'd killed Lady Rachel he swore he was an innocent babe-and-suckl, the drink dyin' out of him."

"The same as it died out of you lately," said Hurd, smiling.

"Go slow," grunted the captain in a surly tone. "I ain't afraid now, as I ain't done nothing. I said to Krill I'd say nothing if he'd give me money. He wouldn't, but said he'd placed a lot of pawned things with Pash, and I could have them. He then gave me a paper saying I was to have the things, and I went to Pash the next morning and had trouble. But I beat by chance," again Jessop cast a strange look at Hurd, "that Krill had been murdered, so I didn't wait for the lawyer to come back, but cut down to Southampton and went on a short voyage. Then I come here, and you nabbed me," and Jessop finished his rum. "That's all I know."

"Do you swear you left Aaron Norman alive?"

"Meaning Krill? I do. He wasn't no use to me dead, and I made him give me the jewels Pash had, d'ye see."

"But who warned you of the death when you were waiting?"

Jessop seemed unwilling to speak, but when pressed burst out, "'Twas a measly little kid with ragged clothes and a dirty face."

"Tray," said Hurd. "Hum! I wonder how he knew of the murder before it got into the papers?"

CHAPTER XXI.

HURD'S sister was a clever young woman who in her time had played many parts. She began her career along with Hurd as a private detective, but when her brother joined the official service Miss Hurd thought she would better her position by appearing on the stage and therefore took the rather queer name of Aurora Qian. In her detective capacity she had often disguised herself when employed in obtaining evidence and was remarkably talented in changing her face and figure. This art she used with great success in her new profession and speedily made her mark as an impersonator of various characters out of novels. As Becky Sharp, as Little Dorrit, she was said to be inimitable, and after playing under several managements she started, in the phrase of the profession, "a show of her own" and rapidly made money.

But her great faults, among others, were vanity and extravagance, so she was always in need of money, and when chance offered, through her brother, to make why she was not averse to returning to the spy business. Thus it came about that she watched Mr. Grexon Hay for many a long day and night, and he never suspected the pretty, fluffy, kittenish Miss Qian was in reality an emissary of the law. Consequently when Aurora asked him to a card party at her rooms Hay accepted readily enough, although he was not in need of money at the ——

The property is situated at Mancos, Colo., and consists of 160 acres, fully paid for. The Company expects to secure at least 400 acres or more, we are negotiating for it now and the terms are satisfactory and there is coal on the same, and they also intend to secure some Coal Mines ot which they have the refusal. Some of che best coal mines in Colorado are in this district, as well as some of the richert gold and silver mines. In fact this is one of the richest parts for mineral in the State of Colorado, and the Company has the refusal to several prospects on reasonable and easy terms.

In our opinion the prospects of the Company are very bright, and a rapid advance in the price of the stock is sure to take place in the near future. Full in information can be had by calling at our office.

Weak Women

To weak and ailing women, there is at least one way to help. But with that way, two treatments must be combined. One is local, one is constitutional, but both are important, both essential. Dr. Shoop's Night Cure is the Local. Dr. Shoop's Restorative, the Constitutional. The former—Dr. Shoop's Night Cure—is a topical mucous membrane suppository remedy, while Dr. Shoop's Restorative is wholly an internal treatment. The Restorative reaches throughout the entire system, seeking the repair of all nerve, all tissue, and all blood ailments. The "Night Cure", as its name implies, does its work while you sleep. It soothes sore and inflamed mucous surfaces, heals local weaknesses and discharges, while the Restorative, eases nervous excitement, gives renewed vigor and ambition, builds up wasted tissues, bringing about renewed strength, vigor, and energy. Take Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—as a general tonic to the system. For positive local help, use as well

CITY AND COUNTY NEWS

DASHES HERE AND THERE BY TIMES REPORTERS.

Local Men Pass Examinations

Out of ten candidates who tried the Master-and-Mates examinations in Toronto, yesterday, the only two who were successful in obtaining certificates were Mr. Samuel Pearson of this city, and Mr. Chas. Grey, of Lakefield.

Erected a Fine Illuminated Sign

The Bell Telephone Co., with their proverbial enterprise, yesterday morning erected a very handsome illuminated sign in their new premises on Hunter street. The sign is fifteen feet high and made of blue glass. A large blue glass bell is attached to the top of the sign. The electric lights have been installed inside, and the sign will present a pretty appearance at night.

Wedding Bells

A quiet wedding was solemnized yesterday afternoon at the home of Mr. William Gray, Harvey street, when his daughter, Miss Irene, became the bride of Mr. Fred Preston, formerly of Bethany, and now a dentist student, Toronto. The ceremony was performed by Rev. E. A. Pearson, and the bride and groom were unattended.

Local Citizen Had Rough Trip

A gentleman well known here, Mr. T. P. Bayliss, who has been in England for the past two months, has arrived home. Mr. Bayliss sailed on the Empress of India," which arrived at Halifax on Friday after the worst trip of her career. The heavy seas gave the ship a severe shaking, and she will require several repairs before the return voyage is made.

Tickling or dry coughs will quickly loosen when using Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. And it is so thoroughly harmless that Dr. Shoop tells mothers to use nothing else, even for very young babies. The wholesome green leaves and tender stems of a lung healing mountainous shrub give the curative properties to Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. It calms the cough and heals the sensitive bronchial membranes. No opium, no chloroform, nothing harsh used to injure or suppress. Demand Dr. Shoop's. Take no other. All dealers.

Another Drowning Canard

It seems that another rumor of weight, but resting on doubtful foundation, was circulated throughout the city yesterday morning. Now a Times representative spent several hours enquiring into the alleged death by drowning in Chemong Lake of W. Taylor, who was said, with his team and rig to have broken through the treacherous ice of Chemong Lake and to have been drowned. Now The Times got busy with the 'phone to the points west of here, but could get no corroboration of this report of Mr. Taylor's demise.

Parties who start such rumors without a solid, even though regretted, basis, should get a long sentence behind the thickest and least breakable bars.

Market Clerk McIlmoyle Leaves

Mr. W. McIlmoyl, the market clerk, whose term of office expires to-night, and who will be succeeded to-morrow by ex-Sanitary Inspector George Ball, leaves this morning for Chicago, where he will remain until next fall. Mr. McIlmoyle seems to say that the market fees of last year, owing to lack of business and also to the contre-temps concerning the baking of several ladies and county farmers before the police magistrate for selling light weights pots of butter, left him nothing of any account during the year to live on. The market tolls will this year be collected by Mr. Ball, who will be paid on the salary basis.

What Do They Cure?

The above question is often asked concerning Dr. Pierce's two leading medicines, "Golden Medical Discovery" and "Favorite Prescription."

The answer is that "Golden Medical Discovery" is a most potent alterative or blood-purifier, and tonic or invigorator and acts especially favorably in a curative way upon all the mucous lining surfaces, as of the nasal passages, throat, bronchial tubes, stomach, bowels and bladder, curing a large per cent. of catarrhal cases whether the disease affects the nasal passages, the throat, larynx, bronchia, stomach (as catarrhal dyspepsia), bowels (as mucous colitis), bladder, uterus or other pelvic organs. Even in the chronic or ulcerative stages of these affections, it is often successful in affecting cures.

"Favorite Prescription" is advised for the more purely debilitated, feeble and exhausted conditions, and for the many "female weaknesses," displacements and irregularities so prevalent in women. It is a powerful yet gently acting invigorating tonic and nervine. For weak, worn-out, over-worked women—no matter what has caused the break-down, "Favorite Prescription" will be found most effective in building up the strength, regulating the womanly functions, subduing pain and bringing about a healthy, vigorous condition of the whole system.

A book of particulars wraps each bottle giving the formulas of both medicines and quoting what scores of eminent medical authors, whose works are consulted by physicians of all the schools of practice as guides in prescribing, say of each ingredient entering into these medicines.

The words of praise bestowed on the several ingredients entering into Doctor Pierce's medicines by such writers should have more weight than any amount of non-professional testimonials, because such men are writing for the guidance of their medical brethren and know whereof they speak.

Both medicines are non-alcoholic, non-secret, and contain no habit-forming drugs, being composed of glycerine extracts of the roots of native, American medicinal forest plants. They are both sold by dealers in medicine. You can't afford to accept as a substitute for one of these medicines of known composition, any secret nostrum.

Dr. Pierce's Pellets, small, sugar-coated, easy to take as candy, regulate and invigorate stomach, liver, and bowels.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTHWEST HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an Agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans.

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of a homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father or mother.

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the agent for the district of such intention.

MAGISTRATE DENISON COMMITS DR. ASHTON FLETCHER FOR TRIAL

Says Case Against Him is Weak, but Doesn't Want to take Responsibility-- Out on $2.000 Bail

Toronto, March 31.—"I will commit you for trial."

Dr. Ashton Fletcher, charged with the murder of Jessie Ellen Gould, through an operation, heard these words from Magistrate Denison in the Police Court this morning at the close of the investigation.

But the next words lightened the serious nature of his position.

"I may say," continued the magistrate, "that the case is not very strong.

"If I were trying the case myself I would know what to do, but, as it is, I will not take the responsibility.

"The chance are that it will not go farther than the grand jury."

Mr. J. W. Curry at once made a plea for the release of his client, based on the magistrate's words.

The magistrate—"I think there is enough to place him on his trial."

Mr. Curry—"You should not do that if there is not enough to warrant a jury in convicting him. If the Crown secures more testimony it may lay a further charge at any time. It should not be placed under the odium of being sent for trial unless ——"

The magistrate started to speak.

Mr. Curry—"Pardon me, don't interrupt. You said, your honor, that the grand jury would not let it go farther."

The Magistrate — "They might; I can't say. But I have no objection to say that I willl recommend that bail be given."

Mr. Curry—"I ask that under the special circumstances and the financial condition of my client ——"

Mr. Corley—"The Crown Attorney will not be hard."

Mr. Cartwright was then telephoned to by Mr. Corley to see if he would consent to bail.

Dr. Fletcher was released on $2,000 bail, the surety of Mr. Lawrence Cosgrave.

THE UNDERTAKER'S STORY.

Mr. Alexander W. Miles, the undertaker, who took care of the body, was called to the witness box by Mr. Corley in spite of the objections of Mr. J. Walter Curry, who appeared for Dr. Fletcher.

Mr. Miles stated that as a result of a telephone message from Harry Saunders he had taken the sick girl from 78 Shuter street to the Western Hospital. Saunders accompanied the girl in the ambulance to the hospital, where he gave her name and address. Mr. Miles later received a telephone message from the hospital authorities, asking him to find out where the dead girl's relatives were, and to notify them of her death. He removed the body to his undertaking establishment on College street, at the instruction of the girl's father. Dr. Fletcher and Mr. Gould had a conversation with regard to the disposal of the body. Dr. Fletcher wished to make a post-mortem examination, but Mr. Gould objected, whereupon Dr. Fletcher made out and signed a death certificate. Mr. Miles then took charge of the body to embalm it.

METHOD OF EMBALMING.

Mr. Corley examined Mr. Miles closely as to the method he used in embalming the body. Mr. Miles explained that an instrument called a trocher was used. The instrument is a long, sharp, hollow needle, through which the embalming fluid is pumped into the body. Mr. Miles stated that it was used not only upon the arteries, but also used to inject the fluid into the principal organs.

"Do you have to embalm a body?" asked Mr. Corley.

"Yes, when it is to be shipped. The railroad refuses to accept a body for shipment unless it is embalmed."

"What has all that to do with Dr. Fletcher?" demanded Curry. "This is irrelevance."

"Simply this," said Mr. Corley. "The doctor who made the post-mortem examination of the body of this girl found that the affected parts had been punctured several times with this undertaker's instrument. A case might arise where one might make in order to cover up something that a doctor had done."

"I so stated Magistrate Denison. "If in this case an unusual number of punctures were found it might be evidence against the doctor."

RAILROAD RULES.

The instructions or rules issued by the railroad regarding the shipment of bodies were produced. The only clause affecting the preparations for shipment read that the body "must be prepared." No word was given that the body should be embalmed.

"I cannot tell what it means by preparing a body," said the Magistrate.

To settle this point, Mr. A. Millard, who is an expert embalmer, was called. He stated that he used the trocher but very seldom. It was an old method of embalming. In his opinion, the filling of the arteries with embalming fluids was sufficient to preserve a body. As to the puncturing of the affected parts, Mr. Millard said that it might have been due to the enlargement of one of the parts.

THE OPERATION

A friend of the dead girl, who was a roomer at the Shuter street house where Dr. Fletcher treated Jessie Gould, said that the nurse came to the house on Monday, and on Tuesday Dr. Fletcher telephoned Dr. Todd. She was in the room while the alleged operation was performed, but could give no details, as her back was turned to the sofa upon which the girl was lying.

POLICE

At yesterday's session of the Police Court only one case was on the docket, viz., that of the young man Lebarge, who was tried the day before and sentence postponed. The Magistrate said he had written out his opinion, which it seems, by an oversight, had been left in his office. P. C. Meharry, in the meantime went up to get the document. Whilst the constable was away, His Worship rendered a verbal opinion in the case. He practically said that Henry Cassels on the day of the trouble came to town looking for a drunk. He got drunk and then got into a row, and gave a man a black eye. Cassels afterwards went to a local hotel and got into more trouble. This part of the evidence, however, was not included in the information. Thus His Worship said he could not pay attention to it. He said afterwards he would "square accounts with Lebarge, and that when they met again they might fight. Lebarge saw Cassels go into a hotel yard and followed him. Who commenced the row in the second hotel the Magistrate did not know. Possibly the witness present at the time could tell, if they would. The charge before the court was for biting and wounding. Cassels was the only witness. His Worship did not know how Cassels could when being bitten utter the words attributed to him. No one saw the act of the alleged biting and there was no real evidence to establish the charge. The Magistrate could not understand, however, how any man could, with three blows of his fist make three such marks as were visible on the mans face. There was no evidence to settle this matter. Cassels seemed to have gotten the worst of the row. People whether provoked or not, who look for trouble, generally get the worst of it." If he had found conclusively that biting had been indulged in, he would impose a sentence on the biter that would, for many years, preclude his biting anyone again. He thought that if the evidence had shown cause that both of the parties should have been severely punished. In lack of such evidence, however, he dismissed the case.

Incited to Holy War

San Francisco, March 30. — The attempt to assassinate Durham W. Stevens, the political adviser of Korean Council of State, it is now said, was the result of a carefully hatched conspiracy, inspired immediately by a manifesto of the Korean "Righteous Army", calling upon loyal Koreans to consecrate themselves to a holy war and exterminate all Japanese.

Redmond Demands Same Rights as were Granted to Canada

London, March 31. — John Redmond's Home Rule resolution was adopted in the House of Commons tonight after a lengthy and spirited debate, by a vote of 313 to 157. The resolution was, "That in the opinion of this House, a solution of this question can only be attained by giving the Irish people legislative and executive control of all purely Irish affairs." It was amended by adding the words, "all subject to the supreme authority of the Imperial Parliament."

The debate was made notable through the strong declaration of Chancellor Asquith, which was all the weightier because made at the moment Mr. Asquith was actually assuming the Premiership.

Mr. Redmond said: "The amendment raises a perfectly plain issue. On one side it is trust in the people, and on the other the old Tory policy of repression. The proposal to add the words, 'Subject to the supreme authority of the Imperial Parliament,' is unnecessary and superfluous, but if it is desired to add them we will certainly accept. Ireland is more governed and more discontented under British rule, and is more determined to cause agitation until she has home rule, than at any time since the movement began. We ask that what you have done for the Frenchmen of Quebec, and for the Dutch in the Transvaal, you should now do for the people of Ireland."

Mr. Redmond declared that an overwhelming majority of the present House of Commons always had professed their belief that the concession of Home Rule was the only solution of the Irish problem, and that every member of the present Government, at one time or another, had given public pledges to the same effect. He now proposed to put them on record, and free the hands of the Liberal party and the Government at the next elections, so as to make sure that there would be no repetition of the gratuitous pledges made by so many of the members at the last election not to introduce Home Rule during the life of the present Parliament.

French-Canadian Girl the Last Person who Saw Woman Alive

Saw Bowin with Mrs. Welch the Last Time She Saw Her

Visit Scene of Murder

Detroit, Mich., March 31. — Miss Mary Lavegue, a "Frenchman" upon Canada, yesterday gave testimony in the trial of Percy Bowin. Miss Lavegue had a room in the Welch place, on the third floor and knew the prisoner, although she knew him only by his familiar nickname of "Curly." She had seen him there often, she said, and knew that he was great pet of the dead woman. On Friday night, the witness said, she came home shortly before 11 o'clock. She went to her room on the third floor, and a few minutes later came down to the living rooms on the second floor to get a bottle of milk, in the parlor she found Mrs. Welch and Bowin. The former was writing a note, and apparently making an effort to keep it away from Percy. The latter half stood and half sat on the arm of a big upholstered rocking chair next the table, on which the old lady was writing with a pencil. When witness entered the room Percy turned and looked at her, and after three or four minutes silence greeted her with "Hello." She responded and asked for the milk. There was no bottles of milk in the house, but Mrs. Welch went out into the kitchen to get a glassful of milk for the witness. After she went Percy also went out through the sitting room and apparently out into the hall. Whether he went up or down stairs then witness did not know. That occasion was the last that Miss Levegue saw "Mother" Welch. The next morning with screams between 9 and 10 and went out for breakfast without going into Mrs. Welch's room. When she returned at 11 to get the clothing she had left hanging in the room the door was locked. She rang the bell but received no reply, although she heard the dogs barking in the bedroom upstairs.

COULD NOT GET IN.

Miss Lavegue returned to the house two or three times on that Saturday, twice on Sunday, and several times on Monday. At no time could she get in or arouse anybody in the house, although she could hear the dogs barking each time. The last time she came was the afternoon the body was found. A big crowd stood in front. She made her way as far as the door, when she was stopped by a policeman. She identified the letter Mrs. Welch was writing on the evening in question by some marks made upon the paper with a pencil. The note was offered in evidence, but was not read, being retained by the prosecuting attorney.

At the court session for a day or so past an attractive young woman, dressed in deep mourning and wearing a heavy veil has sat well towards the front of the court room and displayed much interest in the case. Speculation as to her identity was rife. Yesterday she took a seat just at the rear of the prisoner's mother, with whom she spoke often in whispers. It was rumored that she was one of Bowin's numerous sweethearts, but this she indignantly denied when asked outright concerning her interest in the case. She declared that she was an old friend of the family from Canada, and had come over the border to attend the trial for a few days simply to do of as much comfort as she could be to Mrs. Bowin. When she had sat inside the railing for an hour or so, objection was made by somebody interested in the prosecution unless she would explain that she had some direct interest. As she remained silent Judge Phelan by request of the attorney asked her to take a seat back in the audience, and she did so. She is a Mrs. Horrigan, but declined to give her residence or any further information.

The cross-examination of Miss Levegue by Attorney Kennedy for the defence was a gruelling one, and soon reduced the witness to tears by the manner in which he dealth with her mode of life and past career. She said she came from Montreal, but had lived for several years in Toronto and other Canadian cities before coming to Detroit last year.

At the close of the session Monday afternoon, the jury was taken to the room which was the scene of the crime and a thorough inspection was made of the place. Judge Phelan accompanied them, as well as the prisoner, who was handcuffed to a stalwart policeman.

When asked whether she cared to go, Mrs. Bowin with a shudder replied in the negative, and buried her face in her handkerchief. The trip did not dampen Bowin's spirits, however, and he joked with those about him while in the room in which the murder was committed.

"I will be out in a week," he declared confidently to an acquaintance made since the trial started.

In the Realm of Sport

FOOTBALLERS.

The football players interested in the formation of a club in connection with the Y. M. C. A. are requested to meet there on Thursday night at 7 o'clock sharp. A petition has been circulated and largely signed by young men wanting to play in connection with the "Y," and the revival of a game with that institution seems to be a realization.

RAIN PREVENTED GAME AT RICHMOND TO-DAY.

Richmond, Vic., March 31.—Rain fell all last night and this morning, and precluded any possibility of Toronto and Richmond playing to-day. Indoor work in the local Armouries for the Toronto players was suggested but Manager Kelley decided that he would not take a chance with his men on the hard floor. Richmond is a good, ball town, and big crowds were expected for the Toronto series, so that the inability to play caused regret on all sides.

Outfielder Jimmy Walsh has been ordered to join the team at Wilmington next week. Kelley will look him over, and may send him to the Lincoln club of the Western League.

Jack Flynn, formerly with Toronto, is having difficulty with the Milwaukee club, to whom he was sold by the St. Louis Nationals, who purchased him from Toronto. Flynn signed a Toronto contract for 1908, at an increased salary, but Milwaukee refuses to pay him any more than he received last year, and also threatens to deduct from his salary the expenses incurred in securing a temporary first baseman. Flynn will not report on these terms, and Toronto will endeavor to have the deal with St. Louis called off, if that is possible, at this stage. Toronto could use Flynn very nicely just now, but in any event they could keep a string on him, and he would be a valuable asset at the end of the season.

Blackford, the new southpaw, is said to have won 40 out of 47 games he pitched last summer for independent clubs. Toronto expects a lot from him in the practice games. Nothing new has been heard yet from McGinley or Wildermuth.

Catcher Ostdick, who was offered to Kelley by Boston and refused, was considered one of the best catchers in the Central League two years ago but would be altogether too slow for a team like Toronto has.

Legislature Discusses Federal Encroachment

Toronto, March 31.—Five resolutions protesting against the passage by the Dominion of the Michigan Power Company bill, recently introduced in the Senate, and which resolution incidentally attacked the Dominion Government, did not go unchallenged in the Legislature this afternoon. While declaring that his resolution was not not one of general hostility to the Federal Government, Mr. Whitney used very strong language both in the agreement and out of it. He first attacked the Globe.

"A little childish chatter" was Premier Whitney's comment upon a Globe article criticizing him for his attitude towards the Federal Government. "Utterly silly," he said, and, sarcastically, "admirably acute and brave." "Discreditable to its if and the party it represents" was another of his phrases. He was in fine fettle, and very angry that the Globe should insinuate that his awakening to the importance of provincial rights was a change of front.

"GIVE UP EVERYTHING.

"If legislation of this kind," said the Premier, "is to be passed by the Dominion Government I say here and now that this Legislature may just as well pass a resolution giving up power of control over everything possible of that nature. In anything from a barber shop to a factory, to be declared for the general advantage of Canada if," he asked. He did not think the Federal Government would pass such a bill as this.

"If this bill passes even one of the Houses at Ottawa," he said, "it will mean that the Dominion Government intends deliberately and with malice aforethought to cut the throat of every political and public power which the Province of Ontario possesses."

The bill would come up this Wednesday.

"It was fitting," the Premier thought, on the day preceding the day when this outrage is to be put forward another step, "that this House should express itself with no uncertain voice.

"Unless very strong reasons are given we cannot consent to any change in the form of the resolution," concluded the Premier.

The Hon. Richard Harcourt pointed out that the bill had been introduced into the Senate by a private member, who alone was answerable for it. His party was not answerable, and might be quite opposed to it. That, he was told, was the case. Mr. Senator Other than one could be named who had uttered a word in its favor. The fight, the stigma, which had been cast on the Liberal party in this connection was altogether undeserved. In its present form the bill could not be supported by other than one or two members of the Senate.

The Hon. Mr. MacKay noted with pleasure in the resolution as "The repeated encroachments of the Parliament of Canada," and declared that these were not fair, as the Parliament certainly was not committed to the bill in question. Such a statement necessitated an amendment, though the Liberal side of the House was as anxious as anyone could be to resent any Dominion encroachment.

Mr. MacKay moved an amendment, which was defeated by 59 to 19.

Mr. Studholme voted with the Government.

Uraemia Follows Kidney Disease

Dreadful perils lurk in kidney weakness.

Insidiously it develops into Bright's Disease and Uraemic poisoning. Through the system it sweeps with fatal effect, causing dropsy, gout, gravel and jaundice.

Many remedies contain alcohol.

In consequence they inflame the disease to further fury.

A proper remedy will soothe and heal the kidneys, give them strength, and nourish them back to health.

Such a remedy is Dr. Hamilton's Pills, which are composed of simple vegetable extracts and juices that are absorbed at once by the kidneys.

Dr. Hamilton's Pills heal and cure the diseased tissue, restore healthy action, and allay congestion and inflammation.

Proof is abundant, and here is quoted the experience of Mr. Patrick McDonald of 235 Kent Street, Ottawa.

"My back ached from morning till night. Every bit of work I did made me weak and worn. I couldn't stoop or lift without getting dizzy. My tongue was furred and my appetite poor. My head ached continually, and I had severe urinary disorders. My kidneys were in the worst possible state. I heard of the wonderful Dr. Hamilton's Pills, and proved them just the medicine I needed. Why, I felt better in a week, and after using these pills for a month or two at regular intervals I was completely restored."

Dr. Hamilton's Pills give complete relief because they act directly on the diseased tissues of the kidneys. Get the genuine in yellow boxes. 25c. per box, or five boxes for $1.00, at all dealers. Refuse substitute.

Showed Diamond Alleged to Have Been Murdered Woman's

Detroit, Mich., March 31. — Otto Kersten, a jeweller employed by Wolfe and Sons, pawnbrokers and jewellers, was the chief witness for the prosecution in the Bowin case today. He swore that on Sunday, the day after the murder of Mrs. Welch, about 6.40 o'clock, he was in Sykes' saloon, near the Wolfe place, waiting for somebody to come down and open it. Bowin was in the saloon walking up and down the floor, and occasionally using the telephone. Finally, he turned to the witness, and, pulling a piece of paper from his pocket, unwrapped a set diamond from it, handing the stone to Kersten, and asked what it was worth. The witness looked at the stone and estimated its value at $15 to $20.

"It's worth more than that," responded Bowin. "My mother wore it for many years as an earring."

"Where is the other one?" asked Kersten, and Bowin, he says, answered that it was in the possession of a brother or a sister.

"He had some paper money in his vest pocket along with the diamond," added the witness.

TAKEN FROM WOMAN'S EAR.

Unusual interest attaches to the evidence of Kersten, since a diamond was taken from the ear of the dying woman after she had become unconscious. After Bowin had been brought back from Canada, and was in charge of the police in Detroit, and while he was firmly denying any knowledge of Mrs. Welch's death, the old jeweller recognized a newspaper portrait and told the incident to a detective. He was brought to the police station, and identified Bowin as the man who had the diamond. Then the young prisoner broke down and made the confession, which was given out by Detective Chief McDonnell. At the time, Bowin declared that while he did not himself kill the old woman he was present and saw the crime committed, and took her jewellery afterwards. This confession he now declares was untrue. The cross-examination of the defence did not affect Kersten's story.

USED A FALSE NAME

Landlord Simons of the American Hotel, a cheap lodging place across the street from the Welch place, testified that Bowin came to the hotel about midnight of the Friday night of the murder. He secured a room for the night, and registered as Sam Simpson, paying for the room. He carried a suit case and when shown to his room he left the suit case and went out again. Witness did not know when he came in during the night, but knows he did come back, because he was called by Simons at 6.30 the next morning, and was in his room at that time. The hotel register was presented.

Fred Sykes, saloon keeper, testified that Bowin was in his place frequently. Often he had no money. On the night of the murder Bowin came and borrowed a suit case from the witness.

Will the Price of Ice be Dearer Here This Year?

It is rumored, owing to increased prices of labor, horses, feed, etc., that ice this summer will be much increased in price. Owing to these rumors a Times representative yesterday, happening to meet a local ice dealer, asked this gentleman whether such rumors were based on good foundation. The gentleman in question said, first, "I have nothing for publication. Still I could tell you government men a whole lot you naturally don't know a thing about concerning the ice business. Now you fellows have in the past year or two told a lot about this business that was with very feeble foundation. If the public knew the expenses of getting ice out and delivering it to the public, it would show them how very little selling ice leaves in the till of the seller."

This gentleman seemed to the Times man to be in dead earnest in what he said, but, of course, such statements are subject to discernment.

That languid, lifeless feeling that comes with spring and early summer, can be quickly changed to a feeling of buoyancy and energy by the judicious use of Dr. Shoop's Restorative.

The Restorative is a genuine tonic to tired, run-down nerves, and but a few doses is needed to satisfy the user that Dr. Shoop's Restorative is actually reaching that tired spot. The indoor life of winter nearly always leads to sluggish bowels, and to sluggish circulation in general. The customary lack of exercise and outdoor air ties up the liver, stagnates the kidneys, and oftentimes weakens the heart's action. Use Dr. Shoop's Restorative a few weeks and all will be changed. A few days test will tell you that you are using the right remedy. You will easily and surely note the change from day to day. Sold by all dealers.

Sons of Scotland Will Hold Banquet on April 14

The Sons of Scotland at their meeting held last night in the L. O. L. hall, Simcoe street, appointed a committee to arrange for a banquet to be held on the evening of Tuesday, April 14th. The chairman of the evening was Mr. Jas. McPherson.

Snowden House Bar Flooded

Yesterday another sample of the inundations of the local creeks, owing to spring freshets, was visible at the Snowden House. Here the barroom that was some months ago removed from the first floor to the basement was flooded by the overflowing waters of English's Creek. The bartenders had during the day to convey bottles of sundry liquors from, say, Florida water to Heagram's brandy, to the room upstairs, formerly used as a place of gathering of those with a thirst on.

Shot Three Women

Philadelphia, Pa., April 1. — George Fels, a policeman, aged 36 years, shot and killed Mrs. Annie Andreas, a neighbor, in the lower section of the city last night, and probably fatally injured Ella Paschal, his alleged common law wife, and Kate Jewel, a niece of Mrs. Andreas. Domestic troubles are said to have been responsible for the tragedy. Mrs. Fels, or Miss Paschal said Fels had treated her cruelly, and a few days ago she left him, and went to stay with Mrs. Andreas. When she came out of Mrs. Andreas' house Fels shot her in the head. Mrs. Andreas came out of the house when she heard the shooting, and also received a bullet in the head, dying instantly. Kate Jewell attempted to escape, but was shot in the back of the head. Fels was arrested.

Canada Night at Conservative Club

On Thursday night the greatest event yet held by this hospitable and popular association will be held in the Young Conservative Club rooms. Last night a Times reporter, on the natural scent for news, happened to drop into the club rooms. Before the scribe could get a chance to look round, an important member of the club touched him on the shoulder and said, "Look here, Mr. ——, can you tell me where I, for this club, can get hold of two little boys or girls, to be dressed as typical Canadians and sing the Maple Leaf?" This member of the club was in dead earnest, and his enquiry simply demonstrated the interest taken in Canada's night at the Conservative Club.

LOW SPRING FEVER

Doctors Report Many Cases.

Same thing happens every year. At winter's close the body is weak and run down. Damp spring weather brings out rheumatic tendencies, exhausts vitality, and simply demands everyone to use a bracing, strengthening tonic.

Time wont help; matters grow worse instead of better if your system isn't rid of its poisonous burden.

Your blood is not only thin, but is contaminated with a whole winter's accumulation of wastes.

A stimulating blood tonic is required.

What's it going to be?

Not bitters or alcoholic dope, but concentrated cure in the form of "Ferrozone" which is known as the best of all spring rejuvenators.

It creates keen appetite.

Produces prodigious digestion.

Converts food into nourishment.

Gives richness and vitality to the blood.

Makes strong nerves and hardy muscles.

Ferrozone possesses power that can't be doubted. It will do for you what it did for Walter Wood, of Beaufort, Car. Co., N. B., who writes: "I can say that Ferrozone has given me a new lease of life. A year ago I suffered much from nervous weakness. I was really scarcely able to drag myself around. My appetite was gone. I had no color or ambition and felt generally used up. The first box of Ferrozone started me back to health. I took a number of boxes, but it was worth while as my health was completely restored.

Get back to health with Ferrozone, six boxes for $2.50, or 50c per box at all druggists.

A CHILD'S CURIOSITY

A well known clergyman recently said:—"I understand that no Canadian parent ever says to a boy or girl, as English parents do: 'Don't ask questions.'" It would be well if that were true. But although children have greater liberty in this country than in Europe, there are still some Canadian parents who get out of patience with inquisitive children and say to them: "Oh! don't bother me."

Now, the unfolding of a rosebud in springtime is something that might well interest an angel, but the most fascinating and delightful thing in this world to a person of intelligence and sensibility is the unfolding of a child's mind—especially his own child's mind.

The child has just arrived in a new world. Everything around him is interesting and mysterious, and his mind is pricked into a boundless curiosity. Everything he says or does is some process of getting acquainted with his environment. He is in the truest sense a philosopher, and his method of investigation is Socratic. He does not even know what it is that he wants to know, but with great practical wisdom he asks every question he can think of, in the hope that he will strike a lead some time and the matter will clear up.

He oftentimes asks questions that no living man can answer, but it is then that he is learning the fastest, because he is discovering the limits of human knowledge. He is a famous cross-questioner. He constantly appeals to a parity of reasoning. If that is so,' he says, 'is this so?' or 'why is not this so?' He is an adept at the use of the reductio ad absurdum.

It is not known that any child ever got through asking questions of anyone who willingly answered them. He will weary out the fondest parent, and the end of all his dialogues is: "Run along now and play."

One of the unpardonable crimes against children is to repress their natural curiosity. It stunts the mind and soul.

This repression accounts for what are called "dunces". There probably never was a real dunce. A dunce is simply a child whose natural curiosity is checked and who is unable to become interested in somebody else's train of thought. In fact the more original and thoughtful a child is the greater dunce he appears to be, if his mind is denied its proper activities. Some of the greatest geniuses the world ever saw were accounted backward or stupid at school. They were not dunces, but their alleged teachers were.

It does not follow that gratifying a child's peculiar bent of mind will make him narrow. There may be only one small gate in a long wall, and yet after passing through it the traveler may have a world-wide freedom before him. In like manner if a child's questions all run to zoology or botany, or machines or to poetry, and his thirst for this particular kind of knowledge is gratified, he will gradually feel the need of correlated knowledge and become broadened out.

Made It Clear.

When Colonel Edmund Rice was in command of the Twenty-sixth Infantry (mostly volunteers from New England) in the Philippines, he organized from his regiment a company of mounted scouts. To equip them for this service he made requisition on headquarters for the necessary outfit, including eighty nosebags. Some officious clerk in the quartermaster's office in Manila returned the requisition to Colonel Rice with these written remarks: "Your report shows but sixty men in your mounted company. Why do you require eighty nosebags?"

The colonel's explanation was short and characteristic. It was: "It is true I have but sixty men, but I have eighty horses. The nosebags are for the horses, not for the men."

Inoculation For Smallpox.

Lady Mary Wortley Montagu is generally credited with having introduced inoculation into England from Turkey. In 1718 she had her son inoculated at Adrianople with success. She was allowed to have it tried in England on seven condemned criminals in 1721, and in 1722 two members of the royal family were inoculated. The practice was bitterly opposed by the clergy until 1760. A Dr Mead practiced inoculation with success up to 1754, and Dr. Dunsdale of London inoculated Catherine II. of Russia in 1768. Vaccine inoculation was introduced by Dr. Jenner in 1790.

The Moors of Today.

The Moors of today are the descendants of those who conquered Spain, who were practically paramount in the southern portion for two centuries and relics of whose wonderful buildings are to be found at the present day in that country. Indeed, it is strange to consider the position of the Moors of today when we see the work of their hands in past centuries, and the only explanation lies in the fact that they are unable to adapt themselves to modern conditions.

Crushed.

"Brudder Jones, if you didn't smoke, you might own a brick house, like what I does."

"Look here, man, don't you come pesterin' wif me like dat. You didn't git dat brick house by not smokin'. You got it by borrowin' mah money an' mah clothes to wear an' mah vittles to eat. You may be a fly financier, but dat don't give you no license to set up for a human copy book."

Remember that when the stomach nerves fail or weaken, Dyspepsia or Indigestion must always follow. But, strengthen these same weak inside nerves with Dr. Shoop's Restorative, and then see how quickly health will again return. Weak Heart and Kidney Nerves can also be strengthened with the Restorative, when Heart pains, palpitation or Kidney weakness is found. Don't drug the Stomach, nor stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. That is wrong. Go to the cause of these ailments. Strengthen these weak inside nerves with Dr. Shoop's Restorative and get well. A simple, single test will surely tell. All dealers.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

NOW LISTEN!

Please read carefully what follows, and if you decide to take advantage of what the "Canada Southern Oil & Gas Co., Limited," of Tilbury, Ont. (no personal liability), is now offering you, the result will be that instead of getting 3 per cent. for your savings, you will get at least from 10 to 25 per cent. that others are harvesting.

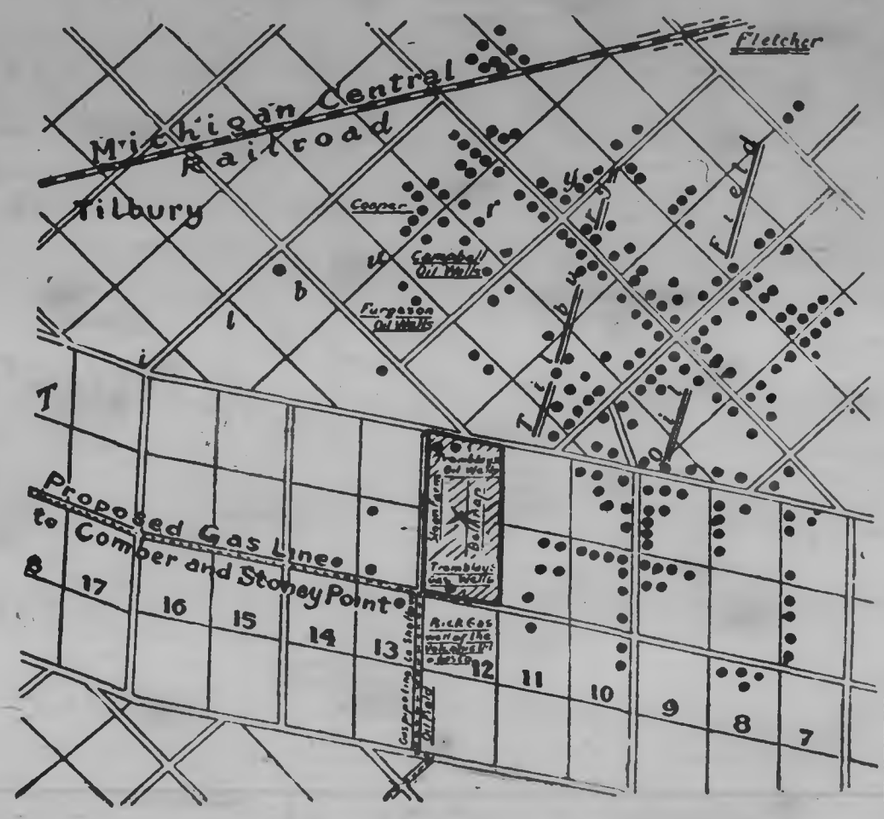
Your savings will be eight times more than the original amount by the mere fact of the higher rate of interest you will get.

Remember that this is no wildcat scheme, as you can see by the facts hereinafter mentioned.

Dr. Bell, the famous Canadian geologist, early in 1878 reported that there was an oil and gas field in the Townships of Tilbury and Romney, County of Kent, Ont. As soon as the discovery of the oil was made in Tilbury in 1906, our American neighbors, who are experts in good things, did not hesitate to invest hundreds of thousands of dollars, and now, in fact, control the two thirds interest in our oil field of Tilbury; and this happened because we Canadians hesitated to invest a few thousand dollars in the exploration of the oil mines of Tilbury, which already give a monthly production valued at $75,000, without adding the revenue derived from the gas.

We have said that this is not a wildcat scheme, because the "Canadian Southern Oil & Gas Co., Limited," has secured an option at a very moderate price on properties situated in the oil and gas field of Tilbury, upon which three successful tests have been made, being Lot No. 12, M. R. N., Tilbury East, 200 acres, indicated with a cross upon the map of the field.

COUNTY of KENT, ONTARIO



Three wells only have been drilled at an average depth of 1,400 feet.

The first one proves to be a rich gas well, the two others are good oil wells, combined with a strong production of gas.

The Company has also secured the franchises for the distribution and sale of natural gas into the Townships of Romney, Tilbury East, North and West and also into the thriving villages of Comber and Stoney Point.

The gas well is properly equipped and already is supplying the motor power to the Romney oil field and is getting one-third of the gross revenue of the gas sold.

The oil wells are completely equipped with one 15 h. p. gas engine, derrick, tanks, boiler, pumps, tubing, pipe-line, jerk-line, jack, etc., and are producing daily. The oil is sold to The Imperial Oil Company, Sarnia, and is delivered at the tanks and shipped through its pipe-line to Pere Marquette R. R. Station at Merlin, a distance of 3 miles.

Our properties are already giving daily a net revenue of about $35.00—that is to say, more than 10 per cent. of the whole capital stock of the Company.

This revenue may be made four times greater by the drilling of other wells and the construction of the gas-line to Comber and Stoney Point.

Fritz Cirkel, Esq., of Montreal, consulting mining engineer and mineralogist to the Dominion Government, who lately made an inspection of the said property, concluded his report as follows:

"In summarizing the actual results already obtained from the operations on the Sloan (wells the writer is forced to the conclusion that the property under consideration is a very valuable one. Located as it is in the southern extremity of the producing Tilbury oil field, in close proximity to wells which produce from 40 to 50 barrels of oil (and even more) per day of 24 hours (I refer to the Ferguson Campbell and Cooper properties, located about 2,000 feet distant to the north, see plan attached hereto), it bids fair to become a producer of oil and natural gas of no small measure.

The Tilbury field has already the reputation of being a large producer and powerful companies have entered the district with a view of securing properties of known and established value.

There is one factor to which I would like to draw your special attention and that is the future of natural gas. To-day, the market in that in that part of the country, for this commodity is not sufficiently large to dispose of all the gas the wells can produce but there is no question that in the near future factories will be established on central points, which will eventually consume for various purposes, especially for power, all the gas which can be produced in the field.

Besides this there are quite a number of towns and villages in the western part of the Niagara Peninsula, which may use the gas for heating, lighting, and also for power purposes and it is only a question of time when this will be realised.

The economy of the application of natural gas to power purposes is already evidenced all through the field, as coal or any other power cannot be regularly obtained, and that at high figures. Having therefore, a powerful gas well on the (Sloan) property, it is evident that a great saving is effected from this source alone; for instance, for the operation of ten oil wells, the cost of power required per day would amount to between twenty and twenty-five dollars, which, in 300 working days per year, would represent a saving of from six thousand to seven thousand five hundred dollars.

In conclusion, I may say that this property, with proper and economic management, can be made highly remunerative; I entertain, no doubt, that if properly developed, it will show similar results as those of so many other locations in the vicinity, whose developments have of so many other locations in the vicinity, whose developments have been so vigorously pushed in the past.

Respectfully submitted,
(Signed) FRITZ CIRKEL.

Capital, $250,000.00 1,000,000 Shares 25c. each.

Good coal stock is a safe and sure investment. Galbraith shares are especially attractive.

Modest Capitalization Large Coal Reserves

This Company organized under the laws of the Northwest Territories of Canada, owns and operates the Galbraith mine located at Lundbreck, Alta. They have four vertical seams of coal traversing their property, aggregating over 40 feet in thickness. Three of these seams are developed to a depth of 350 feet, and as they pass through the Company's lands for nearly a mile, some idea of the amount of coal may be had.

Shipping Steadily

The present output of the mine is about 200 tons per day. These shipments will be rapidly increased, as the C.P.R. allows its cars to be loaded with coal for points in the U. S.

We are selling a limited number of these shares at the extremely low price of in blocks of 100 or over. Tight money in the States makes it possible for us to give this unprecedented offer in stock that will be paying dividends inside of six months, and you are sure to realize a handsome profit.

Parties ordering can send money by P. O. Orders, Express Orders or Bank Drafts, and we will have the stock issued direct to you. Full information furnished on request. Correspondence solicited. Reference, Bank of Montreal

What they offer at 25c per Share for a short time

The property is situated at Mancos, Colo., and consists of 160 acres, fully paid for. The Company expects to secure at least 400 acres or more, we are negotiating for it now and the terms are satisfactory and there is coal on the same, and they also intend to secure some Coal Mines ot which they have the refusal. Some of che best coal mines in Colorado are in this district, as well as some of the richest gold and silver mines. In fact this is one of the richest parts for mineral in the State of Colorado, and the Company has the refusal to several prospects on reasonable and easy terms.

In our opinion the prospects of the Company are very bright, and a rapid advance in the price of the stock is sure to take place in the near future. Full in information can be had by calling at our office.

CONTINUED.

Miss Qian occupied a tiny flat on the top of a huge pile of buildings in Kensington, and it was furnished in a gimcrack way, with more show than real value and with more color than taste.

Like the Becky Sharp whom she impersonated with such success, Miss Qian possessed a chaperon, not because she needed one, being very well able to look after herself, but because it sounded and looked respectable. Miss Stably, who filled this necessary office, was a dull old lady who dressed excessively badly and devoted her life to knitting shawls. She talked very little.

This sort of person exactly suited Miss Qian, who wanted a sheep dog who could neither bark nor bite and who could be silent. These qualifications were possessed by the old lady, and for some years she had trailed through a rather giddy world at Aurora's beck. In her own dull way she was fond of the young woman, but was far from suspecting that Aurora was connected in an underhand manner with the law.

This was the old lady who sat in the pink drawing room to play propriety for Miss Qian. Lord George Sandal was present, looking rather washed out, but as gentlemanly as ever. Hay, with his fixed eyeglass and eternally cold smile, was there, and a third young man, who adored Miss Qian, thinking her to be merely an actress, simpered across the card table at his goddess. The four were playing a game which involved the gaining and losing of much money, and they had been engaged for about an hour. Miss Stably, having eaten a good dinner and commenced a new shawl, was half dozing in the corner and paying absolutely no attention to the players.

"It's a good thing we're hanging on our own hooks in this game," said Miss Qian. "Were I your partner, Sandal"—she always addressed her friends in this free and easy fashion—"I'd be losing money. What luck you have!"

"I never do seem to win," lamented Lord George. "Whenever I think I've got a good hand, the thing pans out wrong."

"Hay has got all the money," said the simpering admirer who answered to the name of Tempest. "He and you, Miss Qian, are the winners."

"I've made very little," she replied. "Hay's raking in the dollars hand over fist."

"Lucky in love, unlucky at cards," said Hay, who did not like his good fortune to be commented upon for reasons which Miss Qian knew. "It's the reverse with me—I'm lucky at cards"—

"And lucky in love, too," interrupted Aurora, with a grimace, "seeing you're going to marry that Krill heiress—if she is an heiress."

"What do you mean?" asked Hay, who was dealing a new round.

"Go on with the game and don't ask questions," said Miss Qian in a saucy manner. "Sandal, don't stare round, but keep your eye on the cards," and she winked stealthily at the young lord while Hay was exchanging a word with Tempest. The young man, who had spoken privately to her immediately before the dinner, knew well what she meant. Had Hay been likewise "in the know" he would scarcely have done what he did do and which Sandal saw him do in a few minutes.

Hay was rapidly dealing, and the cards were flying like leaves. A pile of gold stood beside Hay's elbow and some silver near Tempest. The game commenced, and soon the players were engrossed, heedless of the patent snoring of Miss Stably, who, poor old thing, had succumbed to the lateness of the hour. Suddenly Lord George, who had been very vigilant, felt his foot touched under the table by Miss Qian. He rose at once and snatched up the gold standing near Hay.

"What's that for?" demanded Hay angrily.

"You're cheating," said Sandal, "and I don't play with you any more."

"That's a lie! I did not cheat."

"Yes, you did," cried Miss Qian, bending forward and seizing the cards; "we've been watching you. Tempest"—

"I saw it all right," said the other. "You took up that king"—

"And it's marked," said Aurora. "I believe Hay's got cards up his sleeve. Examine the cards."

Hay, very pale, but still keeping his countenance, tried to object, but the two young men seized and held him, while Miss Qian, with a dexterity acquired in detective circles, rapidly searched his pockets.

"Here's another pack," she cried, and shook an ace and two kings out of the detected swindler's sleeve, "and these cards"—

Sandal took one and went to the lamp. "Marked, by Jove!" he cried, but with a stronger oath. "Here's a pin prick!"

"You are mistaken," began Hay, quite pale.

"No," said Tempest coolly, "we're not. Miss Qian told us you cheated, and we have a trap for you. You've been trying this double card and marked card dodge several times this very evening."

"And he's tried it lots of times before," said Aurora quickly. "I have been at several places where Hay scooped the pool, and it was all cheating."

"If it was," said Hay with quivering lips, "why didn't you denounce me then and there?"

"Because I denounce you now," she said; "you're cooked, my man. These

PAIN

Pain in the head—pain anywhere, has its cause. Pain is congestion, pain is blood pressure—not else usually. At least, so says Dr. Shoop, and proves it he has created a little pink tablet called Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets—which cruises blood pressure away from pain centers. Its effect is charming, pleasingly delightful, and though safely, is surely equalizes the blood circulation.

If you have a headache, it's blood pressure.
If it's painful periods with women, same cause.
If you are sleepless, restless, nervous, it's blood congestion—blood pressure. That surely is a certainty, for Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets stop it in 20 minutes, and the tablets simply distribute the unnatural blood pressure.

Bruise your finger, and doesn't it get red, and swell, and pain you? Of course it does. It's congestion, blood pressure. You'll find it where pain is—always. It's simply Common Sense.

A Youthful Passenger

A rather interesting story might be told concerning the arrival of a six years old passenger on a train reaching the city on Monday morning. It seems that the juvenile passenger arrived here about 5 a.m. with a red tag attached to his neck, noting his destination. The traveller's name was Joseph Kearney, and his destination was Reed City. The ticket around his neck had a memo to the conductor, asking the latter to keep an eye on the passenger and see him through. It might be added that this youthful passenger got to his destination.

How the Warsaw Stage Gets to City

When Joseph Crowe, the Warsaw stage driver, left that village for this city, he had to put his thinking cap on to decide whether to drive here on wheels or runners on account of the spring bewitched state of the roads. He compromised by loading a light waggon on his sleigh and started out. About half way here he found that the wheeling was getting better than the sleighing, so he unloaded the waggon, hitched on to it and used it for the remainder of the trip. Mr. Crowe says this hybrid vehicle is the goods these spring days.

That our American forests abound in plants which possess the most valuable medicinal virtues is abundantly attested by scores of the most eminent medical writers and teachers. Even the untutored Indians had discovered the usefulness of many native plants before the advent of the white race. This information, imparted freely to the whites, led the latter to continue investigations until to-day we have a rich assortment of most valuable American medicinal roots.

Dr. Pierce believes that our American forests abound in most valuable medicinal roots for the cure of most obstinate and fatal diseases, if we would properly investigate them; and in confirmation of this conviction, he points with pride to the almost marvelous cures effected by his "Golden Medical Discovery," which has proven itself to be the finest stomach tonic, liver invigorator, heart tonic and regulator and blood cleanser known to medical science. Dyspepsia, or indigestion, torpid liver, functional and even valvular and other affections of the heart yield to its curative action. The reason why it cures these and many other affections, is clearly shown in a little book of extracts from the standard medical works which is mailed free to any address by Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., to all reading request for the same.

Not less marvelous, in the unparalleled cures it is constantly making of woman's many peculiar affections, weaknesses and distressing derangements, is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, as is amply attested by thousands of unsolicited testimonials contributed by grateful patients who have been cured by it of catarrhal drains, painful periods, irregularities, weaknesses, displacements, exhaustion, ulceration of uterus and kindred affections, often after many other advertised medicines and physicians had failed.

Both the above mentioned medicines are wholly made up from the glyceric extracts of native, medicinal roots. The processes employed in the manufacture are original with Dr. Pierce, and they are carried on by skilled chemists and pharmacists with the aid of apparatus and appliances specially designed and built for this purpose. Both medicines are entirely free from alcohol and all other harmful, habit-forming drugs. A full list of their ingredients is printed on each bottle-wrapper.

Cheerfulness is like sunlight. It dispels the clouds from the mind as sunlight chases away the shadows of night.

The good natured man can pick up and carry off a load that the man with a grouch wouldn't attempt to lift.

Anything that interferes with good health is apt to keep cheerfulness and good humor in the background. A Washington lady found that letting coffee alone made things bright for her. She writes:

"Four years ago I was practically given up by my doctor and was not expected to live long. My nervous system was in bad condition.

"But I was young and did not want to die so I began to look about for the cause of my chronic trouble. I used to have nervous spells which would exhaust me and after each spell it would take me days before I could sit up in a chair.

"I became convinced my trouble was caused by coffee. I decided to stop it and bought some Postum.

"The first cup, which I made according to directions, had a soothing effect on my nerves and I liked the taste. For a time I nearly lived on Postum and ate little besides. I am to-day a healthy woman.

"My family and relatives wonder if I am the same person I was four years ago, when I could do no work on account of nervousness. Now I am doing my own housework, take care of two babies—one twenty, the other two months old. I am so busy that I hardly get time to write a letter, yet I do it all with the cheerfulness and good humor that comes from enjoying good health.

"I tell my friends it is to Postum I owe my life to-day."

Philanthropists Got a Roast

It seems that several local philanthrophic citizens, who paid in their good money to recompense a witness for his expenses in attending an inquest here, whilst actuated by humanitarian principles, were yesterday said to have only paid in so many good hard earned dollars to give the recipient the basis and foundation of a great big "jag". Now, this may be a joke on the men who put up their money towards a presumably charitable cause, but how did the recipient of their beneficance repay the money he said he borrowed to come here? There is evidence to the effect that the inquest witness did not adhere to the principles laid down by a temperance league, after the inquest was conducted, but those contributing towards actual expenses of a man who claimed to be out of pocket were given in good faith and no questions asked. If the witness in question did actually spend the money given him on whiskey, the contributors had no string on his after actions and the alleged outcome did in no manner affect the contention of The Times, in yesterday's issue, that the government's system of paying witnesses in Coroners' inquests is bad.

TEARSE GUILTY

SENTENCED TO HANG ON JUNE II

Special to The Times

Brampton, April 1.—After being out an hour and a half the jury this afternoon brought in a verdict of murder against John D. Tearse for the killing of William Curry, the aged Peel county farmer, last Christmas Day. There was no clause in the verdict recommending the prisoner to mercy, and Chief Justice Meredith thereupon sentenced Tearse to be hanged on the 11th of June next in the jail yard in this place.

The verdict came rather as a surprise, as it was expected that there would be a strong recommendation to mercy on the ground that the prisoner's tendency to epilepsy was productive of insanity at times. Both counsel for the prosecution and the defence emphasized this in their addresses, which occupied about an hour and a quarter. Chief Justice Meredith spoke for three-quarters of an hour, and took the same view as did the counsel. No evidence at all was presented in defence, the counsel making their arguments at the conclusion of the Crown's case.

There was no demonstration of any kind when the verdict was announced. Tearse's face blanched a little, but when asked by the judge whether he had anything to say why the sentence of the court should not be passed upon him, he simply said that he was not guilty of the crime. Then came the awful words of doom in which the prisoner was sentenced to be taken from his cell into the court yard of the jail on the 11th of June, and there hanged by the neck until he was dead, and "may God have mercy on your soul." Beyond a general quickening of breathing of those in the crowded court room, there was nothing of a sensation noticeable.

It is understood that the counsel for the condemned man, Mr. T. C. Robinette, will make an appeal to the Minister of Justice, to have the sentence commuted to life imprisonment.

The Two Y's Will Hold an Important Convention

American and Canadian Bodies to Meet at Stratford

Montreal Headquarters

An important convention will take place next week in Stratford, when representatives from the Y. M. C. A.'s of the United States and Canada will meet to discuss matters of vital importance to athletic work in the "Y's."

The American Y. M. C. A. is affiliated with both the A. A. U. and the C.A.A.U., which, as everybody knows, the Canadian Y. M. C. A. is allied with the C. A. A. U. "Boss" Sullivan has written to Dr. Fisher, the head of the athletic affairs of the American "Y," saying that the Y.M.C.A. would have to decide between the American or Canadian governing athletic body immediately, as they could not continue to be affiliated with the two bodies. Dr. Fisher will attend the big convention, and the matter will be decided. If the Americans throw down Sullivan it will be a deadly blow to the A. A. U. This is not altogether unlikely in view of the way the Spaulding goods representatives has been running amuck of everybody.

At present the athletic headquarters for the Canadian Y. M. C. A.'s is Toronto. It is proposed to have Montreal as the central body, and in addition to have provincial meetings, to control affairs in districts to be laid down.

If this arrangement is put into force it will prove of great advantage, as everything will run smoothly from headquarters through these committees, who will have an intimate knowledge of local affairs. Taking it altogether, it will be a most important gathering, and the result of its deliberation will be awaited with no little interest.

Salary too Big for this Pastor

Boston, April 2. — Rev. Frederick B. Fisher, pastor of the Temple Street Methodist Church has created a stir in the church world by sending a letter to his congregation asking that his salary be reduced from $2,200 to $1,200 a year.

"A preacher should be paid just enough for a modest living and no more," says Rev. Mr. Fisher in his letter. "We (myself and wife) can live very comfortably on $1,200 a year, and it is not right that the church should pay me more. The other $1,000 can be used for a better purpose. The church members should devote this $1,000 annually to the relief of distress and destitution among the poorer classes.

Rev. Mr. Fisher is a native of Kokomo, Ind., and was formerly pastor of the North Street Methodist Episcopal Church there. Before coming to Boston he was a missionary in India. He began life as a bootblack and has supported himself since he was 8 years old. Rev. Mr. Fisher is one of the most popular preachers in Boston.

Nabs Black Hand Man

St. Louis, April 2. — Louie Joseph Cuman, 21 years old, an Italian, was arrested to-day in an express office when he went there to get a package of money sent to St. Louis from Rochester, N. Y., in response to "Black Hand" letters. Detectives had been watching the express office since the arrival there of a decoy package addressed to "F. Corn, St. Louis," the address given by the signer of two letters received by Vincenzo Pitcato, a barber of Rochester, each of which commanded him to send $350 to "Corn". The young Italian claimed he went for the package at the request of another man.

Crossed Lake Yesterday

Capt. Wilfrid Harris, of Gore's Landing, and Mr. Dan McAllister, of the same burg, went in the city yesterday after doing that dangerous act of driving across the ice on Rice Lake on April 1st. Whilst this is put jokingly, the man who drives on the ice across Rice Lake after the so-called "showers of April," are falling, takes his life in his hand.

News in Brief

Kingston, April 1. — Dr. James Douglas, of New York, has subscribed $10,000 towards an endowment which the School of Mining affiliated with Queen's University has lately undertaken to raise. The endowment is to be used for general purposes for the mining school.

Dr. Douglas is an eminent bridge builder who some years ago was given an LL.D. degree by Queen's.

Kansas City, March 28. — Ten school teachers, led by Miss Minnie Martin, principal, to-day dismissed their classes at the Bryant School in Wyandotte County, north of Kansas City, Kan., and declared that there would be no more school until teachers' warrants were properly signed and delivered to them. The teachers assert that they have been unable to get their salary warrants signed without being required to go to the home of the district treasurer, a great inconvenience to them.

Springfield, Ill., March 30. — Voters on the anti-saloon proposition in Springfield next month are to be shown the "terrible example" in an entirely new aspect, if the Springfield Liquor Dealers' Association adopts the plan proposed by an enthusiastic clique of its members. It is planned to give the people of Springfield an evidence of what the capital city will resemble under the suggested order of things by voluntarily closing every saloon in the city for two or three days prior to the election. The "wets" are hopeful of an overwhelming revulsion of sentiment with the practical illustration.

Florence, April 2. — It is reported here that the Countess Montignoso has sent a letter to her former husband, King Frederick Augustus of Saxony, who is in Genoa, for the purpose of initiating negotiations for a reconciliation with him.

It is asserted that the Countess will endeavor to demonstrate that she was a victim of court intrigues, that she deserves to be re-established in her former position and that her marriage to Signor Toselli, the music teacher, is invalid.

POLICE

Only one case was tried at yesterday's session of the police court, that of Mr. Hay, proprietor of the new bowling alley, in Bradburn's old Opera House, who was charged with operating the same without a license.

Mr. Gordon, of Messrs. O'Connell & Gordon, appeared for the defendant, and pleaded guilty, but, with a "rider" that Mr. Hay had a Government charter to carry on a club alley, and as such was not liable to pay license.

No witnesses were heard, although some sixteen or eighteen had been subpoenaed.

His Worship decided that the license of $50 for the current year must be paid, and imposed $9.75 as costs for witness fees.

The costs were paid.

Shall Coldwater Remain a Dry Village?

The different complications which have arisen in local option matters have been added to recently by the peculiar position of affairs in the township of Medonte and the village of Coldwater, near Orillia.

It appears that a by-law was voted upon and carried by the necessary majority on January 6th in the township of Medonte. On January 29 the village of Coldwater was incorporated, and immediately elected its reeve and four councillors. This occurred before the by-law received its third reading, and was finally passed.

Now the position is that apparently there is no body qualified to put it into force, as the township council has no longer any license to legislate for Coldwater, and vice versa.

The township council met recently and resumed to put it into force in the township. If this action is upheld, a curious state of affairs will exist, for it was the large majority in what is now Coldwater village and which valiantly upheld its name that passed the by-law.

A number of the hotelkeepers have consulted Mr. J. B. Mackenzie as to the matter, and action will probably soon be taken.

QUARTER OF A MILLION BITUMINOUS COAL MINERS WENT OUT ON STRIKE

Result of Failure to Agree with Operators Upon a Wage Scale

Will Not Last Long

Indianapolis, Ind., April 1.—Bituminous coal miners, numbering 250,000 are idle to-day on account of the failure of the United Mine Workers of America and the coal operators to agree upon a wage scale.

District meetings are being held in an effort to reach an agreement in the various states, and it is believed the strike will be of short duration.

Central Pennsylvania and Indiana mines are in operation, as an agreement has been reached in the former district, and in this state miners and operators have agreed to continue work pending a settlement, which is being negotiated by joint meetings at Terre Haute.

All of the mines of Western Pennsylvania, Ohio, the trans-Mississippi and outlying districts have quit work.

Kansas City, Mo., April 1.—It is believed here that the 35,000 coal miners in Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma and Arkansas, who are enjoying a holiday will return to-morrow, pending a settlement of the difficulties with the officials of the Southwestern Inter-state Coal Operators' Association.

The operators and miners convention met separately this morning, each to take stock looking to an early conference. The operators would not discuss their plans in advance, but said that in all probability a committee would be appointed to meet with the mine workers when the subject of a conference to settle upon a new contract would be taken up.

Before the miners met this morning, it was stated they would appoint a conference committee.

46,500 IDLE IN OHIO.

Columbus, O., April 1. — According to accurate reports received here to-day from all over the Ohio mining district 46,500 workmen of all kinds in the mines are idle to-day as the result of the decision of mine officials in the central competitive district to stop work because they say the operators decline to make any wage agreement.

AWAITING PROPOSITION

Denver, Colo., April 1.—Pending the completion of the scale to be submitted by the operators in the northern Colorado coal fields, no action, it is understood, will be taken by the miners. The proposition of the operators will be submitted the latter part of the week. The miners in Utah, New Mexico and Wyoming are still at work.

NO ANTHRACITE TROUBLE

Philadelphia, April 1. — Unlike the situation in the soft coal fields, where thousands of men are idle because of wage disagreements, conditions in the anthracite field of Eastern Pennsylvania, so far as employment is concerned, are growing better, and the prospects for steady work are brighter than they have been in six months. It is expected that the mines throughout these regions will work full blast all summer. The anthracite regions are at present free form labor troubles, the three years' wage agreement having one more to run.

ALL CLOSED IN IOWA.

Des Moines, April 1. — Every coal mine in Iowa is closed to-day. Fifteen thousand men are idle. Miners to-day are celebrating the tenth anniversary of the eight hour day.

Prison Labor Contracts are to be Discontinued

Toronto, April 1. — Five propositions which may be received as the declaration of the policy of the Provincial Government in reference to the treatment of persons incarcerated in the Central Prison are included in a resolution which Hon. Mr. Hanna, the Provincial Secretary, will lay before the Legislative Assembly for discussion. These embody to a great extent the sweeping reforms suggested by the special committee, of which Mr. J. P. Downey, M. P. P., was chairman, in their report of their investigation of the prison systems of Canada and the United States. The House is asked to declare in favor of the abolition of the old-fashioned penal institution and the substitution of the modern plan of a prison farm. It outlines the policy of the Government in regard to the discontinuance of the contract system of labor in prisons, and proposes that convicts be employed in the work of the farm, in making supplies for public institutions and the improvement of public highways, etc.

The resolution reads as follows:—

That in the opinion of this House, with a view to improving conditions existing in respect to the custody and employment of prisoners in the Central Prison in the province, it is deemed expedient:—

That a tract of land suitable for the transfer of the Central Prison thereto, and for the employment thereon as far as practicable of the inmates thereof, be purchased.

That steps be taken towards the erection thereon of a new prison.

That the property now known as the Central Prison be disposed of when proper accommodation for the transfer is provided.

That no further contracts on what is known as the contract or piece systems of employment be entered into but that the inmates be employed in the improvement and cultivation of the land and the making, so far as practicable, of such supplies as are necessary for the various institutions of the province, and in such work as the making of highways.

That a branch prison or reformatory be located in Northern Ontario as soon as conditions warrant the establishment of such branch.

Will Build a Model City

Vancouver, B. C., March 30. — In view of the Grand Trunk Pacific Company's intention to make Prince Rupert a model city, the original costly plans of the town site are to be discarded, the railway paying for the aesthetic tastes of the designers. It has been decided to make new surveys to blend with the general artistic scheme. While this may be of ultimate benefit to many people who have already erected buildings upon the sites originally granted by the company, they will have to move to others where they conflict with the park or other designs.

In the north great significance is attached to the return of survey parties from Kitsalas Canyon and Hazelton on the Skeena River, to Copper River last week.

The belief is growing that when tenders are called for the next 200 miles east, the Prince Rupert route will follow Copper River from its confluence with the Skeena. This will leave Hazelton, head of navigation on the river, many miles from the main line, which, after dropping over the pass at the headquarters of the Copper, will descend to the Valley of the Bulkley river on the way to Nechaco valley.

Dredging for Gold on Extensive Scale

Vancouver, March 30. — Gold dredging on an extensive scale will be undertaken this summer by four Boston capitalists who recently acquired a concession of three and one-half miles in the Fraser River, near Lillooet. The vendor was James Ames, of this city. It is proposed to install an up-to-date dredge at a cost of between $75,000 and $100,000.

The owners have formed a close corporation under the title of the Boston Gold Mining company. Details of their plans were furnished to-day by Percy Williams, M. E., of Los Angeleles, who reported favourably on the proposition a few months ago. Mr. Williams is regarded as the highest authority in gold dredging in the west. He has had over eighteen years' experience in California and other states, and his mechanical contrivances have overcome many difficult mining problems.

"I have no doubt that we can operate on the Fraser River concession at a handsome profit," said he at the tee hotel Vancouver to-day. "I will leave here in a few days for Lillooet in order to make a series of experiments with the dredge formerly operated by the late owners. Of the existence of gold in the bed of the river and on the sandbars there is no uncertainty. The only problem is to devise a plant capable of meeting local conditions. I am confident of success. We will then build a dredge, and expect to have it working before the end of the summer. The old plant, although defective in design, saved quite a lot of gold.

"I foresee the dawn of a new era of gold dredging on the Fraser, whose gravels and bars contain almost inexhaustible wealth. All that is needed is the application of modern methods of saving the gold. The Fraser, worked as it has been by antiquated dredges and panning, shows a wonderful record, perhaps not equalled by any other river in the world. During the past fifty years it has produced gold valued at fifty millions of dollars. This is only a bagatelle compared with the wealth that remains to be extracted. The dredge I expect to build this season will cost between $75,000 and $100,000. If my anticipations are confirmed we will build more dredges and acquire other concessions."

Poker Game Led to Fight and Girl Killed the Man

Columbia, Miss., April 1. — Eunice Spencer is under arrest, charged with murdering Chas. Wesley in his home here on Monday. It is said that Miss Spencer was the stake in a poker game in which Wesley and P. F. Coombs were the players. Each of the players won two games, with one point to go out. Coombs accused Wesley of cheating. In the fight which followed Wesley had Coombs on the floor with a knife at his throat. At this moment Miss Spencer is said to have picked a rifle and shot Wesley who died in a few moments. Miss Spencer claims that the killing of Wesley was accidental.

Cotton Workers' Wages Reduced

Boston, Mass., April 2. — The general reduction ten per cent. in the Wages of New England Cotton Mill operatives which was recently decided upon, became effective yesterday in mills employing 80,000. Next Monday the movement will apply to the pay of as many more.

There is some unrest at New Bedford, where the reduction will become operative next Monday, but in view of the curtailment now in progress, a general strike is not regarded as probable.

In Lowell and Lewiston, the textile councils also protested against the reduction but the mill owners state that it is necessary. In fact, there is a sentiment in Boston mill offices that a second cut in wages may be necessary this year unless the market conditions improve.

Removed from Toronto to Fenelon Falls in Special Car

Toronto, April 1. — A special baggage car fitted up as comfortably as possible contained Mr. Henry Austin and party from Toronto to Fenelon Falls to-day. Mr. Austin is one of the widely-known lumber firm. He recently underwent an operation at the hands of Dr. Bruce in the Toronto General Hospital for cancer of the stomach. As he desired to go home, every precaution was taken to move him without adding to pain.

The private ambulance of A. W. Miles called at the hospital for Mr. Austin, who is accompanied by his nurse, Miss Patience Barth. The patient was resting on a pneumatic mattress prepared by Mr. Miles, and he was removed upon it into the car. Mr. Beck, of the Union Station, personally looked after the interior arrangement of the car, which left the station at 7.55 a.m. Mr. Austin's condition is very serious.

JUDGE APPOINTED TO INVESTIGATE THE CHARGES

Marine Department to be Probed by Mr. Justice Cassels--Three Officials Under Suspension

Special to The Times

Ottawa, April 1 — The Prime Minister announced in the House this afternoon the appointment of Walter Cassels, Judge of the Exchequer Court, as a royal commissioner to investigate the charges of dishonesty among officials of the Marine Department.

In so doing Sir Wilfrid observed that one official of the Marine Department had been under suspension for some time past.

Two more had now been suspended by the Minister, who was giving all the time that he could spare to the personal investigation of the reflections on his staff which were contained in the report of the Civil Service Commission.

The Deputy Minister, Col. Gourdeau, had tendered his resignation on two previous occasions, and had again received his request this morning, which was now under consideration.

The statements contained in the report of the Civil Service Commission were so grave, said the Premier, that the Minister of Marine had made up his mind to appoint a Royal Commission as the best and speediest method of getting at the facts.

As to the broad question of civil service reform, which was dealt with in the report of the Civil Service Commission, Mr. Courtney and his associates had not accompanied their report with any draft bill, and therefore the Government would require some time for the preparation of whatever legislation was necessary.

It was, however, the intention of the Government to deal with this question just as soon as possible, although it was doubtful whether at the present advanced stage of the session it would be possible to fully dispose of it this year.

The accountant of Marine, A. W. Owen, is the man who has been under suspension for several weeks past.

Y.M.C.A. Debating Society Hold Banquet Last Night

The annual banquet of the Debating Society of the Y. M. C. A. was held in the board room last night, when about twenty members of the society sat down to the sumptuous repast provided for the occasion by Coleman Brothers. The chairman of the evening was Mr. J. H. Hodson, B.A., who carried out the large toast list without a hitch.

The toast to the "King" was proposed by Mr. B. A. Lilly, and all the members of the society responded by singing the national anthem.

The toast to "Canada" was proposed by Mr. G. Armstrong and responded to by Mr. N. Greenhalgh.

"The Motherland," the next on the list, was proposed by B. A. Lilly and responded to by W. A. McClaren, "Literature" by W. G. Skinner and responded to by F. Ray.

The feature toast was the Y.M.C.A., proposed by Mr V. Coleman, who in a few words pointed out the good work carried on by the Y.M.C.A. Mr H. C. Wright, E. A. Frowde and Mr. Long ably responded.

The toast to "Our Critic" was proposed by Mr. W. Connor, who spoke a few words of praise for the work done by Mr. Hodson in that capacity. Mr. Hodson amid applause responded.

The last toast on the list was to the "Press," which was proposed by C. E. Coleman, and responded to by Mr. G. A. Hammond.

Music, songs and recitations helped to make the evening the most pleasant ever spent by the society.

The Worst Blizzard of the Season Raging in the North-West

Will Not Effect Peterboro

It Will Delay Seeding a Few Days, But is Otherwise Welcomed

Local coal dealers do not anticipate any immediate effect of the strike.

"Of course, it is a big thing—bigger than if the anthracite miners were out," said a dealer to The Times. "It will make soft coal a trifle scarce, because people will go on using their reserve stocks, and the mines will do the same, and when the cold weather comes and the demand increases the strike will be felt. The dealers had plenty of warning—this thing has been threatened for some time — and good stocks were held at the mines. There will be no effect here for the present, not for some time, I should say."

Good Thing For Crops

Special to The Times

Winnipeg, Man., April 1. — After flirting for a few days with spring, the Canadian West is again in the grip of winter. The worst blizzard of the season which struck Northern Saskatchewan yesterday is now general, and for the first time this winter reports are coming in of traffic blocked on the branch lines, and delays on the main lines. This is more unfortunate, as a good deal of stock and settlers' effects are now being moved in from south of the boundary, but the railways are in a vastly better condition to handle an emergency than during the disastrous storms of this time last year. There is no shortage of power and rotary plows are doing good work.

While the heavy snowfall will put back the clock for a few days, so far as seeding operations are concerned, the precipitation was really needed to get much of the land into good shape.

APPLEGATE AND RUDOLPH.

Richmond, Va., April 1 — The lemons played an April fool's joke on the Toronto ball players to-day, and are having the laugh on them because they are deprived of a second day's practice by the continued rain, which has put the grounds in bad shape. It is hoped, however, that weather conditions will be better to-morrow, and that the series with Richmond will not have to be abandoned altogether. The team has been taking physical culture exercise indoors, and is not therefore altogether wasting time.

Rudolph, Toronto's favorite boy pitcher, and Fred Applegate, the elongated twirler, who may have his troubles in holding his job this year with the champs, arrived this morning from Ormond, Florida, where they have been wintering. They are apparently in the best of shape.

Richmond fans are taking a deep interest in the Toronto team, and are anxious to see them work, especially Jimmy Cockman, who played in the Virginia League in his early days of professional ball.

There is small chance of the Brantford to Hamilton race, which takes place on May 25th, being recognized as an official try-out by the C.A.A.U. for Olympic Marathon runners. On the other hand, the Union will arrange trials to be run under its immediate control, and the men to be sent will be picked from the starters in these races.

"The C.A.A.U. will hold two tryouts," said Secretary Orow this morning. "One to be held at Toronto, or some other point in Ontario, and the other to be run in Quebec. The details are not ready for publication, but I may say the dates will be about the third week in May."

Questioned further as to the probability of Canadian runners competing in the Boston Marathon, Mr. Crowe said that it was hardly likely any arrangement could be made for any C.A.A.U. men to compete.

Ottawa, March 31. — The Olympic Games Committee at London, England, has cabled the Canadian Olympic Committee that all entries must be in by June 12. The Canadian committee had asked that the time be extended to June 21st.

THREATENS TO BLOW UP FLEET.

San Francisco, April 2. — Paul Signami, said to be the head of the local colony of anarchists, was arrested today and an attempt will be made to have him deported. Signami, who escape here from New Orleans a year ago, last night harangued a crowd and was heard by Policeman Rocca to say that the fleet on its arrival should be blown out of the water; that President Roosevelt should be assassinated and that the entire police department of this city city should be wiped out of existence.

BRITISH GOVERNMENT AND THE HINDOOS

The announced intention of the British Government to send an envoy to the Canadian Government in the hope of bringing to an end, if possible, the "extremely difficult, intricate and possibly dangerous situation" created by our attitude toward Hindoo immigration, is the proper way of dealing with the matter. Britain cannot understand our position in this business at long range. She must commission some one in which she has confidence to come over and talk to us about it; and no mistake will be made if he is authorized to consult the government and people of British Columbia as well as the Federal Government and the people of Eastern Canada.

On the other hand, this envoy should be empowered to lay before us — people as well as Ministers— the Imperial side of the problem. It is a thousand pities that John Morley himself could not take a trip to Canada at this juncture. We know him for a man who is as far as possible from being "mad" on the subject of Imperialism. He is a democratic of the democrats, and will appreciate to the full the feelings of the working people. Then his recent experience as Secretary for India has opened to him that side of the question. He has official knowledge of how the people of that great dependency feel when they find a British door slammed in their faces; and he knows better than most men in the Empire just how far this feeling is likely to prove a menace to the permanance of British rule in this "jewel of Asia." Thus he is an ideal man to deal with the problem created when a self-governing and democratic colony confronts this sensitiveness of a subject people whose contentment is one of the chief guarantees of Empire.

Still, in any case, the British envoy ought to feel it his duty to impart as well as collect information. We need to know the English point of view quite as badly as the British Government is in need of knowing ours. It is a case for mutual concessions, mutual appreciation of each other's problems, and a mutual willingness to help bear each other's burdens. We think in Canada that the British Government ought to be able to deal with the matter in India as the Japanese Government has dealt with it in Japan; but the British Government may know better. When Mr. Morley uses the word "dangerous" in describing the situation, he seems to imply that it may get beyond the control of the British authorities. It is certainly a road which neither of us should continue to travel in the dark; and the sooner we each enlighten the other on the phases of the question with which we are each especially familiar, the sooner will we cease stumbling along what may be the brink of a precipice.

News in Brief

Denver, Col., March 31.—Postmaster C. Oberach, of Partales, New Mexico, yesterday reported to E. L. McKee, chief postal inspector of the Rocky Mountain region, the discovery of the body of an infant in the mails. The package was addressed to a man at Roswell, N. M., and bore the return address of a woman of Woodstock, Ill. Under the outer cover of the package was the following unsigned message:—

"I did not know what else to do, burn or do something right away. Do not open.

Postmaster Oberach turned the body over to officers. Inspector McKee says an investigation will be held.

London, April 1. — The Times, commenting editorially on what it describes as the remarkable change which has occurred in the attitude of the political parties in the United States towards President Roosevelt and his policy, says that his reward for holding to that policy against all opposition is one of the most remarkable personal victories ever won in political life. There is no policy before the United States, says The Times, except his policy. Party lines have been obliterated, and the three candidates now before the country are politically undistinguishable. Their programmes are all of one color and that color is now in American politics.

San Francisco, Cal., April 1.— Ward McAllister, son of the famous social leader of New York city of twenty years ago, and at one time United States district judge for Alaska, was reported last night to be dying in the Cottage Hospital in San Rafael. McAllister is practically indigent, though well to do friends in this city and San Rafael have been contributing to his comfort. Late Thursday night McAllister was stricken with appendicitis, but he was unable to tell his nurses of the seriousness of his condition, so operation was delayed until Saturday night. McAllister was born in Newport, R. I., in 1856.

London, March 30. — The oldest temple in the world has been discovered by excavators at Birsya, in Central Babylonia. The walls of the tower were first uncovered and the summit cleared. The first inscription on the surface was on a brick stamped with the name of Dungi of 3750 B. C. A little tower appeared a crumpled piece of gold with the name Param Sin, who lived in 3750 B. C. Just below were large square bricks peculiar to the reign of Sargon, 3800 B. C., and probably the first Semitic King of Babylonia. A large platform was discovered two and a half yards below the surface, which was constructed of peculiar convex bricks which were used in building material 4,500 B. C.

New York, March 30. — The New York Central lines signed contracts with the American Locomotive Company to-day for the purchase of 143 locomotives, all of which will be delivered during the summer months. Payments for these locomotives, the cost of which will approximate $2,800,000, will be made in equipment trust bonds, which the American Locomotive Company has agreed to accept in lieu of cash. The transaction calls for issuance by the railroad of about $2,500,000 of equipment trust bonds, in addition to the $30,000,000 equipment trust serial bonds sold three months ago.

The purpose of the New York Central in ordering this large number of locomotives at this time, apart from anticipating future traffic requirements, is to replace locomotives which were kept in service during the recent period of heavy traffic, but which are more or less defective, and which are costly to operate. By replacing these with more modern locomotives the road will be able to handle trains more economically. It is understood that all these locomotives will be built at Schenectady.

New York, April 1. — Alexander Berkman, the Anarchist leader, who served a long term in prison for an attempt to assassinate Henry C. Frick, was taken into custody by the police here to-day. He will be taken to Bellevue Hospital this afternoon and confronted with Zelig Silverstein, the man who is charged with having thrown the bomb at the Union Square meeting last Saturday. The police say that the two men will be questioned closely to learn whether they have anything in common.

Silverstein, who was frightfully injured by the explosion of the bomb, was reported to have made considerable progress toward recovery to-day. The physicians at Bellevue said that he may live. He is being closely guarded in the prison ward of the hospital.

Spring Tiredness Cured By Harmless Remedy

Many are Using it and receiving benefit from its strength giving power.

All winter long you work hard. The cook lots of new things is tested so far, but now it's all gone, and you feel fairly dead.

Some how you must get new vitality and more active blood. The waste in your blood must be turned into strength and nourishing material. Your fretful appetite must be braced up. Some new power must be imparted to your weak body.

This is just what happens in using Ferrozone, which is an instant blood maker, blood-enricher and nerve builder.

Ferrozone not only creates keen appetite, it goes further, improves digestion and assimilation, so that every particle of food is converted into nerve and muscle fibres.

By building up new nerve force, and making each organ do the work that nature expects of it, Ferrozone quickly increases your weight and instils a reserve of vigor into the system that defies weariness, exhaustion, spring debility or sickness of any kind.

To prove the enormous strengthening power of Ferrozone we quote the following letter from Mrs. Cecil P. Gourmally, well known in Middleville: "Last March I was very run down and thin. I had no appetite and scarcely felt like eating at all. My face was pallid and haggard and I had dark circles under my eyes. My weight was seven pounds under normal, and day by day that awful spring weariness dragged me down. The change Ferrozone wrought was surprising. It must certainly contain wonderful building and strengthening properties, because I gained strength, flesh and appetite from the day I started it. I speedily came back to vigorous buoyant health with Ferrozone, and recommend it as the best medicine any person in weak health can take."

Ferrozone strengthens the weak, restores the anaemia, soothes the nervous, assists men, women and children to better health. Try it. 50c. per box or six for $2.50, at all dealers.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

NOW LISTEN!

Please read carefully what follows, and if you decide to take advantage of what the "Canada Southern Oil & Gas Co, Limited," of Tilbury, Ont. (no personal liability), is now offering you, the result will be that instead of getting 3 per cent. for your savings, you will get at least from 10 to 25 per cent. that others are harvesting.

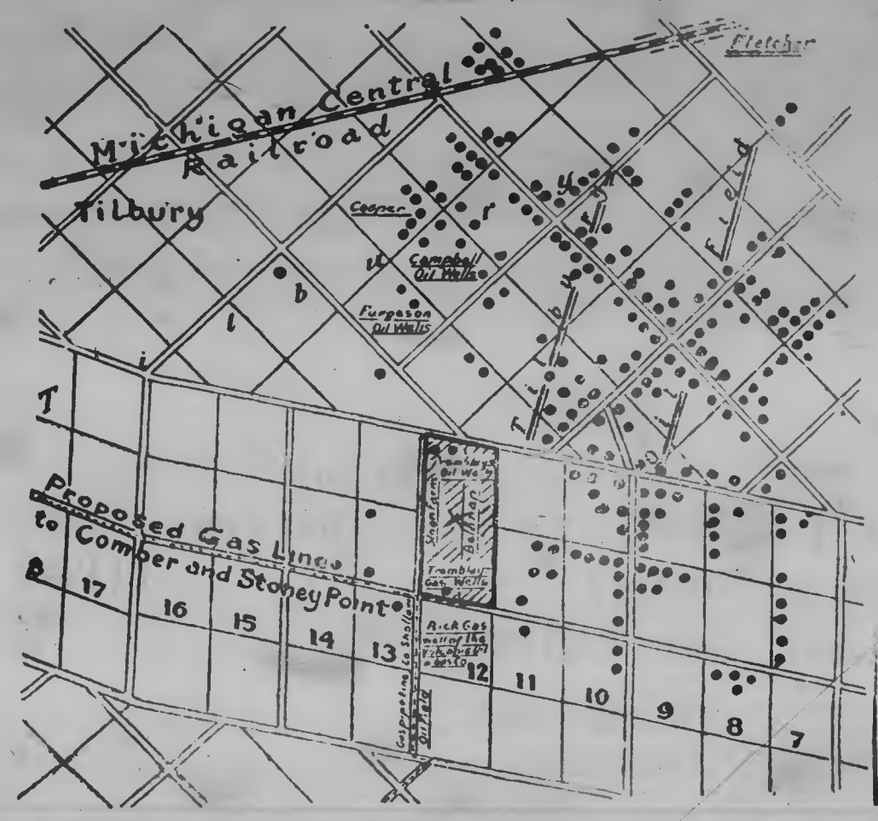
Your savings will be eight times more than the original amount by the mere fact of the higher rate of interest you will get.

Remember that this is no wildcat scheme, as you can see by the facts hereinafter mentioned.

Dr. Bell, the famous Canadian geologist, early in 1878 reported that there was an oil and gas field in the Townships of Tilbury and Romney County of Kent, Ont. As soon as the discovery of the oil was made in Tilbury in 1906, our American neighbors, who are experts in good things, did not hesitate to invest hundreds of thousands of dollars, and now, in fact, control the two thirds interest in our oil field of Tilbury; and this happened because we Canadians hesitated to invest a few thousand dollars in the exploration of the oil mines of Tilbury, which already give a monthly production valued at $75,000, without adding the revenue derived from the gas.

We have said that this is not a wildcat scheme, because the "Canadian Southern Oil & Gas Co., Limited," has secured an option at a very moderate price on properties situated in the oil and gas field of Tilbury, upon which three successful tests have been made, being Lot No. 12, M. R. N., Tilbury East, 200 acres, indicated with a cross upon the map of the field.

COUNTY of KENT, ONTARIO



Three wells only have been drilled at an average depth of 1,400 feet.

The first one proves to be a rich gas well, the two others are good oil wells, combined with a strong production of gas.

The Company has also secured the franchises for the distribution and sale of natural gas into the Townships of Romney, Tilbury East, North and West and also into the thriving villages of Comber and Stoney Point.

The gas well is properly equipped and already is supplying the motor power to the Romney oil field and is getting one-third of the gross revenue of the gas sold.

The oil wells are completely equipped with one 15 h. p. gas engine, derrick, tanks, boiler, pumps, tubing, pipe-line, jerk-line, jack, etc., and are producing daily. The oil is sold to The Imperial Oil Company, Sarnia, and is delivered at the tanks and shipped through its pipe-line to Pere Marquette R. R. Station at Merlin, a distance of 3 miles.

Our properties are already giving daily a net revenue of about $35.00—that is to say, more than 10 per cent. of the whole capital stock of the Company.

This revenue may be made four times greater by the drilling of other wells and the construction of the gas-line to Comber and Stoney Point.

Fritz Cirkel, Esq., of Montreal, consulting mining engineer and mining expert to the Dominion Government, who lately made an inspection of the said property, concluded his report as follows:

"In summarizing the actual results already obtained from the operations on the Sloan (wells the writer is forced to the conclusion that the property under consideration is a very valuable one. Located as it is in the western extremity of the producing Tilbury oil field, in close proximity to wells which produce from 40 to 60 barrels of oil (and even more) per day of 24 hours (I refer to the Ferguson Campbell and Cooper properties, located about 2,000 feet distant to the north, see plan attached hereto), it bids fair to become a producer of oil and natural gas of no small measure.

The Tilbury field has already the reputation of being a large producer and powerful companies have entered the district with a view of securing properties of known and established value.

There is one factor to which I would like to draw your special attention and that is the future of natural gas. To-day, the market in that in that part of the country, for this commodity is not sufficiently large to dispose of all the gas the wells can produce but there is no question that in the near future factories will be established on central points, which will eventually consume for various purposes, especially for power, all the gas which can be produced in the field.

Besides this there are quite a number of towns and villages in the western part of the Niagara Peninsula, which may use the gas for heating, lighting, and also for power purposes and it is only a question of time when this will be realised.

The economy of the application of natural gas to power purposes is already evidenced all through the field, as coal or any other power cannot be regularly obtained, and that at high figures. Having therefore, a powerful gas well on the (Sloan) property, it is evident that a great saving is effected from this source alone; for instance, for the operation of ten oil wells, the cost of power required per day would amount to between twenty and twenty-five dollars, which, in 300 working days per year, would represent a saving of from six thousand to seven thousand five hundred dollars.

In conclusion, I may say that this property, with proper and economic management, can be made highly remunerative; I entertain, no doubt, that if properly developed, it will show similar results as those of so many other locations in the vicinity, whose developments have of so many other locations in the vicinity, whose developments have been so vigorously pushed in the past.

Respectfully submitted,
(Signed) FRITZ CIRKEL.

Modest Capitalization Large Coal Reserves

This Company organized under the laws of the Northwest Territories of Canada, owns and operates the Galbraith mine located at Lundbreck, Alta. They have four vertical seams of coal traversing their property, aggregating over 40 feet in thickness. Three of these seams are developed to a depth of 350 feet, and as they pass through the Company's lands for nearly a mile, some idea of the amount of coal may be had.

The present output of the mine is about 200 tons per day. These shipments will be rapidly increased, as the C.P.R. allows its cars to be loaded with coal for points in the U. S.

What they offer at 25c per Share for a short time

The property is situated at Mancos, Colo., and consists of 160 acres, fully paid for. The Company expects to secure at least 400 acres or more, we are negotiating for it now and the terms are satisfactory and there is coal on the same, and they also intend to secure some Coal Mines of which they have the refusal. Some of the best coal mines in Colorado are in this district, as well as some of the richest gold and silver mines. In fact this is one of the richest parts for mineral in the State of Colorado, and the Company has the refusal to several prospects on reasonable and easy terms.

In our opinion the prospects of the Company are very bright, and a rapid advance in the price of the stock is sure to take place in the near future. Full information can be had by calling at our office.

"Lord George to you now, you blackguard; and how can you pay me the money when I know you haven't got a cent?"

"He intends to get it from the heiress," sniggered Aurora.

"We've caught Hay cheating, that's all, and the police"—

"Oh, Aurora, don't bring up the police."

"No, don't," said Hay, who was now trembling. "I'll do whatever you like. Don't show me up—I'm—I'm going to be married soon."

"No, you sha'n't marry," cried Tempest sharply; "I'll see this girl myself and save her from you."

"You can't prove that I cheated," said Hay desperately.

"Yes, we can," said George. "I and Miss Qian and Tempest all saw you cheat, and Miss Qian has the marked cards."

"But don't expose me. I—I"— Hay broke down and turned away with a look of despair on his face. He cursed himself inwardly for having ventured to cheat when things, by the marriage with Maud Krill, would have soon been all right for him. "Miss Qian," he cried in a tone of agony, "give me another chance."

Aurora, playing her own game, of which the two young men were ignorant, appeared to repent. She beckoned to Miss Stably. "Take Mr. Hay into the dining room," she said, "and I'll see what I can do. But you try and bolt, Hay, and the news will be all over the west end tomorrow."

"I'll stop," said Hay, whose face was colorless, and without saying a word he followed the sheep dog into the dining room in an agony of mind better imagined than described. Then Miss Qian turned her attention to her guests.

"See here, boys," she said frankly, "this is a dirty business, and I don't want to be mixed up with it."

"But Hay should be exposed," insisted Sandal; "he's been rooking me, I do believe, for months."

"Serve you jolly well right," said Aurora heartlessly. "I warned you again and again against him. But if there's a row, where do I come in?"

"It won't hurt you," said Tempest eagerly.

"Oh, won't it? Gambling is my flat and all the rest of it. You boys may think me free and easy, but no one can say a word against me. I'm not going to be made out an adventuress and a bad woman for the sake of that swindler Hay. So you boys will just hold your tongues."

"No," said Sandal, "my money"—

"Oh, bother your money! I'll see that Hay pays it back. He's going to marry this Krill girl, and she's able to supply the cash."

"But the girl shouldn't be allowed to marry Hay," said Tempest.

"Don't you burn your fingers with other people's fire," said Aurora sharply. "This girl's in love with him and will marry him in spite of everything. But I don't care a cent for that. It's myself I'm thinking of. If I get your money back, Sandal, will you hold your tongue?"

Lord George, thinking of what his noble father would say were he involved in a card scandal connected with an actress, thought it just as well to agree. "Yes," said he hesitatingly, "I'll not say a word if you get the money back. But don't you let Hay speak to me again in public or I'll kick him."

"That's your affair and his," said Aurora, delighted at having gained her point; "but you hold your tongue; and you, Tempest?"

"I'll not say a word either," said the young man, with a shrug, "though I don't see why you should save this blackguard's reputation."

"It's my own I'm thinking of, so don't you make any mistake. And now I have both your promises?"

"Yes," said Sandal and Tempest, thinking it best to hush the matter up, "but Hay"—

"I'll see to him. You two boys clear out and go home to bed."

"But we can't leave you alone with Hay," said Tempest.

"I'll not be alone with him," cried the little woman imperiously. "My companion is with me. What do you mean?"

"He might do you some harm."

"Oh, might he? You take me for a considerable idiot, I suppose. You get along, boys, and leave me to fix up things."

Both young men protested again, but Aurora, anxious for her conversation with Hay, bundled them out of the flat and banged the door to when she heard them whistling below for a hansom. Then she went to the dining room.

"You come along to the drawing room," she said to Hay. "Miss Stably, stop here."

"I haven't got my shawl," bleated the old lady.

"Oh, bother!" Aurora ran to the other room, snatched up the shawl and saw Miss Stably sitting down to knit, while she led Hay back into the drawing room. He looked round when he entered.

"Where are they?" he asked, sitting down.

"Gone. But it's all right. I've made them promise not to say"—

Grexon Hay didn't let her finish. He fell on his knees and kissed her hand. His face was perfectly white, but his eyes were full of gratitude as he babbled his thanks. No one could have accused him of being cold then. But Miss Qian did not approve of this emotion, natural though it was.

"Here, get up!" she said, snatching her hand away. "I've got to speak straight to you. I've done a heap for you. Now you've got to do a heap for me."

"Anything — anything," said Hay, whose face was recovering its normal color. "You have saved me—you have."

"And much of a thing you are to save! You'll be cheating again in a week or so."

"No," cried Hay emphatically, "I swear I'll not touch a card again! I'll marry Maud and turn respectable. Oh, what a lesson I've had! You are sure those fellows won't speak?"

"No. That's all right. You can go on swindling as before, only," Miss Qian raised a finger, "you'll have to pay Sandal back some cash."

Sports

LACROSSE.

The Mitchell Excelsiors have organized with these officers: Patron, A. Davidson; Hon. President, W. J. Thompson; President, N. E. Copping; Vice-President, N. G. Schafer; Secretary-Treasurer, G. H. Butler; Managing Committee, R. F. Davies, F. A. May, L. Morrison, Fred Porterfield. It was decided to enter a team in the junior series if a suitable district was formed.

St. Catharines will be right in it again this year. Reports from St. Kitts are to the effect that a team stronger than last year, which went through the season without a defeat, will be placed on the field.

Brantford is not likely this year to be represented in the senior C. L. A. series. Financial backing is lacking, and the Telephone City in all probability will have to be content with intermediate and junior lacrosse.

Fring and Henning, who played with Regina last year, have returned to their home in Hanover. Fring is home fielder, while Henning is a goalkeeper.

Manager Bert Scott of the Varsity team, has arranged the following games for his team: Johns Hopkins at Baltimore, May 23; Philadelphia, May 26; Brooklyn Crescents, May 30; Harvard at Boston, June 1. There will not be a game at Columbia, as they have all their dates filled.

Paddy Brennan, the clever home player of the Shamrocks, will not go to Buffalo to manage and play with the team, although the offer was a good one from a financial and business point of view, but Paddy, if he plays again, will be with the Shamrocks only.

BASEBALL.

Crawford, the Providence shortstop, is dead in Texas, of blood-poisoning. The entire Philadelphia crowd is back full of confidence and they expect to make things hum in the American League this season. With Seybold and Oldring back in the game, Connie Mack expects the bunch to do some great hitting this year. With their pitchers working right and that kind of a hitting aggregation to back them up, Mack can hardly be blamed for feeling that the team, which beats him out will win the pennant.

Bill Dinneen, ex-Red Sox, who is now a Brown, is developing into a spit-ball artist, along with this he has the most beautiful assortment of curves he ever had. He will be a great factor in placing St. Louis up in the race this summer.

Toronto has one of the huskiest looking bunch of ball players in the league, and if size counts for anything they will be a formidable team to go against. Kilroy and Brown make a heavy battery.

Wagner, Magee, Beaumont and Leach were the only three hundred hitters in the National League last year. Cobb, Kay, Orth, Crawford, Killian, Stone, Clymer, Flick and Nicolls batted .300 and better in the American. Wood, Conner, Hoy, Thoney, Byers, J. Kelley, McConnell, Butler, Carrigan, Burger, McDonald, Flanagan, Duffy and Hearne reached that mark in the Eastern League.

Indigestion

Stomach trouble is but a symptom of, and is in itself a true disease. We think of Dyspepsia, Heartburn, and Indigestion as real diseases, they are symptoms only of a certain special Nerve sickness—nothing else.

It was this fact that first correctly led Dr. Shoop in the creation of that now very popular Stomach Remedy—Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Going direct to the stomach nerves, alone brought that success and favor to Dr. Shoop and his Restorative. Without that original and highly vital principle, such lasting accomplishments were ever to be had.

For stomach distress, bloating, biliousness, bad breath and sallow complexion, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—and see for yourself what it can and will do. We sell and cheerfully recommend

THE MYSTERY OF GOUT

Some Interesting Pointers from the Pen of Dr. Hamilton

"The real cause of gout is due to the excessive use of certain articles of food and drink, which in time leads to a disturbance of the functions of the liver. As a result harmful products such as uric acid are thrown into the blood, causing the condition known as gout.

"Consequently it follows that, having proper diet and maintaining liver activity, a cure can be effected."

Probably no physician has achieved such success in liver disease as Dr. Hamilton.

His Pills of Mandrake and Butternut are everywhere acknowledged to be a specific for slow, weak or sluggish liver; they give tone and vitality to this organ that enables it to perform its duties with ease and certainty.

Once the liver is corrected, Dr. Hamilton's Pills apply their peculiar merit to the kidneys and eliminating organs. This cleanses the blood and sends it back through the system, full of nourishment and strength.

Rheumatic tendencies are no longer noticed, for pure blood kills the poison that causes rheumatic aches.

Dull, aching twinges, stiff joints, and difficulty of exertion become things of the past.

Of course by rheumatism such complaints as sciatics, lumbago and neuralgia must be included, for after all, what are they but manifestations of rheumatic poison?

Thus it is easily seen that a world of good is accomplished by Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Acting as a blood renovator and a general tonic for the system their benefit is incalculable. 25c. per box or five boxes for $1.00, at all dealers, and be sure you get the genuine Dr. Hamilton's Pills

CITY AND COUNTY NEWS

JAMES HERR AND THERE BY TIMES REPORTERS.

Crop Conditions are Favorable

Mr. Geo. Mathes is authority for saying that the reports from the farmers of this country are very bright. The fall wheat is beginning to show up well, as it had a good winter. If the conditions prevail as favorable as at present, the farmers will have an excellent crop of fall wheat. Clover, too, is coming along in splendid shape.

Pips are easily and quickly killed with Dr. Shoop's Magic Ointment. To prove it I will mail a small trial box as a convincing test. Simply address Dr. Shoop, Racine, Wis., I surely would not send it free unless I was certain the Dr. Shoop's Magic Ointment would stand the test. Remember it is made expressly and alone for swollen painful, bleeding or itching piles, either external or internal. Large jar 50c. Sold by all dealers.

Bread will be Raised in Price

Once more the householders of this city are up against a proposed rise in prices of a necessary commodity, viz., bread. The output of the local bakers has been reduced, and their respective staffs have been consequently cut down. The pith of this argument is that the men selling bread at the cheaper prices will have to add a cent or two per loaf to their present prices.

Fire Escapes on Custom House

Yesterday a long needed improvement was added to the local Custom House. It is generally known that Mr. W. Taylor, better known as "Daddy," occupies the top flat of this building with the members of his family. Should a fire take place in this building, owing to the winding staircases leading to the caretaker's quarters, the inhabitants of the third floor would have been cut off from every means of escape unless by balloon or parachute.

This danger was yesterday eliminated by the erection at the east side of the edifice of a modern iron fire-escape, with an iron balcony at the third story window, and ladders leading therefrom to a reasonable jumping distance from the yard.

Mr. R. R. Hall, M.P., was responsible for the badly wanted fire protection system.

Miss Cora Lightfoot, of the Lakefield Portland Cement Company's staff, passed through the city yesterday on her way to Montreal to resume her duties as bookkeeper.

That languid, lifeless feeling that comes with spring and early summer, can be quickly changed to a feeling of buoyancy and energy by the judicious use of Dr. Shoop's Restorative. The Restorative is a genuine tonic to tired, run-down nerves, and but a few doses is needed to satisfy the user that Dr. Shoop's Restorative is actually reaching that tired spot. The indoor life of winter nearly always leads to sluggish bowels, and to sluggish circulation in general. The customary lack of exercise and outdoor air ties up the liver, stagnates the kidneys, and oftimes weakens the Heart's action. Use Dr. Shoop's Restorative a few weeks and all will be changed. A few days test will tell you that you are using the right remedy. You will easily and surely note the change from day to day. Sold by all dealers.

Mr. William Potter, brother of the Rev. J. G. Potter, of St. Andrew's Church, who has been laboring as a student missionary at Maynooth, North Hastings county, arrived in the city last night en route to Toronto.

Mr. Eric Sharpe, of the Quaker Oats Co., a son of the Ven. Archdeacon Sharpe, of St. Dunstan's Bay, Jamaica, West Indies, is seriously ill with an affection of one of his eyes. It is feared that an operation will be necessary.

The many friends of Mr. Jas. Louden, 173 Park street, yesterday heard with profound regret that this respected citizen had passed away the preceding evening after a very short illness. Made Member of White Hat Order

Yesterday morning among the other evidences of wit at the market weigh scales office, on account of Mr. Geo. Ball taking possession of the receipts, perquisites, honors, and other privileges of the market clerk's office, was the presentation to him of a venerable plug hat of the vintage, of say, 1670, that has for a long time hung on a nail near the stove in this place. The main point about this presentation, however, is included in the fact that the superannuation plug has been through the fire." The white plug, during the administration of Mr. W. McIlmoyle, happened one day to fall on a nearly red-hot stove and caught fire. The relics of this bygone greatness, however, had been saved, and, as noted yesterday, presented to the new incumbent of office.

Narrow Escape on Sturgeon Lake

What came very nearly being a fatal accident occurred the other day to two young men who were coming up from a point on Sturgeon Lake to town. They were Messrs. Thos. Flynn of Fenelon, and Geo. Casely. Both are well known around Lindsay.

As they were going along the ice in the bay, when just about opposite W. O'Leary's boathouse, the treacherous stuff gave way and precipitated Mr. Casely into the cold water. Luckily, he was carrying a large pole for some purposes or other, and this caught across the hole and enabled him to keep from going altogether under the ice.

His partner, Mr. Flynn, ran and got another pole, and by the united effort of the two men she was enabled to get to safety. While it was a very close call, the victim suffered no after effects except a good wetting. — Lindsay Post.

Miss Vernon Ross as a Hostess

Yesterday afternoon the well known hospitality of Dorothy and Miss Halliday, Water street, was extended between the hours of 3 and 6 o'clock to a number of the little friends of their grand-daughter, Miss Vernon Dorothy Ross, daughter of Mrs. Robt. A. Ross, of Montreal. The little folks spent several hours most pleasantly with the games, music and other amusements of small children. All present thoroughly enjoyed the hours passed with their little hostess, from Canada's metropolis. Among those who assisted Mrs. Halliday in entertaining her granddaughters' guests were Mrs. (Rev.) Davidson and Miss Hazen Ritchie.

Vatican Denies all Rumors

Rome, April 2. — Owing to the fact that there has lately appeared in the French press articles written with the intent to convey the idea that an entente was shortly to be entered into between the church and state in France, the organ of the Vatican, the Osservatore Romano, makes an emphatic denial and declares that there is nothing in the present situation which would permit such a policy.

The Osservatore points out that during the last few days M. Briand, the French Minister of Public Worship has been occupied with two bills, one for presentation to the Chambers of Deputies, the other to the Senate. The former concerns the liquidation of the property belonging to the ex-members of the religious congregations, the latter to the liquidation of pious bequests. Neither the Chamber nor the Senate appears to be inclined to reject the proposed measures.

In view of this situation, sufficiently informed ecclesiastical dignitaries believe that, although the French anti-Vatican campaign is now, indeed, less violent, yet the détente which is the prelude to an entente, is still far away.

AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENTS.

Ottawa, April 1.—Mr. F. N. Lewis, West Huron, gives notice that he will bring in a bill to amend the Criminal Code, with regard to automobile accidents. At present a clause exists to punish reckless drivers of waggons or vehicles, but the clause does not provide for automobiles which have sprung up since it was enacted. Mr. Lewis plans by his bill to make the owner of an automobile criminally liable for any accident which he personally, or his servant, may cause.

Revived

Old-Time Health, Eating Grape-Nuts

"I had been sick for ten years with dyspepsia and a lot of complications," wrote an Ark., woman.

"An operation was advised, change of climate was suggested, but no one seemed to know just what was the matter. I was in bed three days in the week and got so thin I weighed only 89 lbs. No food seemed to agree with me.

"I told my husband I was going to try some kind of predigested food to see if I could keep from this feeling of continued hunger.

"Grape-Nuts and cream was the food I got and nothing has seemed to satisfy me like it. I never feel hungry, but have a natural appetite. Have had no nervous spells since I began this food, and have taken no medicine.

"I have gained so much strength that I now do all my housework and feel well and strong. My weight has increased 8 lbs. in 3 weeks and I shall always eat Grape-Nuts as it is far pleasanter than taking medicines." "There's a Reason." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

"CANADA NIGHT" AT THE YOUNG CONSERVATIVE CLUB

Splendid Program Enjoyed by the Large Gathering Present--Mr. W. H. Moore's Address

Last night the Young Conservative Club rooms were packed to the doors by members and their friends who came to enjoy "Canada" night. Many enjoyed sociable games of euchre and other games in the card room. At eight o'clock Mr. T. H. Barrett took the chair and introduced the various performers. Mr. Tom Clarke rendered that as some "Celtic tales" were going to take part, he would ask the audience to refrain from smoking between the hours of 8:15 and 9 o'clock.

Mr. Dickinson opened the session with a well rendered piano solo. This was followed by a comic Irish monologue entitled "Barney O'Hooligan's Letter," by Mr. C. N. Brown. Little Miss Palmer then favored those present with a piano solo, which demonstrated that the child possesses a rare musical ability, seldom shown by so young a child. She was encored and heartily applauded, and rendered an encore. Mr. Kennedy, in costume, followed this little artist with a vocal solo in good voice, entitled "Mary of Argyle." An encore was demanded when Mr. Kennedy sang "Mavourneen, Sweet Genevieve." Mr. Frank Clarke, Peterborough's old time favorite, gave a banjo solo in a way that showed his hand has not lost its cunning. A storm of applause followed. Mr. Clark, who gave a vocal solo

Many Get Consumption in Spring Months

The System is Generally Run Down and Lacks Power to Destroy the Germ.

Winter takes the vitality and snap out of us all. Instead of being rich and healthful, the blood is sure to be thin and watery in the spring. An overpowering tiredness comes upon us—this is followed by dead weakness, loss of sleep, poor appetite and depression.

Doctors all say the only hope lies in supplying lots of new blood which must be brimming with vitality and building material.

The quickest way to get the necessary supply of vitalized blood is by taking Ferrozone. It establishes a high standard of blood, increases nerve force, restores bodily vigor in a truly marvelous way.

You are amply protected from spring fever and debility diseases by using Ferrozone,—This is proved by Mrs. E. J. Richards, of Manotick, Ont., who tells in the following words how she gained in health and spirit from Ferrozone: "For about two years I was not well. I was thin and anaemic. Towards spring I fell into a condition of nervous exhaustion that made life scarcely worth living. A dead tiredness seemed to hang over me like a load of lead. I simply could not do housework of any kind. A bad cough developed that worried me greatly, for I thought it might be tubercular. When I first read about Ferrozone I was convinced it was good. I took it regularly for about eight weeks and the change in my health was wonderful. My cheeks filled out and became clear and rosy. I gained eight pounds in weight and am now as strong and vigorous as possible."

Ferrozone feeds and nourishes the organs that require assistance. It sends the thrill and vim of robust health from head to foot, makes you feel better at once. Won't you use Ferrozone? Sold everywhere; 50 chocolate-coated tablets in a box for 50 cents, or six boxes for $2.50, at all dealers.

BUSINESS OUTLOOK BRIGHT

The announcement of trade conditions in Montreal by the Witness is a most encouraging sign of business revival. Similar reports came from Toronto and the other manufacturing centres of Ontario. If this spring opens up well next month, so that seeding may be commenced early in the Northwest, confidence will be restored to a large extent, and others will flow freely to older Canada for its manufactured products. The manufacturer who kept "plugging away" during the winter will then have the advantage of being able to fill orders promptly. The Witness says:—

The business outlook in Canada at the present time is of the most encouraging nature. Spring orders for merchandise are coming in from all over the Dominion, and while these are limited as to the quantity for delivery, the sales are being made largely on a cash basis. Factories and mills are commencing to make up for lost time by taking back employees who have been laid off during the past winter. Locally this is shown in a large number of industries which are now running on full time, with prospects of largely increased business. Another factor worthy of mention is the large amount of dividend money to be distributed by banks, corporations, and industrial concerns, during the next month or six weeks, to their thousands of shareholders throughout the Dominion. A conservative estimate places this dividend figure at between $7,000,000 and $8,000,000. This money will, no doubt, be immediately placed in circulation, and it will do its part in stimulating trade especially in the retail arena. Happily for Canada, the labor horizon is fairly bright, as there are at present, except among the Quebec longshoremen, no indication of trouble between capital and labor.

There is said to be a fee-war going on between the medical profession and the Life Insurance Companies, and that the local agents are really the greatest sufferers therefrom. It will be remembered that some time ago the Doctors of the district organized an Association and raised their fees for medical examination of applicants for Life Insurance as well as for other professional services. The increase in rates, many who do not belong to the profession, felt was warranted, owing to the fact that living costs more now than it did a few years ago, and that in connection with the advancment of medical science, the services of a physician should command larger remuneration than in the past. The Insurance Companies, however, refuse to pay the increased fee, and therefore the agents who secure the risk, if they wish to do business, have up to the present, since the new regulations became effective, been obliged to put their hands into their pockets and pay a larger percentage of the examination fee than the companies pay. This does not seem fair to local agents, for their services now must be worth as much to the Companies they represent, as formerly, and yet they cannot realize as much for their work. The Companies and the Medical Examiners should meet, and if possible, arrive at a compromise fair to both parties and also to the local agents.

Dredging for Gold on Extensive Scale

Vancouver, March 30. — Gold dredging on an extensive scale will be undertaken this summer by four Boston capitalists who recently acquired a concession of three and one-half miles in the Fraser River, near Lillooet. The vendor was James Ames, of this city. It is proposed to install an up-to-date dredge at a cost of between $75,000 and $100,000.

The owners have formed a syndicate corporation under the title of the Boston Gold Mining Company. Details of their plans were furnished to-day by Percy Williams, M. E., of Los Angeles, who reported favourably on the proposition a few months ago. Mr. Williams is regarded as the highest authority in gold dredging in the west. He has had over eighteen years' experience in California and other states, and the mechanical contrivances have overcome many difficult mining problems.

"I have no doubt that we can operate on the Fraser River concession at a handsome profit," said he at the time later Vancouver to-day. "I will leave here in a few days for Lillooet in order to make a series of experiments with the dredge formerly operated by the late owners. Of the existence of gold in the bed of the river and on the sandbars there is no uncertainty. The only problem is to devise a plant capable of meeting local conditions. I am confident of success. We will then build a dredge, and expect to have it working before the end of the summer. The old plant, although defective in design, saved quite a lot of gold.

"I foresee the dawn of a new era of gold dredging on the Fraser, whose gravels and bars contain almost inexhaustible wealth. All that is needed is the application of modern methods of saving the gold. The Fraser, worked as it has been by antiquated dredges and panning, shows a wonderful record, perhaps not equalled by any other river in the world. During the past fifty years it has produced gold valued at fifty millions of dollars. This is only a bagatelle compared with the wealth that remains to be extracted. The dredge I expect to build this season will cost between $75,000 and $100,000. If my anticipations are confirmed we will build more dredges and acquire other concessions."

Will Build a Model City

Vancouver, B. C., March 30 — In view of the Grand Trunk Pacific Company's intention to make Prince Rupert a model city, the original costly plans of the town site are to be discarded, the railway paying for the aesthetic taste of the designers. It has been decided to make new surveys to blend with the general artistic scheme. While this may be of ultimate benefit to many people who have already erected buildings upon the sites originally granted by the company, they will have to move to others where they conflict with the park or other designs.

In the north great significance is attached to the return of survey parties from Kitsalas Canyon and Hazelton on the Skeena River, to Copper River last week.

The belief is growing that when tenders are called for the next 200 miles east, the Prince Rupert route will follow Copper River from its confluence with the Skeena. This will leave Hazelton, head of navigation on the river, many miles from the main line, which, after dropping over the pass at the headquarters of the Copper, will descend to the Valley of the Bulkley river on the way to Nechaco valley.

Salary too [illegible] for this Pastor

Boston, April 3. — Rev. Frederick B. Fisher, pastor of the Temple Street Methodist Church has created a stir in the church world by sending a letter to his congregation asking that his salary be reduced from $2,500 to $1,200 a year.

"A preacher should be paid just enough for a modest living and no more," says Rev. Mr. Fisher in his letter. "We (myself and wife) can live very comfortably on $1,200 a year, and it is not right that the church should pay me more. The other $1,000 can be used for a better purpose. The church members should devote this $1,000 annually to the relief of distress and destitution among the poorer classes.

Rev. Mr. Fisher is a native of Kokomo, Ind., and was formerly pastor of the North Street Methodist Episcopal Church there. Before coming to Boston he was a missionary in India. He began life as a bootblack and has supported himself since he was 8 years old. Rev. Mr. Fisher is one of the most popular preachers in Boston.

Nabs Black Hand Man

St. Louis, April 2. — Louis Joseph Cadjean, 21 years old, an Italian, was arrested to-day in an express office when he went there to get a package of money sent to St. Louis from Rochester, N. Y., in response to "Black Hand" letters. Detectives had been watching the express office since the arrival there of a decoy package addressed to "P. F. Corn, St. Louis," the address given by the signer of two letters received by Vincenzo Pizzicato, a barber of Rochester, each of which commanded him to send $350 to "Corn". The young Italian claimed he went for the package at the request of another man.

News in Brief

Kansas City, March 28. — Ten school teachers, led by Miss Minnie Martin, principal, to-day dismissed their classes at the Bryant School in Wyandotte County, north of Kansas City, Kan., and declared that there would be no more school until [illegible] teachers' warrants were properly signed and delivered to them. The teachers assert that they have been unable to get their salary warrants signed without being required to go to the home of the district treasurer, a great inconvenience to them.

Springfield, Ill., March 30. — Voters on the anti-saloon proposition in Springfield next month are to be shown the "horrible example" in an entirely new aspect. If the Springfield Liquor Dealers' Association adopts the plan proposed by an enthusiastic clique of its members. It is planned to give the people of Springfield an evidence of what the capital city will resemble under the suggested order of things by voluntarily closing every saloon in the city for two or three days prior to the election. The "wets" are hopeful of an overwhelming revulsion of sentiment with the practical illustration.

NOW LISTEN!

Please read carefully what follows, and if you decide to take advantage of what the "Canada Southern Oil & Gas Co, Limited," of Tilbury, Ont (no personal liability), is now offering you, the result will be that instead of getting 3 per cent. for your savings, you will get at least from 10 to 25 per cent. that others are harvesting.

Your savings will be eight times more than the original amount by the mere fact of the higher rate of interest you will get.

Remember that this is no wildcat scheme, as you can see by the facts hereinafter mentioned.

Dr. Bell, the famous Canadian geologist, early in 1878 reported that there was an oil and gas field in the Townships of Tilbury and Romney, County of Kent, Ont. As soon as the discovery of the oil was made in Tilbury in 1906, our American neighbors, who are experts in good things, did not hesitate to invest hundreds of thousands of dollars, and now, in fact, control the two thirds interest in our oil field of Tilbury; and this happened because we Canadians hesitated to invest a few thousand dollars in the exploration of the oil mines of Tilbury, which already give a monthly production valued at $75,000, without adding the revenue derived from the gas.

We have said that this is not a wildcat scheme, because the "Canadian Southern Oil & Gas Co., Limited," has secured an option at a very moderate price on properties situated in the oil and gas field of Tilbury, upon which three successful tests have been made, being Lot No. 12, M. R. N., Tilbury East, 200 acres, indicated with a cross upon the map of the field

Three wells only have been drilled at an average depth of 1,400 feet.

The first one proves to be a rich gas well, the two others are good oil wells, combined with a strong production of gas.

The Company has also secured the franchises for the distribution and sale of natural gas into the Townships of Romney, Tilbury East, North and West and also into the thriving villages of Comber and Stoney Point.

The gas well is properly equipped and already is supplying the motor power to the Romney oil field and is getting one-third of the gross revenue of the gas sold.

The oil wells are completely equipped with one 15 h. p. gas engines, derrick, tanks, boiler, pumps, tubing, pipe-line, jerk-line, jack, etc., and are producing daily. The oil is sold to The Imperial Oil Company, Sarnia, and is delivered at the tanks and shipped through its pipe-line to Pere Marquette R. R. Station at Merlin, a distance of 3 miles.

Our properties are already giving daily a net revenue of about $35.00 —that is to say, more than 10 per cent. of the whole capital stock of the Company.

This revenue may be made four times greater by the drilling of other wells and the construction of the gas-line to Comber and Stoney Point.

[illegible] Cirkel, Esq., of Montreal, consulting mining engineer and mining [illegible] of the Dominion Government, who lately made an inspection [illegible] the said property, concluded his report as follows:

"In summarizing the actual results already obtained from the operations on the Sloan wells the writer is forced to the conclusion that the property under consideration is a very valuable one. Located as it is in the western extremity of the producing Tilbury oil field, in close proximity to wells which produce from 40 to 60 barrels of oil (and even more) per day of 24 hours (I refer to the Ferguson Campbell and Cooper properties, located about 2,000 feet distant to the north, see plan attached hereto), it bids fair to become a producer of oil and natural gas of no small measure.

The Tilbury field has already the reputation of being a large producer and powerful companies have entered the district with a view of securing properties of known and established value.

There is one factor to which I would like to draw your special attention and that is the future of natural gas. To-day, the market in that in that part of the country, for this commodity is not sufficiently large to dispose of all the gas the wells can produce but there is no question that in the near future factories will be established on central points, which will eventually consume for various purposes, especially for power, all the gas which can be produced in the field.

Besides this there are quite a number of towns and villages in the western part of the Niagara Peninsula, which may use the gas for heating, lighting, and also for power purposes and it is only a question of time when this will be realised.

The economy of the application of natural gas to power purposes is already evidenced all through the field, as coal or any other power cannot be regularly obtained, and that at high figures. Having therefore, a powerful gas well on the (Sloan) property, it is evident that a great saving is effected from this source alone; for instance, for the operation of ten oil wells, the cost of power required per day would amount to between twenty and twenty-five dollars, which, in 300 working days per year, would represent a saving of from six thousand to seven thousand five hundred dollars.

In conclusion, I may say that this property, with proper and economic management, can be made highly remunerative; I entertain, no doubt, that if properly developed, it will show similar results as those of so many other locations in the vicinity, whose developments have of so many other locations in the vicinity, whose developments have been so vigorously pushed in the past.

Respectfully submitted,
(Signed) FRITZ CIRKEL.

Good coal stock is a safe and sure investment. Galbraith shares are especially attractive.

Modest Capitalization Large Coal Reserves

This Company organized under the laws of the Northwest Territories of Canada, owns and operates the Galbraith mine located at Lundbreck, Alta. They have four vertical seams of coal traversing their property, aggregating over 40 feet in thickness. Three of these seams are developed to a depth of 350 feet, and as they pass through the Company's lands for nearly a mile, some idea of the amount of coal may be had.

Shipping Steadily

The present output of the mine is about 200 tons per day. These shipments will be rapidly increased, as the C.P.R. allows its cars to be loaded with coal for points in the U. S.

We are selling a limited number of these shares at the extremely low price of

What they offer at 25c per Share for a short time

The property is situated at Mancos, Colo., and consists of 160 acres, fully paid for. The Company expects to secure at least 400 acres or more, we are negotiating for it now and the terms are satisfactory and there is coal on the same, and they also intend to secure some Coal Mines of which they have the refusal. Some of the best coal mines in Colorado are in this district, as well as some of the richest gold and silver mines. In fact this is one of the richest parts for mineral in the State of Colorado, and the Company has the refusal to several prospects on reasonable and easy terms.

In our opinion the prospects of the Company are very bright, and a rapid advance in the price of the stock is sure to take place in the near future. Full information can be had by calling at our office.

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an Agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each on and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of a homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father or mother.

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing must be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa, of intention to apply for patent.

The Opal Serpent

By FERGUS HUME,
Author of "The Mystery of a Hansom Cab," "The Mandarin's Fan," Etc.

Copyright 1895, by G. W. Dillingham Company.

"I'll do that. Maud will hand me the money. Do you want all?"

"Oh, a couple of thousand will shut his mouth. I'll not see you left. It's all right, so sit up and don't shake there like a jelly."

"You're very kind to me," said Hay faintly.

"Don't you make any mistake. So far as I am concerned you might stick in the mud forever. I helped you because I want you to help me. I'm in want of money"—

"I'll give you some."

"Picked from that girl's pockets," said Aurora dryly. "No, thank you. It might dirty my fingers. Listen. There's a reward offered for the discovery of the murderer of Aaron Norman. I want to get that thousand pounds, and you can help me to."

Hay started to his feet with amazement. Of all the requests she was likely to make he never thought it would be such a one. "Aaron Norman's murder!" he said. "What do you know of that?"

"Very little, but you know a lot."

"I don't. I swear I don't."

"Pish!" said Miss Qian imperiously. "Remember I've got the whip hand, my boy. Just you tell me how Mrs. Krill came to strangle the"—

"Mrs. Krill!" Hay turned white again, and his eyeglass fell. "She had nothing to do with the matter. I swear"—

"Strikes me you swear too much, Mr. Hay. What about that opal brooch you stole from Beecot when he had the smash?"

"I didn't steal it. I never saw it at the time of the accident."

"Then you got that boy Tray to steal it."

"I knew nothing about the boy. Besides, why should I steal that opal serpent brooch?"

"You wanted to buy it from Beecot, anyhow?"

Hay looked puzzled. "Yes, for a lady."

"Mrs. Krill?"

"I admit that Mrs. Krill wanted it. She had associations connected with that brooch."

"I know," interrupted Aurora, glancing at the clock. "Don't waste time in talking of Lady Rachel Sandal's death"—

"How do you know about that?" stammered Hay, completely nonplused.

"I know a mighty lot of things. I may as well tell you," said Miss Qian coolly, "since you daren't split, that I've got a lot to do with the secret detective service business. I'm helping another to hunt out evidence for this case, and I guess you know a lot."

The man quailed. He knew that he did not stand well with the police and dreaded what this fluffy little woman should do. Aurora read his thoughts. "Yes," she said, "we know a heap about you at the Scotland Yard office, and if you don't tell me all you know I'll make things hot for you. This shooting tonight is only one thing. I know you are 'a man on the market,' Mr. Hay."

"What do you wish to hear?" asked Hay, collapsing.

"All about Mrs. Krill's connection with this murder."

"She has nothing to do with it. Really, she hasn't. Aaron Norman was her husband right enough"—

"And he ran away from her over twenty years ago. But who told Mrs. Krill about him?"

"I did," confessed Hay volubly and seeing it was best for him to make a clean breast of it. "I met the Krills three years ago when I was at Bournemouth. They lived in Christchurch, you know."

"Yes. Hotel keepers. Well, what then?"

"I fell in love with Maud and went to Christchurch to stop at the Red Pig. She loved me, and in a year we became engaged. But I had no money to marry her, and she had none either. Then Mrs. Krill told me of her husband and of the death of Lady Rachel."

"Murder or suicide?"

"Suicide, Mrs. Krill said," replied Hay frankly. "She told me also about the opal brooch and described it. I met Beecot by chance and greeted him as an old school fellow. He took me to his attic and to my surprise showed me the opal brooch. I wanted to buy it for Mrs. Krill, but Beecot would not sell it. When next I met him, he told me that Aaron Norman had fainted when he saw the brooch. I thought this odd and informed Mrs. Krill. She described the man to me and especially said that he had but one eye. I went with Beecot to the Gwynne street shop, and a single glance told me that Aaron Norman was Lemuel Krill. I told his wife, and she wanted to come up at once. But I knew that Aaron was reported rich—which I had heard through Pash—and, as he was my lawyer, I suggested that the Krills should go and see him."

"Which they did, before the murder!"

"Yes. Pash was astonished, and, when he heard that Aaron Norman, as he called himself, had committed bigamy and that Sylvia"—

"Yes, you needn't say it," said Miss Qian angrily. "She's worth a dozen of that girl you are going to marry. But why did you pretend to meet Mrs. Krill and her daughter for the first time at Pash's?"

"To blind Beecot. We were standing at the door when the two came out, and I pretended to see them for the first time. Then I told Beecot that I had been introduced to Maud at Pash's office. He's a clever chap, Beecot, and, being engaged to Sylvia Norman, I thought he might find out too much."

"About the murder?"

Hay rose and looked solemn. "I swear I know nothing of that," he said decidedly, "and the Krills were as astonished as I when they heard of the death. They were going to see him by Pash's advice, and Mrs. Krill was going to prosecute him for bigamy unless he allowed her a good income. Death put an end to all this, so she made up the story of seeing the handbills, and then of course they gave the money to Maud, who was engaged to me."

"The will, or what was called a will, gave the money to Sylvia," said Aurora emphatically. "But this brooch you didn't take it?"

"No, I swear I didn't. Mrs. Krill wanted it, but I never knew it was of any particular importance. Certainly I would never have risked robbing Beecot, and I never told that boy Tray to rob either."

"Then who took the brooch?"

"I can't say. I have told you all I know."

"Hum!" said Aurora, just like her brother. "That will do tonight, but if I

"While he had the brooch I stuck to him."

ask you any more questions you'll have to answer, so now you can go. By the way, I suppose the brooch made you stick to Beecot?"

"Yes," said Hay frankly. "He was of no use to me, but while he had the brooch I stuck to him to get it for Mrs. Krill."

"Queer," said Aurora. "I wonder why she wanted it so much?" But this question Hay was unable to answer.

CHAPTER XXII.

AFTER all, Hurd did not send Jessop to town, as he threatened to do. Evidently the captain had told him all he knew and appeared to be innocent of Krill's death. But in spite of his apparent frankness the detective had an idea that something was being kept back, and what that something might be he determined to find out. However, his thoughts were turned in another direction by a note from Beecot, addressed to him at the Red Pig, asking him to come at once to the Jubilee-town laundry. "I believe we have discovered the person who stole the opal brooch from me," wrote Paul, "and Deborah had made a discovery connected with Norman which may prove to be of service."

Wondering what the discovery might be and wondering also who had taken the brooch, Hurd arranged that Jessop and Holker should remain at Christchurch under the eyes of two plain clothes officials. These managed their duties so dexterously that Matilda Junk was far from guessing what was going on. Moreover, she informed the detective, who she thought was a commercial guest, that she intended to pay a visit to her sister, Mrs. Tawsey, and demanded the address, which Hurd gave readily enough. He thought that if Matilda knew anything, such as the absence of Mrs. Krill from the hotel during the early part of July, Deborah might induce her to talk freely.

Holker had proved a difficult subject. Whether he was too grateful to Mrs. Krill to speak out or whether he really did not understand what was asked of him, he certainly showed a talent for holding his tongue. However, Hurd saw well enough that the man was afraid of the subtle law and when matters came to a crisis would try and prove his innocence even at the cost of implicating others. Therefore, with an easy mind, the detective left these two witnesses being watched at Christchurch and repaired to town, where Aurora informed him of the interview with Hay. Billy appeared of the way in which his sister had managed matters.

"I guessed that Hay was the man who put Mrs. Krill on the track of her husband," he said, with satisfaction, "but I wasn't quite sure how he spotted the man."

"Oh, the one eye identified him," said Aurora, who was eating chocolate as usual, "and Norman's fainting at the sight of the brooch confirmed Hay's belief as to who he was. I wonder he didn't make a bargain with Norman on his own."

Hurd shook his head. "It wouldn't have paid so well," said he wisely. "Norman would have parted only with a small sum, whereas this murder will bring in Hay a clear five thousand a

Beaten but Refused to Prosecute

The Tweed News says that a bad assault took place near Fenelon last week. It seems that two men entered the house of an old man on the Flinton road and began to clean out the house. The old man is almost blind, and it is said the two men gave him a severe beating. The injured man was advised to lodge a complaint against them, but his answer was that they would only let them off again, and he feared they would do him further injury.

ECZEMA ATTACKED CHEEK AND CHIN

FESTERING SORES CURED BY ZAM-BUK.

In all walks of life Zam-Buk has found favor as the only pure and reliable healing balm. It is found in the home (for no mother would be without it), in the workshop and in the soldier's kit. Col.-Sergt. Louis Elliott, 3rd Co. 46th Battalion, Peterboro, Ont., bears testimony to this, for he says: "Three months ago the lower part of my face, cheek and chin, broke out in small red pimples, which later festered and broke, forming nasty sores and dry scabs. The itching set up by these eruptions and sores was cruel and seemed far worse during the night. All kinds of soaps, washes and ointments were tried without relief. Finally I thought of Zam-Buk and straightway procured a box at the drug store. One night's application brought great relief from the intense itching, and as I kept on applying this balm daily the inflammation was soon drawn out, and in less than a week's time the sores were thoroughly healed and every scab banished, leaving my face perfectly clear and smooth, for which I was very grateful. Two years previous to this I first tested Zam-Buk for the prairie itch which I contracted thro' sleeping with a fellow-boarder. Three tins of Zam-Buk was then sufficient to check and clear it off my skin, while the fellow-boarder failed to use it, and in consequence was troubled all that winter. I have the utmost confidence in the merits of Zam-Buk."

CITY BOARD OF WORKS IN SESSION

Board will Pay More Attention This Year to Road Work Than to Sewers and Sidewalks

The City Board of Works met last night, when there were present Mayor Henry Rush, Chairman Ald. Phelan and Aldermen Povey, Bradburn, Morgan and Elliott.

The Board decided to have the chairman and Street Commissioner Harry Lees look into the complaint of Mr. Campbell that the sidewalk in front of his store on Hunter street was in bad condition.

Ald. Povey offered that this work had been constructed in opposition to the wishes of the city engineer, who had in the first place advised that the sewer would never act satisfactorily.

Nothing definite was done in this matter, although Ald. Phelan was determined to remedy this grievance some way or other.

CEMENT WANTED.

Tenders will be asked for from 3,250 to 4,000 barrels of cement.

STREET SPRINKLING.

The engineer will be authorized to advertise for tenders for street sprinkling, and the committee empowered to award the contracts.

The Board will purchase also belting for stone crusher, and iron rods and coupling for cleaning out sewers.

The Board then adjourned.

Decide to Pay the High License Fee in Havelock

Havelock, Ont., April 3—A by-law was passed in town on February 24 raising the hotel license fee to $750. At first the liquor party tried to quash the by-law because the deputy returning officer resided not use standard time, but that was given up up. They then said they would not pay the high fee, but would shut up their houses, but the hotelkeepers in town, three in number, have made application for license at the high rate. The former rate was $250. They may not all be given licens. They will likely raise the price of sealed whiskey to 15 cents per glass.

Banquet of Friendly Bible Class of George St. Church

The banquet of the Friendly Bible Class of George Street Methodist church was held in the school room last night. About fifty members of the class and their friends sat down to the sumptuous repast provided by the young ladies of the church. After the full justice had been done to the different dishes the toast to the "King" was proposed by the chairman of the evening, Mr. William Pratt. Those assembled responded by singing "God Save the King." The next on the list was the toast to "Our Church," proposed by Wallace Armstrong and responded to by the Rev. E. A. Parson and A. W. Crossman. An instrumental solo by Mr. C. Ackhurst, followed, and then the toast to "Our Country," was proposed by Mr. H. McGill and responded to by Mr. D. W. Dunbar and Mr. H. F. Ackerman.

A vocal solo by Mr. Wright was the next item on the programme and was loudly applauded. The toast to "Our Sunday School" was proposed by Geo. Ingham and responded to by Mr. J. J. Hartley. Mr. F. H. Dodson gave a short address on "When Life Was Young," and a solo by Mr. Mallory preceded the toast to the "Friendly Bible Class," proposed by Harry Crossman and responded to by W. Meath.

A quartette composed of Messrs. Pickard, Mallory, Gray and Miles, rendered a couple of selections which were the feature of the evening.

The last toast on the list was to the "Ladies," proposed by Max Dobbin and responded to by Mr. W. E. McCann.

Stable and Contents Destroyed by Fire

Shortly after nine o'clock last night fire broke out in the stable at the rear of the residence of Alex. Gibbs on Mellon Island, occupied by Mr. Gibbs, who keeps a livery in the town, and destroying the building. Mr. Gibbs, who keeps a livery in the town, was out here back premises when the fire started, and although the fire department was quickly on the scene, the barn was reduced to ashes. The firemen were quickly on the scene, and played two streams of water on the flames, but the fire-king had taken a firm hold, and all efforts to save the stable were fruitless. The upper story of the stable contained about a half ton of hay and a couple bags of oats. Mr. Gibbs' buggy, cutter and harness were taken out and are uninjured. The cause of the fire is thought to be from defective electric wiring.

Expect to Employ 12,000 Men on G.T.P. in the West

Edmonton, April 3.—A force of over 12,000 men will be employed this summer by the contracting firm of Foley, Welch and Stewart in grading the right-of-way of the Grand Trunk Pacific in western Canada, and by far the greater proportion of this force, and after July all the force will be concentrated on that portion of the line between Edmonton and Prince Rupert. Through the Beaver Hills, across the rolling prairies, over treacherous muskegs, up to the foothills and through the heavy rock work to the coast will the line be built by this firm, which is so successfully aiding in the construction of the Transcontinental Railway.

A Prosperous Canadian Company

Royal Victoria Life Insurance Co Closes Successful Year

Prominent among the strong insurance companies of Canada stands the Royal Victoria Life Insurance Company, with headquarters in Montreal. The annual meeting of the company, held March 25th, demonstrated that a most satisfactory state of affairs existed in connection with their business. The directors in their report noted that along every branch of business they had to report success. The income had greatly increased while the expense of management had decreased. The income from premiums and interest increased in proportion to the increase in assets, and insurance in force, and amounted to $175,103.09. In the matter of new insurance it might be noted that there were applications for new insurance amounting to $1,102,500.00, of which $1,000,000 was accepted, and policies issued therefor. When it is considered that this was an increase of 20 per cent. over the previous year, the opinion held of the strength of this company may be seen. Management expenses decreased during the year by 20 per cent. less than in 1906. Death claims actually falling in during the year were 24 per cent. less than the average of such claims during several years previous. The securities of the Royal Victoria Life Co. are of gilt-edged character, and all interest due on them to the company was paid promptly on time.

The resources for payment of all liabilities, present or future, are well worthy of attention, and display a conservative management in the interests of the policy holders.

Messrs. David Burke, general manager, and James Crathern, president, are to be congratulated on the splendid report for 1907.

3,000 Cattle Stampede During Million Dollar Fire at Peoria

50,000 Gallons of Spirits Exploded--Cattle Ran at Large

Unable to Control Blaze

Peoria, Ill., April 3. — Fire which started at the mill of Corning and Company's distillery early this morning was still raging at 9.30 o'clock this morning, and indications were that the entire plant, including two immense bonded warehouses, elevator, cattle yards and stockhouses, would be entirely wiped out. The damage so far is placed at over a $7,000,000 and $1,000,000.

The firemen appeared unable to control the blaze and devoted their efforts chiefly to saving property in the immediate vicinity.

Several explosions occurred, endangering the lives of the firemen. Soon after the fire started 50,000 gallons of spirits in the still proper were consumed, the result of an explosion in the warehouse.

Shortly after the first explosion 3,000 head of cattle stampeded and ran at large in the railroad yards.

Tak: Care of Your Comp'lexion in the Spring.

Miss Millicent Marvin, the noted specialist in beauty culture, gives some excellent advice in the April Delineator to women whose complexions are a source of worry owing to the sun and weather conditions prevalent in the spring months. Among other valuable hints Miss Marvin says:

"Rubbing the skin once or twice a day with a ripe tomato is said to be most helpful in clearing the complexion; lettuce juice has also a beneficial effect."

While these simple remedies are perhaps not generally known or used they are none the less valuable.

Probably the safest and most satisfactory thing for general use in keeping the skin soft and smooth and the complexion clear and brilliant is a simple wash which can be easily prepared at home. The receipt is as follows:

Take two ounces of Rose Water, one ounce of Cologne Spirits, and four ounces of Eppotone. Put the Eppotone in a pint of hot water (not boiling), and after it is dissolved, strain and let cool. Then add the Rose Water and Cologne Spirits.

Apply this wash liberally every night and morning to the face, neck and arms, after thoroughly washing in warm water, and you will soon have a complexion that will be the envy and admiration of every woman you know.

No Fraud Used to Get Confession--No Threats or Promises were Made

Detroit, Mich., April 3—Detective Chief James McDonnell was the principal witness on the stand this forenoon in the Bowin murder trial. The chief told of his various interviews with the prisoner, his repeated efforts to induce Bowin to talk, his numerous failures, and the circumstances attending the final breaking down of the youthful prisoner. He had taken down several interviews, he said, in which Bowin told contradictory stories with a mass of detail. He had known from the reports brought in by his detectives that much of the story told by Bowin on these occasions was untrue. He also said that in some respects there was considerable truth in the statements the young man made, and so he had simply listened and asked questions without intimating at any time his belief that Bowin was telling false hoods. He had treated the prisoner with uniform fairness and kindness, the chief said, and there had been no bluffing nor abuse at any time. After three or four interviews the stenographers' reports showed a great mass of statements that contradicted each other in matters that approached the actual commission of the crime, but were alike in attendant details. The detectives verified most of these outside statements of Bowin, and in doing so turned up evidence completely refuting others. At last, when the records showed a web of falsehood and a new witness made Bowin's identification absolute, the prisoner broke down and told the whole story of the crime.

Hartley to Make the Hamilton to Toronto Run

Dav Hartley, Peterborough's famous walker, will this summer make an attempt on the Hamilton to Toronto run, and says that he will cover the distance in six hours, which is well below the mark set last winter by Claude Pearce of the Irish Canadians. Hartley says that running is not nearly as strenuous as the walking game, and is confident that he will accomplish the feat.

Hartley, who is fifty years of age, is in training for the pedestrian tournament to be held in the Brock street rink here, beginning April 20th, for which seventeen entries have already been received, and among those who will start are: W. A. Hoagland, of Auburn, N.Y., world's champion; Tom Slater, of Buffalo, N.Y.; J. E. Blake, Sarnia; Jackson Hall, Florida; J. Cooper, S. L. Brooks and J. W. Sufford, Toronto, and Walter Barron, of Sudbury, a former English champion, who has a record of 72 wins out of 80 contests.

Ship Cut in Two by Cruiser--36 British Tars Were Drowned

Portsmouth, Eng., April 3.—Thirty-six men, including Lieutenant Middleton, the commander of the torpedo boat destroyer Tiger, lost their lives in the collision off the Isle of Wight last night between that vessel and the British cruiser Berwick.

The vessels belong to the Portsmouth division of the British home fleet and were engaged in night manoeuvres in the channel while on their way to Portland.

The night was dark and the Berwick was steaming slowly. When the destroyer attempted to cross the big cruiser's bow she was caught amidships and cut in half with knife-like precision, sinking almost immediately.

The deck crew, who were dressed in heavy oil skins and boots, went down with the vessel, not having time to free themselves from the heavy encumbrance. Most of the twenty-two men rescued were engineers and stokers who, having light clothing, were able to keep themselves afloat until boats from other ships picked them up.

The Berwick was one of the four cruisers that visited Quebec with the Prince of Battenburg's squadron.

"PAT" HEARD FROM.

Rev. Mr. Munt Tells of Work Among Lumbermen

The meeting in St. Andrew's Hall under the auspices of the local branch of the W. C. T. U., held last night, was in point of numbers and interest a decided success. The Rev. J. G. Potter, president of the City Temperance League, occupied the chair and conducted devotional exercises.

The Rev. Mr. Munt, missionary to the lumbermen, then gave a very interesting and instructive address on the work in which he is engaged. He referred to the fact that in the various mining, milling and lumber camps, one hundred thousand men are employed. Sixty thousand of these are in the lumber camps. The territory under the supervision of Mr. Munt includes the counties of Haliburton, Peterborough, Victoria, all of Parry Sound, all of Muskoka and East Nipissing, altogether a district of 8,000 square miles. He made reference to the many temptations, difficulties and hardships encountered by the men, and the importance of the work carried on by Miss Sproule and himself, under the direction of the W.C.T.U., which included visiting the various camps, of holding services on Sunday during the week, providing the camp with comfort bags containing articles of use for both surgical and personal use, and bags of literature. He closed by reciting a few cases of men who had been led to lead Christian lives, and reading letters from many of the men who pointed the visit of the missionaries as the cause of their conversion.

"The Blood is The Life."

Science has never gone beyond the above simple statement of scripture. But it has illuminated that statement and given it a meaning ever broadening with the increasing breadth of knowledge. When the blood is "bad" or impure it is not alone the body which suffers through disease. The brain is also clouded, the mind and judgement are affected, and many an evil deed or impure thought may be directly traced to the impurity of the blood. Pure, impure blood can be made pure by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It enriches and purifies the blood, thereby curing, pimples, blotches, eruptions and other cutaneous affections, as eczema, tetter, or salt-rheum, hives and other manifestations of impure blood.

In the cure of scrofulous swellings, enlarged glands, open eating ulcers, or old sores, the "Golden Medical Discovery" has performed the most marvelous cures. In cases of old sores, or open eating ulcers, it is well to apply to the open sores Dr. Pierce's All-Healing Salve, which possesses wonderful healing potency when used as an application to the sores in conjunction with the use of "Golden Medical Discovery" as a blood cleansing constitutional treatment. If your druggist don't happen to have the "All-Healing Salve" in stock, you can easily procure it by inclosing fifty-four cents in postage stamps to Dr. R. V. Pierce, 663 Main St., Buffalo, N. Y., and it will come to you by return post. Most druggists keep it as well as the "Golden Medical Discovery."

You can't afford to accept any medicine of unknown composition as a substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery," which is a medicine or KNOWN composition, having a complete list of ingredients in plain English on its bottle-wrapper, the same being attested as correct under oath.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels.

Peterboro Property in Peril?--Mr. W. H. Moore Denies Rumor

The Times was yesterday in receipt of the following letter which explains itself, but is contradicted by Mr. W. H. Moore, the local Water Commissioner. The letter is as follows:

Editor Daily Times

Dear Sir,—I saw in a recent issue of your paper a well toned article about the complete shortage of water throughout the whole city on account of anchor ice a short time ago. Now, Sir, I am informed that, in addition to the peril property owners of this city encounter in case of fire when anchor ice completely cuts off the local water supply, a further danger exists. Whilst I, as a ratepayer and property owner, would be the last one to give Peterborough a bad name with insurance companies, there is no use adopting an ostrich policy in case of danger. I am informed that one of the two pumps at the city waterwork's intake has been out of order for weeks. Now when one of two pumps is out of order, where would Peterborough get water for fire protection or household purposes, if the one remaining pump is put out of business? This is too serious a matter to go untold by the local press. The safety of the city and the actual living of the citizens is involved.

FIRE PROTECTION.

Before publishing the letter a Times representative called on Mr. Moore, and asked his opinion as to the matter. When told the subject matter of the letter Mr. Moore most emphatically denied the truth of this rumor about the pump. He said that the two pumps at the waterworks station are both in full and satisfactory working order. Mr. Moore explained that as a rule only one pump is used at a time so as to let the other rest. Only in case of fire or extraordinary happenings are both pumps worked simultaneously. Still both pumps are in perfect order. This will effectually save citizens from worry should they hear this rumor elsewhere.

Medicine in the Spring Needed by Everyone

Winter Weakens the System, Saps the Blood, Leaves Us Tired and Thin

Great epidemics break out in spring, such as fevers, pestilence, and infectious skin diseases.

Winter shuts us in from air and only the most robust get even a little sunshine. As a consequence of this unnatural mode of life, the blood becomes polluted, thin, colorless. Then we grow listless, dull, easily tired, have headaches and find our work a burden.

Reduced to this condition we become an easy prey to disease and fill hospitals and churchyards.

To rapidly form rich blood, to expel the accumulated humors that winter has stored up in the system, to call back the energy, endurance and vim that will make life joyous, just take Ferrozone, a spring cleanser, unequalled in medicine.

Ferrozone purifies by rebuilding nerve tissue and vitalizing the blood. The entire system soon feels the beneficient action of new rich blood; slow organs are stimulated to normal activity, expel poisons and wastes from tifully, harmonious working of the system. Weak folks are restored and health becomes as natural, a consequence as growth from moisture and sunlight.

Men and women fortify your nerves with Ferrozone, renew the blood through its marvelous blood-forming power, regain vigorous and enduring strength by its action upon appetite and digestion. Use Ferrozone if you want to be strong.

"I increased my weight seven pounds in one month and regained health that had been lost for two years—did this by using Ferrozone," writes Mrs. C. P. Maybee, of Centertown. "Ferrozone brought me restful sleep and good digestion, enabled me to relish my meals and work hard all day. I consider it the finest tonic, the most nourishing medicine I ever used."

Try Ferrozone yourself, 50c per box or six boxes for $2.50, at all dealers.

THE AMERICAN QUESTION

In days long past, when our forefathers revelled in ignorance, when the wrinkles begotten of old age were adjudged to be indubitable evidence of witchcraft, and ensured for the supposed witch a ducking in the nearest pond, usually followed by burning at the stake; when victims of disease were supposed to be "possessed of devils", and were pinched, punched and pounded to exorcise the evil spirits and restore the afflicted ones to their normal health; when the blowing of horns at a sick man's bedside, accompanied by a course dosing with toads' brains, serpents' blood, dogs' tongues, dried and powdered, compounded at midnight, during certain phases of the moon, with weird incantations, was accounted an infallable method of curing disease, and when the little finger of an executed felon cut at midnight from the stark hand of the corpse while it swayed on the gallows was believed by the medical practitioners of the time to be an unfailing preventive of ill-health, the treatment to which a young Armenian was subjected by the McKinnon Dash and Metal Company, imth eir well-meant efforts to cure him of melancholia, as reported in the Star-Journal on Wednesday and Thursday, would have been "the proper thing." The treatment does not receive the endorsation of present day physicians, however, and it is not to be wondered at that an educated man like Mr. Alexander interfered in the interests of humanity to have the unfortunate man removed out of harm's way.

The case has attracted the attention of the public to the local aspects of the "Armenian question," and leaving out of the question the debatable point as to whether or not any firm is justified in importing foreigners to whom employment is given to the exclusion of resident taxpayers, the manner in which the Armenians are housed in this city is open to criticism.

Enquiries made by the Star-Journal have revealed the fact that the great majority of these foreigners, many of whom have lived in the city for three or four years, cannot speak a word of English. Very few of them can find their way about the city, and nearly about a dozen of them know the way from their lodging house to the post office. This is the inevitable result of their being herded together in special lodging houses as they are. If it is expected that these strangers who are brought here by the big manufacturing firms will some day assume the duties of Canadian citizenship, would it not be well to afford them the opportunity to learn the English language and become acquainted with the manners and customs of the country by mingling with the people among whom they are expected to settle. If, instead of being herded in isolated lodging houses, where there own language only is spoken, they were given the opportunity of boarding among our own people," as a citizen remarked yesterday, "they would soon assimilate."

It is very rarely that any of "lodgers" leave their boarding house. Their leisure time is spent in card playing, etc. None of the city clergymen, it is stated, have visited them, and no endeavor has been made to teach them what is necessary in order that they may become law-abiding citizens. The men are sober, industrious and frugal, and, if properly cared for and educated, would, in a short time, become desirable members of the community.

A firm that imports foreigners, as these Armenians are imported, is certainly responsible for their welfare. It was stated to the Star-Journal yesterday by one of the exiles employed in a local factory, that he knew of one case in which an Armenian was offered $500 to induce a stated number of his compatriots to come to this city. The firm that made this offer ought to see to it that the men receive proper treatment and that every opportunity is afforded them to become good Canadians. The city clergymen have at their doors a field in which their labors would prove unusually fruitful, and it is a matter for regret that nothing has, so far, been done to bring these strangers into "the fold" of one or other of the different denominations.

News in Brief

Montreal, April 3.—By order of the board of directors of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, a dividend of 2 per cent. on common stock, for the half-year ended December 31 last, was paid to-day. A further dividend of one-half of 1 per cent. was paid on common stock, out of interest on the proceeds of land sales.

Sunbury, Pa., April 3. — A romantic love affair, which began with the placing of a note in a bottle by Miss Mary A. Erb, of this city, will culminate with an Easter week marriage. Roland McVeigh, of Conowingo, Md. found the note and an acquaintance and subsequent engagements followed.

Montreal, March 26.—In the last fiscal year the Canadian Pacific earned over 13 1-2 per cent. on its then outstanding $121,650,000 common stock, the amount available for the junior issue being in excess of that of the previous year by over $2,000,000. In addition to the foregoing 1 per cent. was declared on the common stock from the proceeds of land sales.

Judging by the showing made by the company during the first seven months of the current fiscal year and the apparent improvement in the business situation, it seems fair to assume that the fiscal year to end June 30th next, bearing fiscal year to end June 30 next, barring any unforseen calamity, will be even more favourable than the country's banner year 1907.

The gross earnings of the company for the second week of March, however, show a falling off of $149,000, as compared with the corresponding period a year ago, but th eincrease in that item from July 1 up to the close of the second week of March is $3,224,054.

Australia prospering

Ottawa, April 3. — Lincoln Steffens, the well-known magazine writer, was the guest of the Canadian Club of Ottawa last night, and delivered an address, dealing with his investigations of corruption in civic and political life in the United States. Turning to Canada, he said: "You are away behind us in the development, of even your grafting, for what you have is not so well organized. Don't let it be; study us; see what it was—not who it was—that corrupted us, and then don't give to your ablest and most courageous men the things which will make them corrupt you, as our ablest men have corrupted us."

The roto of evil in civic and political life was the special privileges granted to a class in the way of public utilities or the power to procur twice and law-breaking. The grating of concessions to individuals or corporations really made them enemies of the state,

St. John, N. B., April 3. — Unless the millmen accept lower wages than those of last year the saw mills here will be very late starting this season, or kept in idleness. The men working for A. Cushing and Company agreed to a reduction of ten per cent., but one of Stetson and Cutler's mills is idle because the men refused. All the owners say that rather than pay the high rate they they will let the mills remain idle. In any case the start will be later than usual, as there is a scarcity of logs at the local booms and the ice is still in the river. There are ten large mills here.

Prince of Wales Dragoons for Quebec

It now seems established that the Prince of Wales Canadian Dragoons, the Peterborough section of which "C" Squadron, is under command of Major Thos J Johnston, will take part in the tercentenary display at Quebec. This news was brought to the city yesterday by Major Joseph Duffus on his return from Port Hope, where the annual meeting of the officers of the Dragoons was held in the Queen's Hotel. Colonel Brown, of Colborne, the commanding officer of the regiment, was present, as well as officers from Millbrook, Bowmanville and Picton. Among the questions considered, the trip to Quebec was discussed. Fifty per cent. of the regiment will assist in the display and will be in Quebec from July 21 to 24.

Special efforts will be made to have accoutrements and equipment of the highest standard. The Dragoons will have the honor of acting as escort to the Prince during their outing; this being the second time the local squadron officiated at a similar function.

Modern Archaeology.

Pat was having an argument with a friend who was well posted in ancient history.

"How foolish of you to contend that the ancient Irish were more advanced than the ancient Egyptians," said his friend. "Why, the Egyptians must have been understood electricity, as wires corresponding to our own telegraph wires have been found in Egypt."

"That may be," answered Pat, "but the fact that no wires have been found in Ireland proves beyond a doubt that the Irish were in the habit of using wireless telegraphy." — Philadelphia Ledger.

"Robert, this spelling paper is very poor," complained the small boy's teacher. "Nearly every word is marked wrong."

Good coal stock is a safe and sure investment.
Galbraith shares are especially attractive

Modest Capitalization Large Coal Reserves

This Company organized under the laws of the Northwest Territories of Canada, owns and operates the Galbraith mine located at Lundbreck, Alta. They have four vertical seams of coal traversing their property, aggregating over 40 feet in thickness. Three of these seams are developed to a depth of 350 feet, and as they pass through the Company's lands for nearly a mile, some idea of the amount of coal may be had

Shipping Steadily

The present output of the mine is about 200 tons per day. These shipments will be rapidly increased, as the C.P.R. allows its cars to be loaded with coal for points in the U. S.

What they offer at 25c per Share for a short time

The property is situated at Mancos, Colo., and consists of 160 acres, fully paid for. The Company expects to secure at least 400 acres or more, we are negotiating for it now and the terms are satisfactory and there is coal on the same, and they also intend to secure some Coal Mines of which they have the refusal. Some of the best coal mines in Colorado are in this district, as well as some of the richest gold and silver mines. In fact this is one of the richest parts for mineral in the State of Colorado, and the Company has the refusal to several prospects on reasonable and easy terms.

In our opinion the prospects of the Company are very bright, and a rapid advance in the price of the stock is sure to take place in the near future. Full information can be had by calling at our office.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTHWEST HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an Agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each on and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of a homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father or mother.

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing must be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa, of intention to apply for patent.

your when he marries the girl. Hay acted clever enough."

"But it left you Hay has nothing to do with the murder."

"That ma' be so, though I don't trust him. But Mrs. Krill might have strangled her husband so as to get the money."

"What makes you think she did?" asked Aurora doubtfully.

"Well, you see, from what Jessop says, Mrs. Krill is devotedly attached to Maud, and she may have been anxious to revenge her daughter on Krill. He acted like a brute and fastened the child's lips together, so Mrs. Krill treated him in the same way."

"Hum," said Miss Qian reflectively, "but can you prove that Mrs. Krill was in town on the night of the murder?"

"That's what I'm going to find out," said Hurd. "All you have to do is to keep your eyes on Hay"—

"Oh, he won't cut, if that's what you mean. He thinks everything is square, now that I've got those boys to stop chattering. He'll marry Maud and annex the money."

"He may marry Maud," said Hurd emphatically, "but he certainly won't get the five thousand a year. Miss Norman will."

"Hold on," cried Aurora shrewdly. "Maud may not be Lemuel Krill's child, or she may have been born before Krill married the mother, but in any case Sylvia Norman isn't the child of a legal marriage. Krill certainly committed bigamy, so his daughter Sylvia can't inherit."

"Well," said Hurd, "I can't say. I'll see Pash about the matter. After all, the will left the money to 'my daughter,' and that Sylvia is beyond doubt, whatever Maud may be. And, I say, Aurora, just you go down to Stowley, in Buckinghamshire. I haven't time to look into matters there myself."

"What do you want me to do there?"

"Find out all about the life of Mrs. Krill before she married Krill and came to Christchurch. She's the daughter of a farmer. You'll find the name in this." Hurd passed along a copy of the marriage certificate which Mrs. Krill had given to Pash. "Anne Tyler is her maiden name. Find out what you can. She was married to Krill at Beechill, Bucks."

Miss Qian took the copy of the certificate and departed, grumbling at the amount of work she had to do to earn her share of the reward. Hurd, on his part, took the underground train to Liverpool street station and then traveled to Jubilectown. He arrived there at 12 o'clock and was greeted by Paul.

"I've been watching for you all the morning," said Beecot, who looked flushed and eager. "Sylvia and I have made such a discovery!"

Hurd nodded good humoredly as he entered the house and shook hands with the girl.

"Miss Norman has been doing some detective business on her own account," he said, smiling. "Hello, who is this?"

He made this remark because Mrs. Purr, sitting in a corner of the room, with red eyes, rose and dropped a courtesy.

"I've called to tell you what I do tell on my Bible oath," said Mrs. Purr, with fervor.

"Mrs. Purr can give some valuable evidence," said Paul quickly.

"Oh, can she? Then I'll hear what she has to say later. First, I must clear the ground by telling you and Miss Norman what I have discovered at Christchurch."

So Mrs. Purr, rather unwillingly, for she felt the importance of her position, was bundled out of the room, and Hurd sat down to relate his late adventures. This he did clearly and slowly and was interrupted frequently by exclamations of astonishment from his two hearers.

"So there," said the detective when finishing, "you have the beginning of the end."

"Then you think that Mrs. Krill killed her husband?" asked Paul dubiously.

"I can't say for certain," was the cautious reply, "but I think so on the face of the evidence which you have heard. What do you say?"

"Don't say anything," said Sylvia before Paul could reply. "Mr. Hurd had better read this paper. It was found by Deborah in an old box belonging to my father, which was brought from Gwynne street."

She gave the detective several sheets of blue foolscap pinned together and closely written in the shaky handwriting of Aaron Norman. Hurd looked at it rather dubiously. "What is it?" he asked.

"The paper referred to in that unfinished scrap of writing which was discovered behind the safe," explained Paul. "Norman evidently wrote it out and placed it in his pocket, where he forgot it. Deborah found it in an old coat she discovered in a box of clothes brought from Gwynne street. They were Norman's clothes and his box and should have been left behind."

"Debby won't hear of that," said Sylvia, laughing. "She says Mrs. Krill has got quite enough, and she took all she could."

"What's all this writing about?" asked Hurd, turning over the closely written sheets. "To save time you had better give me a precis of the matter. Is it important?"

"Very, I should say," responded Paul emphatically. "It contains an account of Norman's life from the time he left Christchurch."

"Ham!" Hurd's eyes brightened. "I'll read it at my leisure, but at the present moment you might say what you can."

"Well, you know a good deal of it," said Paul, who did the talking at a sign from Sylvia. "It seems that Norman—we'd better stick to the old name—left Christchurch because he was afraid of being accused of murdering Lady Raphel."

"Was she really murdered?"

"Norman doesn't say. He swears he knows nothing about the matter. The first intimation he had was when Jessop came down with the news after blundering into the wrong bedroom. But he hints that Mrs. Krill killed her."

"Can he prove that?"

"No; he can't give any proof, or, at all events, he doesn't. He declares that when his wife and daughter"—

Tray wiped his mouth with the back of his sleeve. "I 'eard that Mr. Norman was dead"—

"Yes, and you told Jessop so in the office. How did you know?"

"'Cause I went to the shop in the mornin' to sell the brooch to the ole man. He was a goner, so I cut to Mr. Pash, as was his lawyer, and said I'd sell 'im the brooch."

"What?" cried Hurd, rising. "You gave the brooch to Mr. Pash?"

"Yuss. He said he'd 'ave me up for stealin' and wouldn't pay me even a bob fur it. But he said I'd be his orfice boy. I thought I'd be respectable, so I went. And now," ended Master Clump in a sullen manner, "you knows all, and I ain't done nothin', so I'm orf."

Deborah caught him by the tail of his jacket as he made a dart at the door and swung him into the middle of the room. Hurd laid hands on him. "You come along with me," he said. "I'll confront you with Pash."

Tray gave a howl of terror. "He'll kill me," he shouted, "as he killed the old cove. Yuss. He did it. Pash did it." And he howled again.

CHAPTER XXIII.

IN the smoking compartment, which the three had to themselves, Hurd resumed his examination of Tray. They were now on their way to Liverpool street, and thence the detective intended to convey the boy to Pash's office, in Chancery lane. Paul sat in one corner much excited over the turn events had taken. He began to think that the assassin of Aaron Norman would be found, after all. More, he believed that Sylvia would yet inherit the five thousand a year she was entitled to morally, if not legally. Hurd, in another corner, pulled Tray roughly toward him and shook his finger in the lad's face. The boy was sulky and defiant, yet there was a trace of fear in his eyes, and the reason of this Hurd wished to learn.

"You're a young liar," said Hurd emphatically, "and not a clever one either. Do you think to play the fool with me?"

"I've tole you all straight," grumbled Tray.

"No, you haven't. Any one can see that you've made a mistake. I leave it to Mr. Beecot yonder."

"I was about to draw your attention to the mistake," said Paul; "you mean the discrepancy in time."

Master Clump started and became more sulky than ever. He cast down his cunning eyes and shuffled with his feet while Hurd lectured him. "You know well enough," said the detective sharply, "that the brooch was bought by you on the very evening when the murder took place. It was then that Mr. Beecot met with his accident. Therefore you could not have given the brooch to Mr. Pash the next morning, as it had been used on the previous night."

"She'n't say anythin' more," retorted Tray defiantly.

"Oh, won't you?" cried Hurd ironically. "We'll see about that. You told that lie about the time to account for your knowing of the murder before any one else did."

"No," said Tray decidedly; "I did go to the shorp in th' mornin'."

"That you may have done, but not to sell the brooch. Mr. Pash had taken it from you on the previous night."

"He didn't," denied the boy.

"Then in that case you've told a lie. Pash never had the brooch and has nothing to do with the murder."

"He did prig the brooch from me, and he did kill the ole cove."

"Well, we'll see what Mr. Pash will say when you accuse him," said Hurd, "but I don't believe one word of it. It's my opinion that you gave that brooch to a third party on the same evening as you stole it. Now, then, who did you give it to?"

"Mr. Pash," persisted Tray.

"On the same evening?"

There was no reply to this. Tray set his lips firmly and refused to speak. Hurd shook an admonitory finger again. "You can't play fast and loose with me, my lad," he said grimly. "If you didn't part with that brooch, you must be mixed up in the crime yourself. Perhaps you pinned the poor wretch's mouth together. It's just the sort of cruel thing a young Cain like you would do."

"I didn't," said Master Clump doggedly. "You take me to master, and I'll tell him what I tells you. He's the one."

Hurd shook the boy to make him talk more, but Tray simply threw himself on the floor of the carriage and howled. The detective therefore picked him up and flung him into a corner. "You stop there, you little ruffian," he said, seriously annoyed at the boy's recalcitrants. "We'll speak again when we are in Mr. Pash's office." So Tray curled up on the cushion, looked savagely at the detective and held his tongue.

Rheumatism

I have found a tried and tested cure for Rheumatism! Not a remedy that will straighten distorted limbs of chronic cripples, nor bring growths back to flesh again. That is impossible! But I can now surely kill the pains and put an end to this deplorable disease.

In Germany—with a Chemist in the City of Darmstadt—I found the last ingredient with which Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy was made a perfected, dependable prescription. With that last ingredient, I successfully treated many cases of Rheumatism; but now, at last, it is positively cures all curable cases of this heretofore much dreaded disease. These mud-like granules wasted, found in Rheumatic Blood poison dissolve and pass away under the action of this remedy as freely as does sugar when added to pure water. And then, when dissolved, these poisonous wastes freely pass from the system, and the cause of Rheumatism is gone forever. There is now no real need—no actual excuse to suffer longer without help. We sell, and in confidence recommend

Mr. Geo A. Proctor Here

Mr. Geo. A. Proctor, of Sarnia, contractor of the Peterborough Armouries, was in the city yesterday. It had hoped to recommence the brick work at once, but the weather was too cold. Sand, lime and brick have been unloaded on the premises, and everything is in readiness for work. Part of the walls are already built, and the remaining portions will be rapidly pushed forward.

More Gifts to Relief Fund

Another distribution of provisions and other commodities will be made to-night by City Relief Officer Finch Miller. This has been made possible by a donation of twenty-five dollars from Dr. Holliday. Ald. Tovell's Young Ladies' Bible Class of the Charlotte Street Methodist Church has given $35 and the G. P. R. 125 loaves of bread.

The Husky Police Officer

Yesterday a local saddler called at the police station and asked P. C. McGinty to show him the service belts used by the local police force. The enquirer had a large snake hook belt sewn and wanted to make the remainder of a belt for the chief of police of Trenton. He mentioned incidentally that the customer of his weighed two hundred and sixty-five pounds. This is another sample of how outside orders are sent to Peterborough.

THREATENED WITH PARALYSIS.

Peter E. Summers, of Kalamazoo, Mich., relates his experience:

"I was troubled with Nervous Debility for many years. I lay it to ball-session and excesses in early youth. I became very despondent and didn't care whether I worked or not. I imagined everybody who looked at me guessed my secret. Imaginative dreams at night weakened me—my back ached, had pains in the back of my head, hands and feet were cold, tired in the morning, poor appetite, fingers were shaky, eyes blurred, hair loose, memory poor, etc. Numbness in the fingers set in and the doctor told me he feared paralysis. I took all kinds of medicines and tried many first-class physicians, wore an electric belt for three months, went to St. Clemens for baths, but received little benefit. While at St. Clemens I was induced to consult Drs. Kennedy & Kennedy, though I had lost all faith in doctors. Like a drowning man I commenced the New Method Treatment and it saved my life. The improvement was like magic. I could feel the vigor going through the nerves. I was cured mentally and physically. I have sent them many patients and will continue to do so."

AMERICAN OFFICERS OF HIGH RANK AND OTHERS ENDORSE PE-RU-NA.

Prominent People Recommend the Remedy Pe-ru-na.

Dr. Hartman's World Renowned Catarrh Medicine.

A Remedy for the Grip.

Gen. W. H. Parsons, 925 H St., N. W., Washington, D. C., writes as follows:

"Upon the recommendation of personal friends and many strong testimonials to the efficacy of Peruna in the treatment of the numerous symptoms of the grip with which I have been affected for four months past, I have been induced to undergo a treatment of this justly celebrated formula.

"I feel a decided change for the better by its use for one week only, especially in toning up the stomach, and a consequent decided effect upon my appetite.

"I therefore feel much encouraged that I am on the road to complete restoration.

"My numerous friends in Texas, where I have had the honor to command a brigade of her veteran cavalry in a four-year war, may accept this voluntary testimonial to the merit of Peruna from a sense of obligation for its wonderful efficacy."

Pe-ru-na a Good Tonic.

Gen. M. C. Butler, of South Carolina, writes from Washington, D. C., as follows:

"I can recommend Peruna for dyspepsia and stomach trouble.

"I have been using your medicine for a short period and I feel very much relieved.

"It is indeed a wonderful medicine, and besides a good tonic."

Colds in the Head and Throat.

Chas. W. Bowman, 1st Lieut. and Adjt. 4th M. S. M. Cav. Vols., writes from Lanham, Md., as follows:

"Though somewhat averse to patent medicines, and still more averse to becoming a professional affidavit man, it seems only a plain duty in the present instance to add my experience to the columns already written concerning the curative powers of Peruna.

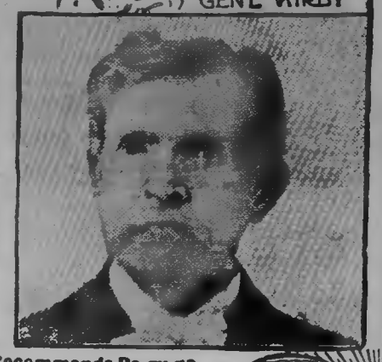
"I have been particularly benefited by its use for colds in the head and throat.

"I have been able to fully cure myself of a most severe attack in forty-eight hours by its use according to directions.

"I use it as a preventive whenever threatened with an attack.

"Members of my family also use it for like ailments.

"We are recommending it to our friends."



Recommends Pe-ru-na to the Afflicted.

Brig. Gen. D. T. Kirby, Washington, D. C., writes concerning Peruna, as follows:

"Friends of mine having used your Peruna catarrh cure with good results, I am impressed with its curative qualities, and can recommend it to those who are afflicted."

An Invigorating Tonic.

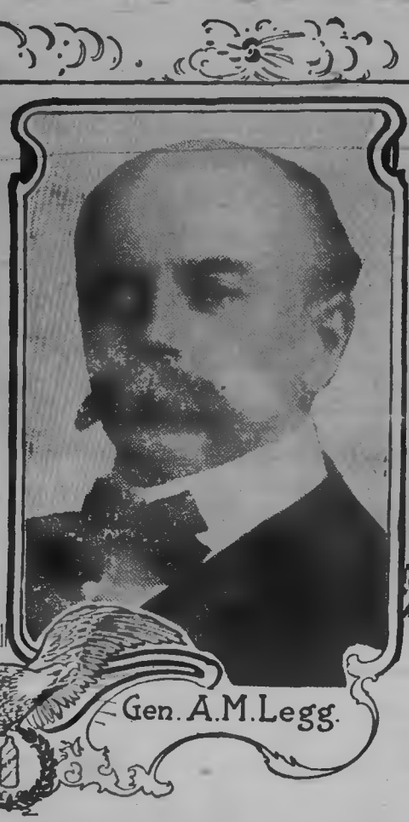
Rear-Admiral Hichborn, U. S. Navy, Washington, D. C., writes:

"After the use of Peruna for a short period, I can now cheerfully recommend your valuable remedy to any one who is in need of an invigorating tonic."

For Catarrh of the Stomach.

Gen. W. W. Duffield, Washington, D. C., writes:

"I have used Peruna in my family and have found it a valuable medicine and take pleasure in recommending it to all who suffer from catarrh of the stomach or who require a tonic of prompt efficacy."



Used Pe-ru-na—Satisfied As to Its Merits —Recommends It to All Sufferers.

Gen. S. S. Yoder, 203 Md. Ave., N. E., Washington, D. C., writes:

"I desire to say that I have found Peruna to be a wonderful remedy. I only used it for a short time and am thoroughly satisfied as to its merits. I shall gladly recommend it to all sufferers."

DEAFNESS CAUSED BY CATARRH— RELIEVED BY PE-RU-NA.

Gen. A. M. Legg, writes from the Savings Bank Building, Washington, D. C., as follows:

"I take pleasure in endorsing the many recommendations I have heard and read of Peruna, because of having had knowledge of the troth of so many of them.

"We always tell our sick and ailing friends of the remedies that we have learned, from experience, were good for us when ailing in the same way, and we do it as a duty we feel that we owe them.

"Why is it any the less our duty to advise all the people we can when we know of a good and comparatively inexpensive remedy that makes many cures, and benefits in almost all cases?

"My own little personal experience of being relieved of deafness, caused by a siege of catarrh, warrants me in advising all the afflicted to just try Peruna."

For Kidney Trouble, Coughs, Colds and Catarrh.

Gen. A. T. Hawley, 1336 25th St., N. W., Washington, D. C., writes:

"I have used Peruna and find it very beneficial for kidney trouble, and especially good for coughs, colds and catarrhal trouble."

Convinced of Pe-ru-na's Merit.

Brig. Gen. J. Floyd King, Washington, D. C., writes:

"I unhesitatingly state that I am convinced Peruna is a medicine which will effect all that is claimed for its use."

Those desirous of obtaining special directions with regard to the use of Peruna should write to Dr. S. B. Hartman, President of the Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.

When Other Remedies Failed Pe-ru-na Proved Efficacious.

Hon. Geo. W. Honey, National Chaplain U. V. U., Ex-Chaplain 4th Wisconsin Cavalry, Ex-Treas. State of Wisconsin and Ex-Q. Master General State of Texas, G. A. R., writes from 1700 First street, N. E., Washington, D. C., as follows:

"I cannot too highly recommend your preparation for the relief of catarrhal troubles in their various forms.

"Some members of my own family have used it with most gratifying results.

"When other remedies failed, Peruna proved most efficacious and I cheerfully certify to its curative excellence."

Pe-ru-na, a Standard Treatment for Catarrhal Diseases.

Mr. John C. Nelson, Dayton, Tenn., geologist and mining engineer, while a Captain in the Federal Army during the Civil War, contracted a case of rheumatism. This malady was constant and persistent, inducing the development of other ailments, which also became chronic. After taking a course of Peruna, Capt. Nelson writes:

"Having been painfully afflicted with chronic rheumatism and the adjunctive complications for many years, and after having received many general and special treatments with only temporary relief, I read your scientific treatise on catarrhal diseases.

"At my request you prescribed a special course of the Peruna remedies, which I closely followed, and am happy to report that my rheumatism and complicated ailments are subdued, and I feel young again at the age of 69 years.

"Reason will accept your classification of catarrhal diseases as scientific and true, and the Peruna remedies as a standard treatment for them. I thank you heartily for your skilled and logical advice."

Enjoys Renewed Health and Strength.

James J. Osborn, 623 Wahsatch Ave., Colorado Springs, Colo., has filled all the positions in Knight Templars Masonic Order, was a Mason since 1866, Judge of County Court, Clinton, Mo., and also County Collector of Clinton. He writes:

"A sluggish liver which I had been troubled with for two years made life miserable and I was unable to attend to my business half the time. I lacked energy, had headache most of the time, and my food distressed me and did not seem to do me a particle of good.

"Reading of the many cures performed by Peruna, I decided to try a bottle. Before I had taken many doses I felt better.

"I took it as directed for two months when I was a well man."

The Royal Victoria Life Insurance Co.

DIRECTORS' REPORT

Presented to Annual Meeting, Montreal, March 25th, 1908, Shows a Very Satisfactory Bussiness for the Year.

Your Directors beg to submit their report of the Company's business for the year 1907, together with the financial statement and the auditor's report.

NEW INSURANCE INCREASED—The new applications for Insurance amounted to $1,102,500.00, of which $1,000,000.00 was accepted and policies issued therefor, being an increase of 27 per cent. over the year 1906.

INSURANCE IN FORCE INCREASED—The insurance in force at the end of the year reached $4,864,355.00, which is satisfactory, considering the many surrenders which affected many policyholders in continuing their insurance, while the loan benefits under their policies had not yet accrued.

INCOME INCREASED—The income from premiums and interest amounted to $175,[illegible] being a proportionate increase to the increase in assets and insurance in force.

EXPENSES DECREASED—The expenses of management to income further decreased during the year one per cent., although the new business increased over 20 per cent. compared with the previous year.

PAYMENTS TO POLICYHOLDERS—The total payments to Policyholders amounted to $52,819.69, being for death claims $33,374.80 (which was $9,000 less than the previous year), and for annuities $5,354.28, and surrender and non-forfeiture values $14,190.61.

DEATH CLAIMS DECREASED—The net death claims actually falling in during the year amounted to $30,961.00, which was 24 per cent. less than the average of the total of such claims for the previous four years.

LOANS OF POLICYHOLDERS INCREASED—The increase in loans to Policyholders amounted to $9,391.20, the total sum at the close of the books being $49,464.44, showing that many Policyholders of the Company have been benefitted during the year by the very liberal loan provisions of their policies.

FIRST-CLASS SECURITIES OWNED—The very high class of securities owned by the Company is seen by the fact that every dollar of interest thereon was paid to the Company on the date due; and the temporary depreciation in market value at the lowest point reached during the year 1907 did not exceed three per cent. of such securities.

RESOURCES FOR PAYMENT OF LIABILITIES—The liabilities for Legal Reserves on insurance and annuity policies in force, by the Dominion Government Standard, and for death claims outstanding amount to $543,227.61, while the resources of the Company for the payment of the same amount to $1,876,779.62, after a most conservative valuation of the securities owned by the Company at the end of the year at the then market value.

Harry Thompson Loses Valuable Dog

Mr. Harry Thompson a well known citizen, yesterday mourned the loss of a great personal pet and a valuable great Dane dog. There seems to have been a respite of late given "man's best friends," and people owning them have been able to let their dogs go about and enjoy the use of our streets that is paid for by special taxes. Still the dog poisoner, who slays these animals indiscriminately without regard to breed, use or ownership, has once more got at his nefarious practices. The dog lost by Mr. Thompson was very valuable, and that gentleman was recently offered a large sum for the animal. Strychnine was the poison used and the dog crept into a outhouse to a George street door and there stretched out in the agony incumbent on this style of death. Three other dogs, the same day, must have wandered into the same neighborhood, as they died from the same style of poison.

Hon. Adam Beck Explains Policy on Power Question

Ready Now to Supply Power at Nine Dollars

Position of Government

From the Toronto News.

In moving the second reading of the bill providing for the development of water power on Dog Lake, Hon. Adam Beck stated in the Legislature yesterday that it was part of the Government's policy to not only supply cheap power to the people of the Province of Ontario, but that the water powers of the Province should be preserved to the people.

"In this work", said Mr. Beck, "we are meeting with a great deal of difficulty because of the numerous applications to the Dominion Government by parties endeavoring to corral and take from the Province this valuable asset. In this case, I contend, we are doing a great benefit to the north country, to the towns of Fort William and Port Arthur, which in the future will become the great industrial gateways to the West.

Mr. Beck said the power policy and the Commission figures had been severely criticized, but the criticism had been the result of lack of information.

THE POSITION TO-DAY.

"What is the position to-day? We are ready to supply the municipalities with power at $9 per horse power, not $12 as they voted upon. (Cheers).

Mr. Beck said that the Liberal leader was in error when he had scoffed at the Commission's price per acre for transmission right-of-way. They were based upon actual figures obtained. With regard to the statement that the Commission had not given the fullest information, he said the engineers had been for several months continually on the road, visiting every municipality that desired information, and going into the fullest details.

The reply of the Hon. Adam Beck to the Liberal leader's arguments that the Government should have taken over the Electrical Development Company was that the company did no default under its agreement. "It is not the policy of the Government," said Mr. Beck, "to endeavor to bring about the failure of large public companies for the purpose of getting cheap control thereof, even in the interest of the general public.

POSITION OF GOVERNMENT.

"The next criticism is that the Government should have brought the city of Toronto and the representatives of the English bondholders together. The Government could not interfere with the business of the Electrical Development Company. Their representative did not ask the Government to act as a go-between with the city of Toronto, and an offer of that kind from the Government would have been unwarranted in the first place, and fruitless in the second. Had he desired the assistance of the city of Toronto he would have approached it. But when did Toronto receive power to buy out a 12,000 horse power hydraulic power plant and dispose of the output throughout the whole Western part of Ontario? The suggestion seems to me preposterous. The purchase of nearly $10,000,000 of bonds and $6,000,000 of stock would have been involved, and if Hon. Mr. MacKay had understood the elements of his subject he would have known that no such deal as was consummated by the private citizen he refers to (Mr. Wm. Mackenzie) was available for either the city of Toronto or to the Provincial Government under the circumstances of the time.

THE POWER POLICY.

"The policy of the Government is to purchase power at the generating stations of the large existing companies at lower prices than the quantities required could be independently developed at and transmit the same to the municipalities at the low rate of the Government constructed high tension transmission plant — if that course becomes necessary — thereby securing the lowest prices to the consumer and the preservation of existing enterprises.

"We hope to be able to-morrow to convince these people that our estimates are absolutely correct," continued Mr. Beck. He stated that details were being carefully worked out.

"We have $9 power instead of $12 power, we have 14 cents copper instead of 24 cent copper.

NINE DOLLAR POWER.

"The proposition is this: With the expenditure of a certain amount of money we expect to be able to deliver this 30 horse power to municipalities at a price lower than the amount set forth in the by-law. It has been said that power can be delivered in Toronto at $13.50. That is on a basis of 30,000 horse power, but when we are supplying 60,000 horse power on the same capital expenditure you will realize how cheap power is going to be. In transmitting at high voltage our idea is not to save copper, not to save half a million dollars, but to reach remote municipalities. Owen Sound or Kingston are not beyond the zone of economic transmission. This is not a sectional undertaking, but one that has in view the industrial up-building of the Province of Ontario."

Hon. Frank Cochrane pointed out that the proposition with reference to Dog Lake was to have a dam of much larger proportions than was formerly intended so that all interests would be served and a more valuable water power below Dog Lake protected.

Hon. A. G. MacKay in replying to Hon. Adam Beck, stated that the municipalities would be mulcted in a great expenditure in connection with a proposition in which they had not been properly enlightened and to which they had not given their authority.

Enormous Increase of Police Lodgers

As an instance of the greater hardships to be encountered this year by men out of work, it might be noted that up to 5.30 on Saturday night there had been thirteen duly offered applications for lodging at the police station. During the month of April, 1907, there were only three such applications, and these included a local old man, who was to be only given a night's rest there. The comparison thus practically shows, if the whole of April this year continues, the record so far shown, during April, 1908, there will be over 90 applications for lodging as compared with three of last year. Of course this enormously increased number of men looked up over night by their own request at police headquarters is largely caused by the tide of immigration that has flowed here recently.

Does Not Like Canadians

Mr. W. A. Bailey Says They Are Neither too Honest or too Truthful

The Times is in receipt of the following letter:—

Peterborough, April 3.

Sirs—You report Mr. H. Claxton as making uncomplimentary remarks about immigrants. If they are not wanted why do your governments and agencies bring them here? You brought the Japs out and then howled. Personally I have found the native Canadian neither too honest or truthful—in fact rather cunning. I have met more lagging and thieving here in twelve months than in 20 years in England. In some respects it is worse than Russia.

Yours obediently,

W. A. BAILEY.

Huge Foreigner Fought in Toronto Bay with Rescuer

Toronto, April 4. — Miller and Hargo's slip at the waterworks dock was the scene yesterday afternoon of a battle for life that rivalled the revolver fight a week ago Monday night in which Tito Miketich lost his life.

This was not a battle between man upon murder bent but a struggle for life in the icy waters of the bay.

The principals were Thos. Aitkins, of 130 Duchess street, a steamboat fireman, well known along the water front, and two Hungarian laborers, employed by Haney and Miller on the waterworks turn 1.

A group of these foreigners and some English-immigrants had gathered on a scow in slip when a scuffle broke out. In the melee — it may have been no more than rough play — two fell into the icy waters of the bay.

At this instant Aitkens and George Gooch arrived in the slip in Gooch's sail boat. As they swung in they saw the predicament of the two men. As the predicament of the two men. Aitkens at once leaped overboard, seizing one man, swam with him to the boat where Gooch assisted by some of those in the dock pulled him to safety.

Meanwhile the other man had sunk. Aitkens, without pausing to remove any of his clothing, clambered upon the dock and drove after him. He reached him the first plunge and brought the drowning man to the surface.

The fellow, who was a huge Bulgarian laborer of great strength, commenced to fight as soon as he reached the top of the water. He seized Aitkens by the throat, and in his frenzied panic, shoved him under. Aitkens, nothing daunted, seized hold of the man again the instant he got his head above the water but the Bulgarian, terror stricken, climbed upon his rescuer's shoulders and shoved him under again.

Three or four times this occurred until Aitkens, tiring and fearing that the man would drown in spite of his efforts, and take him to the bottom with him, adopted heroic measures.

The next time he came up he aimed a heavy blow at the Bulgarian's temple, but the blow only stimulated the foreigner into further action and for several moments there was a fierce battle for life in the cold water.

Finally, Aitkens succeeded in battering the struggling man into insensibility, and was able to turn his attention into getting him ashore. He towed him to a couple of planks thrown into the slip by the men on the dock, and they pulled him out.

Aitkens himself was utterly exhausted from the hard fight the Bulgarian had given him. He was taken to the Queen City Yacht Club, where he secured dry clothing. He was around town none the worse for the rescue an hour later.

The North-West Being Invaded by Rats from U. S.

Regina, Sask., April 3 — In an obscure corner of the morning paper the outbreak of another question is set forth with cold, unimpassioned brevity. A most unwelcome class of immigrants has been coming across the American border at Gretna, Manitoba, a quiet town in the Mennonite district. As is their wont, these immigrants have been taking up their unwelcome abode in the houses of the citizens, and the despatch calmly relates that one, Rudloffs, a butcher, murdered twenty of them.

Yet up to the present neither the United States nor the Canadian Government has taken any notice of this crime. So callous are the people of both countries that it is not apparently regarded as a crime, though it occurred among a people who hold life so sacred that they will not in any way countenance war.

The immigrants are a horde of rats.

Up to now the whole of the west from the lakes to the mountains has been clear of this pest of Egypt. The rodent known as the muskrat has built his home unmolested in the rivers, lakes and sloughs of the west, and occasionally made his way into the house drains. Mice also levied toll on the family larder, but the west has so far been free from the rat. It may be that they are deserting sinking ships of state in the nearly Republic, but whatever the cause their invasion is most unwelcome. It is likely that this is the penalty we will have to pay for commercial expansion. Our only hope is that among the motley crowd of immigrants we may yet find a Pied Piper of Hamlin, who will charm them back across the border. Their advent shows the need of strict supervision of immigration from the United States.

Fight Over Anti-Gambling Bill Waxes Warm at Albany

Albany, N.Y., April 6 — Another fight and lineup over the anti-race track gambling bills took place here before noon in the Senate chamber, when Senator Agnew moved a substitute for his bills which was defeated last night to the effect of third reading those of Assemblyman Hart, which have passed the Assembly. The first test vote showed an apparent gain of one for the bills. Senator Gratton of Albany fulfilled his promise of last night to favor the measures. The vote was 27 to 19, all the absentees being from the side of the opposition.

By the vote on one of the bills, the amendment to the Percy-Gray law, was substituted. The substitution of the penal code amendment was blocked by a parliamentary technicality arising from the fact that the bill was amended yesterday.

INCREASED INTENSITY.

The dogged fight was continued with increased intensity in spite of the fact that the sponsors of the bill had gained a vote since last night. Every parliamentary device applicable to the situation was resorted to by the opposition, led as before by Senator Grady, and they succeeded in blocking the progress of the penal code bill on the ground that the Assembly and Senate bills, which Senator Agnew was endeavoring to have substituted, were not in fact perfectly identical, the discrepancy being as between the words "registered" in one and "registering" in the other. When this difference was pointed out, Lieut.-Governor Chanler in the chair, said he would refer the two bills for comparison to the committee on revision.

A glance at the personnel of the Revision Committee disclosed the fact that the committee would stand four to three against the proposed legislation, as shown by their votes last night and to-day. It soon became evident that the committee had no intention of unduly expediting their work on the bill.

At 1.30 the Senate took an hour's recess.

At 4 p.m. to-day, after a day of desultory and comparatively aimless manoeuvring over the anti-gambling bills, the indications were that an attempt would be made to-day to pass at least one of the bills. This one is the principal bill, to eliminate the section of the Percy-Gray racing law, which has virtually legalized gambling at race tracks. At that time it was the general belief that the sponsors of the bill had more than sufficient votes to pass it. The other bill, to amend the penal code, by abolishing the alternative penalty of a fine for gambling was tied up in a complexity of parliamentary procedure, and probably cannot be reached to-day.

Mr. Taylor Stratten's Talk to the Boys in the Crystal

Yesterday afternoon a new feature in connection with the Crystal was a special meeting for boys over 14 years of age held in that building. The meeting, which was held under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A., was well attended, every seat being occupied.

Mr. Taylor Stratton, secretary of the Boys' Club in connection with the central Y. M. C. A., Toronto, and several of his co-workers, gave the boys stirring addresses, full of good practical advice, and containing many points that will, if acted on, be of use throughout the lives of all present.

Mr. Stratton was assisted by several of his colleagues in his department, which has a membership of over 1000 boys. The singing was particularly attractive.

The Restorative is a genuine tonic to tired, run-down nerves, and but a few doses is needed to satisfy the user that Dr. Shoop's Restorative is actually reaching that tired spot. The indoor life of winter nearly always leads to sluggish bowels, and to sluggish circulation in general. The customary lack of exercise and outdoor air ties up the liver, stagnates the kidneys, and oftimes weakens the Heart's action. Use Dr. Shoop's Restorative a few weeks and all will be changed. Bishop Ireland Sends Out Warning Letter to Clergy and Laity

St. Paul, April 4—Archbishop John Ireland of St. Paul has written a letter to the clergy and laity of the archdiocese on the subject of marriage and divorce.

Its occasion is the recent encyclical on marriage issued by Pope Pius X. The letter says in part:

"Christian marriage is a sacrament—an act permeated to its utmost core with divine activity, wrapped up in it to the reason of divine life, under the control of new laws befitting its supernal character. To the Christian the marriage contract can never be a mere natural engagement between man and woman, ruled by laws adopted by their own freedom; nor is it a mere social or civil contract, made binding only through civil enactments, lasting only so long as those enactments order it to last.

"In the teaching of Christ, the marriage contract is indissoluble. Human laws cannot dissolve it. The church, in its spiritual supremacy, cannot dissolve it.

"The cessation of the contract, the re-marriage to another — of husband or of wife—renders fatherless or motherless the children of the first marriage, and dissipates in their souls the sanctity of the home. Divorce breaks up the home which God had intended as the sanctuary of love and safety for husband and for wife, for son and for daughter. It undermines civil society, which in its vital construction is an organic aggregation of families, finding in the stability of the family its own stability, in the purity and integrity of the family its own purity and integrity.

"To-day, as never before, war is made upon Christian marriage. The contract or marriage is stripped of all religious ceremonial, of all sacred meaning. It becomes a mere natural barter of hearts and fortunes, hastily entered into as the most insignificant of commercial exchanges, to be no less hastily burst asunder and forgotten. Divorce is almost the fashion. Nations vie with one another in yielding up their statute books to its decrees. Our own America leads in the race to do honor to its empire. Our record in this regard is most shameful.

"The moment is solemn for the Catholic Church. She is on exhibition before the world as the one Christian Church, since she alone holds steadfastly to the teachings of Christ on marriage; she is on exhibition as the one unconquerable guardian of the family and of the social fabric itself, which reposes, as upon its very foundation, upon the family and the virtues that are begotten of it."

Referring to the recent encyclical of the Pope, Archbishop Ireland says: "The aim of the legislation, enacted in the encyclical, is to throw strong safeguards around marriage, removing from espousals and from the contract of marriage the fatal peril of haste and thoughtlessness.

"The remedy to this haste and thoughtlessness is the presence of the priest at every marriage, and the opportunity allowed him to ascertain beforehand whether there are pre-existing impediments to the marriage, and to give to the parties who are to be married such salutary counsel as will fit them for the worldly reception of the sacrament, and to secure to them the plenitude of its spiritual blessings."

Was Brutally Rough

Chicago, April 4 — Hackenschmidt, the great Russian wrestler, came in like a lion and went out like a lamb after two hours and one minute of the most terrible gruelling ever endured outside of a London prize ring. Hackenschmidt refused to continue, and Ed. Smith, the local referee, announced Frank Gotch the winner. The championship of the world passed from the Russian lion to the Iowa farmer with that decision.

The end of the contest was dramatic in the extreme. Hackenschmidt, with his eyes fearly lacerated, his nostrils torn, his lips and face bitten almost beyond recognition, smeared from head to foot with his own blood that streamed from a score of wounds on his head and arms and body, went to the mat at last with Gotch on top. He was half blinded, dazed and weary beyond all description. Immediately Gotch leaped upon him like a savage, driving his knees into Hackenschmidt's body, and roughing in the style used when football was legalized manslaughter. The Russian suddenly quit the struggle and appealed to the referee, as he had a score of times before during the bout.

For a few minutes there was great confusion. The roaring, shrieking mob that filled the Dexter Park pavilion rushed madly toward the ring and swarmed through the ropes. Then Referee Smith made his announcement. The crowd seized Gotch and carried him back to his dressing room, while Hackenschmidt's seconds were busy washing the blood from his face and dressing his wounds.

Although Chicago is a Gotch stronghold, there is much diversity of opinion over this affair. There is little doubt that Gotch wore Hackenschmidt and that he was in far better physical condition. But all through the struggle he used foul tactics, that were of a sort that would have fully justified the referee in disqualifying him. He jammed his thumbs into Hackenschmidt's eyes. On one occasion when Hackenschmidt had twisted the American's thumb, Gotch retaliated by smashing him time and again in the face with his fists, until the blood spurted out and ran over the Russian's face and body in streams. Time and again he butted viciously.

Peterborough men who leave here and locate in distant places seem to forge to the front and occupy prominent places. Another of this city's sons in the person of Mr. Thomas J. The Wisconsin says in part: Thomas J. Pringle has been nominated for mayor on the Republican ticket by a plurality estimated at about 1,500 over John T. Kelly.

George Street Merchant Angry

On Saturday morning a George street merchant was angry. It seems that some months ago he employed a local carpenter to do some alterations in his premises, giving him orders to purchase the needed supplies. The work was done, and the carpenter rendered a bill for his services, including some goods he had bought, the latter amounting to quite a sum. The bill was paid and receipted. Months went by, until on Saturday, the firm that sold the goods presented an account to the merchant for the same. Fortunately the merchant found his receipt. Now the seller of the goods is looking for the carpenter.

DOCTORS REPORT MANY CASES

May that Spring Fever is Prevalent. Patients Feel Drowsy, Dull, Dead Tired.

How provoking to sleep well, but when you awaken to find none of the exhilaration that rest and sleep should bring. You ought to feel alert, bubbling over with vim, but instead of this there's dullness, languor and disinclination to do things.

Three causes for this sort of feeling—a lazy liver, lazy kidneys, and a lazy stomach, the last doing its work very poorly and compelling the other organs to perform a task they are unequal to.

Note the consequence—blood is filled with waste matter—poisonous substances weighing down the nervous system—rebuilding processes absolutely impossible.

Take Ferrozone and note the rapid change. Your appetite improves and your digestion soon is as good as ever. Your skin has its natural color, the sense of languor and unsteadiness if not entirely gone, comes back only occasionally, and then disappears.

You see Ferrozone restores all the powers of the body to normal activity.

The reason you feel better is because Ferrozone is driving out all the poisonous wastes from the body.

Ferrozone imparts to the blood that element that is necessary to render the air you breathe vitally active and strength-giving. In the old condition it simply acted on the surface. Now it enters deeply into all the activities of the body.

Now you know that Ferrozone stimulates appetite and makes rich, red blood.

Now you feel that Ferrozone gives strength, endurance, vim.

Ferrozone clarifies the brain, imparts tone and vigor to it, gives clearness and strength.

Your will power is as strong as ever, and your enjoyment of life has a new zest because so vigorously renewed.

As a refreshing, uplifting tonic for men, women and children—as a medicine for anaemia, weakness or nervous troubles nothing excels Ferrozone.

VIRTUES OF THE LEMIEUX ACT

It is not at all surprising that the Lemieux Labor Act should be meeting with favourable comment in different countries. When it was first introduced in Parliament, we took occasion to express good hopes of it as a practical peacemaker in labor disputes and misunderstandings. The virtue of the measure, as it seemed to us, lay in its provisions to arrive as soon as possible at the exact facts in dispute, to place all the facts of the case before the public, to rely on the sense of right in the disputants, and the force of public opinion, to make effective the recommendations of the Board of Conciliation. The practical use of the act for a year or so has fairly borne out those favourable anticipations, and that we find judges in various parts of Canada, and publicists in the United States and elsewhere, speaking in praise of this Canadian conciliation act, is not nearly so surprising as it is gratifying.

News in Brief

Peoria, Ill., April 3. — Fire which started at the mill of Corning and Company's distillery early this morning was still raging at 9.30 o'clock this morning, and indications were that the entire plant, including two immense bonded warehouses, elevator, cattle yards and storehouses, would be entirely wiped out. The damage so far is placed at between $750,000 and $1,000,000.

The firemen appeared unable to control the blaze and devoted their efforts chiefly to saving property in the immediate vicinity.

Several explosions occurred, endangering the lives of the firemen. Soon after the fire started 30,000 gallons of spirits in the still plant were consumed, the result of an explosion in the warehouse.

Shortly after the first explosion 3,000 head of cattle stampeded and ran at large in the railroad yards.

Ottawa, April 3.—In the House today, in reply to an enquiry by the leader of the Opposition, Sir Wilfrid Laurier stated that he had received a letter from Judge Cassels of the Exchequer Court, stating that the latter would undertake the duties of the proposed enquiry into charges of dishonesty against officials of the Marine Department, on condition that he was to receive no extra remuneration for the work, and that the duties of commissionership did not interfere with the work of the Exchequer Court. The Premier added that he was now in further communication with Judge Cassels on the subject.

Mr. Borden, leader of the Opposition, moved the adjournment of the House to call attention to the unjustifiable delay in publishing the report of the Civil Service Commission. Enterprising newspapers of the country had published a large part of the report on the morning following its appearance last week, but the country was anxious to have the full text.

OUR TIMBER SUPPLY.

Need For Protection and Proper Treatment of Canadian Forests.

France is one of the greatest timber importing countries of Europe. Over $30,000,000 were paid in 1906 by this country for wood brought in from other countries, American and European.

This includes over $20,000,000 worth of wood (mostly pine) used for building purposes, and $500,000 for mine props alone. The great amount of wood used for paper pulp and a few minor purposes brings the total up to the thirty million dollars.

On this timber another $10,000,000 was paid in freight—mostly to other countries, for the French flag is flown by only about ten per cent. of the ships in which this wood is carried. And import duties claim another sum of $6,000,000.

The quantity of wood exported from France, on the other hand, in 1906, did not amount to more than $16,400,000.

Yet the forests of France are by no means small. They cover an area of over 23,500,000 acres. Of this a little over a ninth (2,707,000 acres) is in the hands of the state, and is very carefully managed. Over a seventh of the area (3,472,000 acres) is under the control of the departments and communes and is not so carefully looked after. The rest is in private hands and often large tracts are sold to speculators and recklessly cut, everything of value being taken off them.

This state of affairs demonstrates the wisdom of the course pursued in almost the whole of Canada, namely keeping the ownership of the forests in the hands of the crown, so that the Dominion and the different Provincial Governments may have the power to make regulations for the cutting, with the result that practically all of the forests may be so treated as to give continuous crops of wood and become a permanent asset of the people.

Canada at present is one of the few countries in the world that can export timber, having a surplus over that required for its own use. Such a surplus is a most valuable asset and promises—far from decreasing in value—to increase rapidly and greatly in years to come, owing to the growing scarcity of wood.

It is for this country, therefore, to exercise great care both in protecting the timber it has and in providing for future supplies from the same ground. This will require the employment of a large number of men many of them possessing a high degree of technical and scientific training. It is gratifying to note that already some steps have been taken to care for our timber and provide a staff of trained men to look after it. Much more remains to be done and it is for the people of Canada to see that arrangements are made for the proper care of one of her most valuable resources.

LIKE FEAST OF THE WOLF.

Quebec Celebration Causes Friction In Eastern Province.

There is still a good deal of friction at Quebec over the participation of outsiders in the coming celebration. It is only just to say, however, that the following article from La Verite reflects the opinion of a very small portion of the population of the province.

La Verite claims that it will not be a Catholic celebration in August next as the good people of Quebec expected, but the celebration of Canada as a whole. It is not the foundation of Quebec by the French, no; they want to celebrate the capture of the city by the English. It is not, so it appears, the three hundredth anniversary of the planting of the cross and the flag of our ancestors on Cape Diamond, but instead the 143th anniversary of the defeat of our heroes by the English troops.

"We wished to celebrate the commencement of our history, but they will instead celebrate the beginning of British domination in this country. The symbol which they propose to acclaim is the angel of peace, but to what peace do they refer. If it is the peace that the generosity of our people caused to reign around Quebec, so much the better, but it is the more extended peace which they are going to commemorate. It is the peace following the abolition of the French language in several of the provinces. It is the peace following the destruction of Catholic schools in New Brunswick, in Manitoba, in Alberta and Saskatchewan.

"In a word it is the peace which reigns after the wolf has eaten the lamb and sleeps after his bloody repast."

Preserving Niagara Falls.

Persistent efforts are to be made in Congress at Washington to prevent the re-enactment of what is known as the Burton law, passed in 1906, governing the disposition of the waters of the Niagara Falls. The object of the enactment was to conserve the waters of the falls against the encroachment of commercial enterprises. It was destined, as a purely temporary measure, to be supplanted by a general convention or treaty on this subject between the United States and Canada which is intended to cover also the disposition of other waters forming a boundary line between the two countries.

The Burton law expires in less than a year and a half. Those opposing its re-enactment for ten years, as is proposed in some quarters, declare this is a distinct advantage to the Canadians, who because such a large portion of the falls are on the Canadian side of the river, are content to let existing conditions remain, in preference to agreeing to a treaty which will restrict the privileges they now enjoy. The International Waterways Commission, which is made up of members from the United States and Canada, has turned in a mass of information on the whole question, which has been laid before the two Governments for their consideration. The United States Government is anxious that some disposition shall be reached in the whole matter, and that at an early date. It wants a treaty prepared and ratified at this session of Congress, if possible.

THE DRAGON FLY.

Singularly Adapted to Its Life of Aerial Piracy.

No one could fail to be struck with the singularly perfect adaptation of the dragon fly's structure to a life of aerial piracy. The four wings are large and in proportion to their weight enormously strong. Each is supported by a wonderfully arranged network of slender ribs, which give the necessary rigidity to the thin, transparent membrane forming its basis. The muscles by which the wings are moved are massive and powerful and are so arranged among themselves that the animal is capable of steering its course with an unerring accuracy which any bird might envy. In this power it is largely aided by a marvelous keenness of sight, for in addition to the two great, gorgeously colored compound eyes which make up so much of the head the insect possesses three smaller "simple" eyes, making five eyes in all. The prey when overtaken is seized and devoured by means of powerful, sharply toothed jaws.

An animal which lives such an active life naturally requires a very perfect breathing apparatus, and this is amply provided by a system of holes on the sides of the body which open into an elaborate network of air tubes, supplying every part of the system. The air in these tubes is constantly renewed by the regular compression and dilatation of the body by special muscles.—Chambers' Journal.

HIBERNATION.

How and Why Some Animals Exist All Winter Without Food.

The philosophy or nature of hibernation and why and how it is that the hibernating creatures can go so long without food are interesting studies.

In the first place, the creature in order to enable it to sustain life throughout the long winter during which it hibernates is endowed with the capacity of accumulating within its body a large quantity of fat. This fat is to the animal what a well stocked coal cellar is to a fire, and until the whole of it has been consumed the tissue of the body proper remains untouched. It has been ascertained that animals can endure the waste of tissue until it amounts to 40 per cent of their normal weight. Should the weight be reduced beyond that point the result is death. But nature comes to the rescue of the hibernating creatures in another way. When the hibernation begins, respiration and digestion almost cease (in some cases they cease absolutely), and the circulation is only just active enough to sustain life. As a consequence of this the wear and tear is reduced to the minimum, and the creature is enabled to pull through.

Horses and Music.

Regimental horses have been the subjects of musical tests, and nearly all enjoyed the experience, only a very small percentage of the animals remaining indifferent to sweet harmonies, while equally few showed active dislike. The great majority were soothed, inspirited or excited by music. Most of the horses, like the war chargers one may suppose them to be, enjoyed the bugle above any other instrument and neighed gallantly when it was sounded, but thoroughbreds and colts generally were found to prefer the shrill treble of the fife, which roused them to great and sometimes unmanageable enthusiasm. This was the more significant because the fife was an unfamiliar instrument to them, not being generally used, as is the bugle in the French army.—Paris Cor. London Telegraph.

Model of Economy.

A certain farmer who lives out in the county and who is noted for his closeness in money matters has a twelve-year-old son, who is as industrious as his father is penurious.

Recently the father and son made a compact whereby the latter would receive 10 cents for every cord of wood he sawed and piled in the wood shed. Immediately the boy became very busy at the wood pile, and his earnings have been piling up at a rapid rate, his mother keeping her son's hard earned savings for him.

"What are you going to do with all your money?" the thrifty youth was recently asked.

"Goin' to buy a new saw with it," was the reply.

Benjamin Constant.

Benjamin Constant, having aided with Napoleon during the hundred days, felt the need of justifying himself when Louis XVIII. returned to power. He wrote the king a letter with that end in view and called upon Mme. Recamier to discuss the subject. She asked him quietly:

"Have you finished your letter?"

"Yes."

"Are you satisfied with it?"

"Entirely satisfied. I have almost persuaded myself."

Marrying.

Everybody is expected to marry once, and there is not much talk when you marry the first time, but people look wise when you marry the second time and roar when you marry the third time.

Very Interesting.

"What do you find so very interesting about society?" asked the ordinary person.

"Watching people trying to get in," answered Miss Cayenne.

NOW LISTEN!

Please read carefully what follows, and if you decide to take advantage of what the "Canada Southern Oil & Gas Co, Limited," of Tilbury, Ont (no personal liability), is now offering you, the result will be that instead of getting 3 per cent. for your savings, you will get at least from 10 to 25 per cent. that others are harvesting.

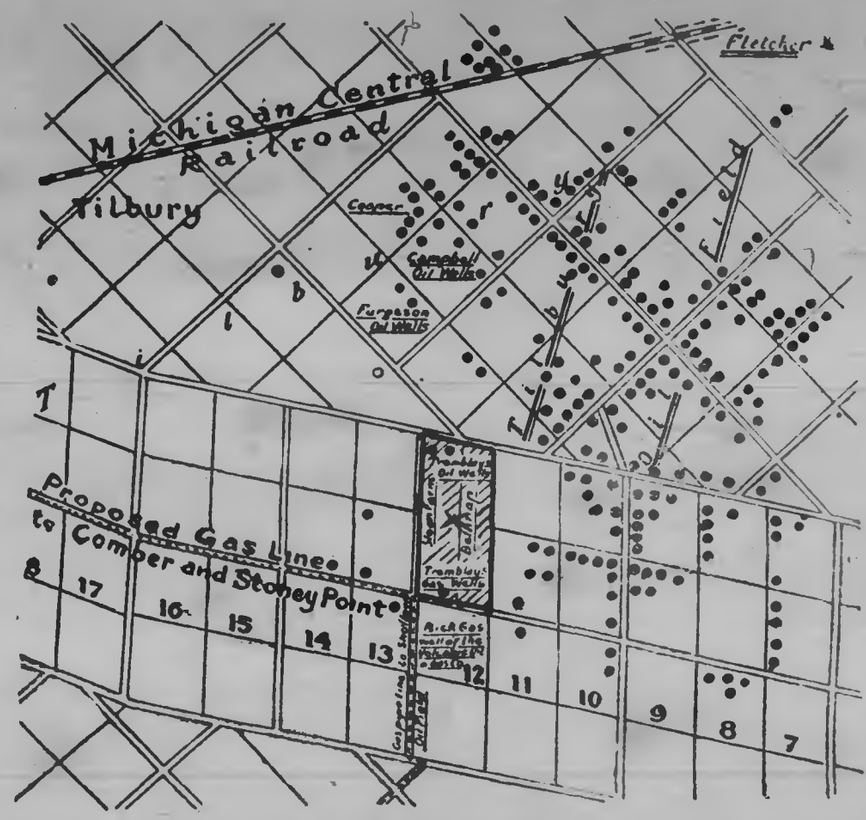
Your savings will be eight times more than the original amount by the mere fact of the higher rate of interest you will get.

Remember that this is no wildcat scheme, as you can see by the facts hereinafter mentioned.

Dr. Bell, the famous Canadian geologist, early in 1878 reported that there was an oil and gas field in the Townships of Tilbury and Romney, County of Kent, Ont. As soon as the discovery of the oil was made in Tilbury in 1906, our American neighbors, who are experts in good things, did not hesitate to invest hundreds of thousands of dollars, and now, in fact, control the two thirds interest in our oil field of Tilbury; and this happened because we Canadians hesitated to invest a few thousand dollars in the exploration of the oil mines of Tilbury, which already give a monthly production valued at $75,000, without adding the revenue derived from the gas.

We have said that this is not a wildcat scheme, because the "Canadian Southern Oil & Gas Co., Limited," has secured an option at a very moderate price on properties situated in the oil and gas field of Tilbury, upon which three successful tests have been made, being Lot No. 12, M. R. N., Tilbury East, 200 acres, indicated with a cross upon the map of the field.

COUNTY of KENT, ONTARIO



Three wells only have been drilled at an average depth of 1,400 feet.

The first one proves to be a rich gas well, the two others are good oil wells, combined with a strong production of gas.

The Company has also secured the franchises for the distribution and sale of natural gas into the Townships of Romney, Tilbury East, North and West and also into the thriving villages of Comber and Stoney Point.

The gas well is properly equipped and already is supplying the motor power to the Romney oil field and is getting one-third of the gross revenue of the gas sold.

The oil wells are completely equipped with one 15 h. p. gas engines, derrick, tanks, boiler, pumps, tubing, pipe-line, jerk-line, jack, etc., and are producing daily. The oil is sold to The Imperial Oil Company, Sarnia, and is delivered at the tanks and shipped through its pipe-line to Pere Marquette R. R. Station at Merlin, a distance of 3 miles.

Our properties are already giving daily a net revenue of about $25.00—that is to say, more than 10 per cent. of the whole capital stock of the Company.

This revenue may be made four times greater by the drilling of other wells and the construction of the gas-line to Comber and Stoney Point.

[illegible] Cirkel, Esq., of Montreal, consulting mining engineer and mining [illegible] Dominion Government, who lately made an inspection of the said property, concluded his report as follows:

"In summarizing the actual results already obtained from the operation of the Sloan wells the writer is forced to the conclusion that the property under consideration is a very valuable one. Located as it is in the western extremity of the producing Tilbury oil field, in close proximity to wells which produce from 40 to 60 barrels of oil (and even more) per day of 24 hours (I refer to the Ferguson Campbell and Cooper properties, located about 2,000 feet distant to the north, see plan attached hereto), it bids fair to become a producer of oil and natural gas of no small measure.

The Tilbury field has already the reputation of being a large producer and powerful companies have entered the district with a view of securing properties of known and established value.

There is one factor to which I would like to draw your special attention and that is the future of natural gas. To-day, the market in that in that part of the country, for this commodity is not sufficiently large to dispose of all the gas the wells can produce but there is no question that in the near future factories will be established on central points, which will eventually consume for various purposes, especially for power, all the gas which can be produced in the field.

Besides this there are quite a number of towns and villages in the western part of the Niagara Peninsula, which may use the gas for heating, lighting, and also for power purposes and it is only a question of time when this will be realized.

The economy of the application of natural gas to power purposes is already evidenced all through the field, as coal or any other power cannot be regularly obtained, and that at high figures. Having therefore, a powerful gas well on the (Sloan) property, it is evident that a great saving is effected from this source alone; for instance, for the operation of ten oil wells, the cost of power required per day would amount to between twenty and twenty-five dollars, which, in 300 working days per year, would represent a saving of from six thousand to seven thousand five hundred dollars.

In conclusion, I may say that this property, with proper and economic management, can be made highly remunerative; I entertain, no doubt, that if properly developed, it will show similar results as those of so many other locations in the vicinity, whose developments have of so many other locations in the vicinity, whose developments have been so vigorously pushed in the past.

Respectfully submitted,

"What do you think will be the end of all this?" asked Paul when Master Clump was thus disposed of.

"Lord knows," replied Hurd, wiping his face. "I never had a harder case to deal with. I thought Hay had a hand in it, but it seems he hadn't, bad lot as he is, asking your pardon, Mr Beecot, since you're his friend."

"That I am not," disclaimed Beecot emphatically. "There's a young lawyer I know, Ford is his name. I went to see him as to what chances Sylvia had of getting the money. He was at school with me and remembered Hay. He said that Hay was dismissed from Torrington school for stealing."

"Didn't you know that yourself?"

"No; I had left the school. I was ill at home with scarlet fever. But Hay apparently always has been a bad lot. He and that Krill pair are well matched, for I believe the mother is bad even if the daughter Maud isn't. By the way, her age?"

Hurd nodded. "I believe she was fifteen at the time of the death of Lady Rachel. If so, she can't be legitimate or may not be the daughter of Aaron Norman. However, I've asked my sister to look up Mrs. Krill's past life in Stowley, where she comes from."

"But she wasn't married to Krill at Stowley?"

"No. But she lived there as Anne Tyler. From the certificate she was married to Krill at a small parish church twenty miles from Stowley, so Aurora will go there. But I want her to stop at Stowley first and learn all she can about Anne Tyler."

"Brechill's the name of the parish in which she was married to Krill before she came to Christchurch," said Paul musingly, "so I expect they lived there. Miss Qian might search also for the certificate of Maud Krill's birth."

"I told her to, and, failing that, she's to search in Christchurch. We must get the certificate of birth somehow."

"Hurd," said Paul, rather diffidently, "I hope you won't be annoyed, but I have already asked my friend Ford to give notice to Pash to produce the certificate."

"Well," replied the detective, "you might have told me. But no great harm is done. What does Pash say?"

"I don't know. Ford has not let me know yet. Here we are."

This remark was caused by the stopping of the train at Liverpool street station. A number of people were returning from their employment in the city to the country, and the platforms were crowded. Hurd grasped Master Clump by the arm and marched him along. But in the confusion of finding his ticket at the barrier he happened to let go, almost without thinking. In a moment Tray had darted through the barrier and was lost in the crowd. Hurd sprang after him and left Paul to explain. He hurriedly did so and then went out to see if the detective had caught the boy.

Hurd was nowhere to be seen; neither was Tray. The crowd was increasing, and Beecot was at a loss what to do. After waiting for an hour without finding the pair he thought he would go to Pash's office. It might be that Hurd, having caught Tray, would take him there at once, leaving Beecot to follow. So Paul got on to the Metropolitan railway and alighted at the Temple station. Thence he walked up to the office in Chancery lane.

"Where's Tray?" asked Paul of the one clerk in the outer room, who was writing for dear life.

"I don't know, sir," said the clerk. "He went out this morning and hasn't been back all day. Mr. Pash is very angry with him."

Apparently Hurd had not caught the boy yet or if he had did not intend to bring him to the office. "Can I see Mr. Pash?" asked Paul, thinking he might as well make some use of his time.

The clerk inquired if the solicitor would see Beecot and presently ushered him into the inner room, where Pash sat looking more like a monkey than ever. He did not appear at all pleased to see the young man and sucked in his cheek with a crabbed air.

"Well, Mr. Beecot, what can I do for you?" he snarled.

"You might be civil, in the first place," said Paul quietly, taking a chair. "You haven't behaved over well to Miss Norman and me."

"Oh," said Pash coolly, "have you come to reproach me with that?"

"I never waste time," rejoined Paul, equally coolly. "I'll leave you to your conscience."

Pash shrugged his shoulders and put his feet on the rungs of his chair. "I think my conscience can stand that," he said. "It's business, Mr. Beecot, business. By the way, I have received a request from Mr. Ford of Cheapside to produce the certificate of birth of Miss Krill. What is the meaning of that?"

"I think you know very well, Mr. Pash."

"I profess my ignorance," said Pash ironically, although he looked uneasy and was apparently lying.

"In that case you had better wait till you hear from Mr. Ford."

"Are you employing Mr. Ford, may I ask?"

Paul nodded. "On behalf of Miss Norman," said he coldly.

"Ah," sneered the monkey, "you think you'll get the money."

"Wait till you hear from Mr. Ford," retorted Paul again and enjoyed the baffled expression on Mr. Pash's wrinkled face. "By the way, sir, why did you not tell Hurd that Tray gave you the opal brooch?"

Pash turned all the colors of the rainbow. "Does that brat I took into my office out of charity dare to say that he did?"

"He does, and, what is more, Mr. Hurd is bringing him here to make the statement face to face with you. I am determined to get to the bottom of this case; and for Miss Norman's sake, and the possession of the brooch forms an important link."

"How so?"

"The person who had that brooch on the evening of the 6th of July murdered Norman," said Paul calmly.

Pash jumped up and chattered like a baboon in a rage. "Do you mean to accuse me?" he demanded. "Take care! Take care!"

"I don't accuse you. Tray does."

"It's a lie—a lie"—

"Don't excite yourself, Mr. Pash. You'll need all your wits to convince Hurd. Tray accuses you, and Hurd suspects you. I have nothing to do with the matter."

"You put Hurd up to this!" foamed Pash, hardly able to speak.

"Pardon me. Hurd is working for the reward offered by your client. Don't you think it was rather foolish of her to offer such a large reward, Mr. Pash, even though she did so to avert suspicion?"

The solicitor changed color again. "I don't understand you."

Paul shrugged his shoulders and rose to go. "Perhaps Mr. Hurd will explain," he said and made for the door.

Pash, with his monkey face much perplexed, sat hunched in his chair, biting his fingers. As Paul laid his hand on the knob he called him back. "I can explain," he said nervously.

"Not to me," said Paul coldly.

"I prefer to do so to you," said the lawyer hurriedly.

"Why to me particularly?"

"Because I don't think I have acted very well toward Miss Norman, and, as you are to marry her, you may be able to arrange"—

"To make peace, I suppose you mean?" burst out Beecot. "No, Mr. Pash, you have acted like a scoundrel. You left that poor girl in the lurch as soon as you found that Miss Krill was—as you thought—legally entitled to the money."

"What do you mean by hinting she isn't?"

"Because you know very well what her age is," retorted Paul. "This matter will be sifted to the bottom, Mr. Pash, by my friend Ford, and if things are as I think they are Miss Krill won't keep that money. You know very well"—

"Miss Norman won't get the money either," snarled Pash. "I know that very well. Leastwise," he added, "without my assistance."

"More of your crooked ways," said Paul indignantly. "Tell what you like to Hurd. I refuse to listen."

As he spoke he opened the door and found himself facing Hurd, who was red and hot. The detective stepped into the office and as he passed Paul whispered, "Hold your tongue about the boy." Then he turned to Mr. Pash. "Well, sir," he puffed, "I have had a job catching up Mr. Beecot. No doubt you know why I have come?"

"No," said Pash dryly; "I don't see Tray."

"Tray will keep. I've got him safe under lock and key. Before bringing you face to face with him I thought it best to give you an opportunity of clearing yourself."

"Of what?" asked Pash in a brazen manner.

Hurd looked at Beecot, who spoke. "Mr. Pash knows very well that Tray accuses him of the crime," he said. "I told him so, and he professed his readiness to explain to you."

"Ah," said Hurd, "shut the door, Mr. Beecot. No need to let all London know the truth."

"I don't know it," said Pash as Paul closed the door and returned to his seat.

"Very good," rejoined the detective calmly. "We'll assume for the sake of argument that you did not strangle Norman."

"That I certainly did not."

"Then you know who did. Come, sir"—Hurd became stern—"this boy Tray says he gave the opal brooch to you. And I believe he did. You would not have taken him into your office—a boy off the streets and with a bad character at that—unless you wanted to bribe him to hold his tongue."

"I had no need to bribe," said Pash, gnawing his finger nails and rather cowed by this direct attack. "The boy did show me the opal brooch, and I took it from him to return to Norman."

"When did you receive it?" asked Hurd, pulling out his book. "Be careful, Mr. Pash. I'll take down what you say."

"I have nothing to conceal," said Pash in quite an unnecessarily injured manner. "I had employed the boy on several errands, and he knew I was Norman's lawyer. On the evening of the 6th of July"—

"And the evening of the murder," said Hurd. "Are you sure?"

"I'll take my oath on it. The boy told me that Mr. Beecot had met with an accident and that a blue velvet case containing a brooch had fallen out of his pocket."

"It was stolen," said Beecot hastily.

"Tray was not such a fool as to tell me that," replied the lawyer dryly. "He said that he picked the case up out of the mud and took it home to his garret. His grandmother, who is a notorious thief, wanted to get it and pawn it for drink, but Tray ran away with it and came to me about 5 o'clock. He gave me the brooch and asked me to take charge of it, as he expected to get money for it from Aaron Norman, who wanted it."

"Tray overheard my conversation with Norman," said Paul angrily, "and

Heart Strength

Heart Strength, or Heart Weakness, means Nerve Strength, or Nerve Weakness—nothing more. Positively, not one weak heart in a hundred is, in itself, actually diseased. It is almost always a seldom tiny little nerve that really is at fault, this obscure nerve—the Cardiac, or Heart Nerve—simply needs, and can have, more power, more stability, more controlling, more governing strength. Without that the Heart must continue to fail, and the stomach and kidneys also have their same controlling nerves.

This clearly explains why, as a medicine, Dr. Shoop's Restorative has in the past done so much for weak and ailing Hearts. Dr. Shoop first sought the cause of all this painful, palpitating, suffocating heart distress. Dr. Shoop's Restorative—this popular prescription—is alone directed to these weak and wasting nerve centers. It builds; strengthens; it gives real, genuine heart help.

If you would have strong Hearts, strong digestion, strengthen those Nerves — re-establish them as needed, with SECOND: Give your diet careful study, and commence the treatment with Dr. Hamilton's Pills, and simply because they correct the conditions which lead up to dyspepsia.

No better evidence can be given than the case of Mrs. Michael Miller, of 153 Kent street, Ottawa, who says:

"Last winter I was very sick. I had measles and was left in a run-down miserable condition. My stomach seemed all wrong. Food fermented, caused me great distress, and I couldn't keep strong. I had dyspepsia of the worst kind, and my bowels were constantly constipated. When I read Dr. Hamilton's Pills I was helped. I continued the treatment and was restored to a condition of health and strength that I never knew before. Dr. Hamilton's Pills are wonderful medicine, and I recommend them to everyone, sick or well."

Forged a Cheque in Port Hope

Some days ago a young man named Merrill walked into the Court Street Police Station, Toronto, and gave himself up, and was held on a charge of forgery in Port Hope. The Times of that Lakeside Town has the following particulars regarding the forgery:—

A short time ago Merrill went to Port Hope. He presented a forged cheque for $22.00, bearing his father's name to Mr. Geo. W. Strong, who endorsed it with fatal results. The proper charges brought the amount up to $23.50. Merrill had called on Mr. Strong on previous occasions. On the last occasion he said he had lost his suit case and wanted to buy another. He showed a cheque for $22.00 which he said had been advanced to him by his employer. He required to use this to pay for a suit case and asked Mr. Strong to identify him. Mr. Strong took Merrill to Mr. J. L. Thompson's store and identified him, but Mr. Thompson would not accept the cheque and Mr. Strong endorsed it himself. A suit case was then purchased. The cheque was taken in payment and Merrill got the change. Merrill afterwards visited the store of Ben Oliver & Co., where wearing apparel was purchased. Although Merrill had said that his samples had gone to Belleville he left for Toronto that evening. His father later declared the cheque to be a forgery.

Special Address to S. S. Scholars

An interesting service was held yesterday in the Charlotte Street Methodist Church when the Sunday school scholars will filled the space reserved for them in the body of the church and took part in a specially arranged service. This was to celebrate the anniversary of the school. Rev. J. Garbutt, of Bowmanville, gave the children an eloquent and instructive address. The music was admirably appropriate and of high quality. The Rev. Mr. Garbutt also spoke at the regular morning and evening services.

"I find health in the package with the 'Red Seal,'" said a man a few days ago, in referring to Postum.

When anyone has learned that coffee has been causing more or less damage to his nervous system, and finds health in drinking Postum which is made only of wholesome wheat he is right to grow enthusiastic and want others to find health in the package with the Red Seal.

CITY COUNCIL IN MONTHLY SESSION

When City Guarantees $2,500 a Year for Maintenance, Andrew Carnegie will Forward $25,000 Cheque for Public Library

The City Fathers met in regular monthly session last night, when there were present Mayor Henry Rush, Aldermen Johnston, Elliott, Morgan, Buller, Bradburn, Gillespie, McIntyre, Morrow and Phelan.

FREE PUBLIC LIBRARY.

Amongst the communications was one from Mr. Andrew Carnegie, saying that when the council passes a by-laws, assuring the raising of $2,500 annually for the maintenance of a free public library, Mr. Carnegie will be pleased to forward a cheque for $25,000 with which to erect and equip a public library in Peterborough.

ISOLATION HOSPITAL.

A communication from the local Board of Health, asking once more for an early establishment of an isolation hospital, was referred to a joint meeting of a Committee of the Whole and the Board of Health, to be called at the earliest possible moment. His Worship remarked that this vexed question must be settled one way or the other without any further delay.

THE EXHIBITION.

A deputation from the Peterborough Agricultural Society waited upon the council and asked for a grant toward this fall's industrial exhibition. President R. H. Leary addressed the meeting and asked for an increased grant this year, as the society intends making the prize list larger and spend considerable more money in special attractions. Mr. Leary also pointed out that despite the inclement weather last year, which rendered but one day's gate receipts possible, the directors met all obligations and came out with a surplus of $96.71. Mr. Leary also urged the council to purchase the exhibition grounds; this, he offered, would be a good investment. Such action would encourage the growth and prosperity of the annual exhibition, and the grounds could be used the best portion of the year for recreation purposes.

Mr. Vance, of Millbrook, offered the example set by the municipality of Millbrook in purchasing grounds for exhibition purposes, which action has resulted in the Agricultural Society being in a substantial financial condition to-day, and in a position each year to put up a highly creditable fair.

Mr. J. J. Turner, Sr., spoke in endorsation of the previous speaker's remarks, especially as to the city purchasing the grounds in question. He offered that the buildings are in a wretched condition, but the society do not feel justified in spending much money on them while they are on leased grounds as at present.

Mr. Wm. Collins also spoke on similar lines.

This matter was referred to the Finance Committee.

PLUMBING WORK.

E. R. Stoker told the council that much of the plumbing work in this city is not being done properly, and he is willing to put the council wise.

Mr. Stoker was referred to meet the Property Committee.

Ald. Morrow submitted the report of the Finance Committee, which included a clause recommending that the city solicitor's salary be increased to $800 a year.

Ald. Morgan doubted if the solicitor earned $800 a year, and as the latter had not put in a written request for an increase, he moved, seconded by Ald. McIntyre, that this clause be struck out.

Ald. Buller thought it time to grant this increase when the solicitor asked for it.

Ald. Morrow said that after corresponding with Brantford and other places the committee had concluded that $800 was none too much salary for Peterborough's city solicitor.

The vote resulted in Ald. Morgan's motion in amendment being carried by a good majority, and the clause in question was accordingly cut out.

CITY BILLS PASSED.

Ald. Elliott submitted the following report:

Gentlemen,—Your special committee appointed to look after the legislation asked for by the city beg leave to report that they with members of the Manufacturers' Committee, attended the Private Bills Committee of the Ontario Legislature in support of the bill, and that it was passed by that committee as drafted with the exception of one clause in the part referring to the Peterborough City Trust, which authorized the council to acquire the City Trust to purchase land and hold it for such purposes as the council direct, which clause was struck out.

The other sections, providing for the election of aldermen for two years, on a half retiring each year; in regard to the waterworks contingent fund; in regard to the appointment and powers of the Peterborough City Trust; authorizing the purchase of the land opposite the King Edward school for a park; confirming the by-laws in regard to the Colonial Weaving Co., the Auburn Woollen Co., and the Peter Hamilton Co., confirming a by-law fixing a charge for the use of sewers; authorizing a by-law to loan $30,000 and give other corporation to secure the continuation of the business of the William Hamilton Manufacturing Co.; and to confirm a number of money by-laws, were all passed by the committee.

This report was adopted as read.

BY-LAWS.

Several by-laws dealing with sidewalks and sewers and street crossings were passed.

CARS SHALL STOP.

Moved by Ald. Morgan, seconded by Ald. McIntyre, that the Peterborough Radial Railway Company be asked if they will consent to amend their agreement to provide for the street cars stopping before crossings intersecting streets.—Carried.

Ald. Morgan offered that this would ensure a measure of protection for the general public.

ANOTHER OUTFALL SEWER WANTED

Ald. Phelan read a letter from the city engineer urging the immediate necessity for a new outfall sewer, and suggesting its route to be along Park street, from Rink to the river.

Moved by Ald. Morrow, seconded by Ald. McIntyre, that the Board of Works take up the question of increased facilities at once.—Carried.

Moved by Ald. Bradburn, seconded by Ald. Turner, that the Board of Works look into the matter of removing the G. N. W. poles from the main streets.—Carried.

Council here adjourned.

Woman Has Been Sixty-One Days in a Trance

Los Angeles, Calif., April 6. — Mrs Beulah Hawkins has completed the 61st day of a sleep that has puzzled and baffled the many physicians who have investigated her case. She shows no sign of awaking, and but little hope for her recovery is entertained. A gradual loss of weight which first developed as cataleptic insanity followed her removal to the hospital has been regained except for three pounds. It is generally believed that Mrs. Hawkins is at times conscious of what is going on about her and that frequent fluttering of her eyelids indicate a desire to shake off the trance which has been medically diagnosed as cataleptic insanity.

Tenement Houses Collapsed Burying 40 People

London, April 6. — Two old tenement houses in Castle street, Oxford, collapsed early this morning as the result, it is supposed, of gas explosion.

It is believed that forty people, mostly German waiters, are buried in the debris.

At six o'clock four bodies and 20 injured persons had been removed from the ruins.

Up to noon eight bodies had been taken from the ruins of the Castle street tenement, and it was discovered that several others are still buried in the debris.

Twenty persons have been taken out alive, and strangely none is seriously injured.

The accident, which was at first thought to be due to an explosion of gas, now turns out to have been caused through the foundations of the structures being weakened by the excavations for a new building adjoining.

Lisbon Streets Ran with Blood--Troops Fired on Republicans

Lisbon, April 6.—The counting of the ballots cast in the elections in Portugal is being held up in some districts, and the ballot boxes are being guarded by the police and troops. Not a single Republican has thus far been declared elected, although the results in 107 districts are understood to have been completed. The city is in a fever over last night's rioting, which followed the protest of the Republicans, that they were being defrauded at the polls.

No official statement as to the number of persons killed or wounded as a result of the rioting has yet been issued, pending which action the censor will allow no figures to be published.

Later the offices of three newspapers, the organs of the Franciscists, Regenerators, and Nationalist parties, were mobbed by a crowd of rioters, who finally fled in terror to their homes, the cavalrymen dispersing every group which sought to reform at the street corners.

During the rioting cavalry and infantry were called from their barracks and charged the multitude. As the troops advanced they were met by showers of stones. The soldiers charged repeatedly, finally opening fire on the mob. Intense disorder ensued. One observer says the streets were literally red with blood.

CENSORSHIP THOROUGH.

Paris, April 6.—The gravity of the rioting at Lisbon last night is not yet known in this city. In accordance with old time practice the censorship of despatches was inaugurated so soon as bloodshed occurred. It is evident, however, that the Republicans began the demonstrations because of the methods used to suppress their votes. The troops, it is stated, were forced to fire on the rioters, but there is no indication here of the number of persons killed or wounded.

Father Crowley Defies Church--Was Married in Seattle Last Month

Chicago, April 6.—Joseph J. Crowley, the former Roman Catholic priest, whose criticisms of church affairs and his fellow churchmen in the Chicago diocese brought him under the ban of an ecclesiastical interdict, and who is well known in Toronto, is now a married man.

This action on the part of the former priest destroys the last possibility of his ever re-entering the priesthood, and, unless an exception is made in his case, will result in his absolute excommunication from the Catholic church.

The first announcement of the marriage of the former priest was made in the True Voice, the Roman Catholic periodical published weekly in Omaha, Neb. The paper received its information from Rev. J. F. McCarthy, the priest of the parish in Schuyler, Neb., of which Mrs. Crowley was a communicant.

Before the wedding Mrs. Crowley was Miss Blanche Macleod, and was employed as a stenographer in the office of Mr. Crowley. Mr. Crowley now is engaged in the real estate business in Edinburgh, a small suburb of Seattle, Wash. Prior to leaving Chicago he was in the publishing business, his publications being books and pamphlets attacking the Roman Catholic clergy. The wedding ceremony was performed in Seattle March 9th.

Street Preaching Has Been Endorsed

It was decided yesterday morning at the regular monthly meeting of the local Ministerial Association, held in the Y. M. C. A., to hold a farewell meeting on April 23rd in St. Andrew's Sunday school in view of Rev. A. H. Brace and Rev. H. Manning, Manning, who leave the city shortly.

The Association heartily endorsed the Missionary Institute to be held here on May 4th, 5th and 6th, and commended the same to the local churches.

Rev. Mr. Sturrmogel was introduced and welcomed as a member of the Association.

It was decided to introduce street preaching, and next week short services will be held, commencing Monday. Further announcement will be made through the press. A committee was appointed to make the necessary arrangements.

The following were appointed to visit the Hospital and Protestant Home: Revs. Pogue, Dr. Langfeldt, E. A. Pearson and C. H. Coon.

The paper of the morning was on "Faust," and it was taken by Rev. Dr. Langfeldt. It was decided that on account of enough business being before the Association to leave the discussion over until an evening meeting.

Should Know of This Prescription

Also Valuable Advice How to Relieve Rheumatism

Cut this out and put in some safe place, for it is valuable and worth more than anything else in the world if you should have an attack of rheumatism or bladder trouble or any derangement of the kidneys whatever.

The prescription is simple, and can be made up by anyone at home. The ingredients can be had at any good prescription pharmacy and all that is necessary is to shake them well in a bottle.

Here it is: Fluid extract dandelion, one-half ounce; compound Kargons, one ounce; compound syrup of sarsaparilla, three ounces.

Take a teaspoonful after each meal and at bedtime. A few doses is said to relieve almost any case of bladder trouble, frequent urination, pain and scalding, weakness and backache, pain above the kidneys, etc. It is now claimed to be the method of curing chronic rheumatism, because of its direct and positive action upon the eliminative tissues of the kidneys. It cleanses these spongelike organs and gives them life and power to sift and strain the poisonous waste matter and uric acid from the blood, relieving the worst forms of rheumatism and kidney and bladder troubles. The extracts dandelion acts upon the stomach and liver and is used also extensively for relieving constipation and indigestion. Compound sarsaparilla cleans and enriches the blood.

A well known local druggist is authority that this prescription is safe to use at any time.

Victoria Park Now Closed to Traffic

Mr. Arthur Blade, who will have charge of Victoria Park during the coming summer, was yesterday busily engaged in driving stakes and stringing wire netting around the south, west and north sides of the park to prevent traffic until the park dries up a little and the paths are in fit condition for use. This closing of the park is mainly done to prevent the children attending Central school from destroying the grass and flower beds by running over them. Mr. Blade yesterday called the attention of a Times representative to the great damage already done to the grass by children walking over it. Towards the southwest corner in particular the wet sod has been trampled into a mud puddle, so that some action was absolutely necessary.

Country Roads in Bad Shape

Yesterday a large gang of men were engaged in scraping the mud off most of the streets in the central portion of the city. This is a deed that will result in much comfort to pedestrians, who thus, when crossing corners, are their shoes. For the backward season, the streets particularly those over which the "mud-rake" has been passed, are in fairly good condition. In this connection, it might be noted that the few farmers in town yesterday and the local cattle buyers who frequent the market weigh scales office, complained bitterly of the state of the country roads leading to the city. These gentlemen remarked that the country roads are fit for neither wheels nor runners.

The C.G.E. Mutual Benefit Society will hold its second annual "At Home" in the Grand Opera House on Friday night, April 10th.

The Story of a Medicine.

Its name—"Golden Medical Discovery" was suggested by one of its most important and valuable ingredients — Golden Seal root.

Nearly forty years ago, Dr. Pierce discovered that he could, by the use of pure, triple-refined glycerine, aided by a certain degree of constantly maintained heat and with the aid of apparatus and appliances designed for that purpose, extract from our most valuable native medicinal roots their curative properties much better than by the use of alcohol, so generally employed. So the now world-famed "Golden Medical Discovery," for the cure of weak stomach, indigestion, or dyspepsia, torpid liver, or biliousness and kindred derangements was first made, as it ever since has been, without a particle of alcohol in its make-up.

A glance at the full list of its ingredients, printed on every bottle-wrapper, will show that it is made from the most valuable medicinal roots found growing in our American forests. All these ingredients have received the highest endorsement from the leading medical experts, teachers and writers on Materia Medica, who recommend them as the very best remedies for the diseases for which "Golden Medical Discovery" is advised.

A little book of these endorsements has been compiled by Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., and will be mailed free to any one asking same by postal card, or letter addressed to the Doctor as above. From these endorsements, copied from standard medical books of all the different schools of practice, it will be found that the ingredients composing the "Golden Medical Discovery" are advised not only for the cure of the above mentioned diseases, but also for the cure of all catarrhal, bronchial and throat affections, accompanied with catarrhal discharges, hoarseness, sore throat, lingering, or hang-on-coughs, and all those wasting affections which, if not promptly and properly treated are liable to terminate in consumption. Take Dr. Pierce's Discovery in time and persevere in its use until you give it a fair trial and it is not likely to disappoint. Too much must not be expected of it. It will not perform miracles. It will not cure consumption in its advanced stages. No medicine will. It will cure the affections that lead up to consumption, if taken in time.

PERMANENT FIRE BRIGADE FOR PETERBOROUGH ASSURED

A Practical Hint to Board of Health

Might not the Board of Health of Peterborough take a hint from what the similar Board in the city of St. Catharines did recently, and that is arrange to have Dr. Hodgetts, Provincial Health Officer, deliver the lecture on tuberculosis here that he gave in that city. This eminent authority on the pathology, diagnosis effects, treatment, etc., of the "Great White Plague," lectured in St. Catharines recently on this dread disease as well as on scarlet fever and other contagious diseases before a large and interested audience. The doctor graphically gave the history of tuberculosis, the preventives used to stop its ravages, and the treatment that advanced medical science recommends for patients, including the mortality from lung and other diseases. He sounded a trumpet voiced note of warning concerning the ravages caused by lack of ventilation and sanitation in homes, schools, factories and other spots where possible victims congregate. His explanation of the methods of preventing its inception and its treatment were practicable, easily understood and put so that all could adopt at least a partial practice of the same. Could the local Board of Health induce Dr. Hodgetts to deliver this lecture in Peterborough, might it not be the means of accomplishing much good. The address would certainly be listened to with interest by many of our citizens.

Are Fat Women Always Married to Thin Men?

Watch the four o'clock promenade on Fifth Avenue, New York, or along Rotten Row in London and you will be struck by the circumstance that every fat woman is accompanied by a thin man, while every fat man has a lean and, usually, tall woman by his side," said a well-renowned form and beauty specialist recently to a gathering of artists and newspaper men in Broadway cafe. The effect is grotesque, and every artistic sense is offended by the lop-sided, top-heavy, over-balanced appearance of such a couple. It is an entirely unnecessary offence, too, on the part of the fat person, at least, combined the beauty expert, for getting rid of an excess of fat is a very simple matter. Most people think they must punish themselves with a slim diet and lots of hard, disagreeful work called exercise, in order to do so, but that is a mistake. As a matter of fact, there is a simple mixture of common, wholesome, harmless household remedies that if put together in the right quantities and taken in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bedtime will take off from half a pound to one pound a day from either man or woman without causing wrinkles, interfering with their diet in any shape or form, or requiring any gymnastics to help it out. This mixture consists of 1-2 oz. Marmola, 3-4 oz. Fluid Extract Cascara Aromatic, and 6-4 ozs. Syrup Simplex, which are obtainable at any drug store for a few cents. Most fat people never heard of this effective home receipt, however, and so, thinking they must diet and must exercise to get thin (which is not true and not good advice, either), they will do neither and so continue fat and purposelike, a travesty and caricature of the human form divine." One fat newspaper worker in the group was seen taking notes, however, and the chances are this paragraph is the result.

To Consist of Chief, Assistant Chief, Engineer, Two Drivers, Three Permanent Firemen and Six Call Men

The City Council last night passed a report recommending the organizing of a permanent fire brigade for this city, to take effect July first next.

This measure was embodied in the following report of the Fire, Water and Light Committee, submitted by the chairman, Ald. Johnston:

Ald. Johnston's report is as follows:

Gentlemen,—Your Fire, Water and Light Committee beg leave to report and recommend as follows:

1. That the Peterborough Light and Power Company be instructed to place an incandescent lamp at the corner of Bethune and Hunter streets.

2. That the Peterborough Light and Power Co. be instructed to place an arc lamp on James street near the Grand Trunk Railway Company's right of way, and that the order for three incandescent lamps on this street be rescinded.

3. That a fire brigade be organized, to consist of a permanent chief, assistant chief, engineer, two drivers, three permanent firemen and six call men, to take effect on July 1st next.

Ald. Elliott thought the third clause dealing with a permanent fire brigade was premature. Peterborough has a splendid volunteer brigade at present, and he could see no reason for a change for some years to come.

Ald. Morgan pointed out that the proposed brigade would cost $7,000 a year, and why we should make the suggested change when Peterborough has an up to date second to none volunteer brigade in the country, for which is paid in salaries but $2,450, he could not understand.

Ald. Johnston explained that for the present volunteer brigade we pay $5,540 a year in salaries, and the 17 men now asked for an increase of $60 each, which would mean a bulk increase of $850, or a total in salaries per year for a volunteer brigade of $6,390. The suggestion for a permanent paid brigade embodied in the foregoing report would cost the city per year in salaries $6,000. In conclusion, Ald. Johnston remarked he had always said and still maintains that we have one of the best volunteer brigades in Canada; but he is on the council in the interests of the city, and has presented the report of his committee as instructed, which report he would leave with the council to act there. He moved the adoption of the report, seconded by Ald. Turner.

Ald. Morgan moved in amendment, seconded by Ald. Elliott, that the clause referring to a permanent brigade be struck out.

This amendment had but the support of its mover and seconder, and the report was adopted as read.

This means that a permanent fire brigade will be organized in this city by July first next.

Moved by Ald. Bradburn, seconded by Ald. Elliott, that the matter of reorganizing the brigade be left in the hands of the Fire, Water and Light Committee to report.—Carried.

Evelyn Has Been Ordered to Leave Two Hostelries in New York

Is Suing One for Damages--Lawyer Admits She was with E. R. Thomas

Annuling Marriage

New York, April 6.—Evelyn Thaw brought suit for $50,000 damages against James E. Regan, proprietor of the Hotel Knickerbocker, on Saturday afternoon for having caused to be published in newspapers an alleged libel in connection with her visit to the grill room of that hostelry early last Tuesday morning in company with E. R. Thomas, the banker and horseman.

Manager Regan said that he ordered Thomas and Mrs. Thaw to quit the hotel and declared that he refused to serve them after he discovered the identity of Mrs. Thaw.

In her complaint, which will be filed in the Supreme Court to-morrow morning, Mrs. Thaw alleges that she and Mr. Thomas left the Knickerbocker of their own accord, and that Manager Regan did not even suggest that they depart.

Daniel O'Reilly, personal counsel for Mrs. Thaw, admitted to-day that E. R. Thomas was in Mrs. Thaw's company on Monday night. Mrs. E. R. Thomas is abroad. At the time of the Café Boulevard episode, Mr. Thomas, in his newspaper, announced that he had a double, who was impersonating him, despite the fact that several newspaper reporters who knew him personally testified to having seen him with Mrs. Thaw. Tuesday Mrs. Thaw said that it was perhaps Lillian Lorraine, a chorus girl, to whom she bears a slight resemblance, with whom Thomas dined at the Knickerbocker.

This is favorable for the early starting of the Trent Valley League.

AFTER TREATMENT

He was surprised at how the sores healed. "I took your New Method Treatment for a serious blood disease with which I had been inflicted for twelve years. I had consulted a score of physicians, taken all kinds of blood medicine, visited Hot Springs and other mineral water resorts, but only got temporary relief. They would help me for a time, but after discontinuing the medicines the symptoms would break out again, running sores, blotches, rheumatic pains, looseness of the hair, swellings of the glands, palms of the hands scaling, itchiness of the skin, dyspeptic stomach, etc. I had given up in despair when a friend advised me to consult you, as you had cured him of a similar disease 8 years ago. I had no hope, but took his advice. In three weeks' time the sores commenced to heal up and I became encouraged. I continued the New Method Treatment for four months and at the end of that time every symptom had disappeared. I was cured 7 years ago and no signs of any disease since. My boy, three years old, is sound and healthy. I certainly can recommend your treatment with all my heart. You can refer any person to me privately, but you can use this testimonial as you wish." W. Doctors All Advise Suitable Spring Tonic

Pays You to Get Strong and Nourish the Blood During Change of Seasons.

In the spring time the vigor and resisting power of the body fall very low. Instead of being rich and nourishing, the blood is thin and watery. As a result the bodily forces become less active, sleep fails to bring rest. An ever-increasing tiredness develops into over-powering weakness.

People suffering from this spring sickness feel heavy and drowsy; they don't want to eat; they don't enjoy work; about half sick and half well. This is just the condition that favors pneumonia and typhoid, and you must build up as quickly as possible. You must increase your blood supply and make it rich and red.

The only way this can be done is by using Ferrozone, which is acknowledged to be the most efficient spring medicine.

The marvellous purifying and tonic properties of Ferrozone are quickly felt because the blood is at once supplied with the elements it needs to become rich and red. It is ironized vitalized and rapidly brought to its normal strength.

The very best ingredients for toning up the system are contained in Ferrozone, and if you use it you are sure to get back your old-time strength and spirits.

If you suffer from debility, insomnia, nervousness, loss of appetite, or any of the symptoms of disordered blood, nothing will so rapidly tone you up as this great food tonic, Ferrozone. Its record of successful cures, its recommendation by the public, by druggists and doctors commends it to every thinking person.

You need Ferrozone to make you well. Why not get to-day? Sold by all druggists; price 50c. per box or six boxes for $2.50.

WELFARE OF THE CHILD

A few days ago in Washington there was held the first International Congress on the welfare of the child. The meeting was held under the auspices of the National Mothers' Congress, and the gathering was addressed at the White House by President Roosevelt in his usual strong and vigorous way. Some of his remarks are well worth pondering. He paid the following tribute to the Mothers' Congress:—"This is the only one body that I put ahead of the veterans of the Civil War, because when all is said, it is the mother, and the mother only, who is a better citizen even than the soldier who fights for his country." In reference to the proper care of the child, the President touched upon the value of school-playgrounds. "No school is a good school if it has not a good playground. Help the children to play, and remember that you can often help them most by leaving them entirely alone." This is surely good advice. In national development the playground probably is just about as important as the workshop. We must have workers, but the possibility of good workers seems often to be settled on the playground. The school years of the child have much to do with making or marring his physical life, and both brain and body should be guarded most carefully and developed most wisely.

Duchess of Marlborough as an After Dinner Speaker

New York, April 2. — Consuelo, Duchess of Marlborough, made her debut as an after dinner speaker at a banquet in the ballroom of the Waldorf-Astoria, at which Mrs. Humphrey Ward, the English novelist, was the principal guest. The Duchess made an earnest appeal to all American women to take a deep interest in civic and social conditions and urged upon them their individual responsibility. Five hundred persons were present.

"I feel very much honored," said the Duchess, "at having been asked to address so representative and large a company as is present here. You will hear from those far more competent to tell all about the association this dinner proposes to advance and I will therefore not presume to encroach upon your time and attention in this respect. But I understand that besides the direct advancement of the Playground Association, this assembly has together and still wider purpose at heart. It desires to recognize the individual responsibility of each citizen to the community in which he lives, and to waken in others that sense of personal obligation we all owe the state. Having had the opportunity of coming into touch with the public work being done by the women in England, I hope I may be able to sound the note of encouragement to my own countrywomen who are doing their lives to bettering the social condition of the poor in this city."

News in Brief

Dublin, April 7.—Mr. Justice Dodd, in opening the assizes for County Roscommon said he was sorry that he could not congratulate the Grand Jury on the state of their country. But there was a slight ray of hope. During the last few months there had been a very considerable diminution in the number of branches of the peace.

London, April 7.—Colonel F. Maude, in the April Contemporary Review describes a gun which, on being listened and can import by the application of electricity, an initial velocity of 2,000 feet a second to projectiles of all dimensions, and of any weight handled under war conditions and board ship or in permanent defences. Projectiles of 1,000 pounds would be fairly within these limits.

The inventor is W. S. Simpson, a Scotsman.

Ottawa, April 7.—The customs revenue of the Dominion for the fiscal year 1907-08, just closed, totalled $57,506,852, as compared with $61,412,29 for the corresponding twelve months of 1906-7, an increase of $6,064,052.

For the last month the customs receipts were $4,356,192, a decrease of $745,434 as compared with March of last year. The decrease is, of course, due to the falling off in imports consequent upon the prevailing business depression.

Vienna, April 7.—News of the coming disposal of the famous Graf art collection is received with regret in Vienna. The pictures are to be sold, and it is known that many of them are going to America.

In the collection are paintings on panels, dating from 150 B. C. that were found inside the coffins of mummies in the Province of Fayoun in Egypt. They owe their preservation to the custom of placing the portrait of the dead inside the coffin. They are of the period when the Greeks inhabited the province, and are remarkable specimens of Greek art in the freshness of their colors.

NOW LISTEN!

Please read carefully what follows, and if you decide to take advantage of what the "Canada Southern Oil & Gas Co., Limited," of Tilbury, Ont (no personal liability), is now offering you, the result will be that instead of getting 3 per cent. for your savings, you will get at least from 10 to 25 per cent. that others are harvesting.

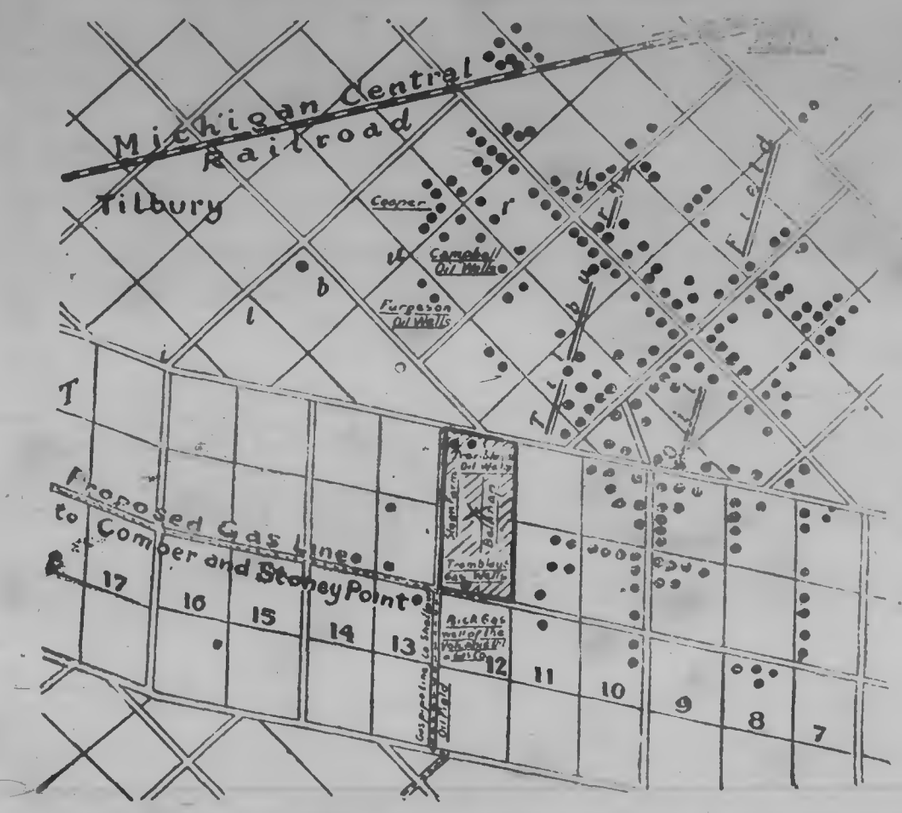
Your savings will be eight times more than the original amount by the mere fact of the higher rate of interest you will get.

Remember that this is no wildcat scheme, as you can see by the facts hereinafter mentioned.

Dr. Bell, the famous Canadian geologist, early in 1878 reported that there was an oil and gas field in the Townships of Tilbury and Romney County of Kent, Ont. As soon as the discovery of the oil was made in Tilbury in 1906, our American neighbors, who are experts in good things, did not hesitate to invest hundreds of thousands of dollars, and now, in fact, control the two thirds interest in our oil field of Tilbury; and this happened because we Canadians hesitated to invest a few thousand dollars in the exploration of the oil mines of Tilbury, which already give a monthly production valued at $75,000, without adding the revenue derived from the gas.

We have said that this is not a wildcat scheme, because the "Canadian Southern Oil & Gas Co., Limited," has secured an option at a very moderate price on properties situated in the oil and gas field of Tilbury, upon which three successful tests have been made, being Lot No. 12, M. R. N., Tilbury East, 200 acres, indicated with a cross upon the map of the field

COUNTY of KENT, ONTARIO



Three wells only have been drilled at an average depth of 1,000 feet.

The first one proves to be a rich gas well, the two others are good oil wells, combined with a strong production of gas.

The Company has also secured the franchises for the distribution and sale of natural gas into the Townships of Romney, Tilbury East, North and West and also into the thriving villages of Comber and Stoney Point.

The gas well is properly equipped and already is supplying the motor power to the Romney oil field and is getting one-third of the gross revenue of the gas sold.

The oil wells are completely equipped with one 15 h. p. gas engine, derrick, tanks, boiler, pumps, tubing, pipe-line, jerk-line, jack, etc., and are producing daily. The oil is sold to The Imperial Oil Company, Sarnia, and is delivered at the tanks and shipped through its pipe-line to Pere Marquette R. R. Station at Merlin, a distance of 3 miles.

Our properties are already giving daily a net revenue of about $35.00—that is to say, more than 10 per cent. of the whole capital stock of the Company.

This revenue may be made four times greater by the drilling of other wells and the construction of the gas-line to Comber and Stoney Point.

Fritz Cirkel, Esq., of Montreal, consulting mining engineer and mineralogist to the Dominion Government, who lately made an inspection of the said property, concluded his report as follows:

"In summarizing the actual results already obtained from the operations on the Sloan wells the writer is forced to the conclusion that the property under consideration is a very valuable one. Located as it is in the southern extremity of the producing Tilbury oil field, in close proximity to wells which produce from 40 to 60 barrels of oil (and even more) per day of 24 hours (I refer to the Ferguson Campbell and Cooper properties, located about 2,000 feet distant to the north, see plan attached hereto), it bids fair to become a producer of oil and natural gas of no small measure.

The Tilbury field has already the reputation of being a large producer and powerful companies have entered the district with a view of securing properties of known and established value.

There is one factor to which I would like to draw your special attention and that is the future of natural gas. To-day, the market in that in that part of the country, for this commodity is not sufficiently large to dispose of all the gas the wells can produce but there is no question that in the near future factories will be established on central points, which will eventually consume for various purposes, especially for power, all the gas which can be produced in the field.

Besides this there are quite a number of towns and villages in the western part of the Niagara Peninsula, which may use the gas for heating, lighting, and also for power purposes and it is only a question of time when this will be realized.

The economy of the application of natural gas to power purposes is already evidenced all through the field, as coal or any other power cannot be regularly obtained, and this at high figures. Having therefore, a powerful gas well on the (Sloan) property, it is evident that a great saving is effected from this source alone; for instance, for the operation of ten oil wells, the cost of power required per day would amount to between twenty and twenty-five dollars, which, in 300 working days per year, would represent a saving of from six thousand to seven thousand five hundred dollars.

In conclusion, I may say that this property, with proper and economic management, can be made highly remunerative; I entertain, no doubt, that if properly developed, it will show similar results as those of so many other locations in the vicinity, whose developments have of so many other locations in the vicinity, whose developments have been so vigorously pushed in the past.

Respectfully submitted,
(Signed) FRITZ CIRKEL.

The property is situated at Mancos, Colo., and consists of 160 acres, fully paid for. The Company expects to secure at least 400 acres or more, we are negotiating for it now and the terms are satisfactory and there is coal on the same, and they also intend to secure some Coal Mines of which they have the refusal. Some of che best coal mines in Colorado are in this district, as well as some of the richert gold and silver mines. In fact this is one of the richest parts for mineral in the State of Colorado, and the Company has the refusal to several prospects on reasonable and easy terms.

In our opinion the prospects of the Company are very bright, and a rapid advance in the price of the stock is sure to take place in the near future. Full in information can be had by calling at our office.

...The brooch was mine, so the sooner you, Mr. Pash."

"Well," said the solicitor coolly, "what of that? Norman was my client and wanted the brooch. I intended to keep it and then see you, so that a sale might be arranged. Norman spoke to me about the brooch several times and wanted it for reasons you may not know."

"Oh, yes, we know," said Hurd sardonically. "We know much more than you give us credit for, Mr. Pash. Well, you saw Norman about the jewel later that evening. I suppose you intend to tell us you gave him the brooch then?"

"I intend to tell you nothing of the sort," retorted Pash after a few moments' thought. "I see that things are coming to a crisis, and I would like to see Miss Norman reinstated in her rights."

"Oh," said Paul indignantly, "and you did your best to give the money to Maud Krill!"

"Because I believed she was legally entitled to it," explained Pash lamely. "But since—no," he broke off. "I'll say nothing just now. I alone can put the matter right, and I refuse to do so unless I have Miss Norman's promise that I shall keep the business."

Paul would have refused then and there, but Hurd, more astute, interrupted his angry speech. "We'll see about that later, Mr. Pash," he said soothingly. "Meanwhile what did you do with the brooch?"

"I laid it on the table there. The case was open, as I had been looking at it. I sent Tray out of the room and attended to my usual business. Several clients came and went, and I forgot about the opal serpent. Then I went to see my clerk outside about a deed. I was with him for some minutes. When I recollected the brooch before I went home—for I intended to take it with me"—

"Stop," interrupted Hurd. "You were here till Aaron Norman came along with the jewels, so you must have missed the brooch before he came or he would have taken it, seeing it was exposed on the table."

"My esteemed client did not come till 7," said Pash, annoyed at being detected in trickery. "He walked about with the bags of jewels for some time, not being able to make up his mind to give them to me, which he did for safe keeping."

"Then he expected a visit from his wife?"

"I can't say," said the solicitor, with an air of fatigue. "He certainly hint-

"Do you think I come here unprepared?"

ed that he wanted the jewels placed away safely in case some one connected with the opal brooch should come."

"Perhaps Captain Jessop, who did come," said Paul suddenly.

"He didn't mention the name of Jessop," snapped Pash. "Had he hinted at a sailor I would have known who my nautical visitor was."

"We know all about that," said Hurd, waving his hand, "but if Norman came to you at 7 how did you manage to prevent him meeting his wife in this office?"

"Oh, she was— What do you mean?" asked Pash, breaking off and sometime that he was letting slip something he had rather have not been known.

Hurd saw the slip and Pash's confusion and at once made every use of the opportunity. In fact, he played a game of bluff. Shaking his finger, he approached the little lawyer. "Do you think I came here unprepared?" he asked solemnly. "Do you think I have not been to the Red Pig at Christchurch and learned that Mrs. Krill knew of her husband's whereabouts.

Heart Strength

Heart Strength, or Heart Weakness, means Nerve Strength, or Nerve Weakness—nothing more. Positively, not one weak heart in a hundred is, in itself, actually diseased. It is almost always a hidden tiny little nerve that really is all at fault. This obscure nerve—the Cardiac, or Heart Nerve—simply needs, and must have, more power, more stability, more controlling, more governing strength. Without that the Heart must continue to fail, and the stomach and kidneys also have those same controlling nerves.

This clearly explains why, as a medicine, Dr. Shoop's Restorative has in the past done so much for weak and ailing Hearts. Dr. Shoop first sought the cause of all this painful, palpitating, suffocating heart distress. Dr. Shoop's Restorative—this popular prescription—is alone directed to these weak and wasting nerve centers. It builds; it strengthens; it offers real, genuine heart help.

If you would have strong Hearts, strong digestion, strengthen these nerves—re-establish them as needed, with

Wintry Chills

Make the Liver Torpid
Congest the Kidneys
Start Rheumatic Pains

Youll find quick relief, renewed strength and freedom from all winter ills

Dr. Hamilton's Pills

Thousands of lives are sacrificed each year through colds that started with "just a chill."

These chills act instantly on the liver and kidneys, they congest these organs, prevent their eliminating and filtering the wastes from the body.

The system becomes contaminated with poisons that destroy vitality and leave the body prey to disease.

Dr. Hamilton's Pills cause the liver to throw off its bile, they flush out the stomach and bowels, purify the blood and free the entire system of all disease-producing matter.

Colds, rheumatism, the aches and pains of winter ills are swept away. Every injured tissue is repaired. Every weak spot is strengthened, and highly vitalized blood which Dr. Hamilton's Pills so abundantly make, is a guarantee of freedom from sickness of any kind.

CURED COLDS AND RHEUMATISM

Mr. John Whitley, of Sanwood, P. O., Ont., knows the merit of Dr. Hamilton's Pills, and says. "I wouldn't be alive to-day had it not been for Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Last winter I was sick with grippe, and when spring came I was weak, bilious and rheumatic. I used enough medicine to cure twenty times, but I didn't get any help till I tried Dr. Hamilton's Pills. They purified my blood, took the yellow color out of my face, put new tone in my stomach, and increased my appetite. The bilious attacks and rheumatic pains gradually departed, and Dr. Hamilton's Pills made a new man of me. I proved their merit, and proclaim them a medicine for all men."

If better health and prompt recovery are important, get Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut to-day. At all dealers, 25c. per box, or five boxes for $1.00

PRINCE RUPERT. It is almost needless to make any lengthy description on this place for we all know its the terminus of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, in B. C., situated on Kian Island, at the mouth of the Fraser River. It is estimated that owing to the great rush of gold seekers and others seeking wealth and new locations that Prince Rupert will have a population of 20,000 before next winter.

HAZELTON is another almost equally promising city, situated at the head of navigation on the Skeena River, on the main line of the Grand Trunk Pacific, also being the junction point of the Line from Dawson City. With these and other existing natural conditions and the prospects of a great development it is looked upon as a great place to advance.

If you want to get in right and on the bottom prices and get the pick of the stuff, write and accept this opportunity.

Mothers are at their wit's end many times trying to find a safe, nourishing food for the baby that's just been weaned. This is an important epoch in the little one's life and on securing proper food depends the future growth of the child.

Grape-Nuts soaked in hot milk, then cooled to the right temperature, with a little sugar, meets the requirements of the newly weaned child in 99 cases out of a 100—perhaps an even hundred!

Try a teaspoonful, softened to a paste with a little of the hot milk and then all mixed together—half a cupful. It's safe because Grape-Nuts is made only of wheat and barley and baked from 12 to 16 hours. Its a great food for babies or grown-ups.

BOARD OF EDUCATION IN REGULAR SESSION LAST NIGHT

Delegates will be Sent to the Coming Convention in University College Hall of School Trustees of Ontario

Last night the Board of Education met in regular session in the Board room as usual. Those present were Chairman Fair, Messrs. Hall, Dr. Burnham, Crane, Nelson, Dumble, Hoyle, Ackerman, Robinson, Dr. Morrison and Inspector Mowat.

A communication was read from S. J. Stubbs, secretary-treasurer of the Ameliasburg Township Council, asking the co-operation of the Board in the formation of a pedagogical library. He asked that the Board contribute towards the initial expense thereof. Mr. Stubbs noted the advantage this would be to the local teachers. He noted that Father McColl had unofficially assured the association that the Separate School Board would contribute in proportion. The writer suggested that $15 by the Institute, $25 from the Board and $10 from the Separate School would make a good beginning.

Mr. Fessenden wrote that the Education Department have reported that the following pupils were winners of the Nicholls prizes in July, 1907 Miss Gladys Crane, junior matriculation, $15; T. S. Pringle, junior leaving, $15; Miss Marguerite Burnett, senior leaving and honor matriculation, $50.

Mr. R. R. Hall wrote in regard to the pictures he had received for the King Edward School. He expressed a desire to help the schools in any way. Received Inspector Mowat wrote advising the Board to grant Mr. Avery, caretaker of the King Edward school, an allowance for extra work.

The following applied for position of janitor of the new Collegiate Institute, viz., Thos. A. Lang and J. W. Edwards.

The Board received a programme of the Provincial Association of School Trustees of Ontario with a request to be represented by a delegation to be present on April 21st in the West Hall of Toronto University.

Regarding the application made by Mr. Stubbs for a grant towards a pedagogical school library, Mr. Hill thought it better to wait until the new Collegiate is open. He moved that the matter be referred to the Supervision Committee to consider.

Mr. Crane noted the matter of fire protection for schools, that the Toronto school authorities are investigating such matters, and the Peterborough Board would be able to take advantage of the results of their investigations.

Mr. Ackerman, chairman of the Property Committee, remarked that they had thoroughly looked through the local schools and seen that all doors open outwards. One door had been taken off. Everything had been done to assure protection from fire.

Mr. Dumble, chairman of the committee in charge of the building of the Queen Alexandra School presented a detailed report, showing how Bolt Bros had completed their contract and were now settled with. They had, however, retained certain sums. Their work had been satisfactory.

Mr. Robinson asked why water was coming through the cement cellar walls of this school in certain places.

Mr. Dumble said the question was pertinent and proper. If the questioner had built as many houses as he had he would understand that such things must be expected. He gave several theories to account for this trouble, which he thought was mostly surface drainage. He thought next year when the soil settles this trouble will be done away with.

Dr. Morrison said he thought the Board was under much obligation to the chairman and members of the committee in charge of the building of the Queen Alexandra school. He moved that the Board pass a vote of thanks to Mr. Dumble. This was seconded by Mr. Hall, who personally knew the hard and frequent work done by Mr. Dumble. Carried with applause.

Mr. Dumble responded to the vote in a few well-chosen words.

Dr. Burnham moved that Messrs. Dumble, Hill and the chairman be a deputation to go to Toronto to the meeting of the school trustees of Ontario, as noted above.

Mr. Hill thought this coming meeting would be a most important one, and that as large a deputation as possible go to Toronto.

Mr. Dumble thought the school inspector should be with this deputation.

The Board, after finding that Inspector Mowat had no official report to make, and after general matters were discussed, adjourned.

Unemployed in the United States Number 4,750,000

New York, N.Y., April 7.—A convention of representatives of various labor and other bodies was held yesterday at the Hotel Astor to inquire into the number of unemployed throughout the United States and the reasons for their idleness.

Samuel A. Stodd, a representative of the Industrial Workers of the World, said that "a reasonable estimate of the number of unemployed throughout the United States at the present time would be at least 4,750,000." He asserted that matters are going from bad to worse.

Daring Attempt to Steal $3,000--Used Guns and Dynamite

Clerk Fought with Rocks

St. Catharines, April 7.—A determined effort was made early this morning by three or four men to rob the Imperial Bank at St. David's, a little village a few miles from here.

Several strangers came to the village early last night, and were seen around town for several hours. Then they stole a couple of horses at Doyle's hotel, and breaking open a blacksmith shop, stole tools with which they pried open the front door of the Imperial Bank. While two of the men with revolvers stood on guard the others blew open the vault.

A PLUCKY BANK CLERK.

A bank clerk named Hamilton heard the explosion, and came running up to see what was the matter. His revolver was in the bank, but he pluckily opened fire with rocks and stones on the robbers on guard in front of the bank. They returned his fire with their guns, and fired a dozen or more shots at the plucky young chap. This noise of the shooting awoke everybody within hearing, and very soon the whole village was astir. The robbers were determined, however, and held the people off, who, being unarmed, stood under cover. When, however, a second explosion failed to knock down the inner door, the robbers gave it up, covering the villagers with their guns as they drove off at a furious gallop. They went in the direction of Niagara Falls.

It was found after that the second explosion had so badly wrecked the inner door of the vault that the door could be pulled out with the hands. Behind it were the $3,000 the robbers were after.

It is altogether likely that the robbers were a number of Buffalo crooks, who had planned to rob the bank in true Wild West fashion, and were prepared to hold up the town if necessary.

Chief of Police Parnell, of St Catharines, was notified, along with the police of other points in the district, immediately, and he had his men on the watch, but the robbers did not come this way.

ORDERED GOING OUT OF TOWN.

A young man, Arthur Goring, living near the city, had an experience of his own. He drove into St. David's while the bank, and the villagers in fact, were in the hands of the desperadoes. One of the robbers ordered him to get out of town as fast as he could drive, emphasizing his remarks with his revolver. He didn't wait to argue with the robber, he says.

The robbers, it is expected, have by this time crossed the Niagara River in a boat.

POLICE

Yesterday's Police Court was opened by the Magistrate asking the sole prisoner in the box, whom he recognized at once, "What are you doing here?" Henry replied, "Well, your Worship, this is my first slip for three years and if you let me go it'll be the last for three years more." He went.

A boy named Percy Nell was charged with throwing stones on Sunday last. Percy with tears, said Mr. Yost's dog had run at him. Mr. Yost said the dog does not run at people and has never bitten any one. Other boys had thrown stones at it. Percy said the dog had chased his chickens and stolen liver from his hen house.

His sister remarked that the dog had come into their yard and chased their chickens. She had thrown stones at the dog herself to chase it away.

His Worship told the boy to go and throw no more stones.

A local liveryman was charged by W. Crother with having assaulted him. Crother said he went in to pay for a horse he had had of the defendants. His arms were behind his back and the defendant "drove him one in the eye." The cause was that he had "roasted defendant's cart that he had hired.

The defendant was not present. His Worship remarked, "I don't think people can take the law into their own hands. $5 and costs, $8.65 altogether," said sum to be paid in ten days.

School Board Will Investigate Charges Made by Ed. Stocker

Concerning Certain Details of the Plumbing of the North Ward School and Collegiate Institute

At last night's session of the Board of Education, Mr. Edward Stocker wrote laying a complaint, specifically set forth, concerning certain details of the plumbing of the North Ward school and the new Collegiate Institute. Mr. Stocker claimed that the work was done contrary to contract and contrary to the rules laid down in the city by-law regulating plumbing. A member of the Board thought that a matter like this might arise from personal reasons and should thus be thoroughly investigated.

Another member arose and said he knew of plumbing that had been done that was not according to the city by-law. He did not go behind Mr. Duranceau's back to say so.

Mr. Dumble moved that the allegations made by Mr. Stocker be discussed by the whole Board. This was seconded by Dr Burnham and carried.

Mr. Duranceau, the contractor, here appeared before the Board and asked why these accusations were not made until after he had done ten months' work. He took exception to the speaker's remarks as to part of the plumbing work not conforming with the city by-laws. If said if any cement joints were found in the lead pipes he would give the work for nothing. Here he produced his letter book showing the order he had originally sent for the supplies for this work, to show he had ordered extra heavy stuff.

Death of John Torrance

Brother of Rev. Dr. Torrance, Late of of This City

The death of Mr. John Torrance, one of Montreal's leading business men, took place on Monday, in that city.

Mr. Torrance fell ill about a month ago, and Dr. Roddick pronounced it a case of heart trouble and pneumonia. As he grew worse Dr. Martin was called in consultation and the patient's condition was admitted to be very serious. Two weeks ago the family were told that Mr. Torrance would not likely recover, but there was a slight hope. Day after day was passed in patient watching by his bedside, and the morning reports of the physicians often gave an added hope. On Saturday, however, it was seen that the end was near, and to-day for some time previous to death, Mr. Torrance lay in an unconscious condition.

The deceased gentleman leaves a widow and two sons. Mrs. Torrance was the daughter of the late Senator Ferrier. The eldest son is Mr. John Torrance, Jr., manager of the Dominion line at Portland, Me.; Mr. James Forbes Torrance is in commercial business in Montreal. Mr. Torrance also leaves two brothers and two sisters; Mr. George W. Torrance, freight agent of the Dominion line at Toronto; Rev. Edward Torrance, of Peterborough, Ont.; Mrs. W. R. Ramsay and Mrs. L. S. Blake.

Funeral of Late Inspector Strickland

The funeral of the late Inspector Strickland was very impressive. Flags throughout the town hung at half-mast. The Saskatchewan Reporter devotes much space to the obsequies of this former local citizen, whose regretted demise has been chronicled before in these columns. The pall-bearers were Major Constantine, commanding the Lesser Slave Lake division of the Mounted Police; Col. Belcher, C.M.G., commanding the 19th Alberta Mounted Rifles, and former major of the Mounted Police; Captain Worsley, commanding the Edmonton detachment of the Mounted Police, Frank Walker, M.P.P., J. W. Shera, ex-M.L.A., and Denham McLean.

Winnipeg, April 7.—During March there were 64 building permits issued, covering 72 buildings to be erected, at a total cost of $92,226. In the corresponding month last year there were 226 permits, for 284 buildings, costing $765,850. To date this year the cost of buildings for which permits have been issued totals $113,255, as against $907,150 for the first three months of 1907.

Australian Walking Champion Talks with The Times

Yesterday a Times representative met and had a talk with Mr. Samuel Lewis Brooks, the ex-Australian walking champion, who is here in training for the local walking tournament in Brock street rink. In response to questions Mr. Brooks told that his first experience in walking was gained in South Wales whilst working for his father, a butcher. His first big walk was made on the day His Majesty King Edward was married, where he won three races, one, three and five miles respectively. Mr. Brooks went to Australia shortly afterwards where he became the champion pedestrian, winning the title in Melbourne. He was also champion bicycle rider in Melbourne in 1869 and 1870. In 1871 he went back to South Wales, where he won the championship for two consecutive years. In 1874 Mr. Brooks went to New Zealand, where during the next ten years he won many matches. In 1888 he won the twenty-four hours walking match, covering 117 miles. This was walked in Dunedin, the capital of the Province. There he also won the twelve hours walking match, covering 76 miles. His last match was won before coming to Canada three years ago. He has frequently challenged any man to walk any distance from five miles up.

Yesterday Mr. Brooks took a long tramp via the Lift Lock. He thinks Peterborough as a small progressive little city with a bright future ahead. To describe this veteran champion, who was born Dec 6th, 1846, in few-est words. He is a stocky, sturdy, short, clear complexioned man with a pure white beard and moustache, his cheeks being clean shaven. As he walks, his action reminds one of the gait of Mr. Mark Sweeney. Brooks has money with him to say that he beats Dave Hartley. This in fact seems to be almost his sole ambition. Brooks, however, wants two to one.

10 Out of 14 Counties Adopt Local Option

Detroit, Mich., April 7.—Further returns to-day from yesterday's local option vote in Oakland county indicate that the county went "dry" by from 75 to 150 majority, making a total of 10 out of 14 counties which the prohibitionists carried in yesterday's election.

In the Realm of Sport

Portsmouth, Va., April 7.—The Torontos played their last game in Virginia to-day against Portsmouth. The weather was intensely hot and enervating. The Torontos won the game by 9 runs to 3.

Want Police Patrol in Victoria Park

Yesterday a Times representative, in view of the fixing up of Victoria Park, interviewed several members of the local Horticultural Society regarding matters appertaining to that body. These gentlemen thought that one point in particular is worth serious consideration, and that is the destruction done by boys and others and the trouble caused by the former at band concerts during the summer. It was their opinion that the police commissioners should instruct the police etc to keep an eye on the park throughout the summer months and have an officer present on band nights to keep order. It was their contention that on band nights the enjoyment of many hundreds of people is too often marred by boys who, possibly without meaning to give trouble, race about yelling and making the night hideous. Two prominent members of the association were strongly in favor of a policeman being present in the park on band nights. It seems that Victoria Park being county property has not been considered as coming under city police jurisdiction. Still if the commissioners give instructions to such effect the police will patrol the park when crowds are there by night.

DOCTORS MISTAKES

Are said often to be buried six feet under ground. But many times women call on their family physicians, suffering, as they imagine, one from dyspepsia, another from heart disease, another from liver or kidney disease, another from nervous prostration, another with pain here and there, and in this way they present alike to themselves and their easy-going or overbusy doctor, separate diseases, for which he, assuming them to be such, prescribes his pills and potions. In reality, they are all only symptoms caused by some uterine disease. The physician, ignorant of the cause of suffering, keeps up his treatment until large bills are made. The feeling the patient gets no better is attributed to wrong treatment, but probably would a proper medicine like Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, directed to the cause would have entirely removed the disease, both by dispelling all those distressing symptoms, and instituting comfort instead of prolonged misery. It has been well said that "a disease known is half cured."

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a scientific medicine, carefully devised by an experienced and skillful physician, and adapted to woman's delicate system. It is made of native American medicinal roots and is perfectly harmless in its effects in any condition of the female system.

As a powerful invigorating tonic "Favorite Prescription" imparts strength to the whole system and to the organs distinctly feminine in particular. For overworked, "worn-out," run-down, debilitated teachers, milliners, dressmakers, seamstresses, "shop-girls," house-keepers, nursing mothers, and feeble women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the greatest earthly boon, being unequaled as an appetizing cordial and restorative tonic.

As a soothing and strengthening nervine "Favorite Prescription" is unequaled and is invaluable in allaying and subduing nervous excitability, irritability, nervous exhaustion, nervous prostration, neuralgia, hysteria, spasms, St. Vitus's dance, and other distressing, nervous symptoms commonly attendant upon functional and organic diseases of the uterus. It induces refreshing sleep and relieves mental anxiety and despondency.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets invigorate the stomach, liver and bowels. One to three a dose. Easy to take as candy.

Bowin Trial Nears an End--To Discredit the Defence's Case

Detroit, Mich., April 7 — When Percy Bowin left the stand to-day, the defence declared its case closed. The prosecution at once began the introduction of its rebuttal testimony for the purpose of discrediting the testimony offered by the defence. Stenographer Bliss of the prosecuting attorney's office was recalled and stated that John Elliott and James Malloy, who had declared that they saw Miss Welch alive in her apartments the day after the time set by the prosecution as the real date of the old woman's death, in their examination in police headquarters had set the period on Thursday as the time on which they saw Miss Welch alive at her rooms.

Gordon Damon, a newspaper reporter, who had interviewed the prisoner while in jail, swore that when he talked with Bowin the latter had told him he would have confessed the whole affair earlier had it not been for the thoughts of his mother and effect the affair would have had upon her.

In view of the fact that Bowin has apparently given no thought nor attention to the little woman in black who sits behind his chair during the present trial, this testimony may not have great weight.

The books of the Hunter and Hunter departmental store were introduced to impeach the evidence of Mrs Brown and her daughter, who had sworn that they saw the murdered woman alive on Saturday. They had fixed the date by the fact that they had gone on that day to the Hunter store to have a dress fitted for Miss Brown. The books of the store showed that Mrs. Brown and Miss Brown had called to have the latter's dress fitted on Thursday instead of Saturday afternoon, at which time a cash payment on the dress had been made.

The evidence in rebuttal will probably fill the day, after which the arguments of the attorneys will begin.

The case will be likely to go to the jury Wednesday after the charge to the jury by Judge Phelan. Both sides express entire confidence as to the outcome.

That languid, lifeless feeling that comes with spring and early summer, can be quickly changed to a feeling of buoyancy and energy by the judicious use of Dr. Shoop's Restorative.

The Restorative is a genuine tonic to tired, run-down nerves, and but a few doses is needed to satisfy the user that Dr. Shoop's Restorative is actually reaching that tired spot. The indoor life of winter nearly always leads to sluggish bowels, and to sluggish circulation in general. The customary lack of exercise and outdoor air flog up the liver, stagnates the kidneys, and often times weakens the Heart's action. Use Dr. Shoop's Restorative a few weeks and all will be changed. A few days test will tell you that you are using the right remedy. You will easily and surely note the change from day to day. Sold by all dealers.

Special for Wednesday and Thursday

Closing Exercises of the Y.W.C.A. School of Cookery Last Night

A large number attended the closing exhibit of the School of Cookery of the Y.W.C.A., held in the gymnasium last night, and those who did not attend missed the treat of the season. The interesting feature of the evening was the various tables of the classes which were decorated in colors, which lent a pleasing effect to the edibles thereon. Each table designated a certain class of cooking.

The different delicacies on exhibit prepared by the members of the school of cookery, showed the high state of efficiency the young ladies had attained under the careful supervision of Miss Elliott.

Another exhibit worthy of mention was the camp cookery table, which was of rustic design, being placed in a tent, the various dishes shown being the work of the boys of the camp cookery class.

The following is the exhibit:

Superior Class — Decorations yellow marguerites and yellow candles.

Salad Class—Green table, white carnations and green candles, 15 salads.

School Girls' Class — Pink and white carnations and pink candles, candy custard, eggs, marguerites and small cakes.

Dessert—Silver and red custards, plum pudding, frozen puddings and entrees of different kinds.

During the evening an excellent programme of music, soogs and recitations was rendered, the following is the programme:

God Save the King.
Prayer by the Rev. Mr Keith.
Piano solo—Miss McIrdrum.
Vocal solo—Mr. Shook.
Reading—Miss Weir.
Violin solo—Miss Irwin.
Reading—Mrs. A. Stephenson.
Drill—Rosebuds.

At the close of the entertainment a sale of the eatables took place, and those present availed themselves of the opportunity to purchase such appetizing viands.

The many friends of Miss Clara S. Elliott, who has had charge of the school of cookery of the Y.W.C.A. for the past three months will be sorry to learn that she is leaving the city. Miss Elliott during her stay in Peterborough, has made many warm friends.

Blood-Cleansing Recommended in the Spring Time

In This Way The System is Strengthened and Better Health Assured.

From the earliest time it has been universally acknowledged that the transitory period between winter and spring is the seed time of disease.

Consequently it is necessary for us all to take suitable medicine.

A delay gives the germs and weakness a better chance to take hold.

Don't wait, think of our small resisting powers, and begin building up today. For weakness, overwork and debility the doctors prescribe Ferrozone; let it help you now.

Vitality and power are instilled into the blood; this means new strength for all weak organs.

The fire of youth will dance in your veins, and new found energy will increase your desire to work.

Ferrozone supplies the nourishing and tissue-building material your system lacks. Isn't this "a reason why?"

From Combermere, Ont., Mrs. Jno Oram writes as follows: "For a number of years I was sickly in the spring-time. I felt tired, nervous and had headaches. My blood was weak and damp days brought on rheumatism. My nervous system was unstrung and I felt utterly worn out. Ferrozone revived me in a short time. In two days my appetite increased, and I could feel a building-up process going on. This great tonic made a new person of me and I don't think a more strengthening medicine for the spring can be found."

Wouldn't it be just fine for you to get back your old-time spirits and vigor? Easily done with "Ferrozone"; commence to-day. Sold by all dealers, 50c. per box or six boxes for $2.50.

IRISH HOME RULE RESOLUTION

The great bulk of the British people are no doubt feeling thankful to-day that they still have such gathing as the much-abused House of Lords. Where would they have been had the resolution moved by Mr. Redmond, leader of the Irish Nationalists, on Monday night in the House of Commons, been a Bill, and no second chamber to revise it? Happily adopting that resolution has no practical effect whatever. It merely shows that the British House of Commons, as presently constituted, would—if it only had the absolute power—grant Home Rule to Ireland.

A few days ago Mr. Redmond moved this resolution:—"That in the opinion of this House a solution of this problem (i. e., Home Rule for Ireland) can only be attained by giving the Irish people legislative and executive control of all purely Irish affairs." Practically that would simply be separation from the United Kingdom; so, to maintain at least a nominal connection, Mr. Redmond consented in course of a lengthy debate to the following amendment being added to his resolution: "all subject to the supreme authority of the Imperial Parliament." As so amended the resolution was adopted by the House by a majority of 313 to 157; but, as we have said, its so adopting it will have no practical effect whatever—at least just now. The majority of 156 is no doubt large, but it is only about one-half of the number which the present Government has hitherto commanded, and the falling off is rather significant.

It would appear that the speech of Mr. Asquith, Chancellor of the Exchequer, who is presently acting as Premier, is far from pleased the Irish Nationalists, and is likely to result in strained relations for some time. Ex-Premier Balfour, in a brief speech accused the Government and other supporters of the resolution, of speaking with two meanings—a Radical meaning and a Nationalist meaning—and asked them how it was possible to carry out great Irish reforms with British money except by a British Parliament. Mr. Balfour ironically challenged Mr. Asquith to clear up this ambiguity. The great speech in the debate, however, was that of Mr. Timothy Healy. It was a scathing attack upon Mr. Asquith, whom he told that he was mistaken if he supposed that by the speech he had made he would commend himself to the Irish nation. He reminded the House that on the question of amnesty for the dynamiters some years ago Mr. Asquith "closed the gates of mercy with a clang," and they were opened by the Conservative party within two years. Referring to the ordeal of the Pigott forgeries Mr. Healy said that the only thing he regretted was that in that case Mr. Asquith was engaged to defend the Parnellites. In concluding he said that it was on the Irish question that Mr. Asquith first came into notice. "To-day," he said, "he is an important man, to-morrow, he may be a god, but we shall not worship at his shrine."

Great interest was taken in the debate on the resolution, although it was only academic, seeing the Government had become pledged that there would be no deal or action regarding Home Rule until a mandate has been obtained from the people at the general election.

Mr. W. A. Bailey on the Land of His Adoption

Editor Morning Times:

Dear Sir,—In your issue of to-day I saw a letter signed W. A. Bailey, in which the writer condemns in severe language the people indigenous to the country of his adoption. Now, Sir, I am not personally acquainted with Mr. Bailey further than noting his name in print several times. I might respectfully advise Mr. Bailey that, to use a slang expression, "there is no string on him"; in other words there is no special legislation preventing him from returning to England if he does not like the Canadians. If this gentleman finds the Canadians "cunning," as do many green Englishmen. If Mr. Bailey has seen more beggars here in twelve months than in 30 years residence in England, his experience differs from mine. During three months residence in England I was accosted by more beggars in the streets of Liverpool, Manchester, Birmingham and Southampton than I believe the whole Dominion of Canada will contain from Confederation until 1860. Mr. Clurton's remarks, referred to by Mr. Bailey do not need contradiction in point. The class of English immigrants seen daily in this city, with of course, many exceptions, fully justify and verify Mr. Clurton's words. The Canadian government in advocating immigration cannot pick and choose those who will take advantage of cheap steamship steerage tickets. Let this gentleman go to several bar-rooms of this city and he will see that many of his compatriots stand hour after hour making glasses of all last from three seconds to an hour, according to the contents of their pockets. Still these immigrants spend, day after day, hours guzzling beer for every hour looking for work. There are, of course, many, in fact a large percentage, of the Englishmen lately arrived here, who are decent, honest men, but a newcomer to Canada, should not rush into print to pick holes in the people with whom he has chosen to live. Mr. Clurton's remarks did not apply to the better class of English immigrants, and did not find fault personally with the lives or morals of the others. He simply said that the standards of the average English immigrant is lower than that of the average Canadian-born citizen, and common sense and observation will demonstrate the truth of this.

As a matter of fact the difference between the average English immigrant to Canada and the average Canadian immigrant to foreign countries is this. The former is either a "remittance" man, living on an allowance made by friends in England, generally to get him away from his friends there, and whose only interest in Canada seems to be perpetually grumbling at "this blawsted country" or he is and remains a laborer whose thoughts dwell rather on unlimited ale than on advancing his position. The latter invariably rise to places of importance, trust and emolument. There are, of course, exceptions to both but this average stands and is known throughout the world; it is proverbial.

I think, sir, that your correspondent, if anxious to defend his fellow Englishmen (and, incidentally, his is "our" fellow countryman) he should do so without slandering the Canadians with whom he is now living.

Yours truly,
CANADIAN.

News in Brief

Moosejaw, Sask., April 7. — The Canadian Pacific Railway has awarded the contract for the construction of the Moosejaw-Lacombe branch. The contract was let in August, 1907, to J. D. McArthur & Co., to grade fifty miles west of End Steel and during the winter considerable plant was laid down by the contractor and sub-contractors. A notice came to the contractor that the company would not proceed with the work and no explanation was given.

New York, April 7. — Papers were served on James B. Regan, manager of the Hotel Knickerbocker, to-day in a suit brought by Mrs. Evelyn Thaw to recover $50,000 damages for alleged injuries to her feelings by stories that she and E. H. Thomas had been asked to leave the hotel grill room.

London, April 7.—A band of schoolboy highwaymen, equipped with sign and countersign and password, has been discovered at Cambridge, and the mystery of a series of insignificant but irritating burglaries in the university town has been solved.

The band did not burgle for plunder, but for glory. The members drew lots for their forcible entries, and he upon whom the lot fell was bound to break into a house with which the brotherhood was familiar, and to bring from it some unconsidered trifle as a guarantee of good faith.

The band was betrayed by the inopportune entry of a maid servant into a room where one of its members was at work.

The police records will know nothing of the enterprising band, but the individual members of it will suffer condign chastisement at the hands of parent or school master, and the band itself will go into involuntary liquida [illegible]

Teheran, April 7. — The public crier has informed the citizens that the police will not guarantee the safety of any person against murder in the streets after nine o'clock at night, and has advised the inhabitants to keep indoors.

The dispute between the Shah and Parliament grows more acute, but both Parliament grows more acute, but both sides are powerless. Dignitaries of the old regime are petitioning the Russian Minister for protection. It is feared that the revolutionary committees will have resources to open conflict with reactionaries in the hope of bringing about the union of the many factions and their adherents. This would mean civil war.

New York, April 8.—News has been received in this city of another seizure of private property in Venezuela by order of President Castro. This time the victim is the telephone company of Carupano, which supplies the telephone service for the districts of Bermudez, Arismendi and Benitez.

The reason given by the government officials for this confiscation of property was that the telephone company was a menace to the government and public peace. The company had a contract with the government which gave it the privilege of exclusive operation in the districts mentioned. Free service was given to the municipalities.

The seizure, it is said, resulted from the refusal of the company to give free service also to some of the officials. The military took forcible possession of the property, imprisoning the manager and employees.

NOW LISTEN!

Please read carefully what follows, and if you decide to take advantage of what the "Canada Southern Oil & Gas Co., Limited," of Tilbury, Ont (no personal liability), is now offering you, the result will be that instead of getting 3 per cent. for your savings, you will get at least from 10 to 25 per cent. that others are harvesting.

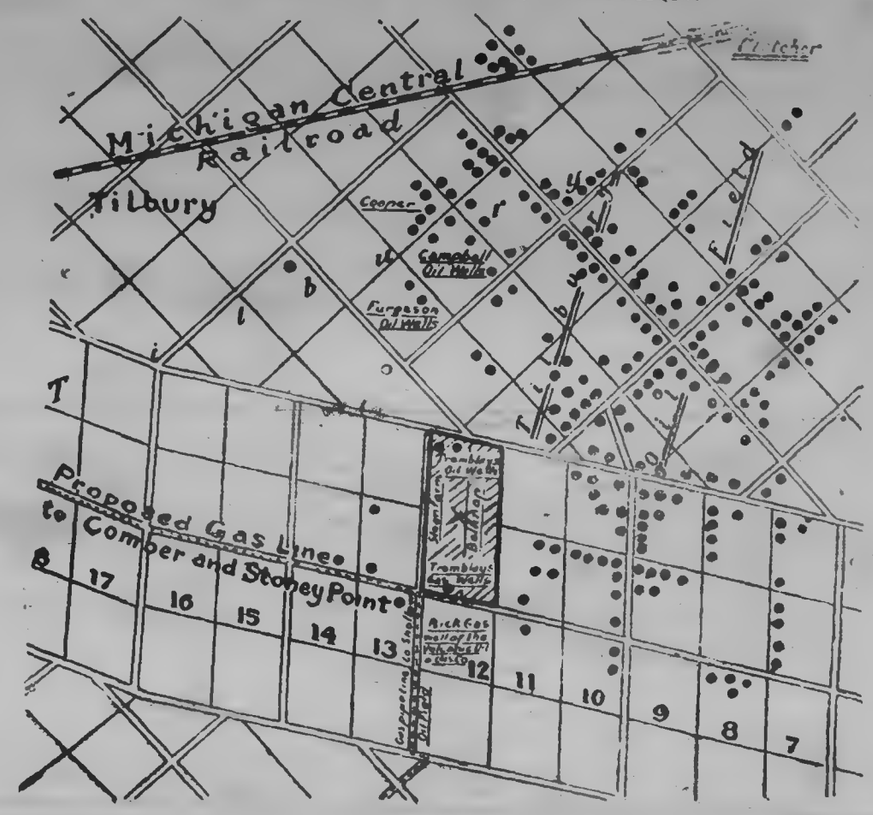
Your savings will be eight times more than the original amount by the mere fact of the higher rate of interest you will get.

Remember that this is no wildcat scheme, as you can see by the facts hereinafter mentioned.

Dr. Bell, the famous Canadian geologist, early in 1878 reported that there was an oil and gas field in the Townships of Tilbury and Romney County of Kent, Ont. As soon as the discovery of the oil was made in Tilbury in 1906, our American neighbors, who are experts in good things, did not hesitate to invest hundreds of thousands of dollars, and now, in fact, control the two thirds interest in our oil field of Tilbury; and this happened because we Canadians hesitated to invest a few thousand dollars in the exploration of the oil mines of Tilbury, which already give a monthly production valued at $75,000, without adding the revenue derived from the gas.

We have said that this is not a wildcat scheme, because the "Canadian Southern Oil & Gas Co., Limited," has secured an option at a very moderate price on properties situated in the oil and gas field of Tilbury, upon which three successful tests have been made, being Lot No. 12, M. R. N., Tilbury East, 200 acres, indicated with a cross upon the map of the field

COUNTY of KENT, ONTARIO



Three wells only have been drilled at an average depth of 1,400 feet.

The first one proves to be a rich gas well, the two others are good oil wells, combined with a strong production of gas.

The Company has also secured the franchises for the distribution and sale of natural gas into the Townships of Romney, Tilbury East, North and West and also into the thriving villages of Comber and Stoney Point.

The gas well is properly equipped and already is supplying the motor power to the Romney oil field and is getting one-third of the gross revenue of the gas sold.

The oil wells are completely equipped with one 15 h. p. gas engine, derrick, tanks, boiler, pumps, tubing, pipe-line, jerk-line, jack, etc., and are producing daily. The oil is sold to The Imperial Oil Company, Limited, and is delivered at the tanks and shipped through its pipe-line to Pere Marquette R. R. Station at Merlin, a distance of 8 miles.

Our properties are already giving daily a net revenue of about $35.00—that is to say, more than 10 per cent. of the whole capital stock of the Company.

This revenue may be made four times greater by the drilling of other wells and the construction of the gas-line to Comber and Stoney Point.

[illegible] Child, Esq., of Montreal, consulting mining engineer and mining [illegible] the Dominion Government, who lately made an inspection of the said property, concluded his report as follows:

"In summarizing the actual results already obtained from the operation of the Sloan (wells the writer is forced to the conclusion that the property under consideration is a very valuable one. Located as it is in the western extremity of the producing Tilbury oil field, in close proximity to wells which produce from 40 to 60 barrels of oil (and even more) per day of 24 hours (I refer to the Ferguson Campbell and Cooper properties, located about 2,000 feet distant to the north, see plan attached hereto), it bids fair to become a producer of oil and natural gas of no small measure.

The Tilbury field has already the reputation of being a large producer and powerful companies have entered the district with a view of securing properties of known and established value.

There is one factor to which I would like to draw your special attention and that is the future of natural gas. To-day, the market in that in that part of the country, for this commodity is not sufficiently large to dispose of all the gas the wells can produce but there is no question that in the near future factories will be established on central points, which will eventually consume for various purposes, especially for power, all the gas which can be produced in the field.

Besides this there are quite a number of towns and villages in the western part of the Niagara Peninsula, which may use the gas for heating, lighting, and also for power purposes and it is only a question of time when this will be realised.

The economy of the application of natural gas to power purposes is already evidenced all through the field, as coal or any other power cannot be regularly obtained, and that at high figures. Having therefore, a powerful gas well on the (Sloan) property, it is evident that a great saving is effected from this source alone; for instance, for the operation of ten oil wells, the cost of power required per day would amount to between twenty and twenty-five dollars, which, in 300 working days per year, would represent a saving of from six thousand to seven thousand five hundred dollars.

In conclusion, I may say that this property, with proper and economic management, can be made highly remunerative; I entertain, no doubt, that if properly developed, it will show similar results as those of so many other locations in the vicinity, whose developments have of so many other locations in the vicinity, whose developments have been so vigorously pushed in the past.

Respectfully submitted,
(Signed) FRITZ CIRKEL.

What they offer at 25c per Share for a short time

The property is situated at Mancos, Colo., and consists of 160 acres, fully paid for. The Company expects to secure at least 400 acres or more, we are negotiating for it now and the terms are satisfactory and there is coal on the same, and they also intend to secure some Coal Mines of which they have the refusal. Some of the best coal mines in Colorado are in this district, as well as some of the richest gold and silver mines. In fact this is one of the richest parts for mineral in the State of Colorado, and the Company has the refusal to several prospects on reasonable and easy terms.

In our opinion the prospects of the Company are very bright, and a rapid advance in the price of the stock is sure to take place in the near future. Full information can be had by calling at our office.

through Hay, long before the day she come to you with the lying story about the handbills? Hay has confessed his share in the business of a false introduction to throw Mr. Beecot off the scent, seeing that he was defending Miss Norman's interests. "Do you think I don't know that this woman Krill came to see you, through Hay, whose lawyer you are? She was here on that fatal evening," said Hurd, making a bold shot. "How did you prevent her seeing Norman?"

Pash was completely thrown off his balance by this volley of language and presumption of knowledge. "Mrs. Krill left at 6," he gasped, backing to the wall.

"And carried off the brooch?"

"I'm not sure—I can't say—I did miss the brooch"—

"After Mrs. Krill left?"

"No, when Norman came. I intended to show him the brooch and found it gone."

"Mrs. Krill left at 6. Between 6 and 7 did any other client come into the office?"

"Yes—no—I can't say. Well," Pash broke down in despair, seeing that his lies were not believed, "I think Mrs. Krill did steal the brooch."

"Quite so, and murdered her husband!" Hurd went to the door and took Beecot's arm. "I only hope you won't be brought up as an accessory before the fact, Mr. Pash," and, disregarding the lawyer's exclamations, he dragged Paul outside. In Chancery lane he spoke. "I've bluffed him fine," he said. "That boy is lost. Can't see him anywhere, but we're getting at the truth at last."

CHAPTER XXIV.

NEXT day Hurd did not go to see Mrs. Krill as he had intended, but spent his time in hunting for the missing boy. Tray, however, was not to be found. Being a guttersnipe and accustomed to dealing with the police, he was thoroughly well able to look after himself and doubtless had concealed himself in some low den where the officers of the law would not think of searching for him. However, the fact remained that, in spite of the detective's search, he could not be caught, and the authorities were much vexed. To unravel the case completely Tray was a necessary witness, especially as, even when examined at Jubilectown, Hurd shrewdly suspected he had not confessed all the truth. However, what could be done was done, and several plain clothes detectives were set to search for the missing boy.

Pash remained quiet for, at all events, the next four and twenty hours. Whether he saw Mrs. Krill or not during that time Hurd did not know and, truth to say, he cared very little. The lawyer had undoubtedly acted dishonestly, and, if the matter were made public, there would be every chance that he would be struck off the rolls. To prevent this Pash was quite ready to sell Mrs. Krill and any one else connected with the mystery. Also, he wished to keep the business of Miss Norman, supposing the money—as he hinted might be the case through his assistance—came back to her; and this might be used as a means to make him speak out. Hurd was now pretty sure that Mrs. Krill was the guilty person.

"She knew Pash through Hay," argued the detective, while thinking over the case, "and undoubtedly came to see him before Norman's death, so that Pash might suggest ways and means of getting the better of the old man by means of the bigamy business. Mrs. Krill was in the Chancery lane office when the brooch left by Tray was on the table, and Mrs. Krill, anxious to get it, no doubt slipped it into her pocket when Pash was talking to his clerk in the outer room. Then I expect she decided to punish her husband by fastening his lips together as he had done those of her daughter twenty and more years ago. I can't exactly see why she strangled him," mused Hurd, "as she could have got the money without proceeding to such an extreme measure. But the man's dead, and she killed him sure enough. Now, I'll get a warrant out and arrest her straight away. I may force her to speak now that she is in a corner."

Having made up his mind Hurd went to work at once, and the next day, being the afternoon, he was driving in a cab to 224 Hunter street, Kensington, with the warrant in his pocket. He also had with him a letter which he had received from Miss Glan and written from Beachill, in Buckinghamshire. Aurora had made good use of her time and had learned a number of facts connected with Mrs. Krill's early life which Hurd thought would prove of interest to the woman. In one way and another the case was becoming plain and clear, and the detective made sure that he would gain the reward. The irony of the thing was that Mrs. Krill, with a view to throwing dust in the eyes of the law, had offered a bribe of £1,000 for the discovery of the assassin.

Hurd had brought a plain clothes policeman with him, and this man remained outside in a hansom while Hurd rang the bell. In a few minutes the door was opened, and the detective sent up his card. Mrs. Krill proved to be at home and consented to receive him; so, shortly, the man found himself in an elegantly furnished drawing room bowing before the silent and sedate daughter.

"You wish to see my mother," said Maud, with her eternal smile. "She will be down in a few minutes."

After a few words Miss Krill rang the bell. "I want these things taken away," she said, pointing to a workbasket and some millinery with which she had been engaged when Hurd was announced, "then I shall leave you to speak to my mother."

The detective wondered if she was too fine a lady to remove these things herself, but his surprise ceased when the door opened and no less a person than Matilda Junk appeared. He guessed at once that the landlady of the Red Pig had come up to see her sister and had related details about her visitor. Probably Mrs. Krill guessed that Hurd had been asking questions, and Matilda had been introduced to see if he was the man. He became certain of this when Miss Junk threw up her hands. "The commercial gent!" she exclaimed.

"Oh, no," said Maud, smiling smoothly. "This is Mr. Hurd, the detective, who is searching for the assassin of my dear father."

"Lor'," said Matilda, growing red. "And he's the man as came to ask questions at the 'otel. I do call it bold of you, Mister Policeman."

"Why did you go down to Christchurch?" asked Miss Krill.

"If I have to find out who killed your father," said Hurd, with an accent on the word father, "it was necessary that I should learn about his past life as Lemuel Krill."

"My mother could have informed you, sir."

"I guessed as much, and, as Miss Junk would not speak, I have come to question Mrs. Krill. Ah, here she is." Hurd rose and bowed. "I am glad to see you, madam."

Mrs. Krill, who was as plump and smiling—and smooth faced and severe as ever, bowed and rubbed her white hands together. At a sign from Maud, Matilda gathered up the fancy work and went out of the room, with many backward glances. These were mostly indignant, for she was angry at Hurd's deception. "Do you wish my daughter to stay?" asked Mrs. Krill smoothly.

"That is as she pleases," said the detective.

PAIN

Pain in the head—pain anywhere, has its cause. Pain is congestion, pain is blood pressure—that's all else usually. At least, so says Dr. Shoop, and he can prove it he has created a little pink tablet. These tablets—called Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets—coaxed blood pressure away from pain out of its. Its effect is charming, pleasingly delightful. Gently, though safely, it surely equalizes the blood circulation.

If you have a headache, it's blood pressure.

If it's painful periods with women, same cause.

If you are sleepless, restless, nervous, it's blood congestion—blood pressure. That surely is certainty, for Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets stop it in 20 minutes, and the tablets simply distribute the unnatural blood pressure.

Bruise your finger, and doesn't it get red, and swell, and pain you? Of course it does. It's congestion, blood pressure. You'll find it where pain always. It's simply Common Sense.

Handsome Photos on Exhibition

Two pictures well worth attention are on exhibition at the Roy studio which attract a great deal of attention. One is a picture of St. Andrew's Young Men's Guild hockey seven and it is another evidence of the excellent work turned out by this studio. The other one is of the Peterborough County Council, framed in a dark oak frame, and which presents a very attractive appearance.

Mr. Fairweather's Estate

The will of the late J. W. T. Fairweather, formerly of this city, but late of Toronto, has been filed for probate. The entire estate is valued at $10,550, and consists of a policy in the Canada Life Assurance Co., for $5,000; a promissory note for $5,000, and personalty $550. The estate is divided among the following, in equal shares: Margaret Hall Fairweather, widow; Agnes Fairweather, mother; Robert Home Fairweather, a brother, and Jessie and Isabella Fairweather, sisters.

Local Merchant Goes to Lindsay

Mr. M. J. Maher, of the firm of Lang & Maher, left yesterday for Lindsay to take charge of the store being opened there by the local firm. His wife and family will remove there in the near future. Mr. Maher during his residence in Peterborough made many friends in business and athletic circles. He will have the best wishes of citizens generally.

Mr. Maher was accompanied by Mr. Jack Primeau, who will assist him in the management of the store.

Foundation Stone Ceremonies

It seems that the officers of the various local troops, infantry, artillery and cavalry are seriously considering the matter of holding special ceremonies in connection with the laying of the new Armouries foundation stone. The Times spoke to several of the officers, and though it was admitted that such ceremonies are being considered, nothing definite has yet been fixed. Whilst nothing to such effect was actually said, it seems that the opinion at least of some of the officers, is that the local officers and troops do not like to encounter the expense incumbent on such ceremony, but that the Militia Department should shoulder them.

Bogus Silver Dollar Current

Yesterday one of the local express companies, through a clerk who first thoroughly examined the coin, took in a bogus silver dollar. It seems that lately there have been many counterfeit likenesses of the silver pieces bearing the symbol of Liberty (not to mention, incidentally, trusts, corporations and muck-raking) in circulation. Our citizens of all classes should carefully examine all money, especially American silver dollars, when the same are presented. The counterfeit is an excellent one, almost impossible to distinguish from the genuine American silver dollar. People unconsciously are receiving them and giving them and again passing them on their neighbors.

PRINCE RUPERT, it is almost needless to make any lengthy description on this place for we all know its the terminus of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, in B. C., situated on Kian Island, at the mouth of the Fraser River. It is estimated that owing to the great rush of gold seekers and others seeking wealth and new locations that Prince Rupert will have a population of 20,000 before next winter.

HAZELTON is another almost equally promising city, situated at the head of navigation on the Skeena River, on the main line of the Grand Trunk Pacific, also being the junction point of the Line from Dawson City. With these and other existing natural conditions and the prospects of a great development, it is looked upon as a great place to advance.

If you want to get in right and on the bottom prices and get the pick of the stuff, write and accept this opportunity.

How to Tell

Whether Coffee is causing your troubles

It seems easy to leave off drinking coffee and note the results.

But you say "I can't get along without coffee," so the dreary days follow one another, the same old pains and aches, slowly growing a little worse. Do you dare think of the road ahead, if that downward tendency keeps on, and why shouldn't it unless you change the daily habit?

Suppose to-day you assert your right to crush habit and start a new and healthful life. It's easy to quit coffee and take on

MORE THAN EVER

Increased Capacity for Mental Labor Since Leaving off Coffee.

Many former coffee drinkers who have mental work to perform, day after day, have found a better capacity and area of endurance by using Postum Cereal instead of coffee. An Ills. woman writes:—

"I had drank coffee for about twenty years, and finally had what the doctor called "coffee heart". I was nervous and extremely despondent; had little mental or physical strength left, bad kidney trouble and constipation.

"The first noticeable benefit derived from the change from coffee to Postum was the natural action of the kidneys and bowels. In two weeks my heart action was greatly improved and my nerves steady.

"Then I became less despondent, and the desire to be active again, showed proof of renewed physical and mental strength.

"I am steadily gaining in physical strength and brain power. I formerly did mental work and had to give it up on account of coffee, but since using Postum, I am doing hard mental labor with less fatigue than ever before."

Mr. Wm. Graham Killed Near Omemee Yesterday

Yesterday shortly after the noon hour a sad accident occurred near Omemee, when a local man, Mr. Chas. Clarke, lost his life. The accident occurred on the farm of Mr. William Graham, who resides about three miles from Omemee in Victoria county, in the township of Emily. It is saying that Mr. Clarke, who was working for Mr. Graham, was engaged in either grooming or harnessing a horse when the animal gave him a sudden and unexpected kick that resulted in Clarke's death within a very few minutes. The deceased leaves a wife and several children in this city to mourn his loss.

The Evidence All in in Bowin Case--Lawyers Address Jury

Detroit, April 8.—That Maude Hall, the mysterious young widow, who was a friend of young Percy Bowin, is not a small town in Ontario, is the declaration of Prosecuting Attorney Grose to-day. Miss Hall has been sought vainly by the police department. She was named as a witness, and it was expected that her presence on the witness stand would furnish perhaps the most important feature of the whole trial. But up to the present time every effort to serve a subpoena on her has been futile. Fine, too, in spite of the undoubted fact that she has been in Detroit several times at the very moment when she was being most earnestly sought elsewhere. It is known that she was here since the trial started, and in fact as late as two weeks ago. Her mother has strenuously denied any knowledge of her whereabouts from the first and close watch of the house has revealed nothing. Yet the young woman has been seen by her friends. By the time the information reached the police, however, she had disappeared again as completely as though she had vanished into thin air. At present she is said to be hiding with relatives in Canada, where the process of the local courts is useless to bring her back as a witness. That she will return when the trial is ended is conceded by her mother, Mrs. Schultz.

ARGUMENTS BEGIN.

The last of the evidence was submitted to the jury to-day in the trial, the arguments of the counsel began. Prosecutor Grose has been allowed three hours in which to discuss the evidence before the jury, and says that he may use the greater part of that time. On the other hand, Attorney Kennedy, for the defence, declared to-day that he will be satisfied with an hour before the jury.

A RING PUZZLE.

The fact stands that goes with the cheap ring, which Bowin presented to a hotel clerk at Buffalo, is puzzling the court. The prisoner swore that he bought the ring for 25 cents at Knox's store in Buffalo, after selling Mrs. Welch's diamonds there. Prosecutor Grose attempted to get him to admit that the ring had really been presented to him by a girl in Oshawa, Ont., with whom he was friendly, and that her initials, "G. H.," were on the inside of the ring. Percy insisted he knew no girl whose initials were "G. H." who had given him a ring, and said that the letters were some sort of a trade mark for the cheap jewellery sold by Knox. To-day the prosecution called Daniel Moore of the Knox store, Buffalo, who said there was no such thing as a "G. H" line of jewellery, and that the Knox store sold nothing that cost more than ten cents. The prosecution then closed its case, and the defence called Alexander Dowson of the Knox store in Detroit who swore that the initial "G. H" in a ring sold by that company stood for the firm name, Goldberg and Herzberg, makers of cheap jewellery. Such rings, he said, were bought by the Knox concern at 6½-2 cents each, and sold for ten cents. Detective Fox had testified that Bowin had declared the ring was given him by a sweetheart in Oshawa.

The arguments were opened at 11 o'clock by Prosecutor Grose. A verdict from the jury is expected before Thursday noon.

POLICE

At yesterday's Police Court Albert Crouther was charged with having committed personal and wilful damage to the wheel of a waggon belonging to Mr. Isaac Eastwood. Crouther pleaded guilty to damaging the waggon, but said it was not wilful.

Mort. Mitchell foreman at Eastwood's livery stable testified to Crouther hiring a waggon in the evening and returning it next morning with seven spokes in a wheel broken. The wheel was sound when it was hired to Crouther. Crouther brought back the horse with its shoulder all raw. Crouther was the worse of liquor. Mr. Kerr acting for Mr. Eastwood said "Don't be afraid to use the word drunk. The defendant is not afraid of it. Crouther said the wheel broke while turning a corner. The rig would hold a far heavier load than was on it. It will require a whole new wheel to repair the waggon.

To Couther, witness said the horse's shoulder was not sore before it was taken out that night.

A young man named Miller, night man at the livery barn testified to Crouther being drunk that night. Witness was out driving that night.

A young man named Plante said he was with Miller that night.

The Magistrate said there was no evidence of wilful damage and dismissed the case.

Another case was then laid against Crouther, that of ill using a horse and cruelty. Prisoner pleaded not guilty.

Mr. Mitchell said the horse was in good condition when let out and has had a sore shoulder since. The horse has not been used since.

Mr. Kerr here admitted that this evidence could not convict.

The night man at the liverystable said the horse was played out when brought back. It was exhausted.

The Magistrate asked "How far are men justified in bringing such cases into Court without any real evidence to support them. I think I ought to make Mr. Eastwood pay the costs." The prisoner was discharged.

ADJOURNED INQUEST ON THE BODY OF LATE WILLIAM E. WEAVER

Drs. Boucher and Young Present Their Report of the Post Mortem Examination

Last night the adjourned inquest on the body of the late William E. Weaver was continued in the Council Chamber with Coroner Dr. Gray presiding.

The first business after Mr. Cochrane had formally opened the evening's proceedings, was calling the jury, as follows:

G. W. Powell, foreman; Thos. Lytle, Robt. Mitchell, J. A. Armstrong, J. Craig, John F. Thornton, F. Bartlett, A. H. Webb, John Thorndyke, Dan Harvey, Thomas Emmerson, Georg Stenton, John Thornbeck, H. R. Stewart, Geo. Stevens.

County Crown Attorney Wood noted that Detective Miller had written him, saying that Dr. Ellis, Provincial Analyist, had not completed his analyses of the stomach.

Dr. Boucher then presented the report of the post-mortem examination made by him and Dr. Young, as follows:

We beg to report that in accordance with instructions from H. E. Wood, County Crown Attorney, we made a post-mortem examination upon the body of the late W. E. Weaver. The body was in an advanced state of decomposition. Upon removing the skull cap he found that the brain matter had all disappeared. Nothing but a mass of jelly like matter remained. The heart likewise was so decomposed that it was impossible to discover any pathological changes should they have existed. Nothing remained but a small molular mass in the position the heart should occupy. The lungs were disintegrated. The liver was shrunken. We managed to obtain a portion of the kidneys. The kidneys were smaller than usual. The stomach was removed. It contained a slight amount of dark colored material. In accordance with instructions received from Dr. Ellis, Provincial Analyist, we forwarded in sealed jars the stomach with sections of the liver and kidney.

The body was in such a putrid condition that it is impossible for us to give any idea of the cause of death.

The meeting was then adjourned for one week to meet at 7.30 April 15th.

Magistrate Dismissed Charge Against Randall

Special to The Times

Lindsay, April 8.—Police Magistrate Jackson gave judgment this morning dismissing the charge against the Lindsay hockey player, Randall, who was charged with striking Switzer, of Midland, on the ice, and destroying the sight of his left eye. The magistrate held that neither the alleged threats nor assault had been proven, and completely exonerated Randall.

Great sympathy is felt for Switzer losing his eye, but the Lindsay Club strongly resisted the laying of a criminal charge, and one of the hottest legal fights here for years took place. Over thirty witnesses from Toronto, Barrie, Midland, Peterborough and other places were examined.

Crown Attorney Devlin and Messrs. Finkinson and Storey, of Midland, were in charge of the prosecution. Mr. G. H. Hopkins, K. C., defended Randall. The magistrate reserved the question whether he would certify for the prosecution's witnesses' fees to be paid by the county.

Mr. Harry Burridge Leaves for Youngstown Today

Mr. Harry Burridge leaves for Youngstown, Ohio, to-day, where he is under contract to play ball. During Harry's stay in the city he has made many warm friends by his genial nature and exemplary character, who will regret to hear that he has moved up another rung in the ladder of fame. That Harry will make good there is no doubt, as he is perhaps the best ball-player that has ever graced a Peterborough diamond — a good hitter, cool, with a level head, and has a good arm. He is a clever catcher, and has all the fine points of the game that can be learned on an amateur league on his finger tips. Mr. Burridge was captain of Peterborough's famous nine last year that served up "the goods" to the fans. As a captain he was popular with the other members of the team. Harry is every inch a gentleman from on and off the diamond.

During his residence here he has made his home with Mr. Arthur Johnston, the popular manager of the team, who, recognizing his bright future as a ball player, was largely instrumental in placing Mr. Burridge with the Youngstown nine, where he will have more scope to develop his abilities as a ball player.

The local fans will watch his movements with the Youngstown team with interest.

Two Big Sealing Ships Struck and Went to the Bottom

St. John's, Nfld., April 8. — Newfoundland's sealing fleet is diminishing. Last year the Leopard and Greenland were lost. The Adventure arrived at 8.15 last night, and reports the Panther lost ten miles east of Funks, on March 22. She struck on the 18th, and the holes in her hull became plugged with ice. Four days later she went down. Her crew of 120 men were rescued by the Aurora, Walrus, Ice land, Southern Cross and Vanguard. Eight men arrived by the Adventure. The Walrus was lost sunday morning, but the crew of 125 were saved. The Virginia Lake is expected hourly. She is reported damaged. The Adventure brings 27,000 seals, and reports the fleet with catches of from 600 to 19,000, the total catch being about 150,000, or 100,000 short of the average voyage. Other steamers are returning short of coal.

One of the Algerian's crew was killed by being crushed between the ice and the ship.

Local Option Voters Cut Out 1,500 Saloons

Special to The Times

Chicago, April 8.—In the local option elections held by 1,200 townships in 81 counties of Illinois, outside of the city of Chicago, yesterday, 20 counties became absolutely anti-saloon territory, and approximately 1,500, or about one-half of the total number of saloons in that territory were voted out of business.

Most of the large cities of the State, however, voted in favor of licensing saloons.

Mr. Bailey Replies

Says There was a Malicious Attack on Englishmen

Mr. W. A. Bailey has written The Times as follows:

"You wrong me in saying I do not like Canadians, for I should not have come to this country otherwise. A malicious attack is being made by Chief Justice Meredith, H. Claxton and others upon immigrants, who are the majority of our people. We are more English here than they are in England."

W. A. BAILEY.

We can assure Mr. Bailey, so far as The Times is concerned, we had no intention of doing him a wrong. We believe in filling this country with people from the Mother Land, omitting, of course, the pauper and the vicious element.

Magistrate Praises Zam Buk

Magistrate Rasmussen, of 302 Marquette St., Montreal, writes: "For many years I was troubled with a psoriasis eruption of the skin. This was not only unsightly, but it was at times very painful. I first tried various household remedies, but these proved altogether useless. I then took medical advice. Not one, but several doctors in turn were consulted, but I was unable to get any permanent relief. Some time back I noticed a report from a Justice of the Peace (Magistrate Perry, J. P. for B. C.) who had been cured of a chronic skin disease by Za-mBuk, and I determined to give this balm a trial. After a thoroughly fair test, I can say I am delighted with it. I have the best of reasons for this conclusion; because, while everything else I tried — salves, embrocations, washes, soaps and doctors' preparations, failed absolutely to relieve my pain and rid me of my trouble, three boxes of Zam-Buk worked a complete cure. In my opinion this balm should be even more widely known that it is, and I hope that my experience will lead other sufferers who are in despair to try this herbal healer, Zam-Buk."

For healing eczema, running sores, cuts, bruises, burns, boils, eruptions, scalp sores, pimples, spring eruptions, itch, chapped hands, and diseases of the skin Zam-Buk is without equal. All druggists and stores sell 8. 50c. box or postpaid from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto.

Salvation Army Cares for Immigrants

It seems that English immigrants are still pouring into the city. The Salvation Army has in charge a family of father, mother and seven children to take care of. This recent addition to the families of Peterborough were accommodated with beds and bedding by the local staff, on the floor of the Barracks' basement. Captain Goodwin placed them in Keene, for which place they left yesterday. The family are without funds and very poorly clad. The father had been out of work in England for some time and borrowed the money to come to Canada. A house has been secured for them in Keene and a position for the husband on a nearby farm, while efforts are being made to secure places for the family in the village.

An Attempt to Rob Bank at Thornhill-- A Desperate Fight

Change in Local Jewellery Business

Mr. Oliver Millburn, of Toronto, has purchased the business and stock and in future will manage the Frost jewellery store on George street. Mr. Millburn is well known in Peterborough, having for some time been a watchmaker and engraver in the W. A. Sanderson store. After leaving Peterborough he went to Chicago, where he took a course in optics. Mr. Millburn has been connected with the watchmaking business for a number of years, and studied at the Horological Institute in Toronto. At the Lands School of Engraving in Detroit he studied engraving, and also attended the Northern Illinois College of Opthalmology of Chicago.

Norwood Register: The arbitration between the Thompson Lmber Company of Havelock, and the McBurney Lumber Company of Toronto, was finally settled in Toronto a few days ago, the Thompson Lmber Company getting an award of $1,900 against the McBurney Company.

Bank Manager, in Night Robes, Fought Burglar

Was Struck on the Head

Thornhill, Ont., April 8—A daring attempt was made last night to rob the local branch of the Sterling Bank. Mr. R. W. Henry, the manager, is in bed to-day as a result of a blow on the head received in his fight with the burglars. Owing to his pluck, however, no money was taken.

About 11.20 Mr. Henry, who had retired in his room above the bank, was awakened by a noise downstairs. He went below without stopping to get his revolver, thinking it was his assistant, Hector Wright, returning from a party. He found both back doors broken open, and being aware that something was wrong, returned to his room and got his revolver. When he came downstairs again he saw through the fanlight of the front door an arm, and at once fired through the glass panel of the door just below the fanlight.

BURGLAR FIRED.

The burglar then hastily returned the shot, and the bullet struck the counter of the bank, and glancing, went between Mr. Henry's legs, piercing his night robe.

Mr. Henry then turned to go into the room at the back, to call for help. This room is used as an undertaker's store-room. As he went through the doorway a man leaped from a coffin box and struck him on the head, rendering him temporarily unconscious. As soon as he recovered he shouted for help. At that moment Mr. Wright, who also sleeps at the bank, arrived. Both the robbers had disappeared, however, and no trace of them can be found.

Mr. Henry is to-day suffering from the blow he received and from nervous shock.

It was found upon examining the safe that no money had been taken. Mr. Henry having evidently appeared on the scene just in time. Mr. Wright is congratulating himself on his narrow escape, as, had he returned a couple of moments sooner he would without doubt have been attacked by the burglars.

County Constables Burns and Tomlinson were communicated with at 10 o'clock this morning, but have so far no clue as to the identity of the burglars, except that two or three suspicious characters have been seen in the locality during the last day or so.

Mr. Benjamin Musselman states that yesterday afternoon at 2.30 he saw a dark looking man, stoutly built, and looking like an agent or something of the kind, buying a ticket for Richmond Hill. The county constables are leaving for Richmond Hill this afternoon.

Mr. Henry has been manager of the bank here for a little over a year. He was formerly at Maple and previous to that with the Bank of Hamilton. Mr. Wright has been in the bank since last August as assistant clerk. He is 18 years of age. Mr. Henry is 23 years of age, prominent in athletics, and quite popular.

It is supposed that one of the burglars was hiding in the coffin box, probably all day. The bullet found was from a 38 calibre revolver.

Black Listed Drinkers Must Obey the Law

It seems as though not only modern public opinion but also the power of the Legislature is bound to keep the man or woman addicted to the excessive use of alcohol, within bounds. Yesterday License Inspector Stewart received a notice regarding several changes in the Liquor Act, referring to inhibitions placed on the black list. Formerly when a man was so placed he was not liable to penalty if he obtained liquor, but the hotelkeeper was.

Subsection 7 of section 125 is repealed, and the following substituted therefor:

7. If a person, served with a black list notice by himself or by any other person, shall within twelve months after service of such notice purchase or procure or attempt to purchase or procure liquor, or be found with liquor in his possession, or under the influence of liquor, or be found lingering or loitering, any place where liquor is sold or dispensed, he shall incur a penalty of not less than $10 or more than $20, or imprisonment for one month.

Section 125a is condensed as follows:

Every person who has been served with a black list notice may upon any prosecution under the Liquor Act be compelled to divulge the name of any person from whom he has obtained liquor during the period for which such notice was in force, and the place, where and date when the liquor was supplied to him, and if such information is within his knowledge and he wilfully refuses to disclose the same, he shall be guilty of an offence for which the penalty is imprisonment for a period not exceeding three months, unless he sooner discloses such information and pays the cost of the committal.

Was Conscience Money Sent?

Yesterday morning Mr. T. H. Hooper received an expectedly and with no know, dge as to whence it came or why, an envelope by mail, containing the sum of $40. The amount mentioned came in the form of two $20 bills. This well known confectioner has no means of knowing whence or why this money was sent him. Several theories are open, namely, that it might be conscience money from some one who owed him this amount, whether for goods supplied, services rendered, or whatever cause imagination may point to. In any case Mr. Hooper is $40 to the good with no idea how or why it was sent.

Toronto Basketball Team Defeat Locals

By a score of 28 to 21, the Central Y. M. C. A. senior team of Toronto defeated the local "Y" team in a fast and exciting game of basketball at the Y. M. C. A. last night. At half time the score stood 14 to 13 in favor of the visitors, and their splendid victory is due to the marvellous shooting of Siewert on foul shots, who scored no less than 10 of the 14 points secured during the initial period.

In the second half the Peterborough boys woke up, and although the Toronto team had secured a lead of seven points early in this half, they succeeded in holding their opponents' score down, and at the same time playing a far more aggressive game than in the first half. The game ended with the score at 28 to 21.

The teams:

Toronto — Seiwert and Tompkins, forwards; centre, Britton; Swanson and Walker, backs.

Peterborough — E. Best and S. Laing, forwards; Sutherland, centre; R. Best and N. Darling, backs.

Referee, Fred Smith, of Toronto.

Cut with Glass

During a fracas at the Royal Hotel last night, the proprietor was hit on the head with a glass, cutting him in several places.

That languid, lifeless feeling that comes with spring and early summer can be quickly changed to a feeling of buoyancy and energy by the judicious use of Dr. Shoop's Restorative.

The Restorative is a genuine tonic to tired, run-down nerves, and but a few doses is needed to satisfy the user that Dr. Shoop's Restorative is actually reaching that tired spot. The indoor life of winter nearly always leads to sluggish bowels, and to sluggish circulation in general. The customary lack of exercise and outdoor air ties up the liver, stagnates the kidneys and oft-times weakens the Heart's action. Use Dr. Shoop's Restorative a few weeks and all will be changed. A few days test will tell you that you are using the right remedy. You will easily and surely note the change from day to day. Sold by all dealers.

News Boys After the Jar of Coppers

A Times representative yesterday passed the newspaper emporium of Mr. Murphy, 246 Charlotte street, saw a globe full of pennies. This excited curiosity. Curiosity led to an enquiry. The result was that Mr. Murphy explained that the vessel in question contained $6 worth of copper coin which he will present to the one of his many boys peddling papers who sells the largest number of a certain Toronto evening paper in a specified time. Whilst not prone to give free advertising, The Times man, as a matter of fact, was startled at the number of papers this local "side" street news vender handles. Mr. Murphy sells every day over 1,000 each of two Toronto evening papers. He also gets rid of a large number of the usual average of magazines, periodicles, etc., especially English periodicals. In further conversation, Mr. Murphy remarked "Do you know I am asked almost daily by people making for morning trains for the Times. Many men going to work in the morning also drop in for the g. C. J. Arrangements were made at once whereby Mr. Murphy will take subscriptions for the Morning Times either by the day, week, month, or year.

Ice on Rice Lake is Still Solid Enough to Drive On

Harwood, April 8.—The ice in Rice Lake is still intact, and driving on the lake still possible, an unusual thing at this time of year.

The Indians of the Hiawatha reserve have commenced to set their traps. So far the weather has been too cold for successful trapping, as the marshy places still freeze over at night. The Hiawatha men are out in even larger numbers than other seasons. The muskrat is caught in large numbers at this season, and also an occasional coon.

This is Best Time For Spring Medicine

Takes, now the blood is renewed disease germs are destroyed, good summer health is assured.

That peculiar weakness so common in the spring, is demoralizing to body and mind alike.

Stupid, absent-minded and dull, you feel the need of a stimulating tonic.

To impart quickness and great vitality to the entire system nothing acts like Ferrozone.

In a short time it makes you feel fit and fine, creates a feeling of youth and strength that's surprising.

Ferrozone revives and braces the sick by because it nourishes and builds up the organs that are weak. As a spring tonic appetizer and blood strengthener it is unequalled.

A well known resident of Utopia, Ont., Mr. H. H. Postle, writes: "From long experience I am convinced that everyone requires medicine in the spring. As a rule the blood is thin and impure and the whole system is congested with poisons that should be carried off. I use Ferrozone because it clears up the system, gives you an appetite and makes you feel well. One winter I had serious palpitation of the heart, nervous headaches, and an extreme tired feeling. Sleep was not restful and by spring I was in bad shape. I took six boxes of Ferrozone and was made the picture of health."

Ferrozone makes permanent cures. Absolutely safe because it is purely vegetable and contains no alcohol. Concentrated cure in tablet form. —that's Ferrozone, 50c per box or six boxes for $2.50 at all dealers.

UNION LABEL

PETERBOROUGH, April 8, 1908

ONTARIO'S DREAD

Everyone who eats bread is interested in the passage of Mr. McNaught's bread bill, now before the Provincial Legislature. The bill is intended to promote sanitary baking, says the Ottawa Journal, and protect the consumer against the possibility of deception as to weight, without imposing unduly harassing conditions on any class connected with the production of the loaf. It provides for inspection of all bread within the factory or at the retailers' shops or on the wagons, but if a prosecution for short weight is brought ten loaves must be weighed instead of one loaf as at present, to prove the charge. The power taken to inspect at the bakery will tend in every way to the improvement of sanitary arrangements. It will be the duty of inspectors to see that all fancy bread is labelled. The label is to give the name of the maker, the kind of bread and the weight of the loaf. The label is not insanitary. It attaches itself to the loaf by the gluten of the bread and if any other process should be resorted to the heat of the oven would be sufficient to sterilize the label. The ordinary household bread is to be baked in loaves of the standard weight of one-and-a-half and three pounds, and fancy bread one pound or a pound and a quarter. By the adoption of standard weights, comparison of prices everywhere throughout the province will be easy. At present the variations in the weight of loaves sold in different parts of Ontario prevents a fair comparison being made. It is no unusual thing to hear of the regular household loaf selling in one town at five cents, while in others the price may be six cents and elsewhere four cents. The loaves now differ in weight according to the convenience of the baker and that occasions the difference in price. The Toronto News claims as one advantage of the selection of the one-and-a-half pound standard for ordinary bakers' bread that with flour ruling at normal figures it can usually be sold at five cents and give both baker and retailer a fair margin of profit. It adds as another argument in support of the one-and-a-half pound loaf that it stops fermentation twenty-five minutes after it goes into the oven, while the two-pound loaf takes forty-five minutes to arrive at that point—which may mean sour bread. Any loaf which contains two per cent. of sugar and two per cent. of shortening or three per cent. of milk solids is to be regarded as fancy. The fact that a Brownsville bakery will use seven million pounds of milk this year indicates the extent of the fancy bread industry. A clause is to be inserted in the bill that the Government analyst's certified report shall be taken as evidence in court, and if the bread is not fancy according to the Act, the cost of the analysis must be paid by the baker. By rendering unnecessary the attendance of the analyst in court the enforcement of the standardization is facilitated.

The general tendency of the bill is in the right direction. Adulterants and deleterious materials are prohibited and other safeguards supplied that ought to ensure cleanliness in the bakery and better bread in every way. If absolutely sanitary loaves, such as our grandmothers used to bake, cannot be had by act of the legislature just yet, the present bill, at any rate, goes a long way towards securing the next best thing. The passage of any measure calculated as this is to raise the quality of the people's loaf makes for the welfare of all, and more especially for that of the laboring classes, and its passage is on that accoun, very much to be desired.

News in Brief

Philadelphia, P., April 8. — The City Council will be asked this week to appropriate $4 less than $50,000 o relieve the distress among the unemployed and their families, according to action taken yesterday at a meeting of the unemployed. A committee was appointed to go before Council's financial committee and impress that body with the fact that more than 50,000 persons are out of work.

St. Petersburg, April 8. — Horrible descriptions have reached St. Petersburg of the famine now ravaging the Tchuntchy and Yassuta tribes. Starving children have been seen gnawing the bodies of members of the family who had died of hunger.

The distress has been intensified by the loss of hundreds of thousands of reindeer in last year's epidemic. In the tundra of Ilimsizemelsky Gorn 300,000 reindeer perished.

Berlin, April 8.—The Countess Vilma Festetics, the young Hungarian noble woman, who eloped with the gypsy musician, Nyary and subsequently married him, was reduced to extreme poverty by her love match.

A way has been found out of her difficulty, however. Nyary and his wife have signed a contract to appear every evening at the Cafe Splendid here for a salary of $400 a week.

Nyary will conduct the Hungarian gypsy band, and the countess has undertaken to sit by his side from 7 every evening till 2 in the morning, in order that patrons of the establishment may gaze on her.

Toronto, April 7.—If information obtained from Conservative sources is reliable, the prediction of Hon. A. G. MacKay to the effect that the Provincial election will be held on May 28 will be found nearly correct. Two Conservative candidates stated yesterday that they understood that May 25 would be about the date. This early election, of course, is in accord with the Premier's declaration to dissolve the House early next week. It seems that every portion of business will be rushed to go to the country at the earliest possible moment.

Chicago, April 8.—Members of local Union of Telegraph operators at a meeting yesterday adopted resolutions recommending that, a strike be declared against the Western Union on June 1, and on the Postal and Associated Press on July 1, unless they grant 10 per cent. increase in wages above those paid on March 1 last year, an eight hour day for day work, seven hours for night work and split tricks, extra work at the rate of seven hours per day, free type writers and equal pay for male and female employees.

A copy of these resolutions will be sent to various locals throughout the country asking them to take similar action.

Gun Range Three Hundred Miles

London, April 7. —Col. F. N. Maude, in a remarkable article in the April Contemporary Review, in which he is discussing the question, "Can Science Abolish War?" refers to a wonderful weapon which can impart by the application of electricity an initial velocity of 50,000 feet a second. This is creating a great sensation here among all classes.

The inventor of the weapon states that it carries 500 miles and that it has been examined and tested by half a dozen experts.

Mr. Simpson, interviewed by the Westminster Gazette correspondent, said:

"Yes, there is no mistake about it. My weapon—it is quite a misnomer to call it a gun—will throw a shell quite 500 miles. In fact, it will throw very much farther than that.

"It is quite as easy for my weapon to project fifty shells of 500 pounds each a minute as to throw fifty of fifty pounds each and to drop shot at 100 miles distant as at 100 yards. In fact, the distance is practically no object. Again, it makes no difference how shots are thrown. A heavy one can follow a light one, and a long-distance one a short-distance one, or vice versa. Whatever the distance or projectile, the weapon is quite easy of control, as easy as any gun at present in use. Further, it will be less expensive than those now fired, and its cost will be cheaper than the existing artillery, while I am sure it will be at least a hundred times longer than the best weapons now in use."

"And when do you intend to make the next experiment?"

"No, not experiment," Mr. Simpson interrupted in his mild fashion. "The whole thing is accomplished. In fact, the weapon is in existence and its powers of velocity have been ascertained upon the same basis as the velocities of other projectiles. At the present moment a body of distinguished men have the whole matter under consideration and are deciding what is best to be done in the matter."

To what Mr. Simpson said may with interest be added the opinion of Colonel Maude, late of the royal engineers. Colonel Maude is the author of many works and has expressed his firm opinion that the practical results claimed by the inventor are certain to be realized. In Colonel Maude's experience he has never known so important and revolutionary an invention as the new electric weapon and projectile, as he calls it.

The fact that with this weapon it is possible to confer upon the projectile a velocity of 3,000 feet per second and upward, and that, too, without either flash, smoke or recoil, will ultimately compel all navies to abandon armor and devote their energies to the attainment of speed as the prime factor of success, and because there is no recoil practically and ship will suffice as the gun platform.

Again, whether in field or siege warfare, since the velocity is under complete control, the same weapon will serve the purpose of gun or howitzer equally well, while because a single gun can deliver an almost continuous stream of projectiles, it will at least equal in fire the power of a whole battery of modern quick-firing guns.

NOW LISTEN!

Please read carefully what follows, and if you decide to take advantage of what the "Canada Southern Oil & Gas Co, Limited," o Tilbury, Ont. (no personal liability), is now offering you, the result will be that instead of getting 3 per cent. for your savings, you will get at least from 10 to 25 per cent. that others are harvesting.

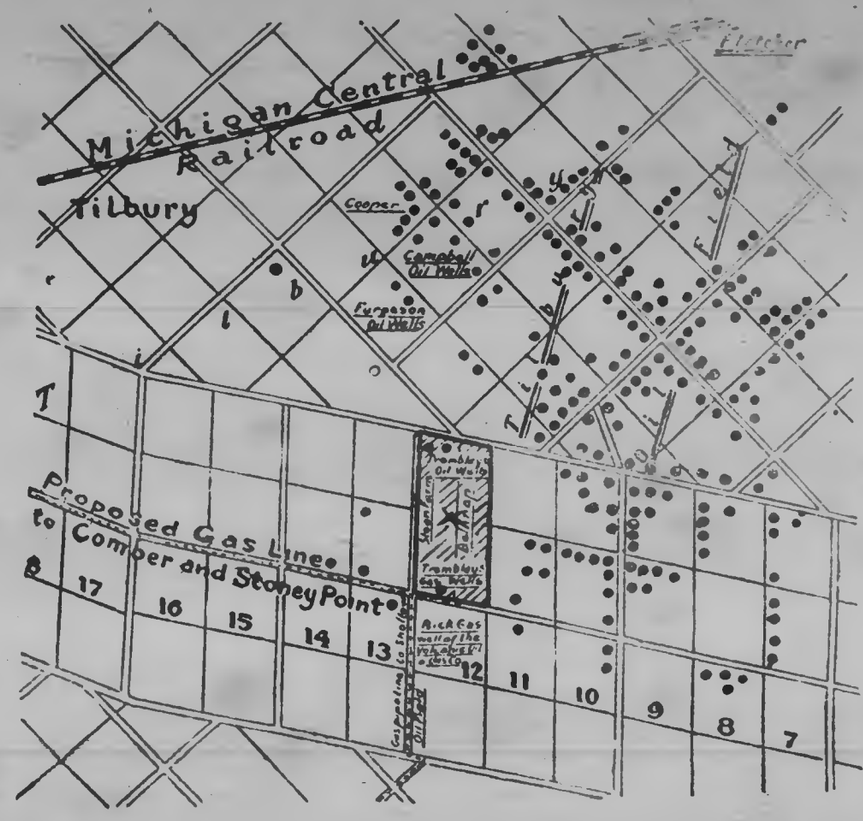
Your savings will be eight times more than the original amount by the mere fact of the higher rate of interest you will get.

Remember that this is no wildcat scheme, as you can see by the facts hereinafter mentioned.

Dr. R. T, the famous Canadian geologist, early in 1878 reported that there was an oil and gas field in the Townships of Tilbury and Romney County of Kent, Ont. As soon as the discovery of the oil was made in Tilbury in 1906, our American neighbors, who are experts in good things, did not hesitate to invest hundreds of thousands of dollars, and now, in fact, control the two thirds interest in our oil field of Tilbury; and this happened because we Canadians hesitated to invest a few thousand dollars in the exploration of the oil mines of Tilbury, which already give a monthly production valued at $75,000, without adding the revenue derived from the gas.

We have said that this is not a wildcat scheme, because the "Canadian Southern Oil & Gas Co., Limited," has secured an option at a very moderate price on properties situated in the oil and gas field of Tilbury, upon which three successful tests have been made, being Lot No. 12, M. R. N., Tilbury East, 200 acres, indicated with a cross upon the map of the field

COUNTY of KENT, ONTARIO



Three wells only have been drilled at an average depth of 1,400 feet.

The first one proves to be a rich gas well, the two others are good oil wells, combined with a strong production of gas.

The Company has also secured the franchises for the distribution and sale of natural gas into the Townships of Romney, Tilbury East, North and West and also into the thriving villages of Comber and Stoney Point.

The gas well is properly equipped and already is supplying the motor power to the Romney oil field and is getting one-third of the gross revenue of the gas sold.

The oil wells are completely equipped with one 15 h. p. gas engine, derrick, tanks, boiler, pumps, tubing, pipe-line, jerk-line, jack, etc., and are producing daily. The oil is sold to The Imperial Oil Company, Sarnia, and is delivered at the tanks and shipped through its pipe-line to Fere Marquette R. R. Station at Merlin, a distance of 3 miles.

Our properties are already giving daily a net revenue of about $35.00—that is to say, more than 10 per cent. of the whole capital stock of the Company.

This revenue may be made four times greater by the drilling of other wells and the construction of the gas-line to Comber and Stoney Point.

[illegible] Gilbert, Esq., of Montreal, consulting mining engineer and mining [illegible] to Dominion Government, who lately made an inspection [illegible] said property, concluded his report as follows:

"In summarizing the actual results already obtained from the operations [illegible] Sloan wells the writer is forced to the conclusion that the property under consideration is a very valuable one. Located as it is in [illegible] extremity of the producing Tilbury oil field, in close proximity to wells which produce from 40 to 50 barrels of oil (and even more) per day of 24 hours (I refer to the Ferguson Campbell and Cooper properties, located about 2,000 feet distant to the north, see plan attached hereto), it bids fair to become a producer of oil and natural gas of no small measure.

The Tilbury field has already the reputation of being a large producer and powerful companies have entered the district with a view of securing properties of known and established value.

There is one factor to which I would like to draw your special attention and that is the future of natural gas. To-day, the market in that in that part of the country, for this commodity is not sufficiently large to dispose of all the gas the wells can produce but there is no question that in the near future factories will be established on central points, which will eventually consume for various purposes, especially for power, all the gas which can be produced in the field.

Besides this there are quite a number of towns and villages in the western part of the Niagara Peninsula, which may use the gas for heating, lighting, and also for power purposes and it is only a question of time when this will be realized.

The economy of the application of natural gas to power purposes is already evidenced all through the field, as coal or any other power cannot be regularly obtained, and that at high figures. Having therefore, a powerful gas well on the (Sloan) property, it is evident that a great saving is effected from this source alone; for instance, for the operation of ten oil wells, the cost of power required per day would amount to between twenty and twenty-five dollars, which, in 300 working days per year, would represent a saving of from six thousand to seven thousand five hundred dollars.

In conclusion, I may say that this property, with proper and economic management, can be made highly remunerative; I entertain, no doubt, that if properly developed, it will show similar results as those of so many other locations in the vicinity, whose developments have of so many other locations in the vicinity, whose developments have been so vigorously pushed in the past.

Respectfully submitted,
(Signed) FRITZ CIRKEL.

What they offer at 25c per Share for a short time

The property is situated at Mancos, Colo., and consists of 160 acres, fully paid for. The Company expects to secure at least 400 acres or more, we are negotiating for it now and the terms are satisfactory and there is coal on the same, and they also intend to secure some Coal Mines of which they have the refusal. Some of the best coal mines in Colorado are in this district, as well as some of the richest gold and silver mines. In fact this is one of the richest parts for mineral in the State of Colorado, and the Company has the refusal to several prospects on reasonable and easy terms.

In our opinion the prospects of the Company are very bright and a rapid advance in the price of the stock is sure to take place in the near future. Full information can be had by calling at our office.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTHWEST HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an Agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of a homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father or mother.

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing must be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa, of intention to apply for patent.

The Opal Serpent

By FERGUS HUME,
Author of "The Mystery of a Hansom Cab," "The Mandarin's Fan," Etc.

Copyright, 1905, by G. W. Dillingham Company.

"No, thank you, mother," said Maud, shuddering. "I have heard quite enough of my poor father's terrible death," and she swept out of the drawing room, with a gracious smile.

"The poor child is so sensitive," sighed Mrs. Krill, taking a seat, with her back to the window. "I trust, Mr. Hurd, you have come with good news," said the widow.

"What would you call good news?" asked the detective dryly.

"That you had traced the assassin," she replied coolly.

"I'll leave you to judge whether I have been successful," said Hurd.

"I shall be pleased to hear," was the equally calm reply. But as Mrs. Krill spoke she glanced toward a gorgeous tapestry curtain at the end of the room, and Hurd fancied he saw it shake. It suddenly occurred to him that Maud was behind. Why she should choose this secret way of listening when she could have remained it was difficult to say, and he half thought he was mistaken.

"I was lately down at Christchurch, Sandam," began the detective.

"So my servant, Matilda Junk, said. I could have saved you the journey. I can tell you what you wish to know."

"In that case I will relate all that I have learned, and perhaps you will correct me if I am wrong."

Mrs. Krill bowed, but did not commit herself to speech. For the sake of effect the detective took out a sheaf of notes, but in reality he had the various points of the case at his finger tips. "You will excuse me if I talk on very private affairs," he said apologetically, "but as we are alone"—again Mrs. Krill glanced at the curtain and thereby confirmed Hurd's suspicions of an unseen listener—"you will not mind my being perhaps personal. I had to look into your past as well as into that of your husband's."

Mrs. Krill's eyes grew harder than ever. She scented danger. "My past is a most uninteresting one," she said coldly. "I was born at Stowley, in Buckinghamshire, and married Mr. Krill at Beechill, which is a few miles from that town. He was a traveler in jewelry, but as I did not like his being away from me I induced him to rent the Red Pig at Christchurch, to which we removed. Then he left me"—

"On account of Lady Rachel Sandal's murder?"

Mrs. Krill controlled herself excellently, although she was startled by this speech, as was evident from the expression of her eyes. "That poor lady committed suicide," she said deliberately. "The jury at the inquest brought in a verdict of suicide"—

"By a majority of one," added Hurd quickly. "There seems to be a considerable amount of doubt as to the cause of the death."

"The death was caused by strangulation," said Mrs. Krill in hard tones. "Since you know all about the matter, you must be aware that I and my daughter had retired after seeing Lady Rachel safe and sound for the night. The death was discovered by a boon companion of my husband's, with whom he was drinking at the time."

"I know that. Also that you came down with your daughter when the alarm was given. I also know that Krill fastened your daughter's lips together with the opal brooch which was found in the parlor."

"Who told you that?" asked Mrs. Krill, agitated.

"Jessop—the boon companion you speak of."

"Yes," she said, suppressing her agitation with a powerful effort. "Matilda said you had him to dine with you. What else did he say?" she asked, with some hesitation.

"He told me, among other things, that Grexen Hay had been engaged to your daughter for two years."

"Well," asked Mrs. Krill coolly, "what of that?"

"Nothing particular," rejoined Hurd, just as coolly, "only I wonder you took the trouble to pretend that you met Hay at Pash's office for the first time."

"That was some romantic rubbish of my daughter's. There was no reason why we should not have acknowledged Mr. Hay as an old acquaintance."

"None in the world that I can see," said Hurd smoothly. "He told you that Aaron Norman was your husband."

"No," said Mrs. Krill decidedly. "I first heard of my husband by seeing a chance handbill"—

"Not at all," answered Hurd, just as decidedly, "Hay has confessed."

"There was nothing to confess," cried Mrs. Krill loudly and with emphasis.

"Oh, I think so," said the detective, noting that she was losing her temper. "You didn't want it known that you were aware of Norman's identity before his death. Do you deny that?"

"I deny everything," gasped Mrs. Krill, hands trembling.

Indigestion

Stomach trouble is but a symptom of, and in itself a true disease. We think of Dyspepsia, Heartburn, and Indigestion as real diseases; they are symptoms only of a certain species of Nerve sickness—nothing else.

It was this fact that first correctly led Dr. Shoop in the creation of that now very popular Medicine Remedy—Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Going direct to the stomach nerves, alone brought that speedy and favor to Dr. Shoop and his Restorative. Without that original and highly vital principle, such lasting accomplishments were ever to be had.

For stomach distress, bloating, biliousness, ill breath and sallow complexion, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—and see for yourself what it can and will do. We sell and cheerfully recommend

. as I want you to cor- .in facts connected with r. Do you know the

.ly maiden name," said the widow, and a look of fear crept into her hard, staring eyes. "How did you come to know of it?"

"From the marriage certificate supplied by Pash."

"He had no right to give it to you."

"He didn't. I possess only a copy. But that copy I sent down in charge of a certain person to Beechill. This person found that you were married as Anne Tyler to Lemuel Krill in the parish church, twenty miles from your birthplace. This person also made inquiries at Stowley about you. You are the daughter of a farmer."

"I mentioned that fact myself."

"Yes. But you didn't mention that your mother had been hanged for poisoning your father."

Mrs. Krill turned ghastly pale. "No," she said in a suffocating voice. "Such is the case, but can you wonder that I forebore to mention that fact? My daughter knows nothing of that—nor did my husband"—

"Which husband do you mean, Krill or Jessop?" asked Hurd.

Mrs. Krill gasped and rose, swaying. "What do you mean, man?"

"This," said the detective, on his feet at once; "this person hunted out the early life of Anne Tyler at Stowley. It was discovered that Anne was the daughter of a woman who had been hanged and of a man who had been murdered; also this person found that Anne Tyler married a sailor called Jarvey Jessop some years before she committed bigamy with Lemuel Krill in Beechill church"—

"It's a lie!" screamed Mrs. Krill, losing her self control. "How dare you come here with these falsehoods!"

"They are not falsehoods, Anne Tyler, alias Anne Jessop, alias Anne Krill, etc.," retorted Hurd, speaking rapidly and emphasizing his remarks with his finger in his usual fashion when in deadly earnest. "You were married to Jessop in Stowley church. You bore him a daughter, who was christened Maud Jessop in Stowley church. The person I mentioned sent me copies of the marriage and birth certificates. So your marriage with Lemuel Krill was false, and his second marriage with Lillian Garner is a good one in law. Which means, Mrs. Jessop"—Hurd hurled the word at her, and she shrank—"that Sylvia Norman or Sylvia Krill, as she rightfully is, owns that money which you wrongfully withheld from her. The will gave the five thousand a year to 'my daughter,' and Sylvia is the only daughter and only child—the legitimate child, mark you—of Lemuel Krill."

"Lies, lies, lies!" raged Mrs. Krill, as she may still be called, though right-

DOPING A COLD DOESN'T CURE IT

The average cough mixture doesn't cure a cold—it "dopes" it; in other words, temporarily holds it down, and bottle after bottle must be taken before a cure is effected.

Meantime you must suffer, and your poor stomach is burdened by the indigestion that invariably follows continual dosing with cough syrups.

If your bowels were kept open and the eliminating organs stimulated your cold would soon disappear.

Dr. Hamilton found that his Mandrake and Butternut Pills were more valuable in colds than any cough cure. They let you sleep at night they relieve the kidneys, liver and bowels and thereby carry off the cold and all its evil effects.

Instead of deadening the stomach like cough cures, Dr. Hamilton's Pills afford this organ the greatest assistance by giving it tone, strength and healthy action.

One or two pills is sufficient.
Take them just before retiring.
Next morning you feel like new.
The cold is broken up, your system regulated and cleaned and no time lost.

The use of Dr. Hamilton's Pills for colds, coughs and rheumatic ills is popular because efficient. Get some today, 25 cents per box or five boxes for $1.00 at all dealers, and refuse a substitute.

Cattle Buyers Have a Joke

Yesterday morning the usual crowd of hog and cattle buyers gathered in the market weigh scales office awaiting the arrival of a load, or loads of hogs, etc. The icy pavements and rainy weather kept these gentlemen within doors. As customary such confinement made these men look for some means of amusement. This was found. A well known citizen of venerable aspect and mature years who used to run an agricultural implement store in the city was the cause. One of these present cut the tail off a deceased porker, as it was weighed. After considerable trouble this caudal appendage was surreptitiously attached to the rear coat collar of Mr. B. After considerable good natured fun and chaff, Mr. B. was, before carrying the pig-tail out on the street, advised that he had been raised to the Order of the Sacred Pig Tail.

"There's a Reason"

FOR

GRAPE-NUTS

The Knock-out Blow.

The blow which knocked out Corbett was a revelation to the prize fighters. From the earliest days of the ring the knock-out blow was aimed for the jaw, the temple or the jugular vein. Stomach punches were thrown in, to worry and weary the fighter, but if a scientific man had told one of the old fighters that the most vulnerable spot was the region of the stomach, he'd have laughed at him for an ignoramus. Dr. Pierce is bringing home to the public a parallel fact; that the stomach is the most vulnerable organ out of the prize ring as well as in it. We protect our heads, throats, feet and lungs, but the stomach we are utterly indifferent to, until disease finds the solar plexus and knocks us out. Make your stomach sound and strong by the use of Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and you protect yourself in your most vulnerable spot. "Golden Medical Discovery" cures "weak stomach," indigestion, or dyspepsia, torpid liver, bad, thin and impure blood and other diseases of the organs of digestion and nutrition.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" has a specific curative effect upon all mucous surfaces and hence cures catarrh, no matter where located or what stage it may have reached. In Nasal Catarrh it is well to cleanse the passages with Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy fluid while using the "Discovery" as a constitutional remedy. Why the "Golden Medical Discovery" cures catarrhal diseases, as of the stomach, bowels, bladder and other pelvic organs will be plain to you if you will read a booklet of extracts from the writings of eminent medical authorities, endorsing its ingredients and explaining their curative properties. It is mailed free on request. Address Dr. R.V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y. This booklet gives all the ingredients entering into Dr. Pierce's medicines from which it will be seen that they contain not a drop of alcohol, pure, triple-refined glycerine being used instead.

Dr. Pierce's great thousand-page illustrated Common Sense Medical Adviser will be sent free, paper-bound, for 21 one-cent stamps, or cloth-bound for 50 stamps. Address Dr. Pierce as above.

PRINCE RUPERT. It is almost needless to make any lengthy description on this place for we all know its the terminus of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, in B. C., situated on Kian Island, at the mouth of the Fraser River. It is estimated that owing to the great rush of gold seekers and others seeking wealth and new locations that Prince Rupert will have a population of 20,000 before next winter.

HAZELTON is another almost equally promising a city, situated at the head of navigation on the Skeena River, off the main line of the Grand Trunk Pacific, also being the junction point of the Line from Dawson City. With these and other existing natural conditions and the prospects of a great development, it is looked upon as a great place to advance.

If you want to get in right and on the bottom prices and get the pick of the stuff, write and accept this opportunity.

Police Musn't Loiter at Hotels without Business

Toronto, April 9.—In the Legislature this afternoon Hon. Mr. Hanna announced another amendment to the Liquor Licens Act. Heretofore a hotelkeeper has been liable to lose his license if he allowed a constable to loiter around his place without having business there. The penalty is now reduced to a fine of $50, with the loss of license as a penalty for the second offence.

Four-Year-Old Boy Victim Of a Terrible Accident

Toronto, April 10.—Another baby life has been sacrificed to the relentless wheels of the trolley car. At 12:30 this afternoon four year old Norman McKeown, whose parents live at 819 Bathurst street, was killed by a southbound Bathurst car within a stone's throw of his home.

His sister, Muriel, aged six, was also struck, but not seriously injured.

The two were playing in front of their home on the east side of Bathurst, about 150 feet north of Bloor, and started to cross the street. At the time a northbound Bathurst car was passing, and the children ran behind it, close together, but with Norman slightly in the lead.

But the instant they reached the second tracks a south-bound car was passing, and, without warning, they were struck. The boy was caught by the wheels and drawn under where the little body was mangled and instantly killed. The motorman did not notice the two. The car was quickly brought to a stop, but there was not a chance for the boy. His body was gently drawn out from under the wheels by Mr. J. Wilson, a storekeeper.

Dr. Harrington was on the spot in a moment, and carried the remains into the house. Mrs McKeown was almost prostrated by the terrible shock.

Meanwhile Muriel was lying beside the tracks, badly stunned, but happily not seriously injured. On examination it was found that one of her hands was badly cut, her knee was also injured and her face was scratched. Beyond the shock, however, her injuries are not serious.

An Inquest will be held at St. Alban's Hotel, corner of Bloor and Bathurst, at 8 o'clock to-night by Dr. D. J. Wilson, coroner.

Jury at Detroit Finds Percy Bowin Not Guilty of Murder

Detroit, April 9.—Bowin was acquitted.

Detroit, April 9. — Judge Phelan charged the jury this morning in the Bowin murder trial. After reviewing the testimony introduced, he said that if they found that Bowin went to Mrs. Welch's house with the intention of committing robbery, or that while there he conceived the plan of robbing her, and to carry out this purpose assaulted her until she became unconscious, after which he roobed her, and that she died as a result of the injuries, Bowin must be found guilty of murder in the first degree.

Such a verdict carries a life imprisonment sentence.

THE DEFENCE EVIDENCE.

The court also stated that if the jury were not satisfied beyond reasonable doubt that Bowin caused the death of Mrs. Welch, then he should be found not guilty. In theory of the defendant that the woman was seen alive by four witnesses on the day after the crime is alleged to have been committed, and that the crime was committed by some person other than Bowin, was called to the attention of the jury, and they were told to weigh the evidence for what it was worth, endeavoring to reconcile the testimony with the belief that all the witnesses were endeavoring to tell the truth.

BOWIN'S CONFESSION.

In regard to Bowin's confession, the court charged the jury that if they believed inducements were held out to Bowin to admit crime, then consideration of the confession might be set aside, and Bowin's guilt or innocence determined from other testimony in the case.

COUNSEL PLEADS FOR BOWIN.

Both Assistant Prosecutor Gross and Attorney Kennedy had completed their arguments when court adjourned last night. The address of the prosecution was an eloquent effort. Reviewing in detail practically all of the testimony of forty-six witnesses. He emphasized the fact that Bowin's story as told in the confession was repeated time after time without change, while his evidence in the box he could not remember from one hour to the next. The prosecution expressed sympathy for Bowin's mother.

Attorney Kennedy for the defence, based his hopes on the statements of witnesses who testified that they saw Mrs. Welch alive on the Saturday after Bowin confessed to having murdered her. He declared that the boy had been led astray, and signed with a plea that the jury send him back to his family, with a chance to start again.

BOWIN UNMOVED.

Detroit, Mich., April 9. — While he was being fairly flayed by the tongue of the prosecuting attorney, in a forcible address to the jury yesterday afternoon, his record held up for inspection, and picked to shreds, his moral shortcomings dilated upon, and every bit of convicting evidence marshalled in a cohesive whole against him, Percy Bowin, the Canadian lad from Woodville, Ont., smiled and grimaced in his chair, with apparent enjoyment. Even while his old mother wept, while the prosecutor displayed the bloody pillow upon which had rested the head of the dying woman, Percy, unmoved, occupied his time in drawing funny pictures upon a piece of paper with pen and ink, or glancing at the audience to see what effect the speech was having. When he saw men and women sitting breathlessly for minutes at the terrible arrangement of Prosecutor Gross, the prisoner put on a look of perfect contentment, seeming proud of the attention paid him, and of the claim of being a heartless criminal without a single redeeming feature.

In closing his address, Mr. Gross said: "Percy Bowin's motive at all times was his infatuation for this Mae Hall, the woman he desired to go away with, and for whom he must have money, money, money," the statement of the jury, the motive which has caused more crime, more trouble, more murders, robberies, burglaries, than all other things in the world put together, and than all other things ever will cause, and is the motive in this case. Money, gentlemen of the jury, money, money."

In reply, Attorney Kennedy for the defence, dwelt long upon the claim that the evidence against Bowin was all circumstantial, and in no case convincing beyond doubt. He declared that the boy was to be made a sacrifice by the police, convicted on prejudice, and all to save the reputation of the department, which was unable to catch the real slayer of Mrs. Welch.

POLICE

At yesterday's session of the Police Court William Harrison guessed he was drunk on Wednesday evening. His Worship remarked "I guess you know that you were drunk and that when drunk you are disorderly. William explained that he arrived here from Lakefield on his way to Trenton to work on the canal. He said this was his first offence and pleaded to be let go. The Magistrate told him to get out of town or he would not get to Trenton for some time.

This was all that occupied the attention of the court.

Besides his wife, his mother and one brother, Martin, of this city, survives him.

JUDGE SCORES JURY FOR THE ACQUITTAL OF PERCY BOWIN

"You are Setting a Premium on Murder," Says Judge in Bowin Case--Declares Prisoner was a Moral Degenerate and Guilty

Detroit, Mich., April 9. — Percy Bowin, of Woodville, Ont., was acquitted at noon to-day on the charge of murdering aged Mrs. Catharine Welch.

Judge, prosecutor, court officials, and everybody within hearing were astounded when shortly after twelve o'clock the jury in Bowin case came into court with a verdict of acquittal.

"Is this verdict unanimous, gentlemen?" inquired the judge.

PREMIUM ON MURDER

The jury was polled by the clerk of the court, and each member separately declared that the verdict was his.

The judge was plainly indignant, and before ordering the release of the prisoner he briefly scored the jury for its action.

"This is the grossest miscarriage of justice that has stained the records of this court for many years," he declared. "You men have deliberately set free a bad criminal, set him free after he had been fairly proven guilty of this crime. You are putting a premium upon murder, for you are publishing to the world that in Detroit a moral degenerate may, with impunity, take human life.

"Every member of this jury ought to be ashamed of himself. You should be ashamed to meet your fellow-man upon the streets, not only to-day or to-morrow, but as long as you walk the streets of this city and State.

NEARLY AS BAD AS PRISONER.

"In my opinion you are pretty nearly as bad as he is for such an acquittal, practically the compounding of a felony. I only regret that I am unable under the law to punish you men as you deserve. As it is, you may go, for I would not knowingly permit another one of you to serve on a jury in this court or any kind of a case whatever."

A RELIEVED MOTHER

Mrs. Bowman sat in her usual position at the back of her son's chair. When the jury came in with its verdict she raised her face out of her hands as the foreman spoke, and looked toward him as if she dared not hope for the best and feared to hear the result of the jury's deliberations. When the result was announced she sank back into her seat with a slight gasp and then burst into tears of relief. She made no motion toward her son, apparently too much overcome to move.

The prisoner, on the contrary, almost seemed to expect a conviction. When he heard the verdict of not guilty he laughed as cheerfully as though he had not been standing in the shadow of the penitentiary. Then he turned and shook hands with his lawyer and with the nearest reporters. At the last he turned to his mother for an instant only. A few minutes later he was taken out of the courtroom through the crowd that thronged the streets and sidewalk and back to jail to get his property.

"I don't know yet just what I shall do," he said.

TO COME BACK HOME.

"I expect I will go back up to my home in Woodville. It may be I will live there, but I will probably go to Toronto or some other larger city, and try to get some work to do that will offer me a future. I don't think I will come back to the United States unless I go away east or to the far west. At any rate, I am very certain that I will not locate in Detroit. I have seen enough of this place to do me for a thousand years. But I was confident all the time. My lawyer told me I had an even chance, but I was sure I had better than that."

Just after the jury had retired to its room at ten o'clock this forenoon there was a commotion inside the jury room and a hurried call came out for a physician. Juror John G. Hough had been taken suddenly ill, and was reported to be suffering great pain. Dr. Krolobowski, city physician, whose offices are in the Municipal Court Building, was hurriedly sent for, and responded promptly. He found the juror suffering greatly and administered remedies, which soon brought relief. It was close to noon hour, however, before the juror was ready to take up the consideration of the case, and even then its deliberations were delayed by the illness of the juror.

MURDER OR NOTHING.

Judge Phelan's charge was a source of surprise to both sides of the case as at least one respect. He instructed the twelve men that they must either find guilty of murder in first degree under the evidence produced or else they must acquit him. There was no room for a verdict of guilty of manslaughter, nor murder in the second degree, under the evidence produced, declared the judge.

If found guilty of the first degree of murder, Bowin would have been sent to the penitentiary for life. Such a charge from a judge is a most unusual thing in a criminal trial, the general belief being that a judge has no authority to specify the degree of guilt of a prisoner.

CRITICIZED JUDGE.

The local attorneys, after the jury had retired, declared that the judge's charge was an error, and formed a sufficient basis for a reversal of the verdict by the Supreme Court in case of a conviction. With this in view the prosecuting attorney seemed to fully agree, although he declined to discuss the matter.

Other court officials declared the judge must leave the degree of guilt to the jury, but that if the verdict at the last is not in keeping with the testimony presented, the judge may set the verdict aside and order a rehearing of the case before another jury.

"If the jury convicts Percy we will take an appeal to the Supreme Court at once," declared Attorney Kennedy.

CROWDS AWAITED RESULT.

Hundreds of men and women surrounded the jail to-day and stood in a close mass on the narrowest street which separates the jail from the court building.

The crowd waited patiently to see the prisoner taken across to the courtroom shackled to a police officer, and then they waited by the hour to see him led back to his cell.

No Trouble will Come of This Scrap--Japan Regrets

Pekin, April 9.—The American Legation here has received no information regarding the invasion of the United States Consulate at Mukden by Japanese, and the resultant encounter between the Japanese and the native staff of the Consulate. The Japanese Legation also was questioned, and here partial verification was obtained, together with expressions of regret that such a "small matter" should have been cabled to the United States.

A court of inquiry has been ordered by M. Kato, the Japanese Consul-General at Mukden, and a full report will not be submitted to either Washington or Pekin, pending the report of this court. It is hoped that this investigation will lead to an acceptable explanation and proper reparation.

A detailed account of the incident just received here alleges that M. Kato's conduct was insolent. When the matter was brought to his attention it is said he offered no apology, and asked Mr. Straight to prove his own statements as against the verbal declarations of the Japanese thugs involved. This Mr. Straight declined to do, but he permitted a Japanese official to examine the scene of the onslaught and to conduct an investigation.

In the Realm of Sport

TURF.

With the track at the Driving Park rapidly drying up and with the help of these sun-shiny afternoons, the local horsemen are commencing to give their charges light exercise work every day. The Times paid a visit recently to the stables of President Dr. Johnston, of the Turf Club and found training at an advanced stage. The doctor has two good horses at the stables, Hazel Bell 2.21 1-4 and Queen's Barn 2.18 1-4, which have both wintered well having somewhat during the cold weather and are in first-class condition.

Hazel Bell, 2.21 1-4 has been entered in several stake races on the Canadian Circuit, her first appearance this season being at Kingston on May 24th and will also race at Gananoque and Montreal.

Queen's Barn 2.18 1-4 the stallion that Gus Gobel brought over from across the line sometime ago. This big fellow won his mark of 2.18 1-4 by winning a heat in a race at Pretoria, Ill. A number of years ago he was campaigned down the Grand Circuit one season and besides winning many races, was never out of the money. His first appearance this summer will be at the Turf Club Matinee on May 24th.

Dr. Johnston is undecided yet whether he will race Queen's Barn this summer or not. He is considering the advisability of retiring him to the stud. The doctor will be seen around the track more frequently this summer than last, as Mr. J. B Gibson, a graduate of the Ontario Veterinary College has taken up quarters with the doctor, thus allowing the genial President of the Turf Club to spend more of his time with the light harness horse.

Contemptible Fake Death Message

Yesterday morning The Times published in good faith news of the death near Omemee of Charles Clarke. It seems some friends of his telephoned or caused to be telephoned to Peterborough the news of his death by the kick of a horse. This message not only fooled the press of Peterborough, but descended to the contemptible depths of frightening Clarke's own wife by a fake telephone message to the effect that he was dead. Things were at such a pass that his wife and his sister went to Coroner Dr. Gray, asking advice as to what to do when the news was sent here concerning Clarke's death. It seems that a liberal outward application of the "cat" or a pair of number eleven brogans would suit the culprit.

That languid, lifeless feeling that comes with spring and early summer, can be quickly changed to a feeling of buoyancy and energy by the judicious use of Dr. Shoop's Restorative.

The Restorative is a genuine tonic to tired, run-down nerves, and but a few doses is needed to satisfy the user that Dr. Shoop's Restorative is actually reaching that tired spot. The indoor life of winter nearly always leads to sluggish bowels, and to sluggish circulation in general. The customary lack of exercise and outdoor air ties up the liver, stagnates the kidneys, and oft-times weakens the heart's action. Use Dr. Shoop's Restorative a few weeks and all will be changed. A few days test will tell you that you are using the right remedy. You will easily and surely note the change from day to day. Sold by all dealers.

Conductor George Johnett, of the Lakefield train, is confined to his home, Stewart street, with a severe cold. He is being attended by Conductor Bush.

Big Orange Celebration Here on July 13th

The following letter appears in this week's "Orange Sentinel":

To the Editor of the Sentinel:

The County Orange Lodge of West Peterborough intend commemorating the two hundred and eighteenth anniversary of the Battle of Boyne in the city of Peterborough on Monday, July 13th, next. Invitations have been sent to the County, District and Primary Lodges in the counties of Peterborough, Victoria, Durham, Northumberland, Ontario, Hastings, Carleton and Frontenac. It has come to our knowledge, however, for some causes, which cannot be accounted, that a number of lodges have failed to receive them. We therefore beg to use your columns for this purpose of issuing a general invitation to every lodge in the Province of Ontario, whether Orangemen, True Blues, Orange Young Britons or Prentice Boys, who can find it convenient to come to Peterborough on the above date, to participate with us, in making this celebration the largest ever held in Eastern Ontario. All lodges who contemplate coming are requested to communicate with the county secretary, Bro. E. G. Clarke, 360 Sherbrooke street, Peterborough, at as early a date as possible, in order that the committee in charge of the arrangements may be given an opportunity of doing their utmost to secure the best possible railway accommodation and to make such other arrangements as will promote the welfare and comfort of all visiting brethren.

Thanking you in advance for your valuable space, I beg to remain,

Yours fraternally,

Application to Quash Local Option in Campbellford Dismissed

Campbellford, April 10. — The attack on the local option by-laww passed by the town of Campbellford has failed. Judge Clute dismissed the application to quash it this morning.

Mr. Haverson based his attack entirely on the right to inquire into the qualification of voters and the right to go behind the voters' list.

His Lordship held that by the Municipal and other Acts the list was made final on this point.

"When once the Municipal Act applies," he says, "and the voters' lists are brought in as the lists to be used to designate the persons who are entitled to vote, such lists are not to be dissociated from the quality of finality, which the Act gives them, and which was the chief cause of their being. They have, so to speak, that quality of finality as an integral part of them. They indicate the persons entitled to vote in such a manner that their qualification cannot be further inquired into. They are not lists under the Act, stripped of this essential quality."

From the lists, he holds, there is no further appeal.

Preparing for Season's Operations

The steamer Water Lily, which was taken from the water last fall and placed on the dock at the Otonabee Navigation Company's property in the East Ward, will probably be launched to-day. She is being thoroughly overhauled preparatory to the season's for the season's business.

The steamer Otonabee met with a slight mishap on Wednesday night. The sea-cock had been damaged by frost and the steamer sprung aleak during the night, and is consequently partially submerged. Capt. White and his staff of workmen have commenced operations getting this steamer ready for the summer's business.

The steamer Monarch has been purchased by the company from Messrs Harris and McAllister, of Gore's Landing. She is also being prepared for the coming season. The Monarch will be under command of Capt. Hargis as in former years, and will ply between Peterborough and points on Rice Lake.

Improvements to Market Hall

Yesterday a long and badly needed improvement was in course of construction in the market hall. Mr. T. Irwin was busy putting down a double floor for the women's lavatory being installed in a little room to the east of the main hall. As the lavatory is situated just above the winding staircase leading to the hall, the old single floor would be too cold in the winter time and waterworks being placed there by Mr. Sutherland the water street plumber, would freeze. A fine narrow strip maple floor is being laid down about ten inches above the original floor. It was originally intended to have a partition in the new lavatory so as to divide the room into compartments for men and women respectfully, but since that it was decided to have the lavatory reserved for women solely. The plumbing is being rapidly put in place by Mr. Sutherland's staff of employees. This when completed will be a great convenience to farmers' wives and other market women.

Montreal is Much Excited by This Marriage

Montreal, April 9.—With the new marriage law of the Roman Catholic Church declaring mixed marriages null and void coming into force at Easter, Montreal society circles are greatly interested in a marriage that will take place during next week, which is holy week, and a time prescribed by the Catholic Church. The contracting parties will be Miss Louise De Lery Macdonald, a descendant of an old French Catholic seigniorial family, and Mr. Ernest Shepherd.

The ceremony will be performed by a Protestant minister, no Catholic priest being allowed to perform a marriage ceremony during holy week.

Will Hurtubise Turn Pro. and Meet Frank Kennedy?

Toronto, April 9.—Harry Gateaby, the Yorkshire welterweight wrestler, Frank Kennedy, the New York light heavyweight, and young Art Edmunds have strenuous times ahead of them.

Gateaby challenged Frank Kennedy to a match, best two in three falls, at the conclusion of Tuesday night's Kennedy-Edmunds' affair at the Labor Temple, and was accepted, but, as this bout will not be pulled off for a week or so, he went after Chas. LaRush, who has been doing some wrestling around town lately. He challenged him best two in three falls for $25, after LaRush had thrown Olondo of Montreal at the Star Theatre last night in thirteen minutes. The bout will be pulled off Saturday night if real money is put up. There will be lots of money around, too, that Gateaby can plant LaRush the necessary two tumbl a under ten minutes. The Yorkshire tyke is a clever one.

The go between he and Kennedy will be a clinker, though there is some doubt as to the ability of the English lad to stand the gruelling Kennedy invariably hands out to his opponents.

There is talk of a match at Peterborough between Eugene Hurtubise, the ex-champion amateur heavyweight wrestler of Canada, and Kennedy. Hurtubise is under suspension with the Peterborough rugby football team by the C.A.A.U. for playing the Montreal rugby club last fall, and it is said that he would turn "pro" for a big bout like this. Kennedy, too, claims that he didn't get any the best of the deal with Edmunds when it came to the officials, and wants another crack at Edmunds. He would sooner have the match pulled off outside Toronto, too, where the crowd is not so hostile.

Wilmington Tri-State Team Ran Away from Toronto

Wilmington, Del., April 9.—President J. J. McCafferty was an interested spectator at to-day's game between Toronto and Wilmington. It was his first view of his 1908 team, and he was much pleased with their work in the preliminary practice. The grounds were wet and muddy from yesterday's heavy rainstorm. The weather was sunny, though a cold wind prevailed.

The batting order:

Didn't Know

That Coffee was Causing Her Trouble

So common is the use of coffee as a beverage, many do not know that it is the cause of many obscure ills which are often attributed to other things.

The easiest way to find out for oneself is to quit the coffee for a while, at least, and note results. A Vi gin a lady found out in this way, and also learned of a new beverage that is wholesome as well as pleasant to drink. She writes:

"I am 40 years old and all my life, up to a year and a half ago, I had been a coffee drinker. About ten years ago, I had dyspepsia so bad that often the coffee I drank would sour on my stomach and I could not retain it.

"Severe headaches and heart weakness made me feel sometimes as though I were about to die. After drinking a cup or two of hot coffee, not knowing it was harmful, my heart would go like a clock without a pendulum. At other times I would almost stop and I was so nervous I did not like to be alone.

"If I took a walk for exercise, as soon as I was out of sight of the house I'd feel as if I was making a house I'd feel as if I was sinking and this would frighten me terribly. My limbs would utterly refuse to support me, and the pity of it all was, I did not know that coffee was causing the trouble.

"Reading in the papers that many persons were relieved of such ailments by leaving off coffee and drinking Postum, I got my husband to bring home a package. We made it according to directions and I liked the first cup. Its rich snappy flavour was delicious.

"I have been using Postum about eighteen months and to my great joy, digestion is good, my nerves and heart are all right, in fact, I am a well woman once more, thanks to Postum."

LOW SPRING FEVER

Doctors Report Many Cases.

Same thing happens every year. At winter's close the body is weak and run down. Damp spring weather brings out rheumatic tendencies, exhausts vitality, and simply demands everyone to use a bracing, strengthening tonic.

Time wont help; matters grow worse instead of better if your system isn't rid of its poisonous burden.

Your blood is not only thin, but is contaminated with a whole winter's accumulation of wastes.

A stimulating blood tonic is required. What's it going to be?

Not bitters or alcoholic dope, but concentrated cure in the form of "Ferrozone" which is known as the best of all spring rejuvenators.

It creates keen appetite.
Produces prodigious digestion.
Converts food into nourishment.
Gives richness and vitality to the blood.
Makes strong nerves and hardy muscles.

Ferrozone possesses power that can't be doubted. It will do for you what it did for Walter Wood, of Beaufort, Car. Co., N. B., who writes: "I can say that Ferrozone has given me a new lease of life. A year ago I suffered much from nervous weakness. I was really scarcely able to drag myself around. My appetite was gone, I had no color or ambition and felt generally used up. The first box of Ferrozone started me back to health. I took a number of boxes, but it was worth while as my health was completely restored.

Get back to health with Ferrozone, six boxes for $2.50, or 50c per box at all druggists.

CANADA'S FUTURE

An opinion upon the commercial outlook in this country from so keen an observer and so able an authority as Leslie M. Shaw, ex-Secretary of the United States Treasury, is worthy of much consideration, and Mr. Shaw's statements to an interviewer in Montreal have elicited many expressions of satisfaction. Mr. Shaw said: "The probability is that the development throughout Western Canada during the next ten years will exceed that of any other country in the world's history." Mr. Shaw, being the Governor of the State of Iowa, understands the conditions in the west, and he declared that it would be almost impossible to over-estimate the future growth of the Canadian Provinces west of the great lakes. "We are not at all jealous of your wonderful heritage," he said. "On the contrary, we rejoice at your splendid development and the stability of your institutions. In the early days the United States were generous to the promoter and to the railway builder, and we obtained good results, and this country is following in our footsteps, and the same success will be yours. Our railway companies sold a good deal of their land at from three to five dollars an acre, and now the owners are selling the same land at from fifty to seventy-five dollars, and buying more up in Canada at from ten to fifteen dollars."

A Highland Paradise

Among the "Highlands of Ontario" there are several districts that appeal to the tourist and summer traveller, but the most popular and probably the most beautiful of these districts is the one known as the "Lake of Bays", a territory covering many hundred square miles of land and water scapes and where the influx of summer travellers is increasing every year. Many an enthusiast has named the Lake of Bays "Queen of Lakes". It is a place where the cool breezes blow, where groves of spice balsam lift their graceful minarets against the sky; where there are no swamps; where bathing is safe and where the speckled trout, salmon trout and black bass are found, and where the deer abound.

This charming district is situated on the line of the Grand Trunk Railway System and is reached through Huntsville, 146 miles north of Toronto.

A new hotel with accommodation for 300 has been erected and is conceded to be the best of the summer hotels in the northern districts. A handsome book, descriptive of the territory, and giving all information as to guides, rates, routes, etc., and full description of the new hotel can be had free on application to J. D. McDonald, D. P. A., Union Station, Toronto, Ont.

Canadian Horse Show

In spite of the commercial and financial depression, the prices of the best class of horses have never been so high in Canada as at present. The showring horses are held at higher prices than animals of the same class in the United States. This fact has a special interest in relation to the fourteenth Canadian Horse Show which is to be held in the St. Lawrence Arena on April 29th, 30th, May 1st and 2nd. The entries promise to be larger than at any previous show. All the leading exhibitors will be largely represented. Hon. Adam Beck, of London, has added no less than ten new hunters to the fine stable possessed by Mrs. Beck and herself. One of the new ones is said to be a better horse than Kakabeka which won the premier honors at the International Horse Show in London last year. Mr. John J. Dixon a leading amateur of Toronto is buying prize winners in New York so as to compete for the King Edward Hotel Challenge Cup. Among other exhibitors who will be prominent are A. Yeager of Simcoe, Langdon Wilks, Galt; Dr. H. E. Webster, Ottawa; Gordon J. Henderson, Hamilton; Dr. McCoy, St. Catharines; Jennings Jarvis, Dr. W. A. Young, H. C. Cox, Georg. Pepler, Crow & Murray, Toronto. Reduced rates can be obtained on all railways. It is expected that His Excellency the Governor-General will be present.

Canada and the United States

Washington, April 8.— What is regarded as satisfactory progress is being made in the negotiations between United States secretary of state Root and Ambassador Bryce in embracing in treaties the basis of settlement of the various questions which have existed for some time between the United States and Canada. In this way, there is reason to believe that several such treaties will be transmitted to the Senate for its approval at the present session of congress.

The one question which seems to be causing the greatest difficulty is the regulation of Niagara River. Following the instance of Canada, Ambassador Bryce is holding out for a commission on this question, the decision of which shall be conclusive and not subject to review of any sort after it has been promulgated.

While recognizing the advantage of having a finality resulted, Secretary Root, finds himself unable to accede to this proposition because of the restriction of the constitution which gives the United States Senate the final voice in international interests.

However, resuming his customary method in such negotiations, the secretary is understood to be considering some middle course which will be compatible with his limitations and at the same time satisfy the Canadian contention.

It is doubtful, however, if the Niagara question will be in settled form to be submitted to the senate during the present session of congress.

Bride Taken from Husband's House

Dublin, April 8.— A fickle Irishman who jilted a girl and married another in spite of the parish priest is having the worst time of his life at the hands of his neighbors.

He lives in the notorious Ballinagleragh district of County Leitrim, where a pitched battle took place a few weeks ago between two armies of police and peasants, and for years had been courting the local beauty. A little while ago he transferred his affections to her rival also of Ballinagleragh.

The jilted girl's relatives did their utmost to prevent the wedding taking place. They were supported by the parish priest, who is a power in Ireland in these matters. He refused the necessary certificate. The young man thereupon went to the bishop of the diocese but the bishop upheld his priest.

The young man, however, is a person of resource, and told the clergy that he would go and get married in a registry office in the distant town of Enniskillen. Nobody in Ballinagleragh believed that he would fly in the face of the parish priest, but he did.

The night he brought his bride home an extraordinary scene occurred. A large crowd collected outside the house where the dancing and feasting were in progress, and groaned and hooted. The groaning ceased about midnight, and the festivities continued.

An hour later about 30 men wearing crepe masks, burst in the door of the cottage and called on the father of the bride to take his daughter home, with the alternative of being seriously dealt with.

The old man thereupon took his daughter away. The gallant bridegroom declared he would accompany them. The trio marched in the small hours of the morning toward the home of the bride's parents to the accompaniment of groaning and hooting. When half a mile of the journey had been traversed, the bridegroom was seized by another disguised band and compelled to go back to his own home.

This occurred several days ago, and the bridegroom has not seen his bride since. He has not been allowed to leave his house, and the bride has not been allowed to leave her father's. Both houses are watched night and day.

News in Brief

Brussels, April 8.—A few days ago King Leopold received from Liege an anonymous letter saying that the writer was an accomplice in a plot to blow up the entire royal family, but that he had been stricken with remorse and would disclose the name of the plotter for $5,000.

The money, it is said, was to be delivered to him on a certain day in the Kinkampois Forest, near Liege.

Two policemen disguised as workmen were sent to the place in the forest. They placed an envelope at the foot of a tree and left. A man, who had evidently been watching them, was seen to take the envelope and he was arrested at once.

Tokio, April 8.—Advice from Seoul say that insurgents are showing increased activity in the neighborhood of the capital, several minor fights having occurred. The insurgent menace has been encouraged by the attitude of certain members of the Corean court.

Privy Councillor Yun has demanded the suppression of the insurgents by Corean troops instead of by Japanese. He has objected to the employment of foreigners. Viscount Hone has requested him to explain his demand.

The insurgents have issued a violent circular demanding the expulsion of the Japanese from Corean territory.

Marquis Ito, the Japanese Resident General, is expected to arrive in Seoul from Japan next Tuesday.

NOW LISTEN!

Please read carefully what follows, and if you decide to take advantage of what the "Canada Southern Oil & Gas Co., Limited," of Tilbury, Ont (no personal liability), is now offering you, the result will be that instead of getting 3 per cent. for your savings, you will get at least from 10 to 25 per cent. that others are harvesting.

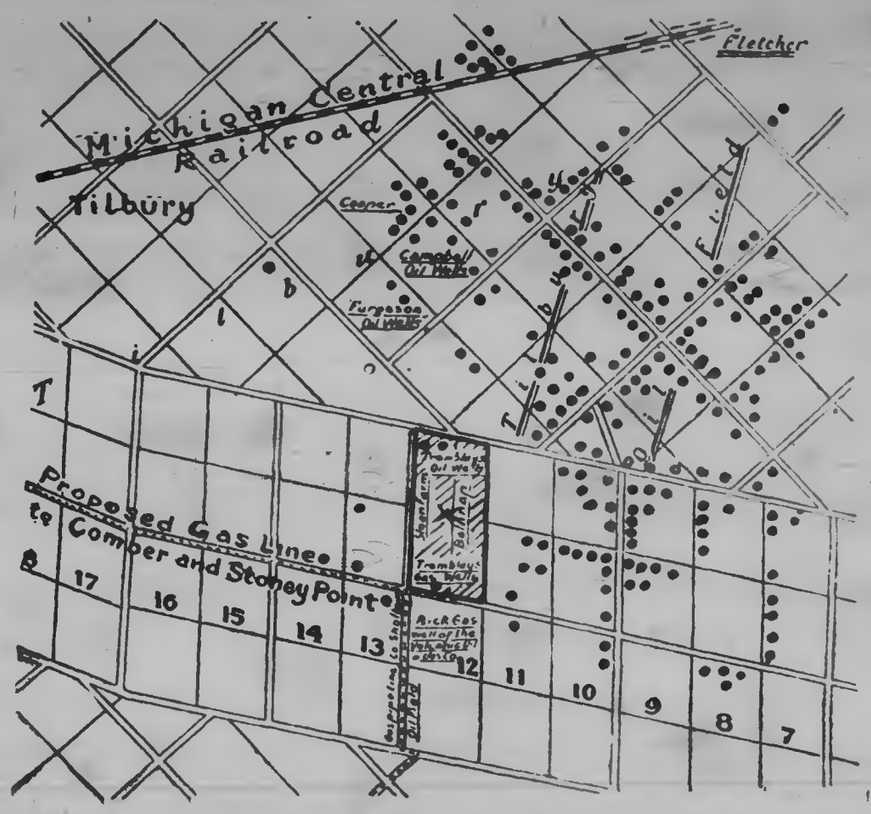
Your savings will be eight times more than the original amount by the mere fact of the higher rate of interest you will get.

Remember that this is no wildcat scheme, as you can see by the facts hereinafter mentioned.

Dr. Bel, the famous Canadian geologist, early in 1878 reported that there was an oil and gas field in the Townships of Tilbury and Romney County of Kent, Ont. As soon as the discovery of the oil was made in Tilbury in 1906, our American neighbors, who are experts in good things, did not hesitate to invest hundreds of thousands of dollars, and now, in fact, control the two thirds interest in our oil field of Tilbury; and this happened because we Canadians hesitated to invest a few thousand dollars in the exploration of the oil mines of Tilbury, which already give a monthly production valued at $75,000, without adding the revenue derived from the gas.

We have said that this is not a wildcat scheme, because the "Canadian Southern Oil & Gas Co., Limited," has secured an option at a very moderate price on properties situated in the oil and gas field of Tilbury, upon which three successful tests have been made, being Lot No. 12, M. R. N., Tilbury East, 200 acres, indicated with a cross upon the map of the field

COUNTY of KENT, ONTARIO



Three wells only have been drilled at an average depth of 1,400 feet.

The first one proves to be a rich gas well, the two others are good oil wells, combined with a strong production of gas.

The Company has also secured the franchises for the distribution and sale of natural gas into the Townships of Romney, Tilbury East, North and West and also into the thriving villages of Comber and Stoney Point.

The gas well is properly equipped and already is supplying the motor power to the Romney oil field and is getting one-third of the gross revenue of the gas sold.

The oil wells are completely equipped with one 15 h. p. gas engine, derrick, tanks, boiler, pumps, tubing, pipe-line, jerk-line, jack, etc., and are producing daily. The oil is sold to The Imperial Oil Company, Sarnia, and is delivered at the tanks and shipped through its pipe-line to the Marquette R. R. Station at Merlin, a distance of 3 miles.

Our properties are already giving daily a net revenue of about $35.00—that is to say, more than 10 per cent. of the whole capital stock of the Company.

This revenue may be made four times greater by the drilling of other wells and the construction of the gas-line to Comber and Stoney Point.

[illegible] Cirkel, Esq., of Montreal, consulting mining engineer and mining expert to the Dominion Government, who lately made an inspection of said property, concluded his report as follows:

"In summarizing the actual results already obtained from the operations on the Sloan (wells the writer is forced to the conclusion that the property under consideration is a very valuable one. Located as it is in the western extremity of the producing Tilbury oil field, in close proximity to wells which produce from 40 to 60 barrels of oil (and even more) per day of 24 hours (I refer to the Ferguson Campbell and Cooper properties, located about 2,000 feet distant to the north, see plan attached hereto), it bids fair to become a producer of oil and natural gas of no small measure.

The Tilbury field has already the reputation of being a large producer and powerful companies have entered the district with a view of securing properties of known and established value.

There is one factor to which I would like to draw your special attention and that is the future of natural gas. To-day, the market in that in that part of the country, for this commodity is not sufficiently large to dispose of all the gas the wells can produce but there is no question that in the near future factories will be established on central points, which will eventually consume for various purposes, especially for power, all the gas which can be produced in the field.

Besides this there are quite a number of towns and villages in the western part of the Niagara Peninsula, which may use the gas for heating, lighting, and also for power purposes and it is only a question of time when this will be realized.

The economy of the application of natural gas to power purposes is already evidenced all through the field, as coal or any other power cannot be regularly obtained, and not at high figures. Having therefore, a powerful gas well on the (Bionn) property, it is evident that a great saving is effected from this source alone; for instance, for the operation of ten oil wells, the cost of power required per day would amount to between twenty and twenty-five dollars, which, in 300 working days per year, would represent a saving of from six thousand to seven thousand five hundred dollars.

In conclusion, I may say that this property, with proper and economic management, can be made highly remunerative; I entertain, no doubt, that if properly developed, it will show similar results as those of so many other locations in the vicinity, whose developements have been so vigorously pushed in the past.

Respectfully submitted,
(Signed) FRITZ CIRKEL.

What they offer at 25c per Share for a short time

The property is situated at Mancos, Colo., and consists of 160 acres, fully paid for. The Company expects to secure at least 400 acres or more, we are negotiating for it now and the terms are satisfactory and there is coal on the same, and they also intend to secure some Coal Mines of which they have the refusal. Some of the best coal mines in Colorado are in this district, as well as some of the richest gold and silver mines. In fact this is one of the richest parts for mineral in the State of Colorado, and the Company has the refusal to several prospects on reasonable and easy terms.

fully Jessop. "I'll defend the case on my daughter's behalf."

"Your daughter, certainly," said Hurd, "but not Krill's."

"I say yes."

"And I say no. She was fifteen when Lady Rachel was murdered, as Jessop, her father, admitted. I knew the man was keeping something back, but I was far from suspecting that it was this early marriage. No wonder the man came to you and had free quarters at the Red Pig. He could have prosecuted you for bigamy, just as you would have prosecuted Krill had you not murdered him."

Mrs. Krill gave a yell, and her eyes blazed. "You hound," she shouted, "do you accuse me of that?"

"I do more than accuse you. I arrest you." Hurd produced the warrant. "A man is waiting in the cab. We'll get a four wheeler, and you'll come along with me to jail, Mrs. Jessop."

"You can't prove it—you can't prove it," she panted, "and I shan't go—I shan't—I shan't!" And her eyes caught the tapestry.

"Miss Jessop can come' out," said Hurd coolly, "and, as to your not coming, a few policemen will soon put that right."

"How dare you insult me?"

"Come, come," said the detective sternly, "I've had quite enough of this. You offered me £1,000 to learn who killed your so called husband, Krill. I have earned the reward"—

"Not one shilling shall you have."

"Oh, I think so. Miss Sylvia will pay it to me, and you"—

"I am innocent. I never touched the man."

"A jury will decide that, Mrs. Jessop."

"Krill—my name is Krill."

Hurd laughed and turned toward the tapestry.

"What do you say, Miss Jessop?" he asked.

Seeing that further concealment was at an end, Maud lifted the tapestry, which concealed a small door, through which she had silently stolen to listen. She advanced calmly. "I have heard all your conversation with my mother," she declared, with flashing eyes, "and not one word of it is true. I am the daughter of Lemuel Krill."

"You'll find that hard to prove in the face of your birth certificate and your mother's marriage to Captain Jessop, your father."

"It will all be put right."

"Quite so, and Miss Norman will get the money."

"That girl—never!" cried Maud fiercely. She looked very like her mother at the moment, but the more angry she grew the calmer became Mrs. Krill, who kept darting anxious glances at her daughter. "And you shan't take my mother away," she cried threateningly.

"I don't want to make a scandal in the neighborhood," said Hurd, taking a small whistle from his pocket, "but if I blow this my man out there will call the nearest policeman, and then"—

"There is no need," interrupted Mrs. Krill, who had recovered her self control. "Maud, come over beside me. On what grounds, Mr. Hurd, do you accuse me of the crime? I was not in town on"—

"Oh, yes, you were, Mrs. Jessop. Pash can prove that you were in his office and took the brooch left by Tray from the table. I don't know where you stopped on that night"—

"At Judson's hotel, Strand," cried Maud, placing herself beside her

BRITONS ARE SOCIABLE.

Must Have Their Clubs — Found Wherever They Penetrate.

Of all the races of men in the world Britons are the most gregarious.

In Great Britain and Ireland there are 2,085, while there are 1,095 in foreign countries and British Colonies. Golf, apparently, is the chief excuse for the formation of clubs. Of the above total, no fewer than 1,144 are golf clubs.

London's list of clubs shows no signs of decreasing. At present they number 282, of which thirty at least are exclusively ladies' institutions.

Indeed, one of the most astonishing features of club life is the increase throughout the country in recent years of clubs devoted exclusively to the fair sex. There are at present 322 of these.

Wherever two or more Britishers meet together in any part of the world their first remark would appear to be: "Let us form a club."

Accordingly, even in far Fiji, for instance, there is more than one club. The Ovalau Club, in Levuka, has fifty members, while the Fiji Club, an older institution in Suva, has sixty-five members.

The social delights of St. James's are also simulated in Chefoo and Foochow, in China; Kuching, in Borneo; Taiping, Straits Settlements; Beira, in Mozambique; and Nagasaki, in Japan.

They are all British in origin as well as organization. India is a land of many clubs, where white men meet and try to forget the exigencies of the climate. The Madras with 1,140, the Quetta with 3,000, and the Gymkhana (Poona) with 1,000 members being amongst the biggest institutions.

At Benin, somewhere in the Niger Coast Protectorate, there is an enthusiastic band of golfers—twenty all told—who cheerfully pay 5s. per annum for the delights of clubland, and a British captain is the secretary.

Bangkok strikes the note of cosmopolitanism. Its United Club has a membership of 270, but they are of various nationalities. Of course, it has its golf club, too, which boasts a membership of eighty.

Peace on Earth.

Have you ever thought seriously of the meaning of that blessing given to the peacemakers? People are always expecting to get peace in heaven. But you know whatever peace they get there will be ready made. Whatever making of peace they can be blessed for must be on the earth here; not the taking of arms against, but the building of nests amid its "seas of troubles" (like the halcyons).

Difficult enough, you think? Perhaps so, but I do not see that any of us try. We complain of the want of many things—we want votes, we want liberty, we want amusement, we want money. Which of us feels or knows that he wants peace?—John Ruskin.

Arranged for Military Funeral

Members of the 3rd P.W.D., and the 57th Regiment are invited to attend.

Mr. Carnegie Again the Choice

Lindsay Watchman-Warder: At the Liberal-Conservative convention at Fenelon Falls on Wednesday Mr. J. H. Carnegie, M.P.P., was again unanimously chosen as the standard-bearer for the next Provincial election. No other name was before the convention. The attendance was large and very enthusiastic.

May Change Name

Mr. Kelly Evans spoke on Wednesday night before the Lindsay branch of the Ontario Game and Fish Protective Association. He said that town was possibly one of the most important points to take advantage of the Association's ideas and that Lindsay should send delegates to the Toronto Convention at Easter. The speaker went on to give facts and figures statistically of the work accomplished by the different branches of the Association, especially at Gananoque. Mr. Evans gave a glowing description of Kawartha Lakes. He proposed to offer an amendment at the Easter Convention changing the name of the Association to "Ontario Forest, Fish and Game Protective Association." About 20 branches will be represented and some 150 delegates are expected to be present in Toronto. It is likely that Peterborough will be represented at the Convention.

Lost $300

Buying Medicine When Right Food Needed

Money spent for "tonics" and "bracers" to relieve indigestion, while the poor old stomach is loaded with pastry and pork, is worse than losing a pocketbook containing the money.

If the money only is lost, it's bad enough, but with lost health from wrong eating, it is hard to make the money back.

A Mich. young lady lost money on drugs but is thankful she found a way to get back her health by proper food. She writes:—

"I had been a victim of nervous dyspepsia for six years and spent three hundred dollars for treatment in the attempt to get well. None of it did me any good.

"Finally I tried Grape-Nuts food, and the results were such that, if it cost a dollar a package, I would not be without it. My trouble had been caused by eating rich food such as pastry and pork.

"The most wonderful thing that ever happened to me, I am sure, was the change in my condition after I began to eat Grape-Nuts. I began to improve at once and the first week gained four pounds.

"I feel that I cannot express myself in terms that are worthy of the benefit Grape-Nuts has brought to me, and you are perfectly free to publish this letter if it will bend some poor sufferer relief, such as has come to me." [illegible]

The English Emigrants

Warm Defence of the New Canadian Settler

To the Editor of The Times:

Sir,—In reply to "Canadian", the slander came first from Canadians who are guilty of the basest deception and treachery. Who are the drunkards in Peterborough? If your house is broken into is it an immigrant? If you are swindled, what class is it? Let your correspondent give his name. "Canadian" means little and signifies less.

Yours, etc.,
W. A. BAILEY.

To the Editor of The Times:

Sir,—I think "Canadian" and Mr. Claxton are in the wrong. We have not cause to attack the immigrants who are almost the majority and provide us with our bread and butter. In any case we have no right to slander which is the real reason. The object is to exploit and disparage for selfish and unworthy motives.

ANOTHER CANADIAN.

Young Man Injured in the Head

Recently arrived immigrant from New Zealand, by name Harold P. Opie, met with a painful accident on Wednesday night at Eastwood's livery barns. With a number of other young fellows he was doing some athletic stunts on the cement barn floor, and as he was making "three quick jumps," he slipped and fell back on his head, receiving a bad gash. He was carried into the office where he remained until the arrival of a physicians, who put in several stitches.

Fuel and Cartage Co. Lose Another Horse

Yesterday morning as a team belonging to the Peterborough Fuel & Cartage Co. was being driven along Hunter street with a load of trunks, at the corner of George street, the lay horse of the two suddenly fell to the road dead. Assistance was at once given the animal in an endeavor to get it on its feet again, but it was no use. The horse had not previously been stricken with any illness, and its death was unexpected. This is the second horse this company has lost within the past two months.

The Fire Brigade Changes Questioned

Editor Morning Times.

Before Ald Johnston's proposed reorganization of the fire brigade is consummated, would it not be better to ascertain whether the members of the present volunteer brigade will act in conjunction with the paid members as proposed by Ald. Johnston. According to the by-law, the reorganized brigad consists, I understand, of a chief at $1,000, assistant chief, $800, 2 drivers at $550, i.e., $1,100; 1 engineer, $675; electrician, $800; three men at $450, i.e., $1,350; or a total of $6,825, and six "call" men at $200, or $1,200 more, making the total expense $8,025. To this must be added uniforms for at least the regular members of the brigade, say two suits per year at $13.50, or $271.50 more. Now should the members of the present volunteer brigade refuse to continue working with the paid staff, what would we have in the way of skilled fire fighters? The drivers would have to stay with their rigs in case of fire. The chief and his assistants would have to act as officers, the electrician would be at the fire hall, the engineer's duty is obvious. This would leave three men to fight fire. Now we will grant that the three employed are good men, the best men procurable at $450 a year. What kind of fire could three men subdue or fight? Is the worthy alderman's idea feasible or is it only a scheme to get the position of chief for some one at $1,000 a year?

Toronto-Ottawa Train Cancelled

It was yesterday rumored that the C. P. R. will discontinue the Ottawa-Toronto through train. This train arrives here about half an hour after the Montreal midnight, and passed through here, returning to Toronto next morning at 4.10. It has been in operation for the past six months and has proved a great convenience to the travelling public desiring to reach Ottawa without changing trains, but has not come up to the expectation of the company in a business sense.

Mr. Devey Describes the Crucifixion

Yesterday a Times representative had a talk with Organist Devey, of St. John's church, regarding the coming production of the "Crucifixion," to be given in St. John's Church on Good Friday night. Mr. Devey remarked that this music is of highest standard and most difficult of amateur production. However, the excellent choir of St. John's church has thoroughly practiced the music, and those who understand and appreciate high grade music can depend upon a treat. The Crucifixion is described as a "Mutilation on the Sacred Passion of the Redeemer," for two solo voices, tenor and bass and chorus.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

The Modesty of Women

Naturally makes them shrink from the indelicate questions, the obnoxious examinations, and unpleasant local treatments, which some physicians consider essential in the treatment of diseases of women. Yet, if help can be had, it is better to submit to this ordeal than let the disease grow and spread. The trouble is that so often the woman undergoes all the annoyance and shame for nothing. Thousands of women who have been cured by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription write in appreciation of the cure which dispenses with the examinations and local treatments. There is no other medicine so sure and safe for delicate women as "Favorite Prescription." It cures debilitating drains, irregularity and female weakness. It always helps. It almost always cures. It is strictly non-alcoholic, non-secret, all its ingredients being printed on its bottle-wrapper; contains no deleterious or habit-forming drugs, and every native medicinal root entering into its composition has the full endorsement of those most eminent in the several schools of medical practice. Some of these numerous and strongest of professional endorsements of its ingredients, will be found in a pamphlet wrapped around the bottle, also in a booklet mailed free on request, by Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y. These professional endorsements should have far more weight than any amount of the ordinary lay, or non-professional testimonials.

The most intelligent women now-a-days insist on knowing what they take as medicine instead of opening their mouths like a lot of young birds and gulping down whatever is offered them. "Favorite Prescription" is of KNOWN COMPOSITION. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.

Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Send to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., 21 one-cent stamps for paper-covered, or 50 stamps for cloth-bound.

If sick consult the Doctor, free of charge by letter. All such communications are held sacredly confidential.

PRINCE RUPERT. It is almost needless to make any lengthy description on this place for we all know it is the terminus of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, in B. C., situated on Kian Island, at the mouth of the Fraser River. It is estimated that owing to the great rush of gold seekers and others seeking wealth and new locations that Prince Rupert will have a population of 20,000 before next winter.

HAZELTON is another almost equally promising city, situated at the head of navigation on the Skeena River, on the main line of the Grand Trunk Pacific, also being the junction point of the Line from Dawson City. With these and other existing natural conditions and the prospects of a great development, it is looked upon as a great place to advance.

SCENE OF TORTURE SAYS MRS. BOWIN --VERY STRONG CASE

Leaving for Home with Peroy--Strongest Case Chief of Police Ever Touched

Blackest Days of Life Time

Detroit, April 10. "We're going back home, aren't we, Peroy?"

The mother of Peroy Bowin threw her arm about the shoulder of the boy. He was waiting the arrival of his clothes and a suit case that had been held at police headquarters after the jury had announced their verdict of "not guilty," and his acquittal by the judge.

"I expect we'll go on the first train out of here. This evening if possible. I hope we'll never see this city again. It has been a scene of heartbreak and torture for me, and the blackest days of my lifetime," concluded the mother.

A VERY STRONG CASE.

"I have nothing to say about the verdict," declared Chief of Detectives McDonnell, "except that the case was one of the strongest against any one charged with murder that I have had anything to do with in my thirty-three years' experience in the police department."

The audience that was in the court room when the verdict was returned had joined the motley mob on the street, and, as they caught sight of Bowin, his mother and his mother's friend emerge from the little door at the Raynor street side of the building they went up a mighty shout. There were cries of:

"Hurrah!" "Hurrah for Percy!" and "Hurrah for Bowin!"

Some ran to Bowin's side and grabbed his arm and hand. Bowin smiled unconcernedly.

DURHAM W. STEVENS.

This American, who is a confidential adviser to the Japanese Government, was recently shot down in San Francisco by Koreans. The motive apparently arises out of the resentment of a small group of San Francisco Koreans to the Japanese protectorate over Korea, and to the part played by Stevens in the reorganization of the Korean Government.

SEE CAP CLOTHING.

North Tonawanda, April 8. — Little Robert McCaffrey, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert McCaffrey, of Bergholtz, near here, lost his life by falling in a cistern at his home yesterday afternoon. The boy, who was 3 years old, went to visit his grandmother who lives nearby. On his way home he lifted the trap-door covering the cistern and fell in and was drowned.

When he failed to return home at the expected time his mother went in search of him. When she saw the trap-door of the cistern open she ran frantically toward it, and on looking in saw his little cap floating on the top of the water.

POLICE

At yesterday's session of the police court a good number of the pavement pounders and sons of rest turned out to see the trial of a young boy charged with having stolen the sum of $30 from William Brundrett. The boy pleaded not guilty and elected to be tried summarily by the magistrate. County Crown Attorney Wood appeared for the prosecution and asked for a remand until Monday, April 13th. He noted that owing to the seriousness of the charge, bail should not be allowed. The case was held over and the court adjourned.

New Private Pool Room to be Opened

Mr. M. Pappas has returned from a business trip in Toronto, where he ordered eight pool and billiard tables of the latest style for the first floor just to the north of the cigar store at 337 George street. The new billiard parlor at 339 George street will be opened on or about July 1st. The new billiard parlor will be one of the most exclusive in the city, so that lawyers, doctors, merchants or others can be assured of a place to play billiards, with the most modern improvements, where they will not be interrupted by any one. Mr. Pappas has ordered three more barber chairs and a case to be placed where the present cigar store is located at 344 George street, the Palace. This will give Mr. Patterson one of the best barber shops in the Province of Ontario.

Mr. Pappas brought back with him two sets of genuine ivory billiard balls worth $150.

Springtime Hints

How to Keep the Complexion Charming Through the Most Trying Period of the Year

Springtime, welcome though it be, is the cause of many spotted complexions. It is wise, therefore, to "take time by the forelock," and before the buds have bloomed and the leaves come out,, to clear your complexion of all blemishes.

There is nothing better than the old-fashioned remedy of sulphur and molasses for getting rid of impurities in your system, though for those who cannot take sulphur, a good aperient water can be substituted. Every night and morning throw a handful of rolled oats into a bowl of hot water, and after thoroughly washing the face, neck and hands, apply liberally a wash made as follows:

Take two ounces of Rose Water, one ounce of Cologne Spirits and four ounces of Eppotone. Put the Eppotone in a pint of hot water (not boiling), and after it is dissolved, strain and let cool. Then add the Rose Water and the Cologne Spirits.

You can get the ingredients at any drug store. It is easy to make this wash at home, and as the formula makes over a pint, it is very inexpensive.

This simple home treatment of per-ated in will be found much more beneficial than all the expensive lotions you can buy.

Second Annual At Home of C. G. E. Co. Mutual Benefit Society

Held Last Night in the Opera House was a Great Success--The Program was Exceedingly Good--A Crowded House

The second annual "at home" of the Canadian General Electric Company Mutual Benefit Society, which was held last night in the Opera House, was a great success, the house being packed and the programme exceedingly good. The various numbers were deservedly well received and encores were the rule. The orchestra rendered several selections in a manner that stamped it at once as an organization of unusual merit.

Messrs. J. O'Brien, E. M. Hooker, Geo. Lynch, E. Crowe and F. Pratt sang very acceptably, while the "Dear Old Songs" by Miss E. Lee and "Spring Flowers" by Miss May Edwards were a distinct success, and were rapturously applauded by an enthusiastic audience, as were also encores rendered by both ladies.

Sweet little Annie Christie captivated all hearts by her naive rendition of "Nip and Tuck," in which she described in touching tones the trials of childhood, and no less amusing was the story and "Sister Molly's Beau." As a monologuist Mr. W. McLaren proved himself no novice, and Peterborough audiences will want to hear more from him. His monologue on the "Grass Widower" was decidedly good, and his recitation of the prosecuting attorney's address in Bardell v. Pickwick was exceedingly well delivered. Nor must Mr. Geo. Lynch's recitation of "Jean Baptiste Loudeau" be overlooked. His accent and delivery was almost perfect and showed him to be a careful reader of Dr. Drummond.

The accompanists were played by Mr. Herbert Nicholl, whose instrumental solo was highly appreciated.

Taken as a whole the entertainment reflected the highest credit upon the committee having the arrangements in charge, and they are to be congratulated upon the great success which they scored.

The Little son of Mr. Baker Wandered on Track and Met Death

Special to The Times

Lindsay, April 11.—This afternoon at two o'clock a double-headed freight train struck and instantly cut in two the two and a half year old son of William Baker of the Sylvester Manufacturing Company.

The little tot had wandered away from home, and was playing at the Adelaide street crossing of the railroad. The engineer saw the little fellow, but not before the first truck had passed over the little body.

This Class of New Comer is What Canada Needs--Mr. Bailey Again Heard From.

To the Editor of The Times:

Sir,—I have read the articles in your valuable paper on the matter of emigration from England, and I would like to have my little say. I am not a "new arrival," having been in Canada for some fifteen years, but I must say that if this country is to go and prosper, and at the same time maintain its connection with the motherland, we should welcome the Englishman. There is a vast majority of our people who love the old flag, and extend a welcome to our people who come here to settle. The only croakers, as far as I can see, are the "Canadians" of other nationality. Ireland—or a portion of it—always did hate England, and it is not to be expected that the feeling should change when the true people are transplanted here.

Liquor and Tuberculosis

To the Editor of The Times:

Sir,—Personally I dont drink because the liquor here is not pure. What is needed is good English ale and beer, and there would be less tuberculosis. If Canadians would settle down to improved conditions of living—to drain the land and make our houses habitable, we would be better employed than in slandering the emigrants.

AN EMIGRANT ADVISER.

Mr. Claxton Right

To the Editor of The Times:

Sir,—Mr. Bailey apparently is the offender, and not Mr. Claxton. Surely if the people of this country are as bad as Mr. Bailey paints them, we are, as that gentleman says, worse than Russians. Mr. Claxton takes the proper ground, and so does Sir Wm. Meredith in regard to the class of people coming to this country at the present time from the old land.

AN IRISH CANADIAN.

The Right Classes

To the Editor of The Times:

Sir,—I see that the first rush of immigrants of the year arrived in Toronto this week. To the writer, one of them said:

"We want to get a new start and try our fortunes in Canada, and we're willing to work."

They are among the best class of immigrants ever brought out by the Army. The men are a stout, hearty-looking lot of Englishmen and Scotchmen, and there were about sixty domestics, of whom thirty will be located in Toronto. The rest of the domestics and practically all the men left this morning on the various trains for their destinations in Ontario, north and west of Toronto.

Three hundred were taken on a special train through to British Columbia, where all but twenty will go on the land, these latter having desired to go on railway construction work.

Three hundred more went to work on farms in Manitoba and Saskatchewan, while 250 were placed on farms in Eastern Ontario, and the remaining 550 came on to Toronto to be distributed to various points north and west of this city.

Colonel Rothwell, of London, had charge of the party on the Ionian, and he states that the Army never has brought out as good a class of men as those who have just arrived. He also stated that "when they landed at Halifax agents of the G. T. R. endeavored to secure men for railway work, but out of the 1,800 they got only seven men, the rest refusing to turn their backs on the farms."

The immigrants who arrived all wore a neat little identification pin showing two clasped hands and the words "Good-bye" and "Welcome," indicating the attitude of the Army to those they brought over.

Surely these people are what is needed in Canada.

City Solicitor E.H.D. Hall Resigns--Council Increased His Salary

To Nine Hundred Dollars --Work of the Office Has Been Steadily Increasing

Asked to Retain Office

Through a regrettable oversight the meeting of the City Council in Committee of the Whole, held Thursday night, was omitted in yesterday's issue.

The principal business before the Council was the resignation of City Solicitor E. H. D. Hall, whose letter was as follows:

Mayor Rush:

Dear Sir,—I have felt for some time that the work which I had to do as city solicitor had increased so much that I was entitled to an increased salary, and last year as well as this year, spoke to the Finance Committee about this matter. As you will remember, I also mentioned the matter to you. I considered this the proper way of bringing the question up rather than by a formal application to the council, but I understand that some of the aldermen do not agree with this, and that a majority of the council consider that the present salary is quite sufficient. I have no fault to find with those aldermen who voted against an increase, but feel satisfied they are not aware of the amount of work I have had to attend to and the time it has taken from my other business. As an example in 1904, I had only 58 by-laws to draw, while in 1907 the amounted to 88, and in addition to this the other city work has increased largely.

I, therefore, in justice to myself, cannot continue to act as city solicitor, and beg to resign that position. In doing so I would like to say that during the six years I have acted in that capacity I have always found the members of the council and the city officials most considerate and ready to render me every assistance and that in resigning the office of solicitor I do so with regret only that these relations which have been as far as I am concerned most pleasant, will cease, and I desire to say that I have no feeling of resentment against the aldermen who voted against an increase in salary, as they no doubt did so thinking that I was sufficiently paid. I will be glad to assist my successor in any way I can. I will be obliged if you will take the necessary steps to have me relieved from office as early as convenient.

Thanking you, Mr. Mayor, and the aldermen who voted for the increase for their efforts, I remain,

Yours truly,

E. H. D. HALL.

The mayor noted that he had not heard that the Finance Committee had recommended a raise of $200 a year for the city solicitor until the following night.

Ald. Bradburn said the Finance Committee had regulated the city solicitor's salary in accordance with those paid in other cities of similar size. Ald. Morgan opposed the raise. Ald. Neil advocated retaining Mr. Hall's services. Ald. Gillespie's action was governed by that of the Finance Committee, in whose judgment he had faith. Alds. Phelan and Morrow were in favor of a non-acceptance of Mr. Hall's resignation. Ald. Turner thought a good city solicitor could be got for $700 per annum. Alds. Johnston and McIntyre were against the proposed raise in salary. Ald. Elliott wanted the city commissioners and water commissioners to authorize the increased payment. By an amendment to the original motion it was decided to retain the city solicitor at the advanced salary of $900 per annum. This amendment was carried by a vote of 7 to 5.

Ottawa, April 9. — Mr. Ormond B. Haycock and Miss Amy Haycock, of Ottawa, champion figure skaters of Canada, and holders of the Minto Cup, have been invited to go to Australia to give exhibitions in skating under the auspices of the Melbourne Skating Association.

A mammoth rink equipped with artificial ice is being erected at Melbourne, it appears, but skating has never been introduced to Australians, and the promoters of the enterprise have written to Montreal asking assistance. The names of Mr. and Miss Haycock were forwarded to Australia, and the Melbourne skating enthusiasts have written Mr. Haycock asking if it would not be possible for himself and Miss Haycock to go to Australia at once and spend a few weeks there as the guests of the new club.

Spring Tiredness Cured By Harmless Remedy

Many are Using it and receiving benefit from its strength giving power.

All winter, long you worked hard This took lots of nerve force. It lasted so far, but now it's all gone and you feel half dead.

Somehow you must get new vitality and more nerve force. The water in your blood must be turned into strength and building material. Your fretful appetite must be braced up. Some new power must be imparted to your weak body.

This is just what happens in using Ferrozone, which is an ingluse blood maker, blood-enricher and nerve builder.

Ferrozone not only creates keen appetite, it goes further, improves digestion and assimilation, so that every particle of food is converted into nerve and muscle fibre.

By building up new nerve force and making each organ do the work that nature expects of it, Ferrozone quickly increases your weight and instils a reserve of vigor into the system that defies weariness, exhaustion, spring debility or sickness of any kind.

To prove the enormous strengthening power of Ferrozone we quote the following letter from Mrs. Cecil P. Gourmally, well known in Middleville: "Last March I was very run down and thin. I had no appetite and scarcely felt like eating at all. My face was pallid and haggard and I had dark circles under my eyes. My weight was seven pounds under normal, and day by day that awful spring weariness dragged me down. The change Ferrozone wrought was surprising. It must certainly contain wonderful building and strengthening properties, because I gained strength, flesh and appetite from the day I started it. I speedily came back to vigorous buoyant health with Ferrozone, and recommend it as the best medicine any person in weak health can take."

THE HINDOO PROBLEM

It is evident that the responsible public men of the United Kingdom feel keenly that the colonies are raising a serious question in refusing to admit Asiatics on terms of equality with other immigrants. For a long time now, British guns have been at the service of a policy demanding the admission of European trade on terms of equality to Asia. As the United States forced open the doors of Japan, so Britain forced open the doors of China, and is now ruling the vast Empire of India. But when the subject of the two former powers, and our fellow British subjects of India, attempt to set foot in a British Colony, they are met with a discriminating and hostile treatment.

How is Britain to explain this to Asia? That is the question. And Britain will have to do some explaining; for she is the ally of one Asiatic power and the master of another. The question is a particularly delicate one, as it touches India. We are now told that the British Government will endeavor to discourage Hindoo immigration to Canada to oblige us; but it is not likely that it will commit itself to the taking of arbitrary measures, in which case the Hindoos will probably feel themselves free to accept or reject the official advice. Under the inspiration of some hungry labor merchant who thinks that he can turn a dirty penny by persuading a lot of Hindoos to come to Canada with a view of working on the railways or in some other large enterprise, enough of them may still come to keep the pot boiling in British Columbia.

It is the business of statesmanship to crack just such nuts as these and we will expect to see the shell fracture before we are through with it. But it is not an easy problem; and Canada should recognize its membership in the Empire frankly enough to realize that it ought to help settle it. We must stand resolutely firm against Asiatic immigration; but we ought—within that position—to be as patient and as non-irritant as possible. If we will not give Britain a ship or a man to defend the Empire, we ought at least to make things as easy as we can for the ships and men whom Britain herself supplies.

BLACK DAYS OF HISTORY.

Dates Which Mark National Calamities Are so Designated.

The name of Black Friday was applied in England to December 6, 1745, when the news reached London that the Pretender to the throne had arrived at Derby, and the safety of the crown of King George was regarded as seriously threatened, albeit the revolution was speedily brought to an end. In the financial history of England, May 11, 1866, is designated as Black Friday, as on that day began a disastrous financial panic, which was brought about by the failure of the firm of Overend, Gurney & Co., in London, who were afterward tried and acquitted of conspiracy to defraud.

In ecclesiastical history the Roman or Western Church has frequently designated Good Friday as Black Friday, as on that day all clerical vestments and altar draperies are strictly of black. The term black-letter days is applied to minor holidays and saints' days, whose names appear on calendars in black letters instead of red letters, as do the high days and holy days. In the English calendar, certain black letter days have been retained because they mark civil dates of importance, such as Hilary term and Martinmas summer, or because they commemorate some public benefactor.

The name Black Monday is given in English history to Easter Monday, April 14, 1360, when Edward III. lay with his host before the city of Paris and the weather was so stormy and bitter cold that many men died as they sat on their horses. The term was afterward extended to include all Easter Mondays, and is so used by Shakespeare in "The Merchant of Venice," in the line, "Then it was not for nothing that my nose fell a-bleeding on Black Monday last." Dickens refers to the schoolboy custom of regarding the day for returning to school after the long vacation as Black Monday, and an article in "Household Words" mentions "the due observance of the ancient institution of Black Monday," the eve of which was kept on the Saturday night when the school box was packed. In Irish history the term Black Monnumber of English were slain in a number of English were slain ina village near Dublin in 1209.

Australia has a Black Thursday in its history, the name being given in the colony of Victoria to Thursday, February 6, 1851, when the most terrible bush fire known in the history of the colony raged over an immense extent of territory and the heat was felt far out at sea and birds overcome by it fell on the decks of coasting vessels. The loss caused by the conflagration was exceedingly great.

Black Saturday was the name given in Scotland to August 4, 1621, when the Parliament, sitting in Edinburgh, ratified certain articles introducing Church of England practices in the churches of Scotland which were opposed to the religious convictions of the Scotch Presbyterians. The violent thunderstorm which occurred at the time, with much lightning and great darkness, was held to be a manifest token of the displeasure of Heaven.

Sir Walter Scott in one of his novels wrote: "She was to remind a neighbor of some particular which she was to recall to his memory by the token that Thomas Reid and he had set out together to go to the battle which took place on the Black Saturday."

So far as the records show, no other day of the week has had the adjective black attached to it. Red-letter days are any lucky, fortunate or auspicious days, and are so called because in the older liturgical works the greater holy days are designated by red letters. Dickens makes one of his characters in "Bleak House" say: "It is the old girl's birthday, and that is the greatest holiday and reddest letter day in Mr. Bagnet's calendar." Charles Lamb, in his "Oxford in the Vacation," writes: "The red-letter days now become, to all intents and purposes, dead-letter days."

A Judicial Outrage.

Mr. E. G. Jellicoe, Dinizulu's English counsel, has suddenly thrown up his case and left South Africa. The excitement caused by his departure is increased by the publication of a letter from Mr. Jellicoe to the governor, Sir M. Nathan, containing extraordinary and sensational charges.

Mr. Jellicoe alleges that the Government is making a political affair of Dinizulu's trial, that witnesses were forced under martial law to make statements against Dinizulu, and were refused an opportunity of withdrawing them, and that the proceedings were purposely arranged with the object of effecting Dinizulu's ruin. Mr. Jellicoe declares that he possesses evidence that unresisting natives were shot under martial law, that hundreds of Dinizulu's witnesses were arrested and thrown into prison, and their whereabouts concealed, and that all facilities were refused Dinizulu for seeing his legal advisers.

He describes the proceedings as a "judicial outrage" and a "disgrace to a British colony," and declared that the Natal press is a "palladium of licentiousness," and the whole colony is exploiting the natives for the furtherance of barefaced schemes of political adventurers. In an interview, Mr. Jellicoe has declared that he will fight tooth and nail to get the Imperial Government to refuse to sanction the act of indemnity for trial of natives under martial law.

Astonishing Information.

Two men wrote to the editor of a correspondence column of a magazine, Mr. A. asking what to do for teething babies and Mr. C. asking how to get rid of grasshoppers. The editor in answering got the names mixed, so the man asked about babies got the reply:

"If you want to get rid of the little pests cover them up with grass and set fire to it."

And the one who asked about the grasshoppers got the reply:

"If they are teething, give them a warm bath and rub their gums with honeset every day."

WOMAN CLIMBS CHIMNEY.

Going Up Is Delightful, She Says, But Not at the Top.

It appears that there is no immediate likelihood of women steeplejacks becoming less rare than they are at present.

In fact, steeplejacking seems likely to be one of the few occupations left in which men will not have to consider the possibility of competition by women.

This, at any rate, is the opinion of Mrs. Larkins, wife of the best-known London steeplejack, who herself made an ascent of a 170-foot chimney.

"They would never have the nerve to work once they were up," she said. "Take my own case. Though for the first time in my life, I attempted a chimney stack, I have always been fond of heights—in the way of rocks, mountains and show monuments.

"I always thought I would like to go up a steeple, after I married, but until this week I had never made an ascent, though I would dearly have loved to accompany my husband when he repaired the Nelson Column.

"It is not very often that he gets work as near home as Allan's chimney stack—170 feet high—in Canal road, Mile End, London, and so one day this week when my little boy, Willie, came from school we went down to watch the work.

"Then I was suddenly seized with the old craving to climb, too. My husband put me into the steeplejack's seat, and up I went. Will had gone a few minutes before with his father, but 60 feet was considered enough for him.

"At this height my husband suggested my returning to the ground, too, but by this time I was enthusiastic to mount higher.

"I suppose the sensation is something similar to what one would experience in a balloon.

"Gradually everything and everybody got smaller; the men calling their goods on the pavement, the women hanging out their washing in the yards, the motor cars rushing down the Mile End road.

"The sensation of steadily rising was splendid. Then I reached the top. That was the only part I didn't like.

"While the cradle was in motion it was delightful, but once it became stationary my one idea was to get down again.

"I could never work up there; I defy any woman to. Even if they were in men's dress (which would be imperative for safety's sake) no woman could be a steeplejack. She could never keep her head."

BRITISH FORESTRY.

Great Britain Confronted With a Timber Famine—Need Increasing.

Great Britain is face to face with a shortage in her supply of timber; such, at least, is the opinion of a writer in a late issue of The London Times.

During the twenty years from 1886 to 1905 the quantities of timber imported showed a considerable increase—in one case, that of wood-pulp, of practically four hundred per cent. During the same period, the declared value of these wood and timber imports almost doubled, rising from 13,695,297 pounds sterling to 26,033,350 pounds sterling—an increase of 12,338,350 pounds, that is, ninety per cent. Even in those cases where the quantity of wood imported has decreased, the value shows an increase.

But, in spite of paying much more for her wood, Britain is having some sources of supply closed to her altogether. Not only has Germany now no wood to spare, but she has herself become a large importer to the tune of about 15,000,000 pounds sterling per year (the price of 4,500,000 tons of wood), and that for ten years back and longer. The United States is also likely to be soon cut off as a source of supply.

Forestry has on at least two occasions, namely in 1885 and 1902, been under consideration by committees of the House of Commons, and some progress has been made. The Forest of Dean and the adjacent High Meadow Woods have been placed under regular forest management. In Scotland, last year, the Government purchased the 12,000 acre estate of Inverliver, Argyllshire; and, in Ireland, Avondale, in Wicklow county, the estate of the late Mr. Charles Parnell, with the woodland of Ballyfad near by, has been acquired as a demonstration area and forestry school.

Several municipalities are now engaged in planting to forest the catchment areas of their water supplies, as many such areas are now being planted on this continent. Liverpool, out of her 22,000 acres of such land, has planted 640 acres, and seven other towns have planted an aggregate of 1,560 acres to trees. These figures while small in themselves, show the tendency of the times.

Some advance has also been made in forestry instruction, which has been established at the universities of Oxford and Cambridge, at the Royal Agricultural College at Cirencester and the Agricultural College at Wye, Kent.

Henry V.'s Cradle.

The oak cradle in which Henry V. is said to have been laid as an infant is to be offered for sale at Christie's in London shortly.

The cradle is English work of the late fourteenth century, as the carving of the eagle at either end and the Gothic foliage of the supports prove. It belonged to the late Mr. W. Jordone Braikenridge, of Clevedon, whose grandfather bought it in 1833 at a sale at Redland Hall, Bristol.

A good case is made out for its being the cradle used by the infant prince at Courtfield, when he was in the care of Lady Montacute, granddaughter of Edward I. The arms are those of the Monthermer family.

Other objects of great interest and value in this Braikenridge collection include a fine ciborium of copper-gilt and champleve enamel, dating from the thirteenth century; an exquisitely wrought mazer-bowl, temp. Henry VIII., and an Elizabethan tazza which for long was used, upside-down, as a base to the mazer-bowl.

NOW LISTEN!

Please read carefully what follows, and if you decide to take advantage of what the "Canada Southern Oil & Gas Co, Limited," o Tilbury, Ont (no personal liability), is now offering you, ths result will b: that instead of getting 3 per cent. for your savings, you will get at least from 10 to 25 per cent. that others are harvesting.

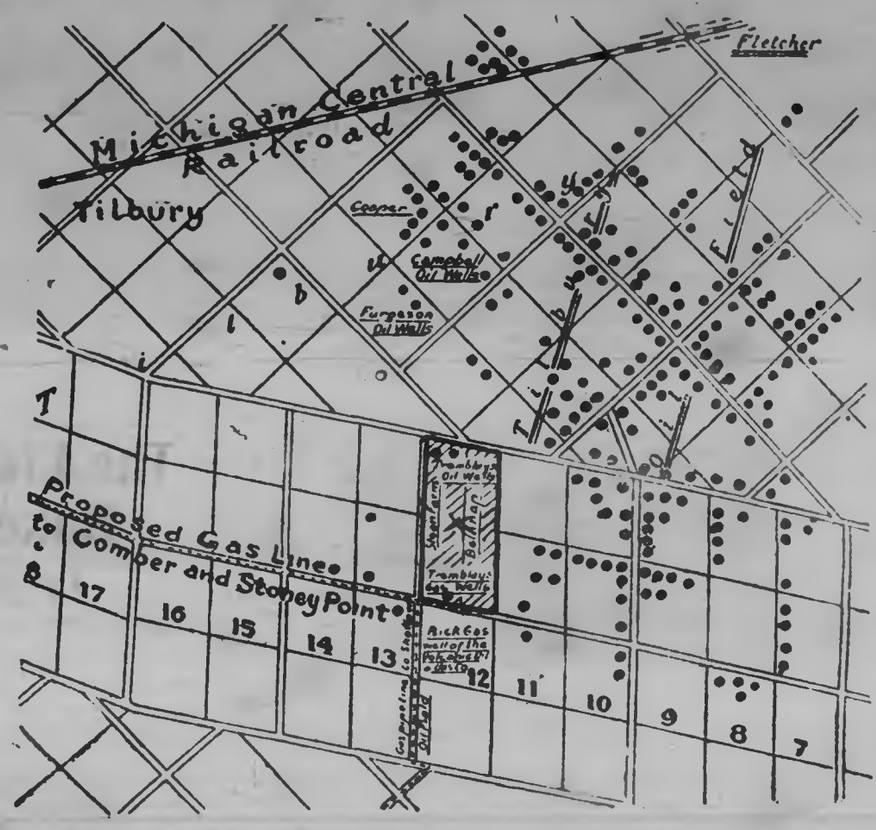
Your savings will be eight times more than the original amount by the mere fact of th: higher rate of interest you will get.

Remember that this is no wildcat scheme, as you can see by the facts hereinafter mentioned.

Dr. Bell, the famous Canadian geologist, early in 1878 reported that there was an oil and gas field in the Townships of Tilbury and Romney County of Kent, Ont. As soon as the discovery of the oil was made in Tilbury in 1906, our American neighbors, who are experts in good things, did not hesitate to invest hundreds of thousands of dollars, and now, in fact, control the two thirds interest in our oil field of Tilbury; and this happened because we Canadians hesitated to invest a few thousand dollars in the exploration of the oil mines of Tilbury, which already give a monthly production valued at $75,000, without adding the revenue derived from the gas.

We have said that this is not a wildcat scheme, because the "Canadian Southern Oil & Gas Co., Limited," has secured an option at a very moderate price on properties situated in the oil and gas field of Tilbury, upon which three successful tests have been made, being Lot No. 12, M R N., Tilbury East, 200 acres, indicated with a cross upon the map of the field.

COUNTY of KENT, ONTARIO



Three wells only have been drilled at an average depth of 1,400 feet.

The first one proves to be a rich gas well, the two others are good oil wells, combined with a strong production of gas.

The Company has also secured the franchises for the distribution and sale of natural gas into the Townships of Romney, Tilbury East, North and West and also into the thriving villages of Comber and Stoney Point.

The gas well is properly equipped and already is supplying the motor power to the Romney oil wells and is getting one-third of the gross revenue of the gas sold.

The oil wells are completely equipped with one 15 h. p. gas engine, derrick, tanks, boiler, pumps, tubing, pipe-line, jerk-line, jack, etc., and are producing daily. The oil is sold to The Imperial Oil Company, Sarnia, and is delivered at the tanks and shipped through its pipe-line to Port Marquette R. R. Station at Merlin, a distance of 3 miles.

Our properties are already giving daily a net revenue of about $35.00—that is to say, more than 10 per cent. of the whole capital stock of the Company.

This revenue may be made four times greater by the drilling of other wells and the construction of the gas-line to Comber and Stoney Point.

[illegible] Gilmour, Esq., of Montreal, consulting mining engineer and mining [illegible] to the Dominion Government, who lately made an inspection of the said property, concluded his report as follows:

"In summarizing the actual results already obtained from the operations [illegible] wells the writer is forced to the conclusion that the property under consideration is a very valuable one. Located as it is in the north extremity of the producing Tilbury oil field, in close proximity to wells which produce from 40 to 60 barrels of oil (and even more) per day of 24 hours (I refer to the Ferguson Campbell and Cooper properties, located about 2,000 feet distant to the north, see plan attached hereto), it bids fair to become a producer of oil and natural gas of no small measure.

The Tilbury field has already the reputation of being a large producer and powerful companies have entered the district with a view of securing properties of known and established value.

There is one factor to which I would like to draw your special attention and that is the future of natural gas. To-day, the market in that part of the country, for this commodity is not sufficiently large to dispose of all the gas the wells can produce but there is no question that in the near future factories will be established on central points, which will eventually consume for various purposes, especially for power, all the gas which can be produced in the field.

Besides this there are quite a number of towns and villages in the western part of the Niagara Peninsula, which may use the gas for heating, lighting, and also for power purposes and it is only a question of time when this will be realized.

The economy of the application of natural gas to power purposes is already evidenced all through the field, as coal or any other power cannot be regularly obtained, and that at high figures. Having therefore, a powerful gas well on the (Sloan) property, it is evident that a great saving is effected from this source alone; for instance, for the operation of ten oil wells, the cost of power required per day would amount to between twenty and twenty-five dollars, which, in 300 working days per year, would represent a saving of from six thousand to seven thousand five hundred dollars.

In conclusion, I may say that this property, with proper and economic management, can be made highly remunerative; I entertain, no doubt, that if properly developed, it will show similar results as those of so many other locations in the vicinity, whose developments have of so many other locations in the vicinity, whose developments have been so vigorously pushed in the past.

Respectfully submitted,
(Signed) FRITZ CIRKEL.

In Fashion's Realm---News of Interest to Women

IN FASHION'S REALM.

The New Jumper Suit and its Many Variations.

A SMART PINAFORE SHAPE.

A Soft, Open Mesh Veiling Very Attractive For These Costumes—It Comes in All the Fashionable Spring Colors.

The distinct difference between the jumper suit of last spring and this season is in the fact that the latter has the chemisette and jumper in one piece.

While this is true of many of the best frocks, it does not mean that the separate jumper will be out of style. It will be worn in cloth, linen and even ginghams more than ever.

Last year's style, which was like a nurse's apron, is not in demand. This is in the shape of wide folds over shoulders, with a loose cap for sleeves and straps across the front and back, joining the bretelles.

If a woman owns one of these, it is quite correct to wear it, but the newer and better styles are in pinafore shape, cut rather high at the back and front and without the bretelle effect.

When these pinafore jumpers are made of any of the new soft spring fabrics, such as marquisette, chiffon veiling and heavy messaline, they are attached to a lining, and the yoke and sleeves are put in also to the lining.

When cotton and linen, serge and lansdowne are used for summer jumpers, the pinafore is made separate in order that one may utilize the blouses on hand. If the frock is dressy, it is also well to have an extra chemisette and ruffled sleeves attached to a fitted lining, which can be worn under the jumper for dressy afternoon affairs. There is a soft veiling very open in its mesh, but silky, that comes in all the fashionable colors. In blue, nile green, salmon pink and pale gray it is used for these jumper suits to be worn for all indoor occasions.

You can see how convenient and serviceable such a frock would be all the year round. It need not be made over taffeta, but it should be made over some soft imitation silk. One of the waists illustrated is a charming

AN EVENING BODICE.

French model of the jumper variety. The second cut shows an evening bodice with a bertha of lace.

There are things which will help out wonderfully in the coming schemes of dress, and there are articles of wearing apparel which will assist the woman of good taste to be always suitably gowned. For one thing, there are the new net boleros which are jetted so that they can be worn over nearly any waist. The net is very soft and fine, and the jets cover the bolero until it glistens like a coat of mail. The popular color is black, though very pretty effects are obtained in gray, in steel blue, in heliotrope and in white. The bolero is sleeveless or it has merely little shoulder caps with short wide sleeves, and it is worn over a white lace waist with pulling effect.

A FANCY APRON.

Intended For Use in Serving a Chafing Dish Supper.

The fancy apron now plays a more important part in the wardrobe of the up to date woman than for some time past. The popularity of the chafing dish has been a factor in this development, and the young girl or matron who does not own one or more fancy aprons is an exception. Fine, sheer materials naturally have the preference, and white takes the lead, but among the daintily figured stuffs that are so alluring are many that serve admirably for the fashioning of these aprons.

In the accompanying sketch is shown a particularly fetching little apron of figured lawn. As indicated, it is made from two squares of the material, the apron part simply requiring a little featherstitching around the hem on three sides and a little rounding out at the waist line to be ready. The bib calls for more work, as the circular opening for the head must be carefully measured and neatly finished. The two squares are adjusted at the waist with a little stitching, the cut-out material serving for the narrow belt that fastens with a buttonhole. A feature that distinguishes this apron from others similarly fashioned is that the bib in the back comes down to meet the waist line and is attached to the belt button. Large bandanna handkerchiefs are serviceable for aprons of this type, which are practical as well as pretty.

LEAP YEAR LOVE TESTS.

Flirtatious Maidens Send Them to Young Men They Love Most.

There is a little token called the "love test" which the flirtatious maiden makes in leap year and sends to the young man she fancies most, or if she is the typical girl of 1908, practical, heart whole and fancy free, she sends several of them to as many of her admirers.

A piece of cardboard 7 by 9 inches is selected and gashed in nine places to admit ribbons from an inch to an inch and a half in width. These are selected in colors corresponding with those in the couplets which are either lettered on the ribbon itself or on the cardboard above it. The girl who is something of an artist may carry out the color scheme of the ribbons in a border of flowers painted around the sides and top, cutting the cardboard away from part of the flowers to make an irregular edge. Blue cornflowers, black pansies, orange blossoms, yellow daisies, fern leaves, little brown button mums, red carnations, heliotrope and violets are painted in over the ribbons, which hang in a long irregular fringe and which, if well selected, make a beautiful color scheme when arranged in the order mentioned.

The maiden who is not overbold omits the white ribbon and uses it as a hanger, thus making it more difficult for the man to get it out, with the consequently better chance of tempting him to the coveted proposal. If the flowers are used, these couplets are lettered on the ribbons:

If to me your heart is true,
Send me back the blue.

If for me all thought you lack,
Send me back the black.

Should you think of the marriage rite,
Send me back the white.

If you're already an engaged fellow,
Confess and send me back the yellow.

Should pique be what your cold airs mean,
Set me at rest and send the green.

But if at thought of me you frown
Tell me the worst and send the brown.

If on thrills for me your heart is fed,
Quick, oh, quickly send the red!

If you are a friend for stormy weather,
Send the heliotrope, like purple heather.

If for what is past you suffer yet,
Send me back the violet.

Your Husband's People.

Be as courteous and considerate to your husband's people as you would be to your own.

Do not think that every fault found, every disagreeable word uttered, is directed at you.

Don't gossip to your husband about his people. Tell him of the pleasant things they do and not of the unpleasant things.

Do not try to keep him from them. Encourage his devotion to those of his own kin, and you will be very certain it will not be greater than it is for you.

When you married your husband you married his family, in a way, and you can show no greater love and tenderness to him than by giving and inviting love and respect from his people.

LEST WE FORGET.

An Ingenious Little Arrangement to Aid the Memory.

There are many ways of remembering important little things that we desire not to let slip out of our memories—tying a knot in a watch chain or in the corner of a handkerchief, for instance. But these methods often have the disastrous effect of reminding us that there is something we ought to be doing without telling us what it is, so perhaps one of the best ways, after all, is to make a note in writing of those important things we do not wish to forget.

An ingenious little arrangement for this purpose is shown in the illustration, and one in which our old half sheets of notepaper can be used up.

For the foundation is required a piece of stout cardboard about six inches long by two and a half in width. This is smoothly covered with dark green serge, edged with gold cord. On the front the words "Lest we forget" are embroidered in old gold colored silk, and there is a loop of cord at the top, by which it may be hung upon the wall. There is also another loop of cord running along the base of the card over which half sheets of notepaper may be folded and in this manner held in their place. When one sheet of paper has been used, all that it is necessary to do is to pull it away, when a new piece of paper will be exposed for further notes. To complete this article a pencil is attached to the right hand side by a fine silk cord.

VELVET NECK SLIDES.

Pretty Little Ornaments Worn Over High Collars.

Those pretty little velvet ornaments with fancy slides that are worn so much now over the high collars of dresses may be very easily made by a girl who is clever with her fingers.

Black can be worn with anything, and so that color is favorite, but if a girl wishes to have more than one she can choose those that will accord in tone with the waist with which it is worn. The shade should be light and delicate, however, such as pink, blue or mauve.

One will require a strip of ribbon velvet just large enough to fit easily over the top of a collar and have a little at the ends to turn under when making. In place of the slides, that cost more, pins are to be selected. Those of plated gold, rhinestones or more expensive kinds may be chosen. It is only necessary that there shall be four the same size.

The velvet should be fitted around the collar, the ends neatly turned under and two tiny hooks sewed at top and bottom. The smallest size should be used. The loops must be silk, as they are less apt to show than those of metal.

This done, the ornaments are taken and their pins removed. This can be done without breaking if they are gently and constantly worked far back and down. The pin should come out, leaving the little joint in which it was hinged and through which a small needle will pass. The hook into which the pin went should be flattened.

These are then sewed on carefully at regular intervals, one coming directly in front and back and under each ear or at either side of the front and the back. In either case the distance between must be the same.

Virtues of Titled Husbands.

"I can understand easily why many wealthy American girls are eager to get married to European noblemen," said recently a woman who spends much of her time abroad. "By their training titled foreigners are specially adapted, if they are moral, to make their wives happy. They have been trained in the little graces of thought and deed that mean so much in making a woman happy. They are thoroughly equipped for society life and know how to pleasantly entertain their wives. Now, if our American girls of wealth have no ambition for any serious work and wish to lead a gay life, mingling with fashionable, polished people, they cannot choose husbands better adapted for that kind of life than the foreigners. Wealthy American men, on the other hand, are always absorbed in some business which takes them away from their wives and society a great deal. In that respect they do not make good husbands, and I am convinced that if American girls get as husbands noblemen who are devoted to them and will remain so they could not do better. Of course that it is a big one."

CAMP FURNISHINGS.

Comfort Should Be Carefully Studied In Their Selection.

NOT MANY PIECES NEEDED.

Very Quaint and Rustic Styles Found in the Shops—Easy, Though, to Be Your Own Carpenter—Cedar Poles the Best Material.

The following furniture suggestions may be of interest to owners or prospective owners of small camps in the woods. In the ideal camp every piece of furniture supplies an actual want.

The easy chairs are easy to sit in, the settees roomy and soft and the tables and desks of convenient height. This matter of comfort should be as carefully studied in the selection of simple camp furniture as in that of the most expensive pieces. It is a question of proportion, of careful adjustment of parts to the whole.

Furniture of quaint and rustic style may be found in the shops, but it is even better to have it built by a carpenter or unskilled workman or to build it oneself. Next to an original and interesting design, solidity of construction is the prime requisite. Careful cabinet work is unnecessary and accurate joining superfluous. No glue should be used, but instead pin and dowel construction, as exposure to rain melts glue, and chairs and tables are frequently needed outside the camp. Cedar poles make the best material. The bark can be left on, giving a charmingly sylvan effect. But wherever a rough surface might prove unpleasant to the touch, as on the arms of chairs, the wood should be planed and sanded. No stain is necessary on the bark, and the planed surfaces may be left to the finishing of time.

Very few pieces of furniture are needful. Built in fitments can be made to take the place of movable pieces and are both more interesting and less expensive. Chairs and tables are, however, necessary, and a swing seat is a desirable adjunct to a camp on a rainy day. Cedar poles and slabs are used in its construction, and it is hung from the ceiling by iron chains. A Morris or reclining chair is the most comfortable seat in existence and should be included in even a short list of furniture. The proper measurements can be obtained from any good example of the style. Cedar poles are used in its construction in connection with slender branches of saplings, which form spindles in the sides and back. The cushions may be made of some inexpensive material and stuffed with cotton. An armchair of unusual design is shown in the cut. It is built of pine slabs and cedar posts and is provided with a pillow. A small table would be useful in an out of door existence. The slabs of which the top is made are planed to furnish a smooth surface for work or for serving tea.

PRINCE RUPERT, it is almost needless to make any lengthy description on this place for we all know its the terminus of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, in B. C., situated on Kian Island, at the mouth of the Fraser River. It is estimated that owing to the great rush of gold seekers and others seeking wealth and new locations that Prince Rupert will have a population of 20,000 before next winter.

HAZELTON is another almost equally promising a city, situated at the head of navigation on the Skeena River, on the main line of the Grand Trunk Pacific, also being the junction point of the Line from Dawson City. With these and other existing natural conditions and the prospects of a great development, it is looked upon as a great place to advance.

If you want to get in right and on the bottom prices and get the pick of the stuff, write and accept this opportunity.

No triflers wanted or those seeking for information for curiosity.

Dairymaids to be Punished

Ottawa, April 8.—In Hon. Mr. Fisher's bill to amend the Inspection and Sale Act, now before Parliament, the Minister of Agriculture has taken measures to put an end to th. cheese box nuisance, which have attracted attention in the old country. It has been found that glass bottles occasionally slipped into the centre of cheese by romantic Canadian dairymaids, as the receptacles of matrimonial and other proposals, fell as a rule into the hands of unromantic purchasers, who, after breaking the bottles in cutting the cheese, are more apt to grumble about the inconvenience and nuisance than they are to take any serious interest in the contents of the dairymaid's note.

The bill which Mr. Fisher has introduced will declare it an offence to put any foreign substance whatever into cheese, or to incorporate any inferior curd or cheese therein. The penalties provided under the Act will apply against any one who either manufactures or deals in these inferior products.

King Edward May Pay a Visit to Australia

London, April 10.—Inner court circles declare that the King's appointment of the Earl of Dudley as Governor-General of Australia is the forerunner of a Royal visit to the Antipodes. The King has long wanted to pay a visit to his most distant colony, and Sir Frederick Treves has told him it would do him an incalculable amount of good.

It is asserted that Lord Dudley's principal duty next year will be to make arrangements for the King's visit. Despite this honorable possibility, the Earl of Dudley is very much dissatisfied over his appointment as Governor-General of Australia, although King Edward was personally responsible for his selection. He knew as most of the eligible diplomats know, that the life of an Australian Governor-General does not lie in rose-strewn paths. First of all, the ultra-democratic Australian resents importation of his ruler's representative, and clamors for a home-grown official; and, secondly, he does not understand the panoply of state that surrounds the office.

KING EDWARD VII.
Who may visit Australia in near future.

New from The Old Land

St. Petersburg, April 8. — Interesting experiments have taken place in St. Petersburg with a bullet-proof coat of mail, invented by Col. Chemerzin, which effectually protects the body from Mauser bullets fired two paces off, flattening the bullet into a mushroom shaped piece of metal, but retaining it under the tissue of the covering. The coat of mail is scaly, but the composition of the metal, which includes platinum, silver, and iridium, is the inventor's secret. The composite material is three and a half times harder than steel, and a layer a millimetre thick keeps out a Mauser bullet fired three paces off, and hinders any contusion. The price of a coat of mail weighing five pounds, protecting the chest and back, will be considerable.

Tokio, April 10.—Negotiations between America and Russia concerning the administration of affairs at Harbin are being closely watched by Japan. The sensational newspapers quoted the coming of the American fleet with possible future representations concerning South Manchuria.

A despatch from Washington says the government has decided to oppose the action of Russia and Japan in Manchuria. A despatch from Harbin quotes Consul Fisher as saying that the American government on its own initiative demands the abandonment of Japan's present status in Manchuria. These telegrams have aroused much comment. The Japanese Foreign Office, however, says that it is not prepared to believe that the American government is opposed to Japan's present attitude in South Manchuria. It is believed here that the report quoting the Washington officials is not founded on fact, and is circulated for the purpose of creating a fresh cause of ill feeling.

Montreal, April 10.—Sentence was passed this morning upon George Potts, the man who pleaded guilty to having attempted to vote under a false name in St. Jean Baptiste ward at the last municipal election. He appeared in private before Recorder Dupuis, who briefly commented upon the seriousness of the offence. He remarked that he had taken into consideration the statement that had been made on behalf of the accused to the effect that he had been suffering from ill-health when he committed the crime. The sentence upon him would be one hour's imprisonment and a fine of $400 or an additional six months imprisonment. The fine was paid.

London, April 8.—The second International Sleeping Sickness Conference, which has just terminated in London, was not able to agree on the draft convention before it. The French and Italian delegates declared themselves unable to accept the British proposal to establish a central bureau in London. They asked that Paris should be selected, but this was opposed by the German delegates, who supported the British proposal. Dr. Koch, the famous bacteriologist, was one of the principal delegates to the Sleeping Sickness conference.

The disease is due to a fly which exists in the virgin districts of Africa, said Dr. Koch, and the insect has peculiarities about its life which make it difficult to deal with.

"The fly is a blood-sucker, and I found that where there are no human beings it lives upon the crocodile. My examinations showed that crocodile blood was its main diet, and therefore I suggested that with the destruction of the crocodile you will destroy the fly also. The crocodiles could be greatly lessened in number, if not entirely destroyed, by collecting their eggs, and some means will be taken in time through international action to do this."

St. Petersburg, April 10.— A correspondent paid a visit to General Soessel in prison today. He has small waiting room used also by ex-Admiral Nebogatoff and other naval officers, live in that part of the fortress of Peter and Paul for their conduct in the battle of Tsushima straits. Soessel's meals, served every Thursday by Generals Fock, Reiss and other Port Arthur leaders. His face is paler, thinner and more wrinkled than formerly, his voice feebler and his step less firm. He has nothing to complain of, however. Stoessel and the naval officers live in that part of the fortress known as "Catherine's Curtain." Stoessels room looks out on the Neva and beyond it he can see the winter palace. He was allowed to furnish the room himself, but the furniture is extremely simple, consisting of a square table, an iron bed, two small chairs and a wash stand. Mrs. Stoessel comes at 12 o'clock and remains till 3, special permission having been given by the Czar to the ex-general to see his wife daily. Their son generally accompanies his mother. At three o'clock the prisoner dines. After dinner he sets to work. He spends considerable time each day in writing his memoirs. At present he is dealing with his ancestry, parentage and childhood, taking pains to prove that he is not of a Jewish origin. What most hurts the ex-commander was the refusal of permission to wear his uniform.

Philadelphia, April 8. — The sensation caused here by the arrest of four policemen charged with being in a conspiracy to rob property on their beats, was followed last night by the surrender to the city officials, of William A. Frost, said to be one of the principals in the conspiracy. Frost is a plumber, who has a place of business in the wholesale district where the accused policemen were on duty at night. Frost says the policemen and Harry Rothenberger, through whose arrest the conspiracy was discovered, used his place as a rendezvous.

Officials say that the goods recovered from the house of the accused together with articles which they have traced, are valued at upwards of $15,000.

Luckenbill and Stevens, policemen, are said to have confessed. Among the articles recovered are rolls of carpet, mattings, gas stoves, bolts of cloth, tinware, hardware, ice cream freezers, Panama hats, laces, gloves, fancy groceries and patent medicines.

That languid, lifeless feeling that comes with spring and early summer, can be quickly changed to a feeling of buoyancy and energy by the judicious use of Dr. Shoop's Restorative.

The Restorative is a genuine tonic to tired, run-down nerves, and but a few doses is needed to satisfy the user that Dr. Shoop's Restorative is actually reaching that tired spot. The indoor life of winter nearly always leads to sluggish bowels, and to sluggish circulation in general. The customary lack of exercise and outdoor air ties up the liver, stagnates the kidneys, and oft-times weakens the heart's action. Use Dr. Shoop's Restorative a few weeks and all will be changed. A few days test will tell you that you are using the right remedy. You will easily and surely note the change from day to day. Sold by all dealers.

Farmers iN the West are Jubilant Over Crop Prosqects

Farmers of the West have visions of the Harvest.

Everything is favorable for a great yield this year

Ideal Spring for Wheat

Regina, Sask., April 3.—Spring has come at last. We all hope so, at any rate, and the indications so far as worth [illegible] as concerned could not be much finer.

Not that spring has lingered unduly in arriving, but that its arrival on good time and with favorable weather means so much to the whole of the west.

The farmer's crop depends very much on the kind of spring we have, and all business hinges upon the crops, so that the weather is, with justice, a topic of conversation of absorbing interest.

We had storms on the 25th and 26th of March generally over the west, and much snow will fall. In fact, for the first time this year the trains to the north were blocked. By Sunday mild weather had again set in, and on Monday afternoon considerable snow fell. The first of April, as an appropriate joke, was as cold a day as we have had all winter, the thermometer going several degrees below zero that night. Yet by noon on the second the water was running in the street gutters, and the Administrator, Chief Justice Wetmore, drove to the opening of the Legislature with his sleigh grating over patches of bare ground. To-day the sun is shining in a cloudless blue sky, and the snow is disappearing as if by magic, and vacant, low-lying lots are pools of water.

WINTER WAS MILD

The conditions could not be better for the land. The fresh snow will have the ground moist and friable, so that with a few warm days seeding can begin on ground that is in excellent condition. While the winter was very mild, there was sufficient to carry the crop until well on into the summer, when the rainy season is expected.

To one from the east, the rapid disappearance of the snow in the spring and the small effect visible in standing water on the fields is a mystery. This is to a great extent accounted for by the fact that when it is frozen hard, especially in heavy clay land, such as is to be found on the Regina and Moose Jaw plains, the ground opens up in large cracks, and these dispose of an immense quantity of water when the snow melts.

One will see farms covered with snow on week, and by the next week see the farmers sowing the seed in finely pulverized soil, with no stagnant water visible anywhere. The frost sinks deep into the ground, but it does not cause it to heave. For this reason fence posts are generally driven into the ground. So soon as the frost is out on the surface farmers can go upon the land to work it, and with warm weather the grain will come up very quickly, though it is quite possible we may not have rain until well on into May or even June.

The legislators who have assembled from all over the Province bring cheering reports of the outlook. Mr. Thomas McNutt the Speaker, who is an extensive farmer up at Yorkton, said the outlook was bright. He believed spring would be early, which would be a great advantage to farmers, but even if it were delayed it would be all right, if as a rule farmers were able to begin seeding from the 15th to the 20th of the month. Other practical farmers agree with him in this view. It is possible the present warm weather may be followed by colder weather. However, if the snow disappears and the land is exposed to the sun and the wind, seeding may be looked for by the 10th instant, and even earlier, while it will be general by the 15th, even if we do have a few days of cold weather in the meantime.

With favorable seeding conditions the area under crop in the west generally will be much larger than in 1907. Manitoba may not show a large increase. She has not so many new districts filling up as the two newer Provinces, and a considerable acreage in the old districts must be followed and used for other purposes besides wheat raising. However, there will no doubt be an increase, as the unfavorable spring conditions last year kept the acreage in wheat below what it normally would have been. The same is true to a certain extent of the older districts in Saskatchewan. However, even in the older districts farms that were held idle by speculators are being found so valuable that they must be brought under crop and settlement is becoming denser. These older districts also number many large farms, a great part of which were unbroken, but of late years the tendency has been to bring all possible acreage under cultivation. Much land was prepared for wheat last year, and will be in excellent shape this season. Another lesson taught by a year like last was that it does not pay to put wheat in except the land and conditions are fit for it. Land that is not properly cultivated will be sown to oats, flax, or other coarse grains. The land broken in new districts was large, and this will be sown to wheat.

LARGER ACREAGE.

Saskatchewan comprises in all a trifle over 156,000,000 acres of which about 73,000,000 was wholly or partially settled in 1907, and a little over 3,000,000 acres, or not 5 per cent., in crop. An increase of 25 per cent. would make the area this year over 3,800,000 acres. That is a large increase, and may not be attained. The fact is no one can tell until after the event. One thing is certain, there will be a large increase in the total crop acreage.

The effect of the cheerfulness of the spring outlook cannot but have a favorable effect on the business situation. Trade is reported as improving, and another month will no doubt see a great improvement. While cities and towns in the west will not launch out on any large schemes of improvement this summer, they are nearly all committed to extensions of work already undertaken. The Provincial Government will go on with its Parliament buildings in the city, which are estimated to cost $1,250,000, and it is building court houses in many centres, such as Saskatoon, Battleford, Moose Jaw and Moosomin.

News in Brief

Washington, April 8. — The State Department received a dispatch from Ambassador Leishman, at Constantinople to-day, reporting the death of an American citizen, supposed to be the president of a Kansas bank. He was shot by a Syrian while on the train travelling from Damascus. The Syrian was arrested, and explained that he was examining his pistol and the shooting was accidental.

Newton, Kansas, April 8. — The man killed by a Syrian was B. Warkentine, president of the Kansas State Bank, of Newton, according to a cable dispatch received here. He was accompanied by his wife.

Winnipeg, Man., April 10.— Colin Fraser, the well-known northern fur trader, who is here disposing of his winter packet, has gloomy forebodings as to the future of the trade. He says:—

"I have been twenty years up in the north getting furs, and I never knew so poor a year as this. I have been away since last August, and I brought down but $2,000 worth of furs. This time last year I had 300 marten skins and 12 silver fox. This year I could get together only three silver fox, and 150 martens.

"Some of the Indians are starving. I gave them all the fish I had left and some flour, but that was not enough.

New York, April 10. — The New York Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church held an important session yesterday. The resolution recommending to the General Conference that paragraph 248 of the Church discipline, which advises against dancing, card playing, theatre-going, etc., be eliminated, was adopted by an almost unanimous vote. There was no debate on this important question. Only seven delegates recorded their votes against the resolution. If the General Conference improves the step, it was explained, it will not mean that Methodism goes back on its historic position in respect to the amusements, but simply puts them on the matter of conscience.

Washington, April 10th.—Plans are being elaborated in detail for the mobilization of joint military and naval force in Venezuela waters as soon as possible after President Roosevelt obtains congressional sanction to resort to force against Castro.

The President cannon constitutionally declare war against Venezuela. Legislative authority would be required for such a campaign, and the preparation of plans is understood to be merely in accord with the policy of mapping out campaigns for possible emergencies. Directions given in the present instance are, however, the most explicit made since the Army and Navy were ordered to prepare for participation in the international relief column against Pekin during the Boxer troubles. The directions are being guarded closely.

Toronto, April 10.— The committee appointed to decide whether the Ontario Bank actions for about $2,000,000 against former officers should be continued, met last week and meets again this week, and it is understood that this committee, now that the Nova Scotia Supreme Court has found against the Bank of Yarmouth directors, will report in favor of proceedings with the actions.

Ontario Bank directors have been granted their applications to have the actions tried by a judge without a jury, and it looks as if there is now no impediment to the bringing of the cases into court.

Winnipeg, Man., April 10.— Sergeant Anderson of the Royal North West Mounted Police, Peace River, arrived in the city on Saturday evening, with the body of George W. Coleman, with the murder of whom Fred. Trumper, brought down from the north some time ago, is charged. Trumper is now in the Kamloops jail.

The body is in a tin case, packed in sawdust and is being kept in the mortuary at the Moffatt undertaking room. Sergeant Anderson also brought down three witnesses in the case, H. E. Calkin, J. P., Spirit River; H. Tremblay, a packer at Pouce Coupe, and G. Stanfield, who was a former companion of the dead man, and the accused. They will proceed to Kamloops to-day, where an inquest will be held. The trial was first set down for May 19, but will likely be put on at an earlier date in order that the men may get back north as soon as possible.

New York, April 7. — According to Charles P. McInerney, secretary of local No. 16 of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union, the strike breakers employed by Western Union Company are dissatisfied with the conditions, and are joining the union in large numbers. He also made the assertion to-day, that the Western Union had made a general reduction in wages throughout the country, and that there is dissatisfaction in other places, as well as in Chicago, where the telegraphers are talking strike.

"If matters go on as they are now," he said, "there may be another strike in the summer when business improves. Of course, the telegraphers do not want to strike, but if conditions do not improve no one can tell what may happen". It is said that as this is presidential year the telegraphers believe it to be a favorable one in which to make demands, as political pressure can be brought to bear on companies in their behalf.

Mr. Shevelere Brooks, Eastern Superintendent of the Western Union, said: "It is not true that the Western Union has made a general reduction of wages here, or throughout the country. We have been readjusting wages in accordance with the conditions of trade, as we do at intervals."

The Company expects to secure at least 400 acres or more, we are negotiating for it now and the terms are satisfactory and there is coal on the same, and they also intend to secure some Coal Mines of which they have the refusal. Some of the best coal mines in Colorado are in this district, as well as some of the richest gold and silver mines. In fact this is one of the richest parts for mineral in the State of Colorado, and the Company has the refusal to several prospects on reasonable and easy terms.

In our opinion the prospects of the Company are very bright and a rapid advance in the price of the stock is sure to take place in the near future. Full information can be had by calling at our office.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTHWEST HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an Agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each on and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of a homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father or mother.

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing must be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa, of intention to apply for patent.

mother, "and any one there can prove that my mother and myself were within doors after we came from Terry's theater, where we spent the evening. As my father—for Krill was my father—was killed after 12 and we were both in bed in one room before then, your accusation falls to the ground. My mother was with me, and she did not leave the whole evening. Next day we went to Christchurch."

Hurd was rather staggered by the positive way in which the young woman spoke. But the facts were too plain for him to hesitate. "I must trouble you to come along with me," he said. "Matilda will bring your things."

Mrs. Krill touched the electric button of the bell, while Maud walked up and down, deathly white and fuming. "Mr. Hay shall see to this," she said in a cold rage.

"Mr. Hay will have quite enough to do to look after himself," said the detective coolly; "you had better let your mother go quietly, and I won't say anything to Matilda Junk."

Matilda entered the room and heard that Mrs. Krill had to go out on business with Mr. Hurd. On receiving her orders she departed and presently returned with the cloak and hat. Mrs. Krill, who was now quite cool, put these on. Hurd could not but admire the brave way in which she faced the terrible situation. Maud seemed to be far more upset.

Miss Junk departed, and Mrs. Krill said that she was ready to depart. Hurd offered her his arm, which she rejected, and walked to the door with a firm step, although her face was rather white. At the door she caught her daughter round the neck and kissed her several times, after which she whispered earnestly in her ear and then went down the stairs with the detective in attendance. Maud, with white lips and cheeks, but with dry eyes, followed. When her mother was safely in the cab, the plain clothes policeman alighted so that Hurd might take his place. Maud came quietly down the steps and seized the detective by the arm.

"You have ruined my mother," she said in a cold, hard tone; "you have robbed me of my money and of the chance of marrying the man I love. I can't hurt you, but that girl, Sylvia—she shall never get one penny—no, remember!"

Hurd shook her off, and, stepping into the cab, drove away. Mrs. Krill looked apprehensively at him. "What did Maud say?" she asked. Hurd told her, and Mrs. Krill closed her lips firmly. "Maud is quite right," she said, with a strange smile.

CHAPTER XXV.

"'US say your mountin', my pretty queen," said Mrs. Tawsey as she stood at the sitting room door and watched Sylvia reading an ill written letter. "It's 12 now, and I kin be back by 5, arter a long and enjiable tork with Matilder."

"You certainly must go," replied Sylvia, handing back the letter. "I am sure your sister will be glad to see you, Debby."

Deborah sniffed and scratched her elbow. "Relatives ain't friends in our family," she said, shaking her head. "We ain't seen each other for years, and the meetin' will be cold. She'll not have much forgiveness fur me bein' a bride when she's but a lone crosspatch, drat her."

"Don't quarrel with her, Debby. She has written you a very nice letter, asking you to go down to Mrs. Krill's house in Kensington, and she really wants to see you before she goes back to Christchurch tonight."

"Well, I'll go," said Deborah suddenly, "but I don't like leavin' you all by your own very self, my sunflower."

"I'll be all right, Debby. Paul comes at 4 o'clock, and you'll be back at 5."

"Sooner if me and Matilder don't hit it orf or if we hit each other, which, knowin' 'er 'abits, I do expects. But Bart's out till 6, and there won't be any one to look arter them as washes—four of 'em," added Mrs. Tawsey, rubbing her nose, "and as idle as parkpines."

"Mrs. Purr can look after them."

"Look arter gin more like," said Deborah. "Here she is Miss', as usual. And may I ask, Mrs. Purr, ma'am," demanded Deborah, with great politeness, "wot I pays you fur in the way of fromin'?"

But Mrs. Purr was too excited to reply. She brushed past her indignant mistress and faced Sylvia, waving a dirty piece of paper. "Lor', miss," she almost screamed, "you do say as you want t' know where that limb Tray 'ave got to"—

"Yes, yes," said Sylvia, rising; "he escaped from Mr. Hurd, and we want to find him very much."

Rheumatism

I have found a tried and tested cure for rheumatism! Not a remedy that will straighten distorted limbs of chronic cripples, nor turn back growths to flesh again. That is impossible; but I can now surely kill the pains and pangs of this deplorable disease.

In Germany—with a Chemist in the City of Darmstadt—I found the last ingredient which Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy was needed, a perfected, dependable prescription. With that last ingredient, I successfully treated many cases of Rheumatism; but now, at last, it uniformly cures all curable cases of this heretofore much dreaded disease. Those mad-like grain wastes, found in Rheumatic Blood seem to dissolve and pass away under the action of this remedy freely as does sugar when added to pure water. And then, when dissolved, these poisonous wastes freely pass from the system, and the cause of Rheumatism is gone forever. There is now no real need—no actual excuse to suffer longer without help. DEATH OF "BIRKENHEAD" HERO

Man Who Steered Ill-Fated Troopship When Wrecked.

Memories of the tragic wreck of the troopship Birkenhead, with its deeds of splendid heroism probably unsurpassed in military or naval annals, are recalled by the death at Bristol (Eng.) of one of the survivors, at the age of 85.

He was Thomas Coffin, who, on the occasion of the disaster to the troopship was the "man at the wheel," and with seven others succeeded in pulling safely to shore in a gig.

Joining the Birkenhead about 1850, when he was 23 years of age, Coffin made three voyages in the vessel with troops.

A fourth voyage to the Cape was the fateful one in which the Birkenhead was wrecked, and the troops went down to a man, drawn up, as if on parade, on her decks.

Coffin has told his own story in quiet, plain phrases that perhaps give a clearer idea of the grim tragedy than a number of lurid phrases.

"I was at the wheel, and well remember the sentry calling out to the officer of the watch, 'Four bells, sir.' The officer replied, 'Strike them, sentry,' which he did not do, for at that very moment she struck the rock and the sentry went rolling to the deck. At the time most of the soldiers were below asleep, but were awoke by the crash (which appeared to me to be enough to wake the dead almost) and came on deck; but on being called to order, fell in and remained so, thus enabling the seamen to get out what boats were left.

"My instructions from the captain were to man my boat and pull off and await orders, which never came. I heard after that he was struck by a falling spar and killed. My boat's crew and myself picked up thirty-two in all, and we pulled till daylight, when we came across the second cutter and gig, and we sighted a sail in the offing. The ship's doctor, who was one of the saved, called for seamen to man the gig and pull toward her. Eight of us volunteered, and we pulled out, but could not attract her attention, so we decided not to venture any further.

"Fish Bay was our landing place, and fortunately for us the postmaster's daughters of Caledon had just finished bathing and were about to return home. They were very kind and provided us with some coffee and bread, which was very acceptable. After we had tramped to Caledon we were sent to Simon's Town, and then to Algoa Bay, our naval station. We were brought back to England on the Amazon."

Thomas Coffin was indeed a son of the sea, for he was actually born on a battleship, H.M.S. Pitt, of which his father was shipkeeper. In the natural course of events he entered the navy, saw active service on the coast of Syria, was with the Naval Brigade in the Crimea, and fought in the China war of 1860. In 1871, as a quartermaster he left the service of his country.

FISH THAT GLOW.

Some Deep Sea Creatures Able to Shed a Phosphorescent Light.

The inhabitants of the ocean vary in many respects, according to the depth at which they live, but most of all in their powers of vision. Fish that live at very great depths have either no eyes at all or enormously big ones. There are two methods of getting about in the gloomiest abysses—by delicate organs of touch and sight—that collects the few rays of light due to phosphorescence or other accidental sources.

The fish which live near the top of the ocean have smaller eyes than those say eighty fathoms down. One hundred and twenty fathoms deeper, where daylight disappears, the eyes are bigger still. Beyond the depth of 200 fathoms small eyes prevail, with long feelers to supplement them.

At this depth, in fact, sight is practically useless. In the greatest abysses the fish are usually blind, feeling their way about solely by means of their sensitive bodies. Some, indeed, show signs externally of having once possessed eyes, but that is all.

In others—the oldest and most confirmed abysmal species—the eye has disappeared altogether externally, though traces of it are still to be recognized, embedded deeply in the tissues of the head.

Many deep sea fish have a curious system of hollows in the skull or about the body which hold a kind of phosphorescent slime. Others have round or oval shining opalescent spots placed on the head or along the body or tail.

All of them are abundantly supplied with nerves, and they are apparently organs for the production of phosphorescent light. If so, such a fish must swim about surrounded by a faint glow, somewhat like that thrown by luminous paint.

One scientist even suggests that these fish may have the power of directing their rays in any direction like a searchlight.

Courtship Was Hasty.

A young laborer appeared before the Kilmallock (County Limerick) guardians at their last meeting, and expressed a desire to marry one of the women in the workhouse. He explained that he had not a house, and that he did not want one until he had made sure of getting a wife. Further, he informed the chairman that he did not care whether he married a spinster or a widow with two or three children.

The workhouse master, a guardian, and the suitor then left for the workhouse to select the wife. A number of women were assembled in the hall, and after a few moments the young man made his choice. The guardian hurried back to his colleagues and announced, "It's settled; the girl has consented."

The clerk asked the suitor to postpone the happy event for a week, but he appeared to be in a hurry. "It is not possible that I could," he replied, "I'll come down to-morrow." He came and the ceremony was duly performed.

Chicago, April 8. — An attempt is said to have been made last night to assassinate Police Inspector Edward McCann and the police have arrested 30 or 40 persons, who are claimed to have been implicated. The officer has recently been active in the "Red Light" district in suppressing opium dens and controlling houses of ill repute.

Will Protect the Fish

Hastings will likely have a Fish and Game Protective Association formed by the time the close season starts, and the fish are coming up to the dam. Last year the fishing out of season was without a doubt the worst that has ever been known here, and perhaps anywhere else. Those forming the association have come to the conclusion that it is time to call a halt and do something to preserve the fish.—Star.

A Fine Animal Disposed of

Yesterday morning a magnificent bull, fed by Mr. Bruce Savagery, of Dranoke, was sold to Messrs. Morris & Brown, the local cattle dealers, for export trade. The bull which turned the scales at 2,300, would easily have weighed 2,500 had it been in its normal, fat condition. The huge brute is a half brother to "Lord Chesterfield," the sweepstakes winner at the Toronto Exhibition. It was shipped to Montreal yesterday afternoon.

A Fourth Term in the Central

A Lindsay despatch of yesterday says that Frederick Mallory, well known in Lindsay, Port Hope, Peterborough, and Niagara, who was charged with stealing a coonskin coat, the property of Abraham Watson, of Ambray, was sentenced for the fourth time by Magistrate Jackson to be kept at hard labor two years less one day in the Central Prison. He was arrested for drunkenness at Port Hope and spent ten days in Cobourg gaol recently, and was brought back long weeks to answer to this charge.

Starts a Candy Factory

Mrs. Domitrie, of Montreal, who owns candy stores here and in other places throughout Ontario, has opened a large wholesale confectionery works on Boulevard street, Montreal. The name of the new establishment is the Olympic Candy Works Manufacturing Company. A large staff of expert hands will be employed, and none but goods of high grade, but all prices will be made. As it is the local store of Domitrie Bros. makes all their own goods, still the recently opened works will enable this firm to supply their branch stores with advantage to themselves and their customers.

Petition for a Local Detective

A petition is being circulated throughout the city asking the police commissioners to appoint a detective on the local police force. Many residents and other ratepayers, recognizing the necessity for such an official for the proper protection of life and property, and the detection of crime when committed, are signing the petition. As soon as the petition is sufficiently signed it will be handed to the city clerk and by him laid before the police commissioners, who will give it their serious consideration. Of course there are some who think that a present member of the police force is as fully qualified to do detective work as any man given this exclusive branch.

Local Citizen for the U. S.

Possibly no more name is more familiar to those who attend sessions of the local police court regularly than that of William Richards. This man has expressed his determination to shake from his feet the dust not only of Peterborough but of Canada. He will go to be enfold under the shadow of the protecting wings of the great American Eagle. Richards will join his wife in Toronto to-day or early to-morrow, and the couple will go to Uncle Sam's broad domains. Whilst sorry to have her population decreased by even one citizen, Peterborough will not throw sombre Cupid emblems of mourning to the breeze.

New Brickyard for Youngs Point

The thriving little hamlet of Young's Point is to have a real live factory to add to the present prosperity enjoyed by its residents during the tourist season. Mr. Walter Young of Smith, near that village, intends opening a cement brick factory on the gravel pit on his farm in a short time. He has purchased a brick machine from the London Cement Brick Company, which has a capacity of 8,000 bricks daily. The gravel from this pit is drawn for miles for building purposes, including foundations, piers, wharves and concrete work of all kinds. Mr. Young will soon have a stock of brick on hand ready for delivery. He has already received orders, and believes the demand will be good for the coming season. The brickyard is situated about a quarter of a mile from the dock, and affords easy facilities for shipment. This new brickyard will tend towards assisting not only those directly concerned, but in making freight for the steamers and scows plying from the Point to Lakefield —Messrs. George Quackenbush and Claude Sherwood, of Peterborough, intend opening a clothes cleaning, repairing, pressing and dyeing plant in Jiffy block during the next week. —Havelock Standard.

—Service of preparatory to Communion were held in St. Andrew's Church last night at eight o'clock. The choir met shortly before eight. There was a quartette of mixed voices, and Miss Glendenning also sang. The session in the vestry at 7.30. Free-will offering was for relief of Poor Fund.

That languid, lifeless feeling that comes with spring and early summer, can be quickly changed to a feeling of buoyancy and energy by the judicious use of Dr. Shoop's Restorative.

The Restorative is a genuine tonic to tired, run-down nerves, and but a few doses is needed to satisfy the user that Dr. Shoop's Restorative is actually reaching that tired spot. The indoor life of winter nearly always leads to sluggish bowels, and to sluggish circulation in general. The customary lack of exercise and outdoor air ties up the liver, stagnates the kidneys, and oft-times weakens the heart's action. Use Dr. Shoop's Restorative a few weeks and all will be changed. A few days test will tell you that you are using the right remedy. You will easily and surely note the change from day to day. Sold by all dealers.

—Peterborough housewives who kick so strenuously about local market prices may feel better when it is noted that in Port Hope a proverbially cheap town to live in, chickens are quoted at from $1 to $1.50 per pair, and butter at 34 cents per pound.

—Lindsay Collegiate Institute has suspended several students for smoking during school hours. If the pupils were smoking cigarettes they got off easy as such a crime, in the minds of many, is deserving of at least electrocution or marriage to an automatic female phonograph.

—Port Hope does not seem to be an elysium for peddlers. One that tried to sell paper and envelopes in that town, was ordered to "move on" by Chief Bond. Chief Bond keeps an eagle eye on such competitors with our local merchants who pay rent, taxes, etc., and very properly.

—The relief fund of the Children's Aid Society has again been helped to the extent of five dollars, given by Mr. J. E. A. Fitzgerald. If this society receives a sufficient sum it will re-open the relief restaurant for two more weeks.

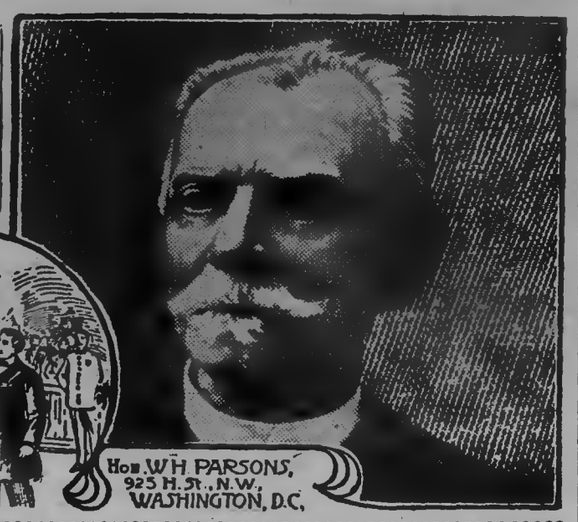
The many friends of Mrs. De Codin Smith, corner of Simcoe and Stewart streets, will be pleased to learn that she is progressing favorably. The doctor in attendance hopes to remove the splints from her fractured limb next week.

JUDGE OF THE SUPREME COURT

Suffered Four Months From the After-Effects of the Grip--Relieved By Pe-ru-na.

The grip more than any other disease in the world leaves the system in a run-down, nervous, bloodless condition.

Peruna has become famous in relieving the deplorable condition which the grip produces.



HON. W. H. PARSONS, 925 H. St., N.W., WASHINGTON, D.C.

Catarrh Victims Susceptible.

People who have had catarrh of the head, throat, nose or lungs are much more liable to catch the grip than other people.

The reason for this is that the mucous membranes of the head, nose, throat or lungs are injured by the catarrh and the germs which cause the grip find easy entrance into the system.

It is a well established fact that perfectly sound mucous membranes constitute a barrier to the entrance of disease germs.

The best precaution any one can have against the grip is to be perfectly free from catarrh.

Peruna a Preventive.

As a preventive of grip, Peruna has done a great deal of good in the world by its beneficial effect upon the mucous membranes.

Catarrh has another untoward influence to be noticed in connection with the grip.

Victims of catarrh who have had the grip find themselves after the acute stages have passed, in very weakened and deplorable conditions.

After-Effects of Grip.

The whole nervous system is impaired; the digestive organs deranged; the circulation of the blood feeble and irregular. All these symptoms are produced, more or less, by the grip, and especially in people who have had catarrh previous to the grip.

W. H. Parsons is Ex-State Senator and Ex-Special Judge of the Supreme Court of Texas, and was also Brigadier-General in Confederate Army. In a letter from 925 H street, N. W., Washington, D. C., this prominent gentleman says:

"Upon the recommendation of personal friends and many strong testimonials as to the efficacy of Peruna in the treatment of the numerous symptoms of the grip with which I have been afflicted for four months past, I have been induced to undergo a treatment with this justly celebrated formula. I feel a decided change for the better after using it only one week.

"It is especially good in toning up the stomach and has a decided effect upon my appetite. I therefore feel much encouraged that I am on the road to complete restoration.

"My numerous friends in Texas, where I have had the honor to command a brigade of her Veteran Cavalry in a four years' war, may accept this voluntary testimonial to the merits of Peruna as a sense of obligation on my part for its wonderful efficacy."—W. H. Parsons.

It is no longer merely a theory or an assertion that Peruna is applicable to such cases.

Prompt Relief.

In all of the after-effects of the grip, Peruna gives prompt relief. This has been the experience of such a great multitude of people that Peruna has come to be a standard remedy for these cases.

If a person has not used Peruna to prevent the grip, the next best thing is to use Peruna to remove the after-effects of the grip.

A Safe, Reliable Remedy.

Even during the acute stages of the grip, Peruna taken in small, oft-repeated doses, is so efficient that many people use nothing else.

It has been noticed that those who take Peruna during the first stages of the grip generally make a more rapid and complete recovery.

A Most Effective Medicine For La Grippe.

Robt. L. Madison, A. M., Principal of Cullowhee High School, Painter, N. C., is chairman of the Jackson County Board of Education. He is a writer of occasional verse and has contributed to a number of leading papers and magazines.

In speaking of Peruna, Mr. Madison says: "I am hardly ever without Peruna in my home. It is the most effective medicine that I have ever tried for la grippe. It also cured my wife of nasal catarrh."

INS AND OUTS

After the bar-rooms are all wiped out, and the race tracks are doing no more business, the reformers may consider it necessary to check the bridge whist evil and raid the women's afternoon teas.

As the street car was stopping at Central Park, an old lady, not accustomed to travelling, hailed the passing conductor and asked:

"Conductur, what door shall I get out by?"

"Either door, ma'am," graceously answered the conductor. "This car stops at both ends."

The editor of the Examiner says that he is out of politics. This we think does not need an X-ray to see through some people.

The King of Gasuno, who is a cannibal, wants a couple of journalists to conduct newspapers in that country. This great family journal is willing to sacrifice both its little local contributors in order to satisfy his majesty.

The editor of the Review says that he knows the people of Peterborough. Perhaps he does, but, dear boy, you never can discover a man's true nature until you permit him to owe you money.

An item recently appeared on the sporting page of the Examiner giving particulars of a wife-beating case. Our little contemporary always did have queer ideas of sport.

The Bank of Nova Scotia owns a printing office and does its own printing. Our tanks would, no doubt, enter a vigorous kick if the printers started a bank to do their own banking.

There is a crying demand for reform of bridge whist rules. Like all other games, the howling need is for some rule by which the loser will not have to lose.

Peterborough water is dangerous. If you fall in it you get drowned. If you drink it you may get typhoid.

The Knights of Columbus say that the new bowling alley, which is directly over their club rooms, is a risky affair. Bowling alleys to be noiseless, should not be up in the air. But how can there be a high old time otherwise?

HAND TERRIBLY MANGLED.

Doctor Withdrew his Remedies in favor of Zam-Buk.

MR. AB. WHEELER, BELLEVILLE

Mr. Ab. Wheeler, Marine and Stationary Engineer, of 145 Front St., Belleville, Ont., says: "Two months ago, while employed in a steam laundry in this city, my left hand became caught and was accidentally drawn into a hot mangle. As soon as possible the machinery was stopped and my hand was extricated, but not before the flesh on the palm of the hand was literally cooked to the bone and the fingers flattened out of shape. However, quite soon after the accident my hand and arm became frightfully swollen to the elbow and the hand presented a shocking sight. No one can imagine what I now suffered and endured. Not only was it hard to bear on account of the cruel pains, but it was a great shock to my nervous system. It was some time after the injury before the cooked flesh could be removed from the palm and then only a very little at a time. As soon as all this had been well removed, healing balms were applied, but as the improvement was so slow I obtained permission from the Doctor for Zam Buk to be used exclusively, as several of my men friends (having previously used it for severe injuries) spoke in the highest terms of its unusual healing qualities and urged me to give it a trial. From the commencement Zam-Buk soothed and relieved the pains and drew out the soreness. I now began to enjoy good nights rest and sleep. In about three weeks time the palm of my hand was nicely healed over, two daily application of this wonderful remedy Zam-Buk, and all inflammation and swelling was thoroughly banished from both hand and arm."

Jealous Rage was the Cause--Jno. Dillon Blames the Landlady

Montreal, April 11.—John Dillon, the murderer of Constable Shea, once more broke silence in the General Hospital this morning, and to Detective Duse, who was on guard, he told a remarkable story of the events leading up to the tragedy.

Dillon said that for the past four years he has been paying attention to Mrs. Pritchard, his landlady. On the morning of the tragedy Mrs. Pritchard informed him that she was to be married to another man in the course of the next three months.

"This statement," said Dillon, "threw me into a violent frenzy, and I determined that this would not take place, and told her so. In reply to this Mrs. Pritchard stated that she was determined that our friendship should come to an end, and that she would marry the man she spoke of. I retorted in heat, and Mrs. Pritchard replied by ordering me to get out of the house within four hours. I answered that I would not get out for her, and further that she could not put me out." It was then that Mrs. Pritchard took the unfortunate determination to go to the police station and get out a warrant for me. She is to blame for the whole affair, and if she had not acted as she did, Constable Shea would have been alive to-day."

Five Brothers

All Thought They Knew Good Coffee

An amusing story comes from a western town. It shows how possible it is for not only one man to be mistaken about a matter, but even both the same mistaken at once.

"Thirteen years ago, while a Colonel but in bed with a wound received in battle, unable to attend to business, I had a bad trouble and did bad.

"Desiring to consult a specialist, I told my wife I was going to Chicago for a few days on business, not saying what the main reason was.

"On arriving in the city I went to see a man on a small matter and had to climb two flights of stairs. I thought I would never get to the top. I could only go up two or three steps at a time and did this by hanging on to the railing. When I got to the man's office, I was so exhausted I had to rest before I could state my errand.

"Next morning I sought out my specialist. He looked in my eyes, asked me if I used tobacco, or intoxicating liquors. I said no. Ever drink coffee? Yes, always have, in fact, it is said the doctor. Why, man, I gasped, what will I live on? Did you ever drink Postum, he asked. I said No. Then he asked me where I was stopping and sent me to a restaurant with instructions to have them make me Postum."

"Well, you just stop it entirely. all I live on these days.

"So I took my meals there and really liked Postum from the start. I stayed more than ten days and went home feeling much better. I could sleep and that "gone" feeling had gone, sure enough. When I arrived at home I just picked up my suit case and walked home from the depot as spry as a kitten and I'll notsoon forget the happy surprised look on my wife's face.

"When she opened the suit case, she found two packages of Postum. She laughed at me and said we could get plenty at the store. I had always been finicky about my coffee, and my four brothers were all acquainted with the fine Java my wife used to make.

"We were all bankers and got together sometimes for a visit. About this time they all happened to be at our house and remarked that they expected some of Nettie's fine coffee. She called me out and said we must have some coffee.

"Make Postum just as you have been doing, I said. The boys were all about, as I had been from drinking coffee. They complimented my wife on her "Java" and drank two cups apiece.

"After dinner she told them it was not Java. What! No, it was Postum. Then she told them of my complete recovery since quitting coffee and using Postum. They all went away determined to quit coffee, and we are all to-day enjoying the pink of good health, and we attribute it largely to the use of Postum."

Duke's Fame May Sway the King

Rome, April 8.—Although the reported [illegible] of the Duke of the Abruzzi to the daughter of the American Senator Elkins has occasioned grave displeasure in certain quarters, there is good reason for stating that King Victor Emmanuel himself is not seriously averse to the marriage.

The Italian monarch's private sentiments in these matters are strongly democratic and even socialistic in their trend. Both King Victor and Queen Margherita cherish personal pride and affection for the intrepid royal explorer, [illegible] important point, of view [illegible] possible obstacle to the King's [illegible] [illegible], especially since the [illegible] succession to the throne [illegible] remote, seeing that, besides the Crown Prince Humbert, both the Duke of Aosta and the Count of Turin have prior rights.

Apart from these considerations, it is pointed out that the young duke's father, Amadeus of Aosta, is [illegible] with the full consent of Victor Emmanuel II, the [illegible] of Genoa, who, though not of royal blood, eventually ascended the throne of Spain. The uncle of the Austrian Archduke Franz Ferdinand, and the nephew of Napoleon III. with [illegible] Montijo the Empress Eugenie are also cited.

Britain May Purchase Two Big Battleships

London, April 8.—It is [illegible] that the Admiralty is considering the [illegible] two big [illegible] ships now being built in this country for Brazil. It is pointed out that Brazil has no need for two such powerful ships, which, in addition to their original [illegible] will be expensive to maintain. It is certain that Great Britain will buy the two vessels should this be the only way of preventing their falling into the hands of another European power.

Rio Janeiro, April 7.—Information obtained from an official source today, leads to the belief that Italy is ready to sell to the Argentine Republic for $20,000,000 [illegible] battleships Regina Elena, Napoli and Rome. Argentina is thought to be contemplating this increase in her navy to counterbalance the projects of Brazil to augment her strength at sea.

Mme. Penna, wife of the President of Brazil, will christen by proxy the Minas Geraes, the big battleship which has been built for Brazil at Newcastle-on-Tyne, and which is to be launched April 21. She is to be represented at the launching by Dr. Regis de Oliveira, the Brazilian Minister to Great Britain.

It was announced from London last August that the Brazilian Government had placed orders for three new battleships in England at an approximate cost of $9,000,000 each. These vessels were, in addition to the two cruisers, to cost $1,650,000 each. At the same time, it was said that Argentine had ordered three gunboats from England.

Advocates the Trent Valley Canal as Sportman's Waterway

Kelly Evans Addresses Bobcaygeon Citizens on Protection of Fish and Game

Convention in Toronto

Bobcaygeon, April 11. — A meeting took place in the town, Bobcaygeon, this afternoon, at which business men, boatmen and farmers were well represented to hear Kelly Evans and OOliver Adams of Toronto give an account of the last year's work of the Ontario Fish and Game Protective Association throughout the province.

Previous meetings have been held at Kingston and Lindsay within the past ten days, towns situated on the route of the Trent Valley Canal, and Kelly Evans has in each case roused much enthusiasm and interest by advocating a policy of the Trent Canal when completed being made a grand sportsman's waterway joining the Bay of Quinte to Georgian Bay, by the Government properly protecting the game fish of that region.

It pointed out to the meeting at Bobcaygeon that there was little chance of the town becoming a manufacturing or business centre and that the greatest opportunity in sight was taking advantage of the beautiful location occupied, if in addition could be added the attraction of really good bass fishing, and so attract visiting tourists and sportsmen in large numbers.

Once the Trent Canal was completed, if the residents along its route would only properly protect the game fishing, a perfect fleet of house boats, steam yachts and boats of all kinds would pass through the region, depend ut on the residents for their necessary supplies.

Large sums of money would be spent and added prosperity enjoyed.

The speakers were assured by the local president that Bobcaygeon could be depended upon to send a full delegation to the convention at Toronto on the 21st inst.

Ladies Serve Sandwiches and Coffee in Place of Beer

Chicago, April 11.—More than 2,000 saloons were voted out of existence for the next two years in Illinois this week. Temperance was the issue in nearly every city and town of the State, and so generally was Town Pump the victor over Demond Alcohol that reform has taken new courage and determined next November to finish drying up Illinois. Wherever saloons were not abolished, they will be mad the issue in the fall elections, regardless of whether Illinois' favorite won or any one else is the candidate for president.

It was a campaign of exhortation and prayer that reached the height of frenzy at the polls. Women and old men prayed all day in their homes and in their churches. Patticoated wire-pullers towed voters to the polls and served sandwiches and coffee as counter attractions to free beer offered by the saloonkeepers, in towns where liquor was on its last legs.

Springfield, Aurora and Danville were the liveliest battle grounds. They went "wet," together with Joliet, Bloomington, Rock Island and Freeport.

Authorities Must Supply Fruit or See Prisoners Starve

Port Arthur, April 11.—Should the Doukhobors, who are now confined in the district jail here awaiting transportation to Central Prison and Mercer Reformatory at Toronto persist in the course they have adopted, and the prison officials decline to break the rules, nothing can result other than the death of the Doukhobors by starvation. From previous experience it would not be surprising if, to save them from death, it would be the policy of officials who would have to submit to the demands of the others. The prisoners refuse altogether to eat anything on the jail bill of fare. They will touch nothing that has been prepared by cooking, and a mand fruit, peanuts, apples and prunes, though not turning oranges. They will not even clothe themselves or as much as clean out their own cells, and this passive resistance make them most difficult to deal with.

It is expected a special car will be procured to take them to Toronto

C. L. A. Amendments

Toronto, April 10. — Several very important amendments are to be submitted to the annual convention of the C. L. A., which takes place on Good Friday. The retiring president, Mr. H. S. Cameron, of Beaverton, has several amendments for consideration and the fact that he gained an inside knowledge of the merits of the game, as applied to the big association, will carry some weight with the delegates. One of his proposals is that a referee may appoint a judge or [illegible] if he thinks it advisable. This rule is in vogue in the N.L.U., and has worked out very satisfactorily. His amendment in the residence rule is right beyond question.

Other amendments [illegible] by such well known experts of the national game as Oscar S. Beg. of Hespeler; Dr. W. A. Groves, of Fergus; James A. Murphy, J. St. Owen, Woody Tugent and F. C. Wagborne, of Toronto, and Peter McMillan, of Beaverton, will be thrashed out, and it is safe to say that the constitution will be brought up to date in every way.

MEDALS FOR JUNIORS.

In addition to the foregoing Fred Wagborne will bring up the question of presenting the winners of the junior series with medals, as is done in the O.H.A.

Menzie School May be Secured For Public Library

A rumor was current around the city yesterday that the Menzie school property was to be purchased for a public library site, and a park. An article appeared in Saturday's issue of The Times, stating that the Menzie building was to be torn down and the estate sold for building lots. In fact excavation work was commenced on one of the lots on Saturday, where a house was to be erected.

The intention is to re-purchase the old lot that has been sold, tear down the fence surrounding the property, and so beautify the grounds to make the spot an ideal one for the intended purpose.

Street Services Will Commence Today at Noon

St. John's Church was crowded to the doors at the morning service yesterday, Palm Sunday, when the rector, Rev. Canon Davidson, took the service. Mr. Davidson gave notice that street services will be held daily throughout the week. These services, which will be of about a quarter of an hour's duration, will be held at the noon hour on the corner of George and Hunter streets. The rector himself will officiate at the noon hour service to-day. As noted, these services will be held at the spot mentioned except on Good Friday, when the service will be held in Central Park at three o'clock in the afternoon. He asked for the hearty co-operation of his congregation in making these street services a success. The holding of them is to call the attention of Christians throughout the city, particularly those belonging to other Protestant denominations to Holy Week. On Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday services will be held as usual in the church at 5 p.m. On Monday, Wednesday and Friday services will be held in the church at 8 p.m., and on Good Friday in the church at 11 a.m., in addition to the open air afternoon service in Central Park.

Nothing too Big Or too Small

Berlin, April 8.— The remarkable and interesting announcement is made that Emperor William has entered into a species of partnership with the firm of Wertheim, owners of the great stores in Leipzigerstrasse, which is one of the sights of Berlin.

While his majesty was visiting the Museum of Applied Arts, one of the brothers Wertheim was presented to him, and it is now intimated that they have undertaken to furnish the sum of $12,500 with which to procure models for the emperor's pottery at Cadinen.

The work of electing the designers and superintending their work has been intrusted to Prof. Messel, architect of the Wertheims' splendid building, whose appointment to a government position, with the title of privy councilor, was regarded at the time as a sign of the inclination of imperial favor in the direction of that modern art from which it had hitherto been supposed to be resolutely turned.

Articles fashioned from the new models in the emperor's factory at Cadinen will be offered for sale in the Wertheim stores.

News in Brief

New York, April 7.—Mrs. Alfred G Vanderbilt, who gave testimony yesterday before Referee David McClure in her suit for divorce, continued her story to-day.

Every effort apparently is being made to expedite proceedings and it seems likely that the reference will soon be in possession of all the evidence.

There has been much comment since the commencement of the divorce action on the fact that Mrs. Vanderbilt, when in this city has made her headquarters at the home of her husband's mother, Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, Sr. It was from the elder Mrs. Vanderbilt's home that she went to the hearing yesterday to give the evidence upon which her suit is based. While there have been many stories to account for the younger Mrs. Vanderbilt's continued presence at the home of her mother-in-law the one most generally accepted is that Alfred's mother is making every effort to bring about an an amicable adjustment of the trouble.

St. Petersburg, April 8.— As many as 15 suicides in a single day have lately been reported in St. Petersburgh. Many of these occur in public in the most dramatic circumstances.

A few days ago a student shot himself in a box at the Imperial Opera, during one of the concluding scenes of "The Queen of Spades". He was the sole occupant of the box and during the performance was seen to smell repeatedly at a beautiful bouquet of flowers which he had with him. In this bouquet was concealed a revolver, and at the last he lifted the flowers to his face and pulled the hidden trigger, dropping back dead in the box amid a scene of confusion and terror.

The day before yesterday Lieut.-Col. Kovalevsky shot himself in one of the rooms of a fashionable restaurant. At a skating rink, where the skaters included a large number of children, one of the performers in the orchestra drew a revolver during an interval and took his life in full view of everybody.

Washington, D. C., April 7. — President Roosevelt told a delegation from the North Carolina Peace Society yesterday that he is red hot for arbitration — and battleships. Moreover, peace societies that are not in favor of battleships jeopardize the national welfare and are really hostile to the country's best interests. Arbitration was a great thing, but battleships were needed to make it effective. Mr. Hayne Davis, president of the society, told the President that down in old North State they are all for arbitration, but believe in a powerful navy too, to help persuade other fellows to arbitrate, and to help enforce the award of arbitrators as well.

Minister of Militia to Attend Ceremony

As foretold last week in The Times arrangements are in progress for holding the ceremony of laying the new Armouries foundation stone. The ceremony promises to be of great interest and in keeping with the magnitude of the building in question. The local troops, including the 57th Regiment, 24th Field Battery and 3rd Prince of Wales Dragoons will take part in the exercises. It is expected that the City Council and military officers will meet to-day to arrange for the ceremony. Sir Frederick Borden, Minister of Militia, will be present and take part in the ceremonies. Whilst the exact date has not yet been settled it will probably be on April 21st.

Respected Asphodel Farmer Has Gone

One of the oldest and most respected farmers of the township of Asphodel has passed away in the person of Mr. John Herr, who died on Friday at the age of 84 years. The late Mr. Herr was born in Ireland, and coming to Canada as a small boy with his parents, settled in Asphodel, where he has since resided. The deceased some fifty years ago married Catherine English of the same township, who survives him. There are left to mourn his loss, besides his wife, three sons and five daughters. They are Michael, James and John of Asphodel, and Mrs. Thomas Roach of Westwood, Mrs. J. J. Devlin of East City, Mrs. Michael McManus of Douro, and Catherine and Mary at home. The late Mr. Herr was a Liberal in politics, and in religion a Roman Catholic. The funeral will be held this morning from the homestead to the Ladies' Literary Society, among other Norwood Catholic cemetery.

The Fire Brigade Further Discussed

Editor Daily Times:

In your paper a few days ago I saw a letter about the proposed change in the local fire brigade that should be read by every taxpayer in the city. The idea of this change is thought by many to be a chance for a number of the council to get the position held for over a quarter of a century by Chief Rutherford. Whether this is so or not will be speculated. The more important thing though is the ridiculous idea of spending over $8000 a year on a brigade now run for a quarter of that amount, and then at the higher price, containing only three active regular firemen. If you can judge by what the present members of the brigade say, very few of them will act the call-men to work along with regular salaried men. Is this new system giving either Chief Rutherford or the brigade a square deal? Everybody knows that the present volunteer brigade, under Chief Rutherford, at small pay, has done good work. We have had few bad fires but what were put out quick. The council should think twice before increasing the expenses of fire-fighting by several thousand dollars a year, unless the people get a better brigade, and I do not think this can be done by a half paid and half volunteer brigade. Will the call-men take orders from a regular paid chief or his assistant, as they do from a man serving like themselves?

Buried With Military Honors

On Saturday morning in a heavy north wind the funeral of the late Quartermaster-Sergeant Richard A. Boyle, held under military auspices, was witnessed by many citizens. Shortly after nine o'clock the remains of the deceased, covered by the Union Jack he had borne arms for, were laid reverently on a gun carriage and were drawn past the firing party who presented arms, the bugle sounding "First Post." On the coffin were the helmet and belt of the departed soldier. To escort the body to the last sad ceremony forty-eight men of the battery and twenty-six of the 57th Regiment turned out under command of Lieuts. Leary and McDonough and Brig.-Sergt. Major Fee of the battery and Sergt.-Major Britton of the 57th.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES

No Frog Catching in Victoria County

An order-in-council was passed prohibiting the catching of frogs in Victoria county during the months of May and June. Large numbers of fishermen think there is unfair discrimination against their rights, as these amphibious reptiles may be caught during these months every year in close season in Ontario. Still what is to be done is the case of the small army of frog catchers who every summer make their living down the Otonabee and ship from here to New York.

Caught many Musk Rats

Fishery Inspector Dave Johnston is busy on the trail of musk rats down the Otonabee river. On Saturday he returned to the city in his canoe, from a trapping trip, and brought some twenty-five or twenty-six fine rats with him. As the pelts are worth forty cents each, the eagle-eyed protector of our down-river fish and game made about $10 in a few hours outing. Mr. Johnston has caught nearly one hundred and fifty musk rats so far this spring.

Water Supply of East Ward Off

On Saturday the tile drain in the East Ward across Hunter street, opposite the McAllister Mill, sank some two and a half feet on account of earth pressing upon it. This led to bad complications, and water was backed on the land to the north, flooding it. It was thought the water main was burst, also, as the supply to our young ward was cut off. This break was repaired on Saturday, and on Sunday the earth again caved compelling a large staff of men to work all day yesterday.

Medicine in the Spring Needed by Everyone

Winter Weakens the System, Saps the Blood, Leaves Us Tired and Thin

Great epidemics break out in spring, such as fevers, pestilence, and infectious skin diseases.

Winter shuts us in from air and only the most robust get even a little sunshine. As a consequence of this unnatural mode of life, the blood becomes polluted, thin, colorless. Then we grow ill-tempered, dull, easily tired, have headaches and find our work a burden.

Reduced to this condition we become an easy prey to disease and fill hospitals and churchyards.

To rapidly form rich blood, to expel the accumulated humors that winter has stored up in the system, to call back the energy, endurance and vim that will make life joyous, just take Ferrozone, a spring cleanser, unequalled in medicine.

Ferrozone purifies by rebuilding nerve tissue and vitalizing the blood. The entire system soon feels the beneficient action of new rich blood; slow organs are stimulated to normal activity, expel poisons and wastes from tiffully, harmonious working of the system. Weak folks are restored and health becomes as natural a consequence as growth from moisture and sunlight.

Men and women fortify your nerves with Ferrozone, renew the blood through its marvelous blood-forming power, regain vigorous and enduring strength by its action upon appetite and digestion. Use Ferrozone if you want to be strong.

"I increased my weight seven pounds in one month and regained health that had been lost for two years—did this by using Ferrozone," writes Mrs. C. B. Mayhew, of Centertown. "Ferrozone brought me restful sleep and good digestion, enabled me to relish my meals and work hard all day. I consider it the finest tonic, the most nourishing medicine I ever used."

Try Ferrozone yourself, 50c per box or six boxes for $2.50, at all dealers.

News in Brief

New Haven, Conn., April 8.—Rev. D. Newmar. Smyth has written a book which asserts that Protestantism has passed into decay and is to be succeeded by modernized Catholicism. As he is pastor of Centre Congregational Church, the oldest church in Connecticut, and is a member of the Yale corporation or university governing body, his book has made a great stir. It is divided into three parts—"Protestant divided into three parts—"Passing Protestantism," "Mediating Modernism and "Coming Catholicism."

While he sees the beginning of the end of the Protestant movement, when it comes to the future of Catholicism Dr. Smyth by no means takes ground with the representatives of the Roman Catholic faith. The disintegration which is at work in Protestantism, is, according to Dr. Smyth, appearing in another form in Catholicism — that of modernism.

As to the future of Protestantism this quotation is typical of Dr. Smyth's general view :

"Facing the plain facts of life in view of the awful urgency of many considerations of modern civilization, can we hide from ourselves the conclusion that a church, disorganized and without unity of effort, waging a brave guerrilla warfare with no grand strategy, cannot be expected to overcome all unrighteousness or to bring the peace of God's love among all classes and considerations of men?"

St. Louis, April 8.—Missouri is in the throes of an eating contest. Several cities have entered their favorite sons for gastronomic honors, but none can compare with the record of George W. Kidd of Bismarck City, Mo.

While George consumes only eight to ten eggs to each meal, he holds the palm at eating fruit and candy. One evening shortly after a hearty supper George found that his appetite was not quite appeased, so he ate thirty-six bananas, sixty oranges and a pound of candy, and that he would not retire hungry.

"I really don't know how much I could eat," said George to-day, "because eating is expensive." He is 5 feet 10 inches tall and weighs 320 pounds.

The feat of John Giffen of Winstead, Conn., who ate fourteen eggs at one sitting, has been outdone by Frank Ryan of Whiteside, Me., who ate thirty-five at one sitting, and he had no had no thought of making a record. The next day Frank ate nineteen for supper. He likes them scrambled.

Rocky McBride of New London, Me., is willing to meet any man who thinks he can eat eggs.

A Highland Paradise

Among the Highlands of Ontario there are several districts that appeal to the tourist and summer traveller, but the most popular and probably the most beautiful of these districts is the one known as the "Lake of Bays", a territory covering many hundred square miles of land and water where the influx of summer travellers is increasing every year. Many an enthusiast has named the Lake of Bays "Queen of Lakes". It is a place where the cool breezes blow, where grows the spicy balsam and the graceful pines rear against the sky; where there are no swamps; where bathing is safe and where the speckled trout, salmon trout and black bass are found, and where the deer abound.

This charming district is situated on the line of the Grand Trunk Railway System and is reached through Huntsville, 146 miles north of Toronto.

A new hotel with accommodation for 200 has been erected and is conceded to be the best of the summer hotels in the northern districts. A handsome book, descriptive of the territory and giving all information as to guides, rates, routes, etc., and full description of the new hotel can be had free on application to J. D. McDonald, D. P. A. Union Station, Toronto, Ont.

NOW LISTEN!

Please read carefully what follows, and if you decide to take advantage of what the "Canada Southern Oil & Gas Co., Limited," o Tilbury, Ont (no personal liability), is now offering you, the result will be that instead of getting 3 per cent. for your savings, you will get at least from 10 to 25 per cent. that others are harvesting.

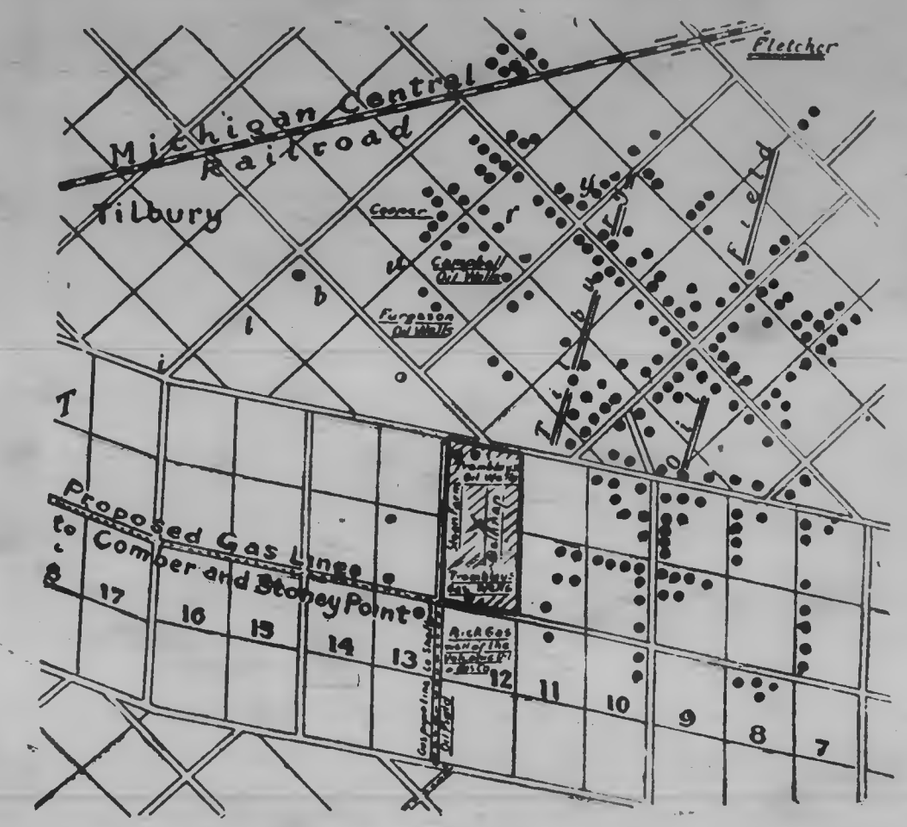
Your savings will be eight times more than the original amount by the mere fact of the higher rate of interest you will get.

Remember that this is no wildcat scheme, as you can see by the facts hereinafter mentioned.

Dr. Bel, the famous Canadian geologist, early in 1878 reported that there was an oil and gas field in the Townships of Tilbury and Romney County of Kent, Ont. As soon as the discovery of the oil was made in Tilbury in 1906, our American neighbors, who are experts in good things, did not hesitate to invest hundreds of thousands of dollars, and now, in fact, control the two-thirds interest in our oil field of Tilbury; and this happened because we Canadians hesitated to invest a few thousand dollars in the exploration of the oil mines of Tilbury, which already give a monthly production valued at $75,000, without adding the revenue derived from the gas.

have said that this is not a wildcat scheme, because the "Canadian Southern Oil & Gas Co., Limited," has secured an very moderate price on properties situated in the oil and gas field of Tilbury, upon which three successful tests have being Lot No. 12, M. R. N., Tilbury East, 200 acres, indicated with a cross upon the map of the field.

COUNTY of KENT, ONTARIO



Three wells only have been drilled at an average depth of 1,400 feet.

The first one proves to be a rich gas well, the two others are good oil wells, combined with a strong production of gas.

The Company has also secured the franchises for the distribution and sale of natural gas into the Townships of Romney, Tilbury East, North and West and also into the thriving villages of Comber and Stoney Point.

The gas well is properly equipped and already is supplying the motor power to the Romney oil field and is getting one-third of the gross revenue of the gas sold.

The oil wells are completely equipped with one 15 h. p. gas engine, derrick, tanks, boiler, pumps, tubing, pipe-line, jerk-line, jack, etc., and are producing daily. The oil is sold to The Imperial Oil Company, Sarnia, and is delivered at the tanks and shipped through its pipe-line to Port Marquette R. R. Station at Merlin, a distance of 3 miles.

Our properties are already giving daily a net revenue of about $55.00 —that is to say, more than 10 per cent. of the whole capital stock of the Company.

This revenue may be made four times greater by the drilling of other wells and the construction of the gas-line to Comber and Stoney Point.

Fritz Cirkel, Esq., of Montreal, consulting mining engineer and mining expert to the Dominion Government, who lately made an inspection of the said property, concluded his report as follows:

"In summarizing the actual results already obtained from the operations shown (wells the writer is forced to the conclusion that the property under consideration is a very valuable one. Located as it is in the western extremity of the producing Tilbury oil field, in close proximity to wells which produce from 40 to 50 barrels of oil (and even more) per day of 24 hours (I refer to the Ferguson Campbell and Cooper properties), located about 2,000 feet distant to the north, see plan attached hereto), it bids fair to become a producer of oil and natural gas of no small measure.

The Tilbury field has already the reputation of being a large producer and powerful companies have entered the district with a view of securing properties of known and established value.

There is one factor to which I would like to draw your special attention and that is the future of natural gas. To-day, the market in that in that part of the country, for this commodity is not sufficiently large to dispose of all the gas the wells can produce but there is no question that in the near future factories will be established on central points, which will eventually consume for various purposes, especially for power, all the gas which can be produced in the field.

Besides this there are quite a number of towns and villages in the western part of the Niagara Peninsula, which may use the gas for heating, lighting, and also for power purposes and it is only a question of time when this will be realized.

The economy of the application of natural gas to power purposes is already evidenced all through the field, as coal or any other power cannot be regularly obtained, and that at high figures. Having therefore, a powerful gas well on the (Sloan) property, it is evident that a great saving is effected from this source alone; for instance, for the operation of ten oil wells, the least of power required per day would amount to between twenty and twenty-five dollars, which, in 300 working days per year, would represent a saving of from six thousand to seven thousand five hundred dollars.

In conclusion, I may say that this property, with proper and economic management, can be made highly remunerative; I entertain, no doubt, that if properly developed, it will show similar results as those of so many other locations in the vicinity, whose developments have of so many other locations in the vicinity, whose developments have been so vigorously pushed in the past.

Respectfully submitted,
(Signed) FRITZ CIRKEL.

What they offer at 25c per Share for a short time

The property is situated at Mancos, Colo., and consists of 160 acres, fully paid for. The Company expects to secure at least 400 acres or more, we are negotiating for it now and the terms are satisfactory and there is coal on the same, and they also intend to secure some Coal Mines of which they have the refusal. Some of the best coal mines in Colorado are in this district, as well as some of the richest gold and silver mines. In fact this is one of the richest parts for mineral in the State of Colorado, and the Company has the refusal to several prospects on reasonable and easy terms.

In our opinion the prospects of the Company are very bright and a rapid advance in the price of the stock is sure to take place in the near future. Full in information can be had by calling at our office.

"It's a letter from 'im," said Mrs. Purr, thrusting the paper into Sylvia's hand. "Tho' 'ow he writes, not 'avin' bin to a board school, I dunno. He's in a ken at Lambith and ill at that. Wants me t' go an' see 'im. But I can't leave the ironin'."

"Yuss, y' can," said Deborah suddenly. "This erringd is necs'ary, Mrs. Purr, ma'am, so jes' put on your bonnet an' go to Mr. Hurd as 'as 'is office at Scottan' Yard and take 'im with you."

"Oh, but I couldn't"—

"You go," advised Mrs. Tawsey. "There's £5 offered for the brat's bein' found."

"Five pun!" gasped Mrs. Purr, trembling. "Lor', and me 'avin' a chanct of gittin' it. I'll go. I'll go. I knows the Yard, 'avin' 'ad summat to do with them dirty perlice in my time. Miss Sylvia"—

"Yes, go, Mrs. Purr, and see Mr. Hurd. He'll give you the £5 if you take him to Tray." Sylvia handed back the paper. "Tray seems to be ill."

"Ill or well, he shan't lose me five pun if I 'ave to drag 'im to the lockup m'self," said Mrs. Purr. She hurried out, hardly able to walk for excitement.

"There's a nice ole party fur you, Miss Sylvia?"

"Debby," said the girl thoughtfully, "you take her to the Yard to see Mr. Hurd and then go to Kensington to speak with your sister."

"Well, I'll go, as importance it is," said Mrs. Tawsey, rubbing her nose harder than ever. "But I 'opes you won't be lone, my poppet dovey."

"Oh, no," said Sylvia, kissing her and pushing her toward the door. "I'll look after those four women in the washhouse and read this new book I have. Then I must get tea ready for Paul, who comes at 4. The afternoon will pass quite quickly."

"I'll be back at 5 if I can and earlier if Matilder ain't what she oughter be," said Mrs. Tawsey, yielding.

In another quarter of an hour Mrs. Tawsey, dressed in her bridal gown and bonnet so as to crush Matilda with the sight of her splendor, walked down the garden path, attended by Mrs. Purr in a snuffy black shawl and a kind of cobweb on her head which she called a "bunnet."

Sylvia, left alone, proceeded to arrange matters. She went to the washhouse, which was detached from the cottage, and saw that four women, who worked under Deborah, were busy. She found them all chattering and washing in a cheerful way, so, after a word or two of commendation, she returned to the sitting room. Here she played a game of patience, arranged the tea things, although it was yet early, and finally settled down to one of Mrs. Wood's interesting novels.

Deborah had lighted a cheerful fire before she went that her mistress might be comfortable, so Sylvia sat down before this and read for an hour, frequently stopping to think of Paul and wonder if he would come at the appointed hour of 4 or earlier. What with the warmth and the reading and the dreaming she fell into a kind of doze, from which she was awakened by a sharp and peremptory knock. Wondering if her lover had unexpectedly arrived, although she did not think he would rap in so decided a manner, Sylvia rubbed the sleep out of her pretty eyes and hurried to the door. On the steps she came face to face with Miss Maud Krill.

"Do you know me, Miss Norman?" asked Maud, who was smiling and suave, though rather white in the face.

"Yes. You came with your mother to Gwynne street," replied Sylvia, wondering why she had been honored with a visit.

"Quite so. May I have a few minutes' conversation with you?"

"Certainly." Sylvia saw no reason to deny this request, although she did not like Miss Krill. But it struck her that something might be learned from that young woman relative to the murder and thought she would have something to tell Paul about when he arrived.

"Are you quite alone?" asked Maud, entering and seating herself in the chair near the fire.

"Quite," answered Sylvia coldly and wondering why the question was asked—"that is, the four washerwomen are in the place at the back. But Mrs. Tawsey went to your house to see her sister."

"She arrived before I left," said Maud coolly. "I saw them quarrelling in a most friendly way. Where is Mr. Bassett?"

"I expect him later."

"And Bart Tawsey, who assisted your nurse?"

"He is absent on his rounds. May I ask why you question me in this way, Miss Krill?" asked Sylvia coldly.

Heart Strength

Heart Strength, or Heart Weakness, means Nerve Strength, or Nerve Weakness—nothing more. Positively, not one weak heart in a hundred is, in itself, actually diseased. It is almost always a hidden tiny little nerve that really is all at fault. This obscure nerve—the Cardiac, or Heart Nerve—simply needs, and must have, more power, more stability, more controlling, more governing strength. Without that the Heart must continue to fail, and the stomach and kidneys also have these same controlling nerves.

This clearly explains why, as a medicine, Dr. Shoop's Restorative has in the past done so much for weak and ailing Hearts. Dr. Shoop first sought the cause of all this painful, palpitating, suffocating heart distress. Dr. Shoop's Restorative—this popular prescription—is alone directed to these weak and wasting nerve centers. It builds Strengthens; it offers real, genuine heart help.

If you would have strong Hearts, strong digestion, strengthen those Nerves—re-establish them as needed, with

Try Again for Health

The Dangerous Weakness That Follows Should be Cured Now

One of the oldest physicians, after closely studying spring tiredness, says it seems to seek out those who have had it year after year, and if the disorder is once contracted, one is very prone to contract it again.

The symptoms are common — no appetite — turn against your food, ache in back and limbs, nervous, and often melancholy, dyspeptic and languid.

"I had all the symptoms," writes Mrs. Eva E. Clarkson, well known in Chester. "I was discouraged, thought it too poorly to bother with medicine. But I tried again for health. I used Dr. Hamilton's Pills. The very sight of food used to turn me sick; now I eat and digest like a growing child. I used to feel bloodless and starved, now I am well nourished and gaining in flesh. My face was haggard, full eyes, dark circles; now I am animated, have pink cheeks, bright clear eyes. A hard cough that used to suck my chest is gone. But best of all is the feeling of buoyancy and good spirits that displaces the awful tired, drowsy, melancholy fits that come on, and always with splitting headache, too. I hope my letter will induce others to use Dr. Hamilton's Pills—such a good honest, bracing tonic should be in every home, both for children and parents' use."

You have a woman's work to do in life — you have only a woman's delicate organism to do it with. You'll be vastly assisted with Dr. Hamilton's Pills, because they are good for women just as they are good for men and children, too; 25c. at all dealers.

Rev. A. H. Brace Goes to Cobourg

Rev. A. H. Brace, who recently resigned the pastorate of Park Street Baptist Church, has received a unanimous call from the Cobourg Baptist Church, receiving the official notice while in Toronto. It will be remembered that a week ago yesterday Mr. Brace preached in Cobourg and made so favorable an impression that a prompt request for his services there was tendered to this energetic and popular pastor. He has signified his intention to accept the call and will begin his duties on May 10th. Mr. Brace is receiving many congratulations as the pastor-elect of Cobourg.

Another T. V. C. Contract Let

It is expected that work will be begun at once on Section 3, Ontario-Rice Lake division of the Trent Valley Canal, as the contract for that part of this great Canadian highway has been let to the Canadian Development Construction Co. of Montreal. The work to be done includes a lock and a dam, a half mile of rock excavation, enlarging of the present old dam at Chisholm's Rapids, and dredging the Trent River. The latter portion of the work consists of from three to four miles of river. The amount of money involved in this contract is estimated at $325,000.

That languid, lifeless feeling that comes with spring and early summer, can be quickly changed to a feeling of buoyancy and energy by the judicious use of Dr. Shoop's Restorative.

The Restorative is a genuine tonic to tired, run-down nerves, and but a few doses is needed to satisfy the user that Dr. Shoop's Restorative is actually mechanic that tired spot. The indoor life of winter nearly always leads to sluggish bowels, and to sluggish circulation in general. The customary lack of exercise and outdoor air ties up the liver, stagnates the kidneys, and oft-times weakens the heart's action. Use Dr. Shoop's Restorative a few weeks and all will be changed. A few days test will tell you that you are using the right remedy. You will easily and surely note the change from day to day. Sold by all dealers.

Of Interest To Women.

To such women as are not seriously out of health, but who have exacting duties to perform, either in the way of household cares or in social duties and functions, which seriously tax their strength, as well as to nursing mothers, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has proved a most valuable supporting tonic and invigorating nervine. By its timely use, much serious sickness and suffering may be avoided. The operating table and the surgeons' knife, would, it is believed, seldom have to be employed if this most valuable woman's remedy were resorted to in good time. The "Favorite Prescription" has proven a great boon to expectant mothers by preparing the system for the coming of baby, thereby rendering childbirth safe, easy, and almost painless.

Bear in mind, please that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is not a secret or patent medicine, against which the most intelligent people are quite naturally averse, because of the uncertainty as to their composition and harmless character, but is a MEDICINE OF KNOWN COMPOSITION, a full list of all its ingredients being printed, in plain English, on every bottle-wrapper. An examination of this list of ingredients will disclose the fact that it is non-alcoholic in its composition, chemically pure, triple-refined glycerine taking the place of the commonly used alcohol, in its make-up. In this connection it may not be out of place to state that the "Favorite Prescription" of Dr. Pierce is the only medicine put up for the cure of woman's peculiar weaknesses and ailments, and sold through druggists, all the ingredients of which have the unanimous endorsement of all the leading medical writers and teachers of all the several schools of practice, and that too as remedies for the ailments for which "Favorite Prescription" is recommended.

A little book of these endorsements will be sent to any address, post-paid, and absolutely free if you request same by postal card, or letter, of Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. Constipation is the cause of many diseases. Cure the cause and you cure the disease. Easy to take as candy.

PRINCE RUPERT, it is almost needless to make any lengthy description of this place for we all know its the terminus of the Grand Trunk Pacific it is on B. C. situated on Kian Island, at the mouth of the Fraser River. It is estimated that owing to the great rush of gold seekers and others seeking wealth and new locations that Prince Rupert will have a population of 2,000 before next winter.

HAZELTON is another almost equally promising a city, situated at the head of navigation on the Skeena River, on the main line of the Grand Trunk Pacific, also being the junction point of the Line from Dawson City. With these and other existing natural conditions and the prospects of a great development, it is looked upon as a great place to advance.

City Council Met in Special Session Last Night

The city council met in special session last night when there were present Mayor Rush and Ald Stevenson, Tovey, Ellis, Rush and Ald. Johnson, Tovey, Elliot, Morgan, Bullen, Bradburn, Gilchrist, Neill, McIntyre, Morrow and Phelan.

The salary of the city solicitor was fixed by by-law at $900.

Ald. Bradburn will officiate in connection of the Finance Committee during the two weeks' absence of Ald. Morrow.

Ald. Johnston advanced that the establishment of a permanent fire brigade will save the insurance companies in insurance 20 to 25 per cent., and the residential interests 5 to 10 per cent.

Ald. Morgan queried this assertion.

Large Crowd Attend Noon Day Services

Yesterday as the hundreds of workers of this city went via George street, either north and south, dinner wards bound they saw, and many stopped to investigate the large crowd assembled at the north west corner of George and Hunter streets. It is no exaggeration to say that fully two hundred people gathered in front of Tully's drug store. It took but a few moments to learn that Rev. Canon Davidson, rector of St. John's Church, with good pluck had begun the open-air services at that place during Holy Week. The Canon addressed a few words to the crowd and it was noticeable that almost without exception, the men in the crowd removed their hats and Mr. Davidson pronounced the Benediction. He then introduced Mr. Read, of Montreal, who gave a ten minutes' address on Spiritual Power. The crowd listened attentively to this forcible speaker.

Rev. Mr. Webb of Murray street Baptist Church acted as chairman of the gathering. The fine choir of George Street Methodist Church under Prof. McCann led the singing of that old time favorite hymn "When I Survey The Wondrous Cross." Taken altogether the meeting was a great success and a number of leading members of local churches supported the innovation by their presence and implied advocacy of street preaching.

Former Lakefield Woman Killed

Yesterday afternoon, Mrs. F. W. Bates, the local baker at 654 Stewart street, received a telegram conveying sad intelligence that Mrs. Stanley Bates had been burned to death at Dunnville, Ont., Mr. Bates, referred to above is a brother-in-law of the deceased, whose maiden name was Ina McIlwain. She is well known here having been born near Lakefield. She and her husband used to reside in the city. At the time of her death, her husband was in Pantanguishene, where he operates a bakeshop. Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Bates have five children, but no fear is anticipated as to the latter being injured, as no such intimation was conveyed by the telegram, although it is said that the accident occurred while Mrs. Bates was dressing the children before the fire.

Mr. Bruce Lee Back in His Old Stand

Once more Mr. Bruce Lee, the old livery man, is back at his former place of business, the livery stables to the rear of the Snowdon House. Yesterday papers were signed whereby Messrs. Lee and Roy Cavanagh purchased this livery business from Mr. Isaac Eastwood. The sum paid, we understand was a large one. The new firm of Lee and Cavanagh take possession this morning. Lee & Cavanagh have added two new, up-to-date hacks to the business. The old plank flooring of the barn was yesterday began to be removed to make way for a modern concrete and pitch floor. There is no doubt but what the long experience of Bruce Lee and the general popularity of Roy Cavanagh will result in the new firm getting a large share of local patronage.

Council to Take Active Part in Reception and Banquet

At a special meeting of the city council held last night in council chamber the Reception Committee were authorized to make arrangements for the city council taking an active part in a reception and banquet to Sir Frederick Borden when he will lay the corner stone of Peterborough's new armories.

The council then adjourned.

Gene Hurtubise Has Agreed to Meet Kennedy the Wrestler

Toronto, April 13.—The decision of Eugene Hurtubise, the Peterborough giant rugby player and ex-champion amateur heavyweight of Canada, to abandon the amateur ranks and meet Frank Kennedy, the light heavyweight wrestler, in two matches, one here and the other in Peterborough, comes as a complete surprise to Toronto sportsmen. When Hurtubise turns over the leaf amateur sport in Ontario loses a well-known figure.

Hurtubise as a wrestler and rugby player is probably as well known in Ontario as any athlete ever turned out in Peterborough, and that is saying a good deal when the list includes such good men as Bill Crowley, the hockey, rugby and lacrosse player; Fred Whiteroft, the hockey player; Freddie McGrath, the sprinter; Fred Simpson and Ernie Woods, the runners, Art Burn, the Calgary runner; Geo Gauthier, the wrestler; Chris Graham, the boxer, rugby, lacrosse, and baseball player, and others, not overlooking Dave Hartley.

HURTUBISE IS ROUGH.

Hurtubise with his six-foot four of bone and sinew made his presence felt an every football field. It might not have been a brilliant football player, but when it came to close, effective work in the scrimmage "Gene" and football, according to Chaucer Elliott's vocabulary — Gene was there, and strange to say manage the man took the count which bumped into the elongated French-Canadian. They all tried to get even, but Hurtubise took the retaliatory offerings without a squeal and handed back more.

HE DEFEATED BANTY.

On the mat, Hurtubise was just as tough as he was on the field. He won his bouts by brute strength. Harry Russell, the sturdy Argo scrummager, gave Hurtubise, a battle once, but he had to succumb to Hurtubise's brawny arms, and those who saw him gather up Beckman in the New York amateur heavyweight, and crush him into submission in one bear-like embrace will never forget it.

Hurtubise is now under suspension by the C.A.A.U. for playing rugby with the Peterborough team against Montreal. He was the captain of the team which won the O.R.F.U. championship.

In Kennedy the Peterborough lad will meet a wrestler whose chief stock-in-trade is roughness and ability to stand punishment. When they get together the battle will be a free one, and one worth going

Saskatchewan Legislature is Ignoring Educational Clauses

Nationalists are Excited --Think the Rights of Minority are at Stake

Want Laurier to Veto Act

Montreal, April 13.—Le Nation says that the next few days will be of the greatest consequence to the French race in the Province of Saskatchewan, and, in fact, asks if the constitution really exists.

"To-morrow," says Le Nation, "Armand Lavergne, will put a question to the Ministry of the very greatest importance. The Legislature of Saskatchewan as it has seen fit, adopted, two measures which, according to the very best jurists, are contrary to the constitution. The Federal Government has the power to disallow these bills in order to protect the minority, but if the prerogative be not exercised before April 22nd it will be too late. The member for Montgomery wants to know what the Government purposes doing in the matter.

"The new province exists only three years, and at this early day, in spite of the enormous sacrifices we have made for that province, she violates the constitution with impunity. Now, if the Federal Government backs down before the Province of Saskatchewan, which will happen ten years since what will happen ten years hence, when their population be ten times greater than it is now? To-day we are still 30 per cent. of the population of the Dominion. We have three Ministers to the cabinet, and the leader of the Government is a man of our own race, and if the minority claim what is their due, we should give it to them, for what will happen when we are but ten per cent. of the population of the Canadian people?

"We suppose that they will tell us that still another sacrifice will have to be made, and that Federal intervention would bring about the fall of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, and that we would be worse with Mr. Borden at the head of the Government. All this, perhaps, is true, and we will not contradict it, we will also have to acknowledge the fact that the Federal power is unable to protect the minority."

In the Realm of Sport

Lancaster, Pa., April 13.—Toronto and Lancaster played again today under conditions somewhat similar to those that prevailed Saturday. A high wind sprung up early in the afternoon and increased in velocity as the day advanced. The attendance was very small. Wotell played right field for Toronto, and Grimshaw first base.

BASKETBALL.

Local lovers of basketball will have an opportunity of seeing the fast little Midland team in action on Friday evening at the Y.M.C.A. when they will be here to play a friendly game with the Peterborough boys. Peterborough won from Midland in the latter place last year by a very narrow margin and the northerns are confident of turning the tables on their opponents on Friday.

The Y.M.C.A. basketball team held a practise last night in preparation for their game with Midland on Friday evening.

FOOTBALL.

The Quakers will hold a meeting to-night at 7.30 o'clock in the Y.M.C.A. to decide upon their course in the Midland League this season.

Secretary Ray P. Best has received word from two Toronto teams for a game on Good Friday—the Britannias and the All Saints'. He received a telegram from the latter this morning asking for a game, but as the Riverside Park grounds are under water, there is no hope that the match will be pulled off.

WALKING.

Tom Slater, of Oswego, N. Y., one of the star attractions in the big walking match commencing on Monday of next week, and one of the most famous heel and toe artists on the line, arrived in the city yesterday at noon, ready for the biggest sporting event in the history of Peterborough. He is, as always, in the pink of condition, having figured in six races since the big six-day event in Kansas City, in February, and is as hard as nails.

Slater's last appearance on a track was in the big race of a week ago, in Trenton, N. J., where he was second to Hougland, finishing only nine laps behind the Auburn, N. Y., man, and covering 77 miles.

This year his first race was in Covington, Kentucky, where in a hundred mile event, he beat a field of seven starters by six miles. The match took place in a roller skating rink.

The big Kansas City walk was the next, and Slater was second to Hougland, covering 371 miles, while the Auburn man got away with 374. Slater says Hartley a great tribute, for his plucky work in that event, especially for his great feat of covering 45 miles in the last nine hours.

Since the Kansas City race, Slater has had two races with Hougland, in Buffalo, beating him in a five mile event, and losing the three mile. He beat Jack Ogrotz, the old English walker, at Trenton, in a ten mile race, and then finished second in the six-day event.

Slater is confident of winning here and looks fit enough to carry off a big share of the money.

Spring Fishing Number

With the advent of April the majority of sportsmen turn their thoughts to fishing, and "Rod and Gun & Motor Sport" in Canada" published by A. J. Taylor, Woodstock, Ont., has published a Spring Fishing number for the month. There are stories of fishing in Ontario, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Alberta and British Columbia, while an article descriptive of Kalkite, the new rod weed—is of deep interest to fishermen. A fine survey of the whole question of International Control of International Waters by Mr. C. H. Wilson is worth careful perusal, embodying as it does a long and careful study of the whole question from both sides. A paper on Guides and Their Patrons, written from a guide's point of view by a veteran guide ought to lead to a controversy as exciting as that on dogs versus still hunters. Wolf hunting, moose hunting, deer hunting and deer preservation are but a few of the many good things in the number, while How One Settler Helps the Deer, should prove as widespread in its interest as the former paper by the same settler on How One Settler Treats the Deer. Indeed the many excellencies of the number are apparent from the opening paper to the closing page.

POLICE

At yesterday's Police Court the young lad Barraclough, who pleaded guilty to robbing visitors at the Y. M. C. A. including a theft of $5, was present for sentence.

Mr. Peck made a strong plea for leniency for the prisoner, fearing that if the Magistrate sent him to prison he would have a life-long black mark against his character and he would be brought in contact with men of bad disposition and character. Mr. Peck asked that the boy be allowed to go home and given another chance.

Mr. Wood for the prosecution, said this was a peculiar case. If the boy at his former trial had shown any sign of repentance or regret he would feel more like granting clemency. Instead of this the boy took the matter as a joke. He laughed and joked and winked at his friends in the court. The theft was committed at the Y. M. C. A. a place where everyone should be above suspicion. It was no act though, he had found, say, a $5 bill and had taken it. Instead of this he deliberately stole a roll of bills. This might have belonged to some one who could not afford such a loss or it might have been money belonging to some good employer. He thought if the boy were let go on suspended sentence he should be compelled to report at stated intervals to the police. The fact of the boy's mother returning $51 stolen made no difference in law.

An uncle of the prisoner next arose with the evident intention of defending the prisoner, but, as afterwards noted by both the Magistrate and County Crown Attorney Wood, made admissions of things not until then known. The Magistrate advised him to sit down and keep still.

His Worship said the boy had committed many thefts, had lied and had shown no signs of repentance. He would not let the boy go on suspended sentence. The Court and the police could not go on coddling such bad boys. He imposed a fine of $20 and $10.50 costs, or $30.50 in all, to be paid forthwith or three months in jail with hard labor. The boy's uncle paid the fine.

His Worship noted afterwards that this charge was not laid by the authorities of the Y.M.C.A., although it was really their duty to report such cases to the police. In fact the Y.M.C.A. had been very lenient in this case by not pressing for punishment. The charge was laid by Chief Ruzzel in the discharge of his official duties owing to many complaints.

It seems that still another citizen had had a gold watch stolen from about the time of the thefts noted. The party robbed was of the opinion that a friend of the prisoner's might know something of the matter. Mr. Peck asked the prisoner concerning the watch but the latter denied all knowledge of it. The Court then adjourned.

A Supposed Divorce Leads to Bigamy

A Kingston, Ont., despatch received here yesterday noted that George Hepburn, Stuart street was under arrest in the Limestone City on a charge of bigamy, on complaint of Edward Smith, of Storrington township. It seems that the arrested man, on January 2nd, 1st., married Eva Smith and has since lived with her in Kingston. He is a steamboat engineer. The report says that Peterborough lawyers had told him he was a really truly divorced man, the divorce papers having seemingly been obtained by his wife and, incidentally, a certain amount of alimony. The Toronto World says in its Kingston News:

Twice married, although professing to believe that he has only one legal wife, is the plight of George Hepburn, of this city, arrested on a charge of bigamy.

Six years ago he married Annie Tandy, living near Peterborough, one child resulting from the union. Last year he left his wife, and he claims that in October the legal firm of Hall & Hayes, Peterborough, wrote him stating that his wife had secured a divorce with alimony.

In January last he married Miss Eva Smith, Storrington, near here, and they have been boarding in the city since. The father of the second wife heard the news and swore out a warrant.

OVER TWO HUNDRED MEN WERE SAVED FROM STEAMER

Series of Accidents to Newfoundland Fleet --Other Vessels in Serious Condition

Storms Continue

St. Johns, Nfld., April 11 — Alarming news from the icefields reached here by the steamer Newfoundland, which arrived on Saturday. She reports the Grand Lake sunk at the ice, the men barely had time to escape. They are aboard the Vanguard. The Grand Lake had full cargo of 21,000 seals, which went down with the vessel 90 miles north of Funks. The vessel was 7 north of Funks. The accident was caused through the blowing clean out of the injection pipe. Two hundred and three men were aboard. The engineer reached here by the Newfoundland. Three accidents occurred on the Hatters teamer.

The Ranger has also overdue and is given up. Her condition is critical. The Neptune was standing by her on the 12th. No definite news has arrived since.

Nothing has been heard of the Southern Cross. The Algerine's condition is bad.

The Newfoundland's crew had a terrible experience in Thursday's gale. The total catch is 20,000 less than previously announced.

Grave anxiety exists owing to the continuance of stormy weather.

Emigration from Ireland on Decrease

Dublin, April 13.—Statistics just out, bearing the imprint of the Registrar-General, tell an encouraging story relative to Irish emigration. In the boom years of 1906 and 1907 America drew away from Ireland respectively 95,000 and 89,000 persons. The latter year was the worst for Ireland since 1902.

The returns for the first quarter of 1908, show a decrease of 1,100 or 10 per cent., and if this rate is maintained during the year Ireland will get back to the lower record of 1905. One of the most significant features of the figures is the paucity of steerage passages paid in America. This shows that the Irish on the other side of the Atlantic are less eager than usual to induce their friends at home to come and share their fortunes. The newspapers in Dublin are strongly agitating against emigration. They point out the grave slump in industry in America, and tell their readers that the end of the year there will be "Millions of unemployed in the Land of Promise." It is noted with satisfaction that the emigration to Great Britain has fallen off almost as much as that to America, while the decline in the rush to Canada is proportionately greater. Herein the Irish in Ireland find indications that not only the adverse business conditions in America but the improved conditions in Ireland are operating to diminish the tide of emigration.

How too Much Fat May be Reduced at Home

"Oh, that this too, too solid flesh would melt!" cry all ladies nowadays as they try to squirm into a princess frock. How much would the too generously proportioned dame not give for four inches less in the waist that she compares herself with the more fortunate one hundred and twenty-five pound sister. Various devices are suggested to arrest the flesh-producing tendency and keep the figure trim, including exercising, walking and dieting, as well as numerous patented remedies, but there are objections to all these. Exercising is hard work and takes up precious time; dieting is distasteful and a real punishment, and most of the patent remedies are dangerous to health.

The very best thing for the overfat, whether male or female, is a simple home receipt 1½ oz. Marmola, 3½ oz. Fluid Extract Cascara Aromatic, 4½ ozs. Syrup Simplex, which can be obtained of any druggists at small cost. This should be taken a teaspoonful at a time after meals and bedtime, and results will be both speedy and certain. This is a harmless mixture that cannot bring on any stomach troubles nor cause the dried-up, wrinkled appearance of those who starve or take "patent reducers" to get thin. On the contrary, although it often takes the fat off at the rate of a pound a day, it is really very beneficial to the system, cleansing the blood and causing the complexion to become fair and beautiful. The cost of preparing the items is a mere bagatelle, and one may, if one prefers, get them separately and mix together at home.

News in Brief

Swan Lake, Man., April 6.—On Saturday last three of the Indians on the reserve west of here died as a result of drinking what they believed to be essence of lemon. Dr. Speechly of Pilot Mound, a Chinaman, was notified, and after viewing the bodies on Sunday assisted Dr. Cooper in a post-mortem examination. A jury was summoned today by Constable McLean. The evidence of Dr. Cooper and Malcolm Campbell, the farm instructor, was heard. Dr. Cooper, in giving his evidence, stated that there were no signs of external violence. Two of the Indians were not dead when he saw them first, but they were past medical aid. In the post-mortem examination he found all the organs of the bodies in a healthy condition, and in his opinion there was nothing outside of the stomachs to cause death.

Washington, April 8.—While the United States has guaranteed the independence of the Republic of Panama, it has not guaranteed her independence of all obligations as a sovereign nation in her dealings with other countries. With this view prevailing among officials here the reported invasion by Colombia of the frontier town of Jurado is looked upon as not being in itself a casus belli, but rather as an inevitable warning to Panama to awaken to the necessity of becoming an active party to diplomatic negotiations for the amicable adjustment of numerous open questions pending between herself and Colombia and Costa Rica.

The town of Jurado is described as disputed territory between Colombia and Panama, in which Colombia seems to have a shade the stronger argument. No apprehension is entertained that the reported Colombia "invasion" has any serious significance. State Department officials disclaim any intention of arranging for armed representation in the vicinity of the infant republic, and the Navy Department records show that no naval vessels are near Panama. Despatches have been received by the State Department reporting the alleged Colombian invasion, but so far no action has been taken.

Boston, April 13. — Ten thousand persons rendered homeless, at least three burned to death, half a hundred injured, and a property loss of between $50,000,000 and $10,000,000, summarizes the record of disaster which confronts the city of Chelsea this morning as a result of the great fire of yesterday. A bi cleaned, flame charred and smoking mass of ruins, making the sites of some of the finest public buildings in the city, historic churches, valuable factory and business structures, as well as hundreds of homes, covers a belt three quarters of a mile wide, stretching across the city for a distance of a mile and a half.

TROOPS TURNED OUT.

The city was not formally placed under marshall law, but as a result of reports of looting the entire burned district and the environs were patrolled by marines from the Charlestown Navy Yard, and sixteen companies of State militia, infantrymen and artillerymen. The soldiers were supplied with ten rounds of ball cartridges. Adjutant-General Bingham, of the staff of Governor Curtis Guild, who has personal direction of the work of the militia, said the situation did not seem to require a proclamation of martial law, but that after consultation with Mayor Beck, of Chelsea, stringent measures were being taken to prevent, as far as possible, any acts of vandalism.

Early yesterday a consignment of military tents from the State camp grounds at Framingham were placed at the disposal of the relief committees. Hundreds of them were set up on the public playground in Everett, an adjoining town, while others were erected on open ground in the unburned portion of Chelsea itself. It was calculated that these tents, each of which will accommodate five persons, would serve to shelter about one-half the homeless people. Charitable organizations in Boston and other nearby places are taking care of the remainder.

As Mr. Sutherland has heard no word nothing definite is known yet as to his daughter's safety, but on reading of the disaster in yesterday's papers Mr. Sutherland immediately wrote to Mrs. Ranton and is anxiously waiting a reply.

Big Fire Leaves 10-000 Homeless--Peterboro Lady at Chelsea

The area swept by fire at Chelsea extends diagonally across the city from a point between Everett and Chelsea to the waters of Chelsea Creek. Approximately it is equal to the territory bounded by Queen, College, and Yonge streets and Spadina avenue, in Toronto.

The area swept by fire at Chelsea grocer, is anxious as to the safety of his daughter, Mrs. Thos. G. Ranton, whose home is at 208 Broadway Avenue, East, Chelsea, the scene of Sunday's big conflagration. Mrs. Ranton has only been a resident of Chelsea for a few weeks her home being situated in Summerville, a suburb of the city, which unfortunately is in the district which was swept by the fire.

The glycerine employed in Dr. Pierce's medicines greatly enhances the medicinal properties which it extracts from native medicinal roots and holds in solution much better than alcohol would. It also possesses medicinal properties of its own, being a valuable demulcent, nutritive, antiseptic and antiferment. It adds greatly to the efficacy of the Black Cherry-bark, Bloodroot, Golden Seal root, Stone root and Queen's root, contained in "Golden Medical Discovery" in subduing chronic, or lingering coughs, bronchial, throat and lung affections, for all of which the ingredients are recommended by standard medical authorities.

In all cases where there is a wasting away of flesh, loss of appetite, with weak stomach, as in the early stages of consumption, there can be no doubt that glycerine acts as a valuable nutritive and aids the Golden Seal root, Stone root, Queen's root and Black Cherry-bark in promoting digestion and building up the flesh and strength, controlling the cough and bringing about a healthy condition of the whole system. Of course, it will not be expected to work miracles. It will not cure consumption except in first stages. It will cure very severe, protracted, hang-on chronic coughs, bronchial and laryngeal troubles and chronic sore throat with hoarseness. In acute coughs it is not so effective. It is in the long hang-on coughs, or those of long standing, even when accompanied by bleeding from the lungs, that it has performed its most marvelous cures.

Prof. Finley Ellingwood, M. D., of Bennett Med. College, Chicago, says of glycerine:

"In dyspepsia it serves an excellent purpose. Holding a fixed quantity of the peculiar hydrogen in solution, it is one of the best manufactured products of the present time for its action upon enfeebled, disordered stomachs, especially if there is ulceration of catarrhal gastritis (catarrhal inflammation of the stomach). It is a most efficient preparation. Glycerine will relieve many cases of nausea (heartburn) and excessive gastric (stomach) acidity."

"Golden Medical Discovery" enriches and purifies the blood during blotches, pimples, eruptions, scrofulous swellings and all chronic ulcers.

Doctors Report Many Cases

May that Spring Fever is Prevalent Patients Feel Drowsy, Dull, Dead Tired.

How provoking to sleep well, but when you awaken to find none of the exhilaration that rest and sleep should bring. You ought to feel alert, bubbling over with vim, but instead of this there's dullness, languor and disinclination to do things.

These causes for this sort of feeling—a lazy liver, lazy kidneys, and a lazy stomach, the last doing its work very poorly and compelling the other organs to perform a task they are unequal to.

Note the consequence—blood is filled with rank matter—poisonous substances weighing down the nervous system—rebuilding processes absolutely impossible.

Take Ferrozone and note the rapid change. Your appetite improves and your digestion soon is as good as ever. Your skin has its natural color, the sense of languor and unsteadiness if not entirely gone, comes back only occasionally, and then disappears.

You see Ferrozone restores all the powers of the body to normal activity. The reason you feel better is because Ferrozone is driving out all the poisonous wastes from the body.

Ferrozone imparts to the blood that element that is necessary to render the air you breathe vitally active and strength-giving. In the old condition it simply acted on the surface. Now it enters deeply into all the activities of the body.

Now you know that Ferrozone stimulates appetite and makes rich, red blood.

Now you feel that Ferrozone gives strength, endurance, vim.

Ferrozone clarifies the brain, imparts tone and vigor to it, gives clearness and strength.

Your will power is as strong as ever, and your enjoyment of life has a new zest because so vigorously renewed.

As a bracing, uplifting tonic for man, woman and children—as a medicine for anaemia, weakness or nervous troubles nothing excels Ferrozone.

THE CIGARETTE AND THE BOY

The policy of the government on the cigarette question seems to be to "spank the boy". Mr. J. J. Kelso, of Toronto, who looks after the neglected children in Ontario, told us the other night that he did not believe in "spanking," but in appealing to the chivalry of the lad. He was not talking of cigarette smoking, but of general boyish misbehavior. Much could be done for the youth who now thinks it "smart" to be seen with a cheap cigarette between his dirty fingers, if he could be got to see himself as others see him. Once he can be persuaded that it is not manly but silly for him to puff at this white cylinder, which is stunting his growth and dulling his mind, he will throw it away.

Parents, school teachers and adult relatives can do very much for the boys in this matter. They ought to be shamed out of it, if possible. "Spanking" is always a doubtful remedy for any boyish peccadillo; but, if it will be effective, it would be justified. Legislation would be more than justified as applied to boys; but it is complained that such legislation is no effective. Men buy the cigarettes and then retail them clandestinely to boys. Any legislation dealing with the matter should provide for the heavy punishment of such men. They are poisoners for pennies.

Dr. Sproule charges that deleterious drugs are to be found in some of the foreign cigarettes. If this be true, the brands proven to contain these drugs should be shut out of the country. They are poisonous for adults as well as youths; and our people should be protected against them. Purity can be insisted upon without infringing "the liberty of the subject" about which we hear so often. The main question, however, is not so easily solved as some imagine. There is no patent legal device which can relieve parents of their responsibilities.

GRAVES FOR OUR SAILORS.

Thomas Long Appeals For Canadian Mercantile Fleet.

Mr Thomas Long, vice-president of the Collingwood Shipbuilding Co., discussing recently the outlook for shipbuilding, pointed out that whereas in the busy season there are 1,000 men at work, says at present there are only 300 at his plant.

"The country to the west of Lake Superior, viz., the provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, are now producing annually about one hundred million bushels of grain for shipment, and ten years hence these same provinces will undoubtedly be producing for foreign markets at least three hundred million bushels annually, and cattle and other productions for shipment will necessarily increase in proportion. This means a great and increasing demand for lake tonnage of the best type and workmanship.

"Where are these vessels to come from? Is the evident demand to assist in building up a great enterprise in Canada, to provide labor for a large number of skilled mechanics and tradesmen, and to increase the prosperity and population of our own country, or is it to be diverted to the enrichment of American or British shipbuilders? Now is the time for Canada to consider this question well from every standpoint, and to take such steps as may be necessary to see that her future ships shall in every respect meet the requirements of the trade, and that her own resources shall be used in their construction, and the country at large receive the benefits accruing therefrom.

"The time has come," says Mr. Long, "when Canada should build her own mercantile fleet, as at present American vessels do a good deal of the grain trade, Canadian vessels carrying but a small proportion of our western productions.

"We should cease using our waters as the cemetery for discarded American hulks, which worn out and leaky, consign our sailors to watery graves," says Mr. Long.

"Some years ago wooden shipbuilding was an important industry in Canada, more particularly along the Atlantic coast, but now that the days of wooden shipbuilding are passed why should not steel shipbuilding occupy as prominent a place in our industries as the wooden shipbuilding of earlier days? We have in Canada several steel shipbuilding plants and yards, thoroughly equipped and in a position to turn out a better class of vessel for lake trade at as small a cost as any yard in Great Britain or the United States, but we are hampered by the present customs tariff in securing this work. There is a heavy duty on much of the material imported for construction work from Great Britain and the United States.

"The coal required for the work of construction, and which is a large item, is subject to a duty of 53 cents per ton besides the freight charges, and any of the furnishings required that have to be purchased abroad are also subject to duty, and yet vessels thoroughly equipped in every particular come here from Great Britain duty free, and old American vessels can be bought and repaired in American yards and brought into Canada after having paid duty on the original cost. In shipbuilding circles these facts are well known, but to the general public they are a revelation."

Game In the Yukon.

Game is reported scarcer than usual this year in the great fur country north of Edmonton, but in the Yukon Territory, caribou are numerous. These animals are said to be flocking into that part of Canada from Alaska in large numbers. Mail advices from Dawson to Vancouver state:

This is a great winter for the miner to get a free supply of caribou in the Upper Yukon. From every direction come reports of the game being plentiful.

Prospectors, trappers and hunters from up the Stewart and the Klondike report caribou to be found in the hills there with little effort, and all the camps well supplied.

In the Sixty-Mile Country, the caribou have been ranging past in droves of thousands, in fact, in a procession of perhaps hundreds of thousands, and the stragglers have been running well down the gulches and streams leading off the general course.

Miners who have killed considerable of the game have laid away the dressed carcasses in shafts, there to be held until wanted for consumption. Some of the shafts are so cold that the meat will keep in them through the summer.

Moose are not scarce this winter, and the Indians and other hunters have kept the market well supplied.

Letters of inquiry have been received here of late by some of the Government officials from men who want to come to the Yukon next summer to kill caribou and moose for the sport of it. Serious complaint has been made of late regarding the ruthless slaughter of mountain sheep and moose in the Yukon simply for the trophies in the form of heads.

The Canadian's Compliment.

In a recent speech in the Eastern Townships of Quebec, Hon Rodolphe Lemieux told a story which greatly pleased his farming audience. He was dealing with the development of the Canadian butter and cheese industry and told of a visit paid by Queen Alexandra to the Canadian Pavilion at Dublin. Among the exhibits was some butter labelled "the best in the world."

Her Majesty, who despite her long residence in England has always kept a warm spot in her heart for her girlhood home, noticed the sign and turning to Commissioner Hutchinson, said: "That must be a mistake. The best butter comes from Denmark!"

Mr. Hutchinson replied, with courtesy: "Pardon me, your Majesty, the best queens come from Denmark, but the best butter comes from Canada!"

PLANNED MANY ROBBERIES.

Joseph Hebburn Is Living Counterpart of "Professor Moriarty."

"Professor Moriarty," depicted by Sir Conan Doyle in "Sherlock Holmes," who crouched in a web of crime, has a living counterpart in Joseph Hebburn, who was sentenced recently at the Newington (London) Sessions to three and a half years' penal servitude. Like 'Moriarty," Hebburn, referred to by the eight burglars (one a negro) he employed as "Manuel," simply "pulled the strings," subordinates carrying out the daring schemes he evolved.

Within five months he planned close upon twenty robberies in Southwest London. Recently his subordinates fell, one by one, into the net of the law, until he himself was obliged to take part in an ingenious shop robbery in Putney, when a smart detective, Sergt. Davies, who had been following, caught him in the act.

Only 25, "Manuel" was agile, well spoken and cunning to a degree. His "headquarters" were never known. He moved from point to point, sometimes taking rooms in lodging houses, at others in small hotels. Even when his menwere working out his plans he professed a friendship for the police, approached the detectives trying to trace him, suggested lines of inquiry, and strove to lead them off the scent.

Flats and shops were his principal objective. He is believed to have had a small army of spies and "intelligence men." Having found out by their help every detail of the movements of his victims, and the precautions taken to safeguard till, safe or valuables he was to rifle; he called a meeting of two or more of his satellites and devised a plan of campaign. But when the burglary was committed he was usually far from the spot.

He is believed to have planned the following typical scheme: A woman in a suburban flat received a telegram purporting to come from her husband, asking her to meet him in the city. Half an hour after she had gone, leaving the flat unoccupied, a pantechnicon van, with two men in charge, drove up. Every stick of furniture and every article of value was moved out into the van. But for the suspicions of a neighbor, who, astonished at the sudden removal, informed the police and so led to the capture of one of the men, the robbery would have been completely successful.

DEFIED THE LAW.

Dangerous Transvaal Gang Finally Broken Up.

Armed robbers "held up" the branch of the National Bank at Langlaagte, Transvaal, a few months ago and abstracted about £1,200 from the tills. Since then three men have been sentenced to ten years' hard labor for their share in the robbery.

The police have now discovered the man who planned the whole affair. His name is Walter Kirby, and he is also to be accommodated in gaol for a ten years' term. His sentence closes the history of one of the most famous gangs of criminals the Transvaal has known. The gang was formed originally by Percy John Collingwood, who may be described as the "Moriarty" of South Africa. Collingwood was a gentleman by birth, and received a thorough training as an engineer after he left school.

His master mind gathered around him on the Rand a gang of dangerous criminals, white and colored, who placed implicit trust in their "chief," and who for a time successfully carried out a series of crimes ably planned by him. Collingwood pitted his brains against those of the entire detective force, and for a time he more than held his own.

It was part of his method to keep in close touch with the police, and he was a frequent visitor at the police offices, whither he went on the most flimsy pretext. At last the acting-chief of the Criminal Investigation Department, Mr. Mavrogordato, discovered the identity of his clever opponent, and, after many attempts, brought home to him a serious crime, for which Collingwood was sentenced at Pretoria in January, 1907, to twelve years' imprisonment, with hard labor, for culpable homicide.

The crime was committed in the course of a robbery which he had planned when he found it necessary to get rid of a native "tool" who knew too much. After Collingwood's removal, Kirby appears to have assumed command of the operations of the gang, but evidently he did not succeed in getting the implicit trust of his followers.

Kirby's downfall, following the capture and sentence of these three, is the last act in the operations of a gang of criminals who have been a menace to the public safety for years.

Edward VII. as a Farmer.

The rich crop of prizes which the King's cattle and sheep have won at the Bingley Hall show, Birmingham, is the latest demonstration of His Majesty's success as a farmer, of which he is so deservedly proud. When the King began breeding nearly forty years ago, the Sandringham farm lands were in an almost hopeless condition, barren and barely capable of cultivation. To-day, according to Rider Haggard, "it is a wonderful farm, for nowhere is there so much high-bred stock to be seen on the same area."

But probably nowhere will you find such an array of plates and cups won at shows as that which Sandringham boasts. At a single exhibition his Majesty once won no fewer than fourteen first prizes. In 1903 he captured five first prizes and cups, in addition to numerous seconds and thirds; in 1904 his prizes numbered twenty; in 1905 he won a champion plate, a challenge cup and eighteen other prizes, including four firsts, while last year he took at the Smithfield show ten firsts, nine "breed" cups and plates, six other prizes and several highly commendeds," and every prize-winner he has bred himself.

VETERAN GETS REWARD

HERO OF MUTINY RECEIVES PENSION AFTER 50 YEARS.

Man Who Captured a Town—Caught and Flogged Rajah—Stormed Fort In Dead of Night—Success of a Forlorn Hope — Stirring Events During the Famous Rebellion of 1857.

During the past few days the splendid services of a civilian during the Indian mutiny fifty-one years ago have been recognized. The India Office has informed E. J. Churcher that he has been awarded a pension of $500 per annum, from Jan. 1, 1908. Mr. Churcher is indebted to the direct intervention of the King, through His Majesty's private secretary, Lord Knollys, for this recognition of a romantic deed.

Mr. Churcher, now 78 years old, is a tall, commanding figure. His tread is still elastic, his manner dignified, and his speech quiet but full of force. Two of his sons are officers in the British army. Two of his brothers were killed in the mutiny.

In July, 1857, when the mutiny was at its height and Agra deluged with blood, J. Russell Colvin, the hapless lieutenant governor of the united provinces, sent Mr. Churcher, a young civilian, to attempt to restore British authority in Etah, a town and fort 70 miles away from Agra, on the high road from Delhi to Cawnpore. An order for 5,000 rupees, the greater part uncashed, is one of Mr. Churcher's treasured possessions. With this he was to raise a force and do his work.

How his ragged force marched from Agra; how they caught and flogged a rajah twenty miles away, who, three months before, had robbed Mr. Churcher's father and mother; how they came through at last to Etah are incidents which would provide absorbing narratives. But the great incident was the taking of Etah.

"I came to Etah in August, 1857, with 100 horsemen and 150 foot," said Mr. Churcher recently, "and called upon the rajah to allow me to occupy the fort for the British. He planted a green flag on the wall, proclaimed himself a vice-regent of the King of Delhi, and refused admission. That evening, camped in the mango grove near the fort, I heard that 20 Sikhs who had mutinied from a regiment at Benares were approaching.

"Knowing the dare-devil character of these men, I sent for their chief and offered him and his men 100 rupees each for a night's work. They agreed. With heel ropes and branches of the mango trees they made storming ladders, which they carried in the dead of night and placed against the walls of the fort. Up they went, and I followed, while my men went round to the gate of the fort. It was a forlorn hope, but it succeeded.

"I remember well running along the ramparts with a spy, who knew the fort, and one of the Sikhs, looking in the darkness for the rajah. We found him sitting in his room with attendants on either side. He was a fat man and slow to move. Through the glass doors we, being in the darkness, could see him well.

"My Sikh raised his musket and smashed in the doors. I rushed in, a pistol in one hand, a sword in the other. The attendants drew their swords. I threatened to shoot the rajah first and them afterward, whereupon they fled, and I secured my prisoner.

"Meanwhile the rajah's soldiers had attempted to fly by the gate of the fort, and later we counted forty dead in one spot. Next morning the fort was surrounded by the people of the town. I took the rajah to the gate and announced from the wall above it that I would hang him on the spot and turn the ten guns, which we captured on the ramparts, upon the town if they did not disperse."

Thus was Etah taken. For six months, until the end of the mutiny, Mr. Churcher maintained authority, collected revenue, which he sent to the relief of Agra, and kept the trunk road clear of rebels. Wounded and sick, he came to England when the mutiny was suppressed. Returning again, he found that a native clerk, whose loyalty he had commended, had been made rajah of Etah, receiving in place of his clerk's salary of 7 rupees per month a fortune of $150,000.

For nearly half a century following the mutiny, Mr. Churcher, who is a barrister, acted as unpaid special magistrate in the United Provinces. He is now living in a quiet flat in West London.

House of Lords Shabby.

The House of Peers is indeed sadly in need of repair. Not only are the red leather benches in a dingy condition, but the seats in the Strangers' Gallery, in which the peers may invite their admiring friends, are too uncomfortable to deserve the name of seats at all.

"I am genuinely sorry for the peers," said a Liberal M.P., "but still sorrier for their friends, because the benches in the Strangers' Gallery are as hard and comfortless as can be.

"To tell the honest truth, they are merely planks of wood covered with a strip of red carpet as an apologetic attempt at upholstery. Now, we are very much better off in the Commons.

"The benches we can offer our men friends there are decently upholstered in fact, they merit the description 'magnificent' in comparison with the strangers' benches in the Upper House.

"Members of the Commons can take their friends to the bar of the House of Lords on obtaining tickets from Black Rod, and I should say that a 'standing seat' there is infinitely preferable to the accommodation up above, for which their lordships can obtain permits for their friends."

A gentleman who has had recent experience of these seats says that there were no backs to them, and that altogether they were "worse than the benches in the gallery of a third-rate provincial music hall."

Port Hope's New Lighting Contract

Port Hope has closed a new contract for its electric street lights. The contract provides for twenty-five arc lamps and one hundred and ten incandescent lamps. Seven of these arc lamps will burn all night, and cost fifty dollars per year. The other eighteen will burn from dusk until one o'clock, and will cost $45 each. The incandescents will burn until one o'clock in the morning at a cost of $5 each and the 32 candle power at $30 each. Any additional 16 candle power lamp will cost $5 per year. The lights may be shut off on bright moonlight nights.

FISH STORY FROM THE WEST.

Misadventures In a Canoe on White Whale Lake.

A fish story comes from White Whale Lake, Alberta, that makes all ordinary efforts seem pale and weak. The story purports to be true and is about Tom Fraser, a traveler.

Last July, Mr. Fraser was paddling his birch canoe up White Whale Lake trailing a spoon hook and holding the line in his mouth, when a large muskalonge struck the hook. The sudden shock wrenched out three of Mr. Fraser's lower teeth.

After a hard fight Fraser got the fish alongside, shot it in the head and lifted it into the canoe. The fish was only stunned and commenced to knock the canoe ribs loose to right and left. Mr. Fraser took another shot at his prize, forgetting in his excitement that the bottom of the canoe was directly under the fish.

Water commenced to pour through the hole, which Fraser finally stopped by using the index finger of his left hand as a plug. Doing the best possible with the paddle, the exultant fisherman crawled slowly shoreward.

However, just as he was passing a pond-lily patch, a huge muskalonge, doubtless attracted by the diamond ring on Fraser's finger plug, rose to the digit, and struck. Fortunately, the fish let go instanter.

Mr. Fraser transferred the lacerated finger to his mouth, forgetting in the poignant agony that there was a hole in the bottom of the canoe.

With the water washing around his feet, he started to recalk. The sudden withdrawal of the finger from his mouth jerked loose the gold plate of false teeth with which his upper jaw was fitted. They fell overboard, and, in endeavoring to grasp them before they reached the water, Mr. Fraser followed suit, diving as he did so for his disappearing crockery molars.

Again a muskalonge proved his undoing, beating him to the teeth by a nose, the finny monster evidently thinking the gold plate was a new kind of spoon.

As Mr. Fraser is a hearty eater, his loss made him frantic. He grappled with the fish and tried to choke the teeth—his teeth—loose, but they had stuck crossways in the muskie's gills. The fish fought frantically. So did Fraser. The teeth interfered with the fish's breathing, and rose to the top of the water half drowned.

The battle was going against the man when assistance came in the shape of Fannie H. Fraser's canine companion. The faithful dog had seen her master dive from the canoe, and, swimming the famous crawl (or Australian) stroke, had hurried to the rescue.

Fraser had trained the hound to carry a rope to persons struggling in the water, and the intelligent animal arrived at the scene of the combat dragging a boom-chain, which she had picked up on shore.

Fraser grabbed the free end of the chain and took a half hitch around the muskie's neck. Then, with dog and man hauling, the big fish was yanked ashore.

Mr. Fraser recovered his teeth, built a fire and, while drying his clothes, broiled and subsequently ate, a steak from his late antagonist.

As Mr. Fraser lost his scales, he cannot say how much the fish weighed.

ONE-ARMED LIFE SAVER.

Alfred Jenson Receives the Royal Canadian Humane Society's Medal.

The Royal Canadian Hnmane Society have presented a bronze medal to Alfred Jenson, a young Scotchman, who rescued Russell Nixon of Mono road from drowning in Scott's Lake last August, and made an heroic attempt to save the life of another man, Herbert Yarrington.

Jenson was swimming in the lake one evening in August when he saw two men struggling in the water some distance from the shore. Realizing that the couple were out of their depth, Jenson, who has lost one of his arms, swam out to them and succeeded in bringing Nixon to shore.

Yarrington had been swimming with the assistance of a float, and had apparently become excited at feeling nothing under his feet, allowing the apparatus to drift away from him. He became tangled in a patch of weeds while Jenson was landing the other fellow, and when Jenson returned to the rescue he was struggling vainly to extricate himself.

In spite of the handicap of having but one arm, Jenson, succeeded in getting Yarrington out of the weeds, but the latter slipped from his grasp while he was getting him in position to swim to shore, and sank.

Jenson located the body after an hour's work in the water, and brought it to the shore but life was extinct.

English Children on Farms.

Mr. Obed Smith, the new Canadian superintendent of emigration, is dealing vigorously with the allegations made in the Manchester Guardian by Mr. Skivington, a member of the Chorlton Board of Guardians, regarding the treatment of English children in Canada. Mr. Smith called upon Mr. Skivington to support his allegation that children "are simply sweated by Canadian farmers, the life of the children sent out on farm lands eight or nine years of age is simply shocking."

Skivington, in reply, simply quotes from a Canadian official report of cases in which children aged seven and twelve help in the household or on the farm while attending school. He protests against the British ratepayers' money being used to provide Canadian farmers with cheap child labor.

Mr. Obed Smith rejoins to-day that that is no proof of sweating, but only confirms the belief that Canada gives these children a healthy and happy start in life which is denied them in England.

Only last month Mr. McNamara, a British Minister of the Crown, in an official report publicly expressed England's indebtedness to Canada for her care of these English children, who otherwise would likely become wastrels.

NOW LISTEN!

Please read carefully what follows, and if you decide to take advantage of what the "Canada Southern Oil & Gas Co., Limited," of Tilbury, Ont (no personal liability), is now offering you, the result will be that instead of getting 3 per cent. for your savings, you will get at least from 10 to 25 per cent. that others are harvesting.

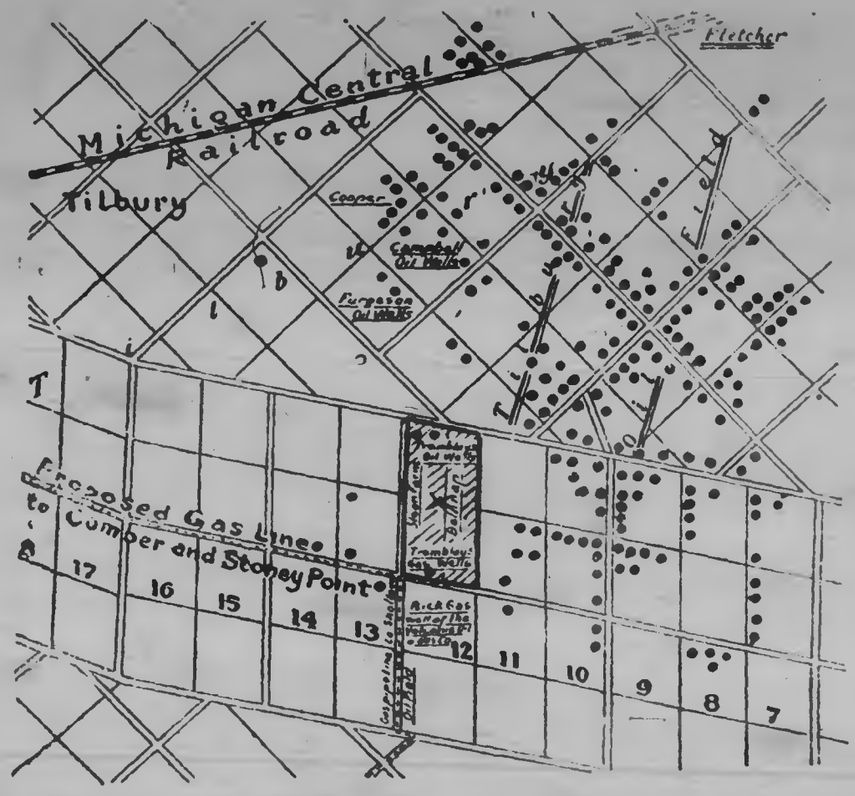
Your savings will be eight times more than the original amount by the mere fact of the higher rate of interest you will get.

Remember that this is no wildcat scheme, as you can see by the facts hereinafter mentioned.

Dr. Bell, the famous Canadian geologist, early in 1878 reported that there was an oil and gas field in the Townships of Tilbury and Romney County of Kent, Ont. As soon as the discovery of the oil was made in Tilbury in 1906, our American neighbors, who are experts in good things, did not hesitate to invest hundreds of thousands of dollars, and now, in fact, control the two thirds interest in our oil field of Tilbury; and this happened because we Canadians hesitated to invest a few thousand dollars in the exploration of the oil mines of Tilbury, which already give a monthly production valued at $75,000, without adding the revenue derived from the gas.

have said that this is not a wildcat scheme, because the "Canadian Southern Oil & Gas Co., Limited," has secured an very moderate price on properties situated in the oil and gas field of Tilbury, upon which three successful tests have being Lot No. 12, M. R. N., Tilbury East, 200 acres, indicated with a cross upon the map of the field.

COUNTY of KENT, ONTARIO



Three wells only have been drilled at an average depth of 1,400 feet.

The first one proves to be a rich gas well, the two others are good oil wells, combined with a strong production of gas.

The Company has also secured the franchises for the distribution and sale of natural gas into the Townships of Romney, Tilbury East, North and West and also into the thriving villages of Comber and Stoney Point.

The gas well is properly equipped and already is supplying the motor power to the Romney oil field and is getting one-third of the gross revenue of the gas sold.

The oil wells are completely equipped with one 15 h. p. gas engine, derrick, tanks, boiler, pumps, tubing, pipe-line, jerk-line, jack, etc., and are producing daily. The oil is sold to The Imperial Oil Company, Sarnia, and is delivered at the tanks and shipped through its pipe-line to Port Marquette R. R. Station at Merlin, a distance of 3 miles.

Our properties are already giving daily a net revenue of about $35.00 —that is to say, more than 10 per cent. of the whole capital stock of the Company.

This revenue may be made four times greater by the drilling of other wells and the construction of the gas-line to Comber and Stoney Point.

[illegible] Cirkel, Esq., of Montreal, consulting mining engineer and mining [illegible] Dominion Government, who lately made an inspection [illegible] said property, concluded his report as follows:

"In summarizing the actual results already obtained from the operation [illegible] wells the writer is forced to the conclusion that the [illegible] under consideration is a very valuable one. Located as it is in [illegible] extremity of the producing Tilbury oil field, in close proximity to wells which produce from 40 to 50 barrels of oil (and even more) [illegible] day of 24 hours (I refer to the Ferguson Campbell and Cooper properties, located about 2,000 feet distant to the north, see plan attached hereto), it bids fair to become a producer of oil and natural gas of no small measure.

The Tilbury field has already the reputation of being a large producer and powerful) companies have entered the district with a view of securing properties of known and established value.

There is one factor to which I would like to draw your special attention and that is the future of natural gas. To-day, the market in that in that part of the country, for this commodity is not sufficiently large to dispose of all the gas the wells can produce but there is no question that in the near future factories will be established on central points, which will eventually consume for various purposes, especially for power, all the gas which can be produced in the field.

Besides this there are quite a number of towns and villages in the western part of the Niagara Peninsula, which may use the gas for heating, lighting, and also for power purposes and it is only a question of time when this will be realized.

The economy of the application of natural gas to power purposes is already evidenced all through the field, as coal or any other power can not be regularly obtained, and (if at high figures. Having therefore, a powerful gas well on the (Bloom) property, it is evident that a great saving is effected from this source alone; for instance, for the operation of ten oil wells, the cost of power required per day would amount to between twenty and twenty-five dollars, which, in 300 working days per year, would represent a saving of from six thousand to seven thousand six hundred dollars.

In conclusion, I may say that this property, with proper and economic management, can be made highly remunerative; I entertain, no doubt, that if properly developed, it will show similar results as those of so many other locations in the vicinity, whose developments have of so many other locations in the vicinity, whose developments have been so vigorously pushed in the past.

Respectfully submitted,

(Signed) FRITZ CIRKEL.

The property is situated at Mancos, Colo., and consists of 160 acres, fully paid for. The Company expects to secure at least 400 acres or more, we are negotiating for it now and the terms are satisfactory and there is coal on the same, and they also intend to secure some Coal Mines of which they have the refusal. Some of the best coal mines in Colorado are in this district, as well as some of the richest gold and silver mines. In fact this is one of the richest parts for mineral in the State of Colorado, and the Company has the refusal to several prospects on reasonable and easy terms.

In our opinion the prospects of the Company are very bright and a rapid advance in the price of the stock is sure to take place in the near future. Full information can be had by calling at our office.

CONTINUED.

"Because I have much to say to you which no one else must hear," was the calm reply. "Dear me, how hot this fire is!" And she moved her chair so that it blocked Sylvia's way to the door; also Miss Krill cast a glance at the window. It was not sashed, and she made a movement as if to go to it; but, restraining herself, she turned her calm, cold face to the girl. "I have much to say to you," she repeated.

"Indeed," replied Sylvia pettily, "I don't think you have treated me so well that you should trouble to converse with me. Will you please to be brief? Mr. Beecot is coming at 4, and he will not be at all pleased to see you."

Maud glanced at the clock. "We have an hour," she said coldly. "It is just a few minutes after 3. My business will not take long," she added, with an unpleasant smile.

"What is your business?" asked Sylvia uneasily, for she did not like the smile.

"If you will sit down, I'll tell you."

Miss Norman took a chair near the wall and as far from her visitor as was possible in so small a room. Maud took from her neck a black silk handkerchief which she wore, evidently as a protection against the cold, and, folding it lengthwise, laid it across her lap. Then she looked at Sylvia in a cold, critical way. "You are very pretty, my dear," she said insolently.

"Did you come to tell me that?" asked the girl, firing up at the tone.

"No. I came to tell you that my mother was arrested last night for the murder of our father."

"Oh," Sylvia gasped and lay back on her chair, "she killed him, that cruel woman!"

"She did not!" cried Maud passionately. "My mother is perfectly innocent. My mother did not kill our father."

"My father, not yours," said Sylvia firmly.

"How dare you! Lemuel Krill was my father."

"No," insisted Sylvia. "I don't know who your father was. But from your age I know that you are not"—

"Leave my age alone," cried the other sharply.

"I won't talk to you at all," said Sylvia, rising.

"Sit down and listen. You shall hear me. I am not going to let my mother suffer for a deed she never committed, nor am I going to let you have the money."

"It's mine."

"It is not, and you shall not get it."

"Paul—Mr. Beecot will assert my rights."

"Will he indeed?" said the other, with a glance at the clock. "We'll see about that. There's no time to be lost. I have much to say"—

"Nothing that can interest me."

"Oh, yes. I think you will find our conversation very interesting. I am going to be open with you, for what I tell you will never be told by you to any living soul."

"If I see fit it shall," cried Sylvia in a rage. "How dare you dictate to me?"

"Because I am driven into a corner. I wish to save my mother. How it is to be done I don't know. And I wish to stop you getting the five thousand a year. I know how that is to be done."

"Leave the room!"

"When I please, not before. You listen to me. I'm going to tell you about the murder"—

"Oh," said Sylvia, turning pale, "what do you mean?"

"Listen," said the other, with a taunting laugh. "You'll be white enough before I've done with you. Do you see this?" and she laid her finger on her lips. "Do you see this scar? Krill did that." Sylvia noticed that she did not speak of Krill as her father this time. "He pinned my lips together when I was a child with that opal serpent."

"I know," replied Sylvia, shuddering. "It was cruel. I heard about it from the detective and"—

"I don't wish for your sympathy. I was a girl of fifteen when that was done, and I will carry the scar to my grave. Child as I was then, I vowed revenge"—

"On your father," said Sylvia contemptuously.

"Krill is not my father," said Maud, changing front all at once. "He is yours, but not mine. My father is Captain Jessop. I have known this for years. Captain Jessop told me I was his daughter. My mother thought that my father was drowned at sea and so married Krill, who was a traveler in jewelry. He and my mother rented the Red Pig at Christchurch, and for years they led an unhappy life."

"Oh," gasped Sylvia, "you confess! I'll tell Paul"

Weak Women

To weak and ailing women, there is at last a way to help. But with that way, two things must be combined. One is local, one is constitutional, but both are important, both essential.

Dr. Shoop's Night Cure is the Local.

Dr. Shoop's Restorative, the Constitutional.

The former—Dr. Shoop's Night Cure—is a special mucous membrane suppository remedy, while Dr. Shoop's Restorative is wholly an internal treatment. The Restorative reaches throughout the entire system, making the repair of all parts, all tissue, and all blood ailments.

The "Night Cure", as the name implies, does its work while you sleep. It soothes sore and inflamed mucous surfaces, heals local weaknesses and discharges, while the Restorative, once nerves are calmed, gives renewed vigor and ambition, builds up wasted tissues, bringing about returned strength, vigor, and energy. Take Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—as a general tonic to the system. For positive local help, use as well

DEALING WITH CRIME.

Ontario's Experiment a Step in the Right Direction.

From "Bystander's" department of comment in The St. John's News the article which follows is reproduced. It is timely and very pertinent. The writer is a resident of Montreal, and his comparisons between the temperament, so to speak, of Ontario and Quebec, are always of interest. He has invited attention to many points at which the two provinces differ—all, of course, being attributable to differences in the character of two peoples. And Ontario has not suffered by comparison. In the present article "Bystander" draws attention to another matter—the question of dealing with crime and criminals—in regard to which there is a divergence of feeling and inclination in Quebec and in Ontario. He also makes some thoughtful comment on the tendency of human nature in general to seize upon "an incident rather than a philosophy," in its consideration of crime. He says:

Ontario is about to try the experiment of reforming rather than merely punishing its criminals. In the first place, it is going to abolish the word "prison." This itself is a fine step in advance.

Then it will turn the prisoners into farmers. It will put them on the land. It will give them honest work to do, in the open, in the face of nature. There will, of course, be supervision and discipline, but it is confidently expected, as well it might, that the criminal will be redeemed to citizenship by this method rather than by putting him into a dark cell, and leaving him there to eat his heart out.

This action of Ontario deserves to be blazoned abroad. The experiment which the province is putting its hand to, has been tried in the United States, with conspicuous success. There are many pious souls who consider that the only way to deal with crime is for society to commit crime too.

We all know the excellent, church-going people who cry softly over the tender parts of the sermon, but who, at the same time, insist that the criminal be rigorously punished, and banished from society, fed on bread and water, upon the principle, one supposes, that if you only make the prisoner wretched, through treating him as a brute beast, he will feel a saving remorse. When the poor woman was taken in a wrongful act Christ did not say: "Put her in a dark cell; shut her out from the light of heaven; lash her on the back; make her atone for her sin by brooding over it in the long silence." "Neither do I condemn thee; go in peace and sin no more," was the gentle word of the Master, who knew that the only reformative agency which can be applied to any human ill is—Love.

Good people talk about saving society; about the need of severity; about the badness of the criminal. Has the jail or the penitentiary ever reformed any creature? The records loudly say—"no."

The world is beginning to see the tragical contradiction between the practice and the teaching of Christianity. The chief essence of Christianity is forgiveness, but it is a so-called Christian society which says to the erring that there is no forgiveness, no recovery, no redemption; nothing but punishment.

Before we can show logic, not to speak of mercy, we must find out why the criminal is in the dock. If we examined carefully we might discover that we had our part in putting him there—we who represent society—that society which imposes conditions of life so intolerable for millions that vice and crime are inevitable.

We sometimes poke cheap fun in the papers at Ontario because it is more strenuous than it is graceful—supposedly; but this great Province of Confederation stands for large, hopeful things, making for the general advance. Quebec might well copy Ontario, for in our province we have medievalism applied to our criminal administration as in other relations of life.

Exploring Labrador.

A journey into the interior of the great Labrador Peninsula is fraught with so many difficulties and so many dangers that he who makes it must indeed have a compelling motive. The Peninsula forms that portion of the Dominion of Canada lying between Hudson Bay on the west, and the Atlantic Ocean on the east, with the Gulf of St. Lawrence for its southern boundary, and Hudson Straits marking its extreme northern limit. Only its coast fisheries, its fur trade, and, in southern parts, its timber lands, have as yet attracted the gain-seekers to its inhospitable shores, ice-bound as they are in winter, and in summer swept by the Arctic current as it bears southward its burden of bergs. As a whole the Peninsula consists of a vast rock plateau, cut at intervals by valleys, into which gather the waters of its myriads of lakes and streams for their wild, mad race to the sea. The rivers thus formed, says a writer in "The Windsor Magazine," are the only highways into the interior, and none but the expert canoeman can successfully navigate them. He must be brought near 2,000 miles to the task, for the native of Eastern Labrador is not a canoeman, and fears the interior of his country. The game supply, too, is uncertain. Starvation broods over this wilderness, and now and then claims even the Indian, to whom its ways are familiar. Thus inner Labrador lay wrapped in the shadow of mystery, unbroken until the latter half of the last century, and then lifted chiefly by the explorations of Mr. A. P. Low, now Director of the Geological Survey of Canada. His work, the results of which are set forth in the Government reports, extended over a period of ten years—1895 to 1905; but it left the portion of the Peninsula lying between Lake Melville and Ungava Bay still virgin field for the explorer, where remained two large rivers to be traversed and mapped. These were the Nascaupee River, draining Lake Michikamau to Lake Melville and the Atlantic, and the George River, draining the northern slope of the plateau to Ungava Bay.

PRINCE RUPERT, it is almost needless to make any lengthy description on this place for we all know its the terminus of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, in B. C., situated on Kian Island, at the mouth of the Fraser River. It is estimated that owing to the great rush of gold seekers and others seeking wealth and new locations that Prince Rupert will have a population of 20,000 before next winter.

HAZELTON is another almost equally promising city, situated at the head of navigation on the Skeena River, on the main line of the Grand Trunk Pacific, also being the junction point of the Line from Dawson City. With these and other existing natural conditions and the prospects of a great development, it is looked upon as a great place to advance.

WHERE HEARNE FOUGHT

SOME ANNALS OF A NORTHERN FORTRESS NOW FORGOTTEN.

Early Days of the Hudson Bay Co.—Massacre of Esquimaux — Whole Villages Wiped Out—Young Girl Slain at Governer's Knee — Fort Looted by the French—Guns Lie Scattered.

The annals of the Hudson Bay Company, full as they are of tales of exciting adventures, contain no more interesting story than that which is embodied in the history of old Fort Prince of Wales which lies upon the western shore of Hudson Bay at the entrance to Churchill Harbor. The story is told as follows by Alfred H. Bailey in The Bellman:

It was for this fort that Samuel Hearne, who was its governor for many years, set out on various exploratory expeditions which resulted in important discoveries in the Arctic regions. Hearne was one of the most adventurous spirits that ever entered the service of the Hudson Bay Company. His journals are filled with stories of journeys and adventures in the far northern parts of this continent. In one of these he tells of his discovery of the mouth of the Coppermine river and a massacre of Esquimaux, which was the price he had to pay to get the necessary party of Indians to go with him.

Having received orders while governor of the fort to make this trip into the Arctic regions, he found it impossible to persuade his Indians to go until it was accidentally mentioned that they would visit the region of the Esquimaux. Immediately the Indians manifested a new interest in the project. These dusky warriors of the north had always been implacable enemies of the harmless Esquimaux and took a keen delight in murdering them whenever the chance offered. Whole villages would sometimes be wiped out without mercy. Hearne's Indians were ready enough to go with him when they knew that there was some prospect of this sort of sport. He tells how after a summer's work in the Arctic regions, during which the important fur resources of the Coppermine country were investigated and the mouth of that river visited, the Indians at length came upon what they had been looking for—an Esquimaux village. Care was taken not to let these know that the enemies were near, else their dread of Indians would have caused an immediate flight of the whole population.

At night preparations were made for the expected sport. All the white man's protests fell upon deaf ears and after the village had been surrounded the slaughter commenced. Surprised while sleeping, the victims had not the slightest show against their murderous foes. Men, women and children were mingled in one indiscriminate slaughter. Fleeing naked, or nearly so, from their huts the Esquimaux were mercilessly speared to death as they ran. One young girl who threw herself at Hearne's feet and for whom he pleaded hard was speared while lying on the ground and she clung screaming to his knees while her slayers time and again thrust their weapons through her body. She died with her arms inextricably wound around the knees of one who would, if he could, have saved her. In a little while the savage work was over and not one of the Esquimaux escaped to carry the news to their companions. The Indians returned to their tents well pleased with the night's performance and after their return to Fort Prince of Wales recited the story to companions there with every sign of satisfaction.

The treaty of Utrecht in 1713, which ended a long and bitter war between France and England, had amongst its subsidiary effects the establishment of peace amongst the rival forces which had been contending for the fur trade of this continent and left the English traders of the far north free to pursue for sixty years the development of their lucrative business with the Indians around the Hudson Bay. No sooner had the sound of the guns of that intrepid French sailor d'Iberville died away than the Company of Adventurers trading into Hudson Bay began to actively exploit King Charles's license of possession.

Churchill Harbor was then the favorite harbor of the English seamen who visited Hudson Bay. It furnished the only good anchorage upon the western shore. The memory of burning forts and looted storehouses was vivid in the minds of the English traders, and they determined to erect here a fortress which should be able to withstand the strongest assaults and give protection to all vessels sheltered within the bay. In 1733 military engineers were brought out from England to plan the proposed fortress. A site was chosen on a rocky promontory which commands the entrance to the harbor. The plan adopted took the form of a square, each side being three hundred feet in length. There was a massive bastion at each corner. The foundations were made thirty feet in thickness and the walls had a width of twenty-five feet at the top. Three of the bastions had arches for storehouses 40 by 10 feet in dimension, and the fourth a magazine 24 by 10. This magazine connected with the other parts of the fort by covered ways. The faces of the walls were of hammer-dressed granite and the masonry was done by skilled English artisans brought out for the purpose. Within the square of the fort strong stone storehouses were built, each of which contained at times furs sufficient to pay a king's ransom. Residences were also built and everything made as nearly fireproof as possible. Forty-two cannons of the heaviest calibre known in those days furnished the armament of the fort and huge stores of ammunition and food were assembled and kept on hand against the day of siege.

The Indians who inhabited those regions gazed in wonder and admiration at those marvellous doings of the pale-faced invader of their domain and the fame of the great fort spread to the farthest corners of the North and West.

Sixty years of peace had its inevitable effect upon the watchfulness of the Hudson Bay Company. When the disastrous wars of the reign of George III. broke out the defences of Fort Prince of Wales were in a neglected condition. The officials at the fort had not the slightest hint of those events whereby the obstinacy of the English king provoked a rebellion in his American colonies and [illegible] a coalition to crush him. France, with bitter memories of past defeats, was ready enough to renew the struggle in the hope of completing the work begun by the American revolutionists of driving the English from this continent.

The rich booty to be had from a raid upon the Hudson Bay Company's posts was too tempting to be neglected, and when, on the 8th of August, 1782, the thirty-nine defenders of Fort Prince of Wales saw the bellying sails of three French men-of-war approaching their stronghold they were not long in discovering that this was no peaceful argosy which came to give them greeting. On the evening of that day the watchers on the walls saw pinnace, gig and longboat busy making soundings in the bay and later a landing party of four hundred men encamped upon the shores out of reach of the fort's guns. On the morning of the ninth, the French admiral, La Perouse, gave the order for attack, but before any shots had been fired the Hudson Bay people signified their willingness to surrender and so a bloodless victory over this great stronghold was obtained.

The French looted the fort thoroughly and spent two whole days and much of the captured powder in trying to blow it up. Their gunners also had some excellent practice at the walls. When they sailed away the fort was still standing as strongly as ever and the worst that the invaders had been able to do was to displace the guns and a few layers of granite stones from the top of the walls. Some damage had also been done to the gates in the bastions. Had it been properly manned and defended this fort was strong enough to have defied all the ships of war France had afloat at that time.

The conclusion of the war brought a bill from the governors of the Hudson Bay Company to the British Government for failure to protect the fort, and as France was the suppliant for peace she had to pay this bill in full as part of the terms of settlement.

Fort Prince of Wales was never restored to its former place in the organization of the Hudson Bay Company's forces. No attempt was made to replace the stones on the broken walls or to mount its guns again. The fort stands there to-day just as Perouse left it when he sailed away in 1782. The walls are as sound as ever and the dismounted guns lie scattered about the interior. Hardly less strong than Quebec, its design and armament perfect, this stronghold might still stand the fiercest siege operations. But it is interesting only as a relic of a day that is long gone by, the day of the Old Regime.

TELL 'EM BY THE SMELL.

Canadian Leaf Cigars to be Labelled Same as Imported.

The change to be made in the excise and import duties on tobacco will not be popular among western Canadian manufacturers, and it will make this difference, that when a smoker wishes to buy a box of cigars he will no longer be able to know from the Government stamp whether he is buying Canadian tobacco, imported tobacco or a mixture. Such were the statements made recently by representatives of some of the larger manufacturing concerns in the city. So far as the price of cigars or cigarettes is concerned there is likely to be little, if any, change. The makers of plug or cut tobacco state they do not yet know how the new scale will affect them.

The new law will, tobacco men say, place Canadian tobacco growing and the manufacture of domestic leaf cigars at a greater advantage. By the making of a uniform label the man on the street will no longer have the green, pink or black labels on his cigar boxes to indicate to him whether the box contains cigars of Canadian leaf, mixed leaf or pure foreign leaf. So far as cost is concerned, the foreign leaf cigarette and cigar will remain about the same owing to the fact that the reduction in excise duty is about balanced by the increase in import duty. The maker of large cigars will, however, have an increased cost by a slight percentage owing to the fact that he uses more tobacco to the thousand cigars. The reduced excise duty is on the thousand cigars, while the increased import duty takes effect on the weight of tobacco.

"The difference now," said one prominent manufacturer, "is that a man who wants a smoke will have to trust his dealer to tell him whether the cigars are made from imported or domestic leaf. For myself, I think this law is going to benefit the eastern Canada tobacco growers and cigar makers. We in the west can't use Canadian tobacco. It is no good and we don't like it. The action of the Government is in direct opposition to representations made by a large deputation of western manufacturers some time ago."

The effect of the change on plug and cut tobacco is occupying the manufacturers' attention very largely. The question is hard to answer, since the chewing tobacco contains large and varying percentages of foreign substances.

The Negative Optimist.

Let others go to hops and balls,
No shadow o'er my comfort falls.
I never feel I've lost a chance—
You see, I haven't learned to dance.
When winter comes, with snow and frost,
And coal bills bring their added cost,
For early spring I calmly wait—
You see I haven't learned to skate.

Modern Archaeology.

Pat was having an argument with a friend who was well posted in ancient history.

"How foolish of you to contend that the ancient Irish were more advanced than the ancient Egyptians," said his friend. "Why, the Egyptians must have even understood electricity, as wires corresponding to our own telegraph wires have been found in Egypt."

"That may be," answered Pat, "but the fact that no wires have been found in Ireland proves beyond a doubt that the Irish were in the habit of using wireless telegraphy."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Prejudice.

"Robert, this spelling paper is very poor," complained the small boy's teacher. "Nearly every word is misspelled wrong."

"It wouldn't have been so bad," protested Robert, "but Annie corrected my paper, and she's mad at me, and for every little letter that I got wrong she crossed out the whole word."—Lippincott's.

Clean Up Inside

Blood and System Cleansing in the Spring Makes Good Health All Summer

In spite of all your careful habits, its safe to say that in the spring you feel poorly—have a throbbing sensation in the head—skin is pale or yellow, with dark rings under the eyes. If not absolutely bilious the system is so full of bile that you feel heavy and tired all day long.

Clean up, work off the winter's accumulation of waste, purify your blood. Do this and you'll feel fresh as a prize-fighter. "For ten years, says W. B. Sangster, of Concord, I suffered greatly from impure blood, which made me feel debilitated and unfit for work. I had no appetite, suffered from indigestion and gas, had some pains in the back, caused by poor kidney action. Spring was the hardest time of all, and many a time I felt despondent and languid enough to throw up the sponge. I was impressed by the marvellous work done by Dr. Hamilton's Pills and tried them. They suited me exactly. In one week I felt like new. I was braced up, got rid of blood weakness, gained in flesh, had back my old time appearance and spirits. Dr. Hamilton's Pills will clean all the sickness out of a man in short order, and I urge young and old to use this grand tonic medicine."

Dr. Hamilton's Pills are a perfect spring medicine; they destroy germs and poisons of every description and strength, whereby the system rallies and the patient quickly enjoys the blessings of Perfect Health. Get Dr. Hamilton's Pills—to-day—25c at all dealers.

Inter-Church Debate on April 27th

The long-talked of debate between the young people's guilds of Knox and Park street churches will be held on Monday evening, April 27, at the Park street church. The subject is, "Resolved, That Asiatic Immigration Into Canada Should Be Prohibited." It has been expected for some time, and now that the date has been settled, the friends of both sides will await the meeting with interest. Park street church has the negative side, and Knox church the affirmative.

Coal Prices will Not be Raised

It seems that although two hundred and fifty thousand soft coal workers in the United States have gone out on strike that local prices for this class of coal will not be materially affected, at least not for some time to come. The coal barons have large supplies on hand and will probably be able to supply the demand for months to come. As far as hard or anthracite coal is concerned, the strike will not affect the prices of this commodity unless the strike is prolonged further, than at present anticipated.

Dr. Poole, V.S., Has Returned Home

Dr. Poole, Water street, has arrived home from England, after taking four months course studying at the Royal Veterinary College, London. The doctor left Peterborough on Dec. 14th with his wife and family. While in London he made his headquarters at Norwood, his former home. He left Liverpool on the Empress of Britain on Friday, April 3rd, arriving at St. Johns, N. F., Saturday morning, April 11th. Dr. Poole notes that many English immigrants are leaving by every steamer from England for Canada, looking for work.

Trouble Ceased

When Proper Food was Found

Good news benefits both parties—the teller and the one to whom the glad story is told.

A man out in Dakota told me his own man how he had been set on his feet, as it were, by a good doctor who knew how to treat stomach cases, in a really scientific way—by the use of proper food.

"About five years ago," writes the man, "I was suffering from dyspepsia, gas in the stomach, and I was on the verge of nervous prostration when I met a man who told me how he had been relieved of a similar trouble.

"He had suffered with stomach trouble for years as a result of eating improper food. He was at the time I write, doing the work of an ordinary laborer and said he never felt so well.

"His doctor had emptied the stomach and then prescribed nothing but Grape-Nuts, soft boiled eggs, and dry toast. He got well under this treatment. I followed his advice and lived on Grape-Nuts with cream, fruit and toast for a month. My trouble ceased almost immediately.

"The strengthening effect on my nerves was so gradual I can't just tell when I began to improve, but in a few weeks I could sit contendedly for hours whereas before I was restless and nervous. In a month or two I could sleep the moment I lay down.

"When my little boy was a year and a half old he had a bad attack of indigestion while I was away from home. He vomited four days and nights. I had never seen Grape-Nuts recommended for babies but I decided I would try it. I warmed and softened the food in water that had been boiled, 2 teaspoonfuls water, 3 teaspoonfuls rich milk.

"As his stomach got better, I left out the water and used only warm milk. He is now a strong, active child of two years and eats Grape-Nuts three times a day." "There's a Reason."

MENACE TO THE COUNTRY.

Undesirable People Pouring Into Canada, Says Sir Mortimer Clark.

Speaking at a recent banquet of the Irish Protestant Benevolent Society in Toronto, Sir W. Mortimer Clark, Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario, touched on the serious aspect of the influx into Canada, and into Ontario especially, of undesirable immigrants, not only from foreign lands, but from England, Ireland and Scotland.

Replying to the toast, "The Governor-General of Canada and the Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario," his honor expressed regret that he could not boast Irish blood in his veins. "Gatherings such as this," said he, "serve to stir up in our hearts that patriotic feeling which is so necessary to the character of good citizens. It does not signify that because your patriotism is roused by memories of Ireland you are any the less true citizens of this newer land Canada. Indeed you and all of us, English, Scotch or Irish are but the better citizens of Canada as a part of the British Empire because of our love for the old land.

"But, gentlemen, I have to speak of a serious matter. We must all stand together Irish, English and Scotch. Our province is in a crucial stage at present. The influx of new population, of people who have had strange ideas about liberty and religion, is endangering out state. These people come here believing that liberty means license, and as such are a menace to our institutions. A class of people come here who call themselves English or Irish or Scotch. True, they are British-born, but they are not British at heart. They are the children of foreign parents who came to the British Islands years before. The babies were born in the islands, but they were partakers of foreign dispositions. They are not bred to the principles we know of, and might at the ballot-box seriously injure us.

"It is, gentlemen, a most serious question with which we must grapple. The United States, our neighbors to the south, have had, no doubt, the same troubles, and have to some extent assimilated this objectionable element in their population. But you must have noticed how crime is on the increase in Canada; crime of an abominable character. Evil deeds are rife in this land which we never knew before. Our nation was a better one before these people came. I am glad, and we should all be glad, that our questions of state and our institutions had been so largely settled before these people came.

"I tell you, this province of Ontario is the greatest province in the British Empire. We have great natural resources; our men and women have great physique and mental capacity, but, above all, we must give character to our people. Let us unite to maintain our institutions intact, to carry on to greater grandeur the Imperial character of our British Empire."

TALES FROM NOVA SCOTIA.

Why Sandy Quit the Farm—Could Not Stand Brakeshaw.

Some time ago a young fellow was brought up before the magistrates of a district in the English border of Nova Scotia, charged with deserting his work on a certain farm, without giving due notice to his employer. On being asked what he had to say in his defence, he replied in the curious "minced Scotch" spoken by that hybrid race:

"Weel, they gied me nout but brakeshaw to eat." Brakeshaw, it may be explained, is the flesh of animals which have died a natural death.

"How was that?" asked the magistrate.

"Weel, it was this way. Ye ken, the auld coo deed an' we ate it, the auld steg (gander) deed an' we ate it, the auld soo (sow) deed an' we ate it, the auld bubblejock deed an' we ate it. Then the auld woman deed—an' I left."

In the same district lived a curious old character, who, in his later days came to Canada and settled in the Western Peninsular. He was employed as cattle man on a farm belonging to a wealthy gentleman farmer, and his duties included the care of a valuable bull. One day the bull got loose and made a raid upon old John, who, armed with a pitchfork, executed a masterly retrograde movement to the "muck midden," where the bull, sadly encumbered with the softness of the ground, found his mobility greatly hampered, and was finally mastered without much difficulty. A few hours afterwards the mother of his employer, a pious old lady, said to him: "John, that was a very narrow escape. You should thank the Lord for saving your life."

"Hoot," snorted John contemptuously, with all the freedom of an ancient and privileged retainer, "if it had na been for that muck midden, a' the Gods in Heaven wadna hae saved me."

A highly respected divine in Nova Scotia recently made the following "break" in the course of an eloquent and pathetic sermon on the Prodigal Son: "I think, brethren, of the feelings of the father who had been keeping the fatted calf for years and years in expectation of his son's return."

When the King Came.

The proposed visit of the Prince of Wales to Canada to represent the King at the tercentenary of Champlain's foundation of Quebec recalls the fact that nearly 48 years have gone since King Edward first climbed the heights of Quebec and captured every heart in Canada. "His youth and dignified manner," wrote the wife of the Archdeacon of St. John's, Newfoundland, where the Prince landed on July 24, 1860, "seem to have touched all hearts; for there is scarcely a man or woman who can speak of him without tears. The rough fishermen and their wives are quite wild about him. Their most frequent exclamation is "God bless his pretty face and send him a good wife." At Quebec his Royal Highness was received with the greatest enthusiasm, the French-Canadians, to quote Mrs. Belloc-Lowndes, "showing their delight in the most extravagant fashion."

A arket Weigh Scales Tested

Yesterday afternoon Mr. Howson, Dominion Government Inspector of Weights and Measures was busily engaged in testing the large platform and other scales on the market square. The testing of the large platform scales involved bringing to the office, recently put in charge of Market Clerk George Bill, of a pile, somewhat resembling cordwood of fifty pound weights. The smaller scales were found fairly correct, but the large platform scales were found to be about thirty pounds astray. This discrepancy will be adjusted today. It required a two-horse conveyance to bring the weights required to test the scale referred to.

Home Isolation Hospital is Preferable to the Isolation Hospital System, Says Dr. McNulty

Yesterday morning the Board of Health met in the usual place when Dr. McNulty, read a most comprehensive paper dealing with the treatment of infectious diseases. As a result a unanimous vote of thanks was passed to the writer of this important document which read as follows:—

Gentlemen,—I think it is full time that a systematic and concerted effort should be made to evolve some definite plan of dealing with infectious cases in our midst. We have enjoyed almost complete immunity from this class of disease for the last three years and it is very largely owing to this fact that no headway has been made in regard to formulating a plan of procedure in the event of an epidemic arising. The Board and the local press have lately reagitated the question and in the hope that something definite may soon be accomplished, I wish to place before you the more recent opinions of those who have made the subject a special study. These opinions are so at variance to the commonly accepted views of the question that they will come as a surprise to most of you, but they are so formed on careful observation and prolonged study as to be beyond contravention, and it follows that a complete revision of our methods of isolation seems inevitable. The two main conclusions that have been fairly drawn are:—

1. That hospital isolation, after long years of trial, has utterly failed in controlling either the incidence or mortality rate of scarlet fever.

2. That this disease has increased in prevalence almost pari passu with increased provision for its isolation.

These are the conclusions drawn by sanitarians in England who have spent a life time in the study of the question. In that country each county is divided into rural and urban districts over which Medical Health Officers are appointed. In probably one-half of these districts isolation hospitals have been erected, and in the government returns it has been found that those districts with isolation hospitals invariably have a higher percentage of cases and higher percentage of deaths than those districts without hospitals. While this seems somewhat paradoxical the facts admit of ready explanation. In dealing first with those districts without isolation hospitals it has been noted that an epidemic of infectious diseases arises with a fairly marked degree of regularity. Every four or five years, or sometimes longer, a great number of cases suddenly crop up, rigid home isolation is followed and the epidemic, after a varying time, subsides, to be followed by another period of almost complete immunity. Such in fact has been the experience of this city. Three years ago, both scarlet fever and diphtheria, were very prevalent; some of the cases were, at that time, treated in the hospitals, but many of the cases were taken care of at home, and it was only when the hospitals refused further admission, that the epidemic subsided, and now for three years we have enjoyed almost complete freedom from these two diseases. This circumstance of periodic outbreaks, and subsequent periods of immunity, has been noted repeatedly in dozens of health districts in England, in which no isolation hospitals existed. The disease in these epidemic is mild in its nature and the mortality low.

In the hospital districts, on the other hand, these diseases have been consistently prevalent, year after year, the form of the disease more malignant and the mortality higher. In accounting for this, at least, one factor is manifest in the "infecting case," which so frequently results from the aggregation of patients in hospital wards, patients, who, after their discharge from hospital, effuse infection and generate "return" cases; in fact, the hospital feeds itself with patients, and thus converts an epidemic disease into a continuous or endemic one. Of course, an effort is made in every case to render the patient and his clothing free from infection before his discharge; but in the case of scarlet fever, we have not as yet discovered the causative germ, and so we do not know the exact conditions under which it exists, the length of its life's history, nor is there any certain means of ascertaining whether the discharged patient is infected or not; in fact, it is impossible to fix a time, when infection after scarlet fever cases, and so it has been repeatedly observed, that a fresh series of cases arise in the home or neighbourhood, to which a discharged patient has been sent. For this reason these diseases are forever present, and once an isolation hospital has been established in a district, to cope with an epidemic, it is practically never afterwards able to close its doors or cease from its labours.

To appreciate the ensuing facts, it must be understood that the severity of all infectious diseases depends upon two factors, the virulence of the individual germ, and the strength or resistance of the patient. Germs differ in their strength, just as human beings do, and, as we may have a robust, powerful man, or a weakly, delicate one, so we may have a strong, violent germ, or a weak, almost harmless one. An infection with the former would induce a severe, probably fatal, attack of the disease, whereas, an infection with the latter would be followed by a mild attack. The second factor, the resistance of the patient, also comes into play; a strong, healthy man or child, exposed to infection by a weak germ, would probably not contract the disease at all, only the more delicate of these exposed would become ill, and so, in a general way, the varying severity of infectious diseases depends upon the variation in virulence of the germ, and the variation in the strength of the patient. It is from this fact that, in mixing up mild cases with severe cases in open wards, the symptoms of the former often become aggravated; the mild cases contract the more severe form, and, in fact, convalescents have been re-infected by a freshly admitted patient ill with infectious trouble in a more virulent state. For this reason the mortality in hospital districts is higher, as shown by statistical reports. It is aggregation, and not aggregation of patients that is found, and this has so far been recognized by the French physicians, that in an endeavour to overcome this defect of hospital isolation, each patient in the hospitals of Paris is placed in a closed glass cubicle. In fact, an ordinary case of scarlet fever has a better chance of speedy recovery at home, if proper nursing is provided, and the risk of the infection spreading in the household, however poorly circumstanced it may be, is not nearly so great as is generally believed. For example, in the districts without hospitals, more than half the cases notified were single cases, that which proves that effective isolation at home is possible, when supervised by an intelligent person. This disease is no longer characterized by its old terrors, and yet much of the old dread attaching to it remains. Thirty years ago, the reported mortality was estimated at from seven to ten per cent., but of late years it has only varied from one and a half to two per cent. In fact, the type of the disease has become so mild that many cases escape notification altogether, and herein lies, in a large measure, the explanation of the inefficiency of hospital isolation as a preventive measure. Virulent attacks may follow in those exposed to infection from a mild case, the germ of a mild case attaching itself to a susceptible person might engender a severe form of the disease. In this way great mischief is wrought by mild, unrecognized, ambulatory cases. In over fifty per cent. of initial cases in households, there has not been the semblance of any direct exposure to the infection of a notified case. In other words, the disease has been derived from an unascertained source, and so hospital isolation, or no hospital isolation, the real diffuser of infection, the transient, unnotified case, remains untouched.

In hospitals are placed not the patients who most commonly spread the disease but others who would in any case be kept under observation and more or less effectively isolated, at least from other households. Until some reliable method of locating unnotified cases is evolved, hospital isolation must obviously be ineffacacious. Another important fact repeatedly noted is the incapacity of many children, who have successfully attained through the initial stages of an epidemic, to resist the "return" type of infection. A more virulent type of disease is fostered by the aggregation of scarlet fever patients in isolation hospitals, and so a child admitted with a mild attack, which the other children of the household were able to resist, becomes contaminated in the hospital with a more virulent germ, returns home after a varying time, diffuses the germ of a more virulent type, which, in time is unable to overcome the resistance of the other children and so a fresh series of cases develop. This sequence of events has been repeatedly observed in the quarter of a century that isolation hospitals have been on trial and has led the medical health officer of Sheffield to write "that our scarlet fever hospitals must be regarded as a last resort for those unfortunate patients who cannot be possibly treated in their homes."

From the foregoing fact it follows that houses from which patients went to hospital presented subsequent cases more often than those in which patients remained at home. Even before the removal of the patient the rest of the household have been exposed to infection, exposed in fact very often before the physician has been called in, and then whether fresh cases appear in the household or not does not depend on the removal of the patient, but on the resistance or state of health of the others in the family. No object is sequestering a patient at great cost in an isolation hospital after he has come in contact with the rest of the household; treatment can be as effectively carried out at home. If a trained nurse is in attendance, and in addition the disturbance of removal, and the patient's usual dread of a hospital, have a depressing effect on the case.

Then again mistaken diagnosis sometimes occurs, the patient may be hurried away to the hospital, suffer the consequence of isolation and probably contract, or in any case be brought into hourly contact with real infectious cases. This grave danger would be rendered impossible if the patient was intelligently isolated at home and the progress of the case carefully observed. Besides of what use would an ordinary isolation hospital be in the presence of an epidemic; no hospital of ordinary capacity could afford accommodation for all the cases. The plans for the proposed local hospital allow for between twenty and thirty beds, but no great purpose would be served in isolating twenty or thirty, if one hundred or more were affected in the city. In addition a very grave danger attaches to the isolation of cases of scarlet fever and diphtheria in the town's hospital, the danger of "cross infection." The scarlet fever patient in his weakened condition might easily fall a prey to diphtheria, and the diphtheric patient might as easily contract scarlet fever, when both are kept under the same roof no matter how carefully otherwise kept apart. The danger is still further enhanced if we must at the same time afford accomodation for other infectious cases such as mumps, chicken pox, measles, etc. A patient would be fortunate indeed who could safely run the gamut of these additional infections.

These are some good points that practically all who have given the subject special attention are agreed upon. A medical investigator, officially appointed, looking into 25,000 cases of scarlet fever, reports adversely on hospitals. The same applies to diphtheria, the prevention and cure of which rests upon the antitoxine treatment, and not hospital isolation. The British Medical Journal and the Lancet advocate the appointment of a Royal Commission to look into the whole question. So does also the Society of Medical Officers of Health and the Congress of the Royal Institute of Public Health. They ask the question whether isolation is a very considerable cost to the community, of a disease in which no one can fix with certainty the time when a patient is free from infection, is worth the labour and expense involved.

The above facts apply to hospitals as they exist today. The fault may be with the system of administration and not be inherent in hospitals themselves. One can imagine the ideally conducted hospital, to which scarcely any of the above objections would be applied. Such a hospital would be on the cottage system, with a separate building and separate nursing staff for each class of infectious trouble, to have in fact, no communication whatever between the buildings allotted to the various diseases, the buildings to have terrazzo or tile floors and polished cement walls, to allow of frequent flushing with the hose and antiseptics. Each patient is to be kept separate from other patients to avoid infection. This might be done by giving each a private ward or enclosing him in a glass vehicle. Nurses also to be allotted to the mild cases and to be kept apart from those cattending the more severe ones. Patients not to be discharged directly to their homes, but sent to convalescent institutions and kept there under observation for some time. Such a plan as this would be expensive in the extreme, but if adopted would probably overcome many of the objections raised against hospitals as particularly nowadays conducted. But there is no hope or expectation of the money being found for such an ideal place, and so to otherwise meet conditions as they exist. The following is an alternative:—

1. Active sanitary administration and effective method of disinfection.

2. Intelligent home isolation, the municipality to supply the nurse, and in diphtheria the antitoxine, in the case of indigent patients, and also to pay the wages of the breadwinner of the family and keep him at home to pay his board outside and allow him to continue at work.

3 In exceptional cases, in the homes of dressmakers, school teachers, hotels, etc., to have patient removed to a hospital, some a number of which should be always available and placed under the care of a nurse and medical health officer, or attending physician; double walled tents with kitchen outfit, are supplied for this purpose, are warm and comfortable, even in mid-winter, and can be thoroughly disinfected after each case.

The arrangement of the fine points of this plan is left to the sanitary medical health officer. The equipment to accommodate in tents a few cases of each class of infectious diseases should always be immediately available; arrangements should be entered into with all resident nurses and a list of their addresses kept; a good supply of antitoxin should be always on hands and as the details so perfected as to allow of prompt and decisive action on the appearance of the early cases. The cost to the municipality of this plan would be 1-4 to 1-3 the cost of maintaining an isolation hospital; such has been the result where the two methods have been compared. With a less cost and a more effective control of these diseases. I submit that we should be guided by the experience of those in a wide field and not infinite practice these more advanced measures.

Says That Canadians Are Negligent of Family Duties

One of the results of the recent difficulty between Canada and Japan has been the publication of a Japanese book containing some rather curious observations, and reflections upon Canada and Canadian affairs. The book is entitled "John Bull's Eldest Born," and consists of a series of letters, addressed to an official of the Japanese Government, and purporting to be written by one of those young men Japan sends abroad to study conditions and customs in foreign lands.

In these letters the author gives us a satiric picture of Canada, its institutions, customs and characteristics. Sometimes the picture seems a bit overdrawn, and at others the satire seems rather obscure; but even when flagellating our most cherished illusions the author shows a spirit of such good humor, and withal so much friendliness and genuine admiration, that it is difficult to take umbrage. In any case these letters are not without interest as showing the impressions of a representative of a very old civilization, as well of a nation with which we are evidently destined to have large dealings in the future. A translation of the first letter, in which the writer, personifying Canada under the title of Mr. John Beaver, deals with certain aspects of our national character, etc., is given herewith:

To the Marquis Hashibito, at the Court of the Son of Heaven:—

Illustrious Masuro:

In pursuance with your august commands I set myself to the task of giving you some account of Mr. John Beaver, his household, and affairs, trusting that if my performance jump not with your expectations, your condescension will impute it, not to the insignificance of my intentions, nor any lack of zeal in commission, but to the meanness of my abilities. Know then, most honorable Lord, that I arrived in safety at Mr. Beaver's country, and was received with much ceremony and some pomp. Many of Mr. Beaver's household officers were on hand to greet me, and so great was their solicitude for my health, and so vigorous their efforts to acquaint themselves with my business, and facilitate me therein, that I was touched to a degree. But in time these ceremonies were over, and I was graciously given the freedom of their master's household, and here I have dwelt some space, making observation of many things, and reflecting deeply upon them.

As you have already heard, my Lord, Mr. Beaver owns a very vast estate, well diversified with wood and water; and upon it he grazes many cattle and raises much grain and other fruits of the field. Also of towns he owns not a few; and in these he has many people employed in diverse industries. Indeed, his estate is so vast, his enterprises so manifold, that no words of mine are big enough to describe them.

Also, I fear I will be able to give you but a very inadequate picture of Mr. Beaver himself, for his personality betakes of much of the indefiniteness and heterogenity of his possessions.

Imagine, then, a young man of some stature, ruddy of face, and sturdy of limb—a strong, ambitious, self-confident man, full of enterprise and energy, and withal as deliberate in his motions as a machine; and as tireless. In spite of his great wealth or perhaps because of it—this young man is as industrious as a farmer, and in many respects as thrifty as a village merchant. A very glutton for work, and full of plans for the improvement of his estate, he is always busy—so busy, indeed, that he takes no time to cultivate the graces of life. In short the young man has all the virtues of his sire, our very good friend, Mr. John Bull—and, alas! none of the old gentleman's fine vices.

Mr. Bull, as you know, is a great worker and a fine business man; but also he is a man of some sentiment, and loves his hour of relaxation and social fellowship. When the toils of the day are over, he is not above resorting to the village ale-house and indulging in the delights of boon companionship. Open-hearted, free-handed, his temper mellowed by the years, he enjoys the convivial moment. None is fonder of the long and windy argument with his neighbors; and none can sing a lustier stave. And if sometimes the old gentleman gets in his cups and sets the neighborhood by the ears, yet, because of the greatness of his heart, he always retains the respect of the world. But young Mr. Beaver wastes not his time nor substance in the village tavern. All his thoughts are focussed upon the problem of making money, and ever more money, though to tell the truth he is not at all avaricious, for he does not seek money for itself but as a means of improving his estate. All day he rushes about as if possessed with a demon of energy, and in the evening he shuts himself in his office and labors over plans of new enterprises and improvements till the night is far spent. Indeed, the young man's love of work and lust of achievement has become a sort of besetting sin with him.

As you might imagine, Mr. Beaver, being thus absorbed in business affairs is often grossly negligent of his family duties. True, he keeps a good house and never stints his wife in money matters; but for all that his attitude to his wife and children leaves much to be desired. When he took unto himself his present wife she was a fine, pleasant-mannered young woman, famed for her industry and thrift and of good repute for virtue; though there were spiteful rivals who declared that she had previously compromised herself by an outrageous flirtation with Sammy Longshanks. But be that as it may, Mr. John was much enamored of her sunny ways, and her brilliant rendering of his favorite song Economy, and after a fervent courtship, he made her mistress of his household, gave her a very liberal allowance, and then went back to his work.

At first the young wife took great interest in her household affairs, and labored hard and earnestly to keep things clean and bright and never wasted a penny. But when she that her husband was quite indifferent to her doings, she lost interest, and gradually fell from grace. Like many another young woman, brought up in a poor if honest family, and suddenly placed in control of a great house and much money, and left to her own devices, she couldn't withstand the insidious assaults of prosperity. Ere long she contracted a love of ease and luxury, and grew fond of extravagant display, splendid equipages, balls, masquerades, wine, graft and other unseemly things. Also, not finding in her husband the affection a young wife expects, she sought it elsewhere, and surrounded herself with a galaxy of gay young sparks. And so lightheartedly she pranced down the primrose path of dalliance, corrupting herself and all John's household, growing greedy of lewd gossip, and learning to cap the most lascivious tale with a fantastic invention of her own prurient imagination, showering John's money upon her favorites, becoming ever more free in her speech, and loose in her manners, till her conduct has become the scandal of the whole community.

But Mr. Beaver is still too absorbed in his businesses to notice any faults in his spouse, or the grave disorders brought upon his household by her grotesque extravagance and wantonness. And what is very strange even the very pointed hints of his neighbors, and especially of his sire, John Bull, do not seem to stir his suspicions. It would almost seem as if the young man thought so well of himself that it is quite impossible for him to imagine that he could make a mistake. In so simple a matter as that of choosing a wife. But be that as it may he affords another illustration of the truth of the saying that the husband is the last man in the neighborhood to know his own dishonor.

And if Mr. Beaver is an indifferent husband, he is also an unsatisfactory sort of father, for in his treatment of his sons he shows the same lack of sentiment. Although reputed to be wealthier in proportion to the size of his family than his neighbor, Sammy Longshanks, he does not spend on the education of one of his sons one-half what his neighbor does; and more than that, when he looks over his estates and thinks of the improvements he would like to make, he often grudges the money he does spend for this purpose. About the only way to induce him to make adequate provision for the education of his children is to persuade him that good schooling makes his sons better workers and money-getters.

Certainly the young man has little of that love of wisdom, per se, the ancients had. Self-made, and bumptiously satisfied with the results of his own work, he realizes not the limitations of his outlook upon life; and, finding in his business enterprises full play for his not very wide range of faculties, he looks with disapproval upon those of his sons who would grasp at new aspirations and larger ideals, and dare to imagine that the purpose of life might be more fully fulfilled by seeking to unfold and round out all their powers and faculties than by concentrating their thoughts and energies upon the business of making money. But what would you expect of a man so strong and domineering, so much in love with himself, and so full of the pride of possession? Quite naturally he expects his sons to trim themselves to his own peculiar pattern, and follow in his well-proved, if austere and colorless way of life; and naturally, too, he regards with the resentment always felt towards the incomprehensible those who cannot or will not adapt themselves to his rigid moulds, and, as it were, would set themselves up to be better than the old man. To the former he is not lacking in consideration; when he thinks about it he sets them up in life, though less as matter of sentiment than of business—much as he might, for instance, set up a new barn for his cattle. But for the latter he has only a harsh countenance or good-natured contempt; and as you may readily imagine many of them run away from home at the Weak women get prompt and lasting help by using Dr. Shoop's Night Cure. These soothing, healing, antiseptic suppositories, with full information how to proceed are interestingly told of in my book "No. 4 For Women". The book and strictly confidential medical advice is entirely free. Simply write Dr. Shoop, Racine, Wis., for my book No. 4, Sold by all dealers.

Bad Symptoms.

The woman who has periodical headaches, backache, sees imaginary dark spots or specks floating or dancing before her eyes, has gnawing distress or heavy full feeling in stomach, faint spells, dragging-down feeling in lower abdominal or pelvic region, easily startled or excitable, irregular or painful periods, with or without pelvic catarrh, is suffering from weaknesses and derangements that should have early attention. Not all of these symptoms are likely to be present in any case at one time.

Neglected or badly treated and such cases often run into maladies which demand the surgeon's knife if they do not result fatally.

No medicine extant has such a [illegible] and numerous record of cures in such cases as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. No medicine has such a [illegible] profession's indorsement of its [illegible] several ingredients—worth more than a number of ordinary non-professional testimonials. The very best ingredients known to medical science for the cure of woman's peculiar ailments enter into its composition. No alcohol, harmful habit-forming drug is to be found in the list of its ingredients printed on every bottle-wrapper and attested under oath.

In any condition of the female system, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the only good—never harm. Its whole mission is to strengthen, invigorate and regulate the whole female system and cure disease of the pelvic organs. When these are deranged in function or affected by disease, the stomach and other organs of digestion become sympathetically deranged, the nerves are weakened, and a long train of bad, unpleasant symptoms follow. Not much must not be expected of this "Favorite Prescription." It will not perform miracles; will not cure tumors—no medicine will. It will often prevent them, if taken in time, and thus the operating table and the surgeon's knife may be avoided.

Women suffering from diseases of long standing, are invited to consult Dr. R. V. Pierce by letter, free. All correspondence is held as strictly private and sacredly confidential. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser (1008 pages) is sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps for paper-covered, or 50 stamps for cloth-bound copy. Address as above.

Teaching Children to Save.

Most children are born spendthrifts, and it usually requires more than the gentle art of persuasion to influence them in cultivating the habit of saving. Many methods were tried with my young son, says Sada Ballard in Good Housekeeping, but the confectionery store proved more enticing than trick animals, banks, musical combinations and the general run of things held out to induce the small boy to hoard his pennies. At last I hit upon a happy expedient in a small glass jar with a top that screwed on. In this receptacle the pennies were discernible and get-at-able, so that in keeping track of how many he had the child learned to count. Then he took great delight in saving to see how many the bottle would hold. When it was full a larger bottle was provided, with the contents of the small bottle for a nest egg, and now the boy is proud of his large bottleful of pennies ready to be put in a real bank.

The Japanese Towel.

American women have liked the little Japanese towels ever since they were introduced in this country. This homely necessity is homely only in its usage, for the prints are pretty, resembling some splendid stencil effects. If a number are whipped together, they make the neatest kind of a couch cover; two serve for a roomy pillow cover; one folded makes a laundry bag; they are neat for the dresser, washstand or buffet. The towel is a yard in length and fifteen inches in width. The material looks like a good quality of cheesecloth, and the stencil effect is made in blue, green and red, and often a little black is seen. One can get them in the department stores, but they can always be purchased in any of the Japanese departments.

To Make Wrinkled Sleeves.

The amateur in making her own lingerie waist will have trouble with the sleeves. She will be uncertain upon the long wrinkled sleeve, and should she decide upon the long wrinkled sleeve she will scarcely know how to make the sleeve wrinkle as it should. There should be many tiny little folds laid side by side, evenly and with method, and extending down right to the knuckles, where there is a wired point.

A Practical Gift.

One of the most practical gifts received by a recent bride was a set of sachets just the size for closet shelves, trunks, cedar chests and bureau drawers. They were made of fine sheer flowered batiste, with wide hems all around. Each has one side left open for refilling. The filling was cotton batting rolled in sandalwood sawdust, one of the bete noires of the moth and a delight to the human nose.

To Protect Silk Stockings.

In these days of low shoes and thin stockings it is most discouraging for a woman to find that her taut hose supporters have ruined her only pair of silk stockings at the first wearing. When the stocking supporters are fastened to stockings, put a small twofold piece of tissue paper on both sides of the stockings and fasten the clasp upon this paper. It will not tear the holes that are the despair of a tidy woman.

For Finger Bowls.

A woman with a mild mania for things Japanese had little wicker baskets placed before each guest when finger bowls might have been expected. In each basket was a folded napkin of unmistakably Japanese material made moist, but not dripping, with perfumed water. Following the example of the host, each guest seized his napkin and used it, still folded, on lips and fingers.

A Good Curtain Hint.

Lace curtains when pinned on drying frames always stretch more at one end than at the other or in the middle. To avoid this and also to keep them always of their original length, before they are laundered the first time I baste a narrow strip of cloth on each side and across the top. By so doing they come from the wash even in size and absolutely true.

A little arrowroot inclosed in a muslin bag and placed in the water in which handkerchiefs are boiled will give the latter a faint and agreeable scent when ironed. If borax is added to the water in which they are finally rinsed, they will assume the right degree of stiffness without being hard, as if actually starched.

Japan is perhaps the only country in the world where the fashions in women's dress have not changed materially in 2,000 years.

Piles are easily and quickly checked with Dr. Shoop's Magic Ointment. To prove it I will mail a small trial box as a convincing test. NOW LISTEN!

Please read carefully what follows, and if you decide to take advantage of what the "Canada Southern Oil & Gas Co., Limited," of Tilbury, Ont (no personal liability), is now offering you, the result will be that instead of getting 3 per cent. for your savings, you will get at least from 10 to 25 per cent. that others are harvesting.

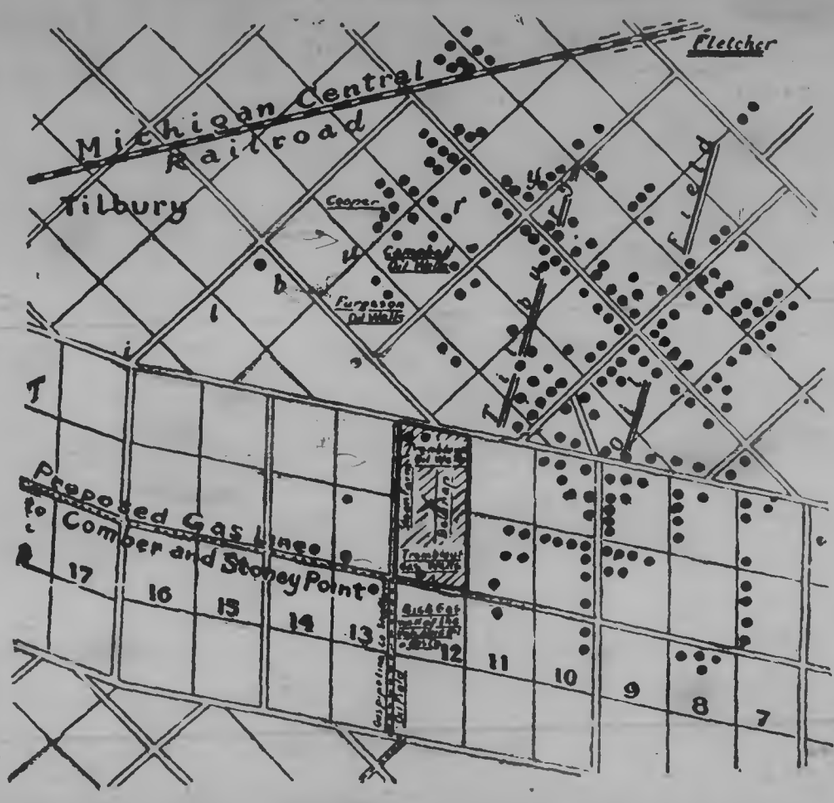
Your savings will be eight times more than the original amount by the mere fact of the higher rate of interest you will get.

Remember that this is no wildcat scheme, as you can see by the facts hereinafter mentioned.

Dr. Bel, the famous Canadian geologist, early in 1878 reported that there was an oil and gas field in the Townships of Tilbury and Romney County of Kent, Ont. As soon as the discovery of the oil was made in Tilbury in 1906, our American neighbors, who are experts in good things, did not hesitate to invest hundreds of thousands of dollars, and now, in fact, control the two thirds interest in our oil field of Tilbury; and this happened because we Canadians hesitated to invest a few thousand dollars in the exploration of the oil mines of Tilbury, which already give a monthly production valued at $75,000, without adding the revenue derived from the gas.

We have said that this is not a wildcat scheme, because the "Canadian Southern Oil & Gas Co., Limited," has secured an option at a very moderate price on properties situated in the oil and gas field of Tilbury, upon which three successful tests have been made, being Lot No. 12, M. R. N., Tilbury East, 200 acres, indicated with a cross upon the map of the field.

COUNTY of KENT, ONTARIO



There wells only have been drilled at an average depth of 1,400 feet.

The first one proves to be a rich gas well, the two others are good oil wells, combined with a strong production of gas.

The Company has also secured the franchises for the distribution and sale of natural gas into the Townships of Romney, Tilbury East, North and West and also into the thriving villages of Comber and Stoney Point.

The gas well is properly equipped and already is supplying the motor power to the Romney oil field and is getting one-third of the gross revenue of the gas sold.

The oil wells are completely equipped with one 15 h. p. gas engine, derrick, tanks, boiler, pumps, tubing, pipe-line, jerk-line, jack, etc., and are producing daily. The oil is sold to The Imperial Oil Company, Limited, and is delivered at the tanks and shipped through its pipe-line to their Marquette R. R. Station at Merlin, a distance of 3 miles.

Our properties are already giving daily a net revenue of about $35.00 —that is to say, more than 10 per cent. of the whole capital stock of the Company.

This revenue may be made four times greater by the drilling of other wells and the construction of the gas-line to Comber and Stoney Point.

Fritz Cirkel, Esq., of Montreal, consulting mining engineer and mineralogist to the Dominion Government, who lately made an inspection in said property, concluded his report as follows:

"In summarizing the actual results already obtained from the operations about [illegible] wells the writer is forced to the conclusion that the property under consideration is a very valuable one. Located as it is in the western extremity of the producing Tilbury oil field, in close proximity to wells which produce from 40 to 60 barrels of oil (and even more) per day of 24 hours (I refer to the Ferguson Campbell and Cooper properties, located about 2,000 feet distant to the north, see plan attached hereto), it bids fair to become a producer of oil and natural gas of no small measure.

The Tilbury field has already the reputation of being a large producer and powerful companies have entered the district with a view of securing properties of known and established value.

There is one factor to which I would like to draw your special attention and that is the future of natural gas. To-day, the market in that in that part of the country, for this commodity is not sufficiently large to dispose of all the gas the wells can produce but there is no question that in the near future factories will be established on central points, which will eventually consume for various purposes, especially for power, all the gas which can be produced in the field.

Besides this there are quite a number of towns and villages in the western part of the Niagara Peninsula, which may use the gas for heating, lighting, and also for power purposes and it is only a question of time when this will be realized.

The economy of the application of natural gas to power purposes is already evidenced all through the field, as coal or any other power cannot be regularly obtained, and that at high figures. Having therefore, a powerful gas well on the (Sloan) property, it is evident that a great saving is effected from this source alone; for instance, for the operation of ten oil wells, the cost of power required per day would amount to between twenty and twenty-five dollars, which, in 300 working days per year, would represent a saving of from six thousand to seven thousand five hundred dollars.

In conclusion, I may say that this property, with proper and economic management, can be made highly remunerative; I entertain, no doubt, that if properly developed, it will show similar results as those of so many other locations in the vicinity, whose developments have of so many other locations in the vicinity, whose developments have been so vigorously pushed in the east.

Respectfully submitted,
(Signed) FRITZ CIRKEL.

Calumet, Mancos' Oil and Mining Company's Stock

Par value $1.00

What they offer at 25c per Share for a short time

The property is situated at Mancos, Colo., and consists of 160 acres, fully paid for. The Company expects to secure at least 400 acres or more, we are negotiating for it now and the terms are satisfactory and there is coal on the same, and they also intend to secure some Coal Mines of which they have the refusal. Some of the best coal mines in Colorado are in this district, as well as some of the richest gold and silver mines. In fact this is one of the richest parts for mineral in the State of Colorado, and the Company has the refusal to several prospects on reasonable and easy terms.

In our opinion the prospects of the Company are very bright and a rapid advance in the price of the stock is sure to take place in the near future. Full information can be had by calling at our office.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTHWEST HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-agency for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an Agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the homestead duties under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of a homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father or mother.

(4) The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5) A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing must be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa, of intention to apply for patent.

"How do you know Tray?"

"Because I met him at Pash's office several times when I was up. He ran errands for Pash before he became regularly employed. I saw that Tray was a devil of whom I could make use. Oh, I know Tray, and I know also Hekar, the Indian, who placed the sugar on the counter. He went to the shop to kill your father at my request. I wanted revenge and the money. Hekar was saved from starvation by my good mother. He came of the race of thugs, if you know anything about them."

"Oh," moaned Sylvia, covering her face again.

"Ah, you do. So much the better. It will save my explaining, as there is not much time left before your fool arrives. Hekar saw that I loved to hurt living creatures, and he taught me how to strangle cats and dogs and things. No one knew but Hekar that I killed them, and it was thought he ate them. But he didn't. I strangled them because I loved to see them suffer and because I wished to learn how to strangle in the way the thugs did."

Sylvia was sick with fear and disgust. "For God's sake, don't tell me any more," she said imploringly.

But she might as well have spoken to a granite rock. "You shall hear everything," said Maud relentlessly. "I asked Hekar to strangle Krill. He went to the shop, but when he saw that Krill had only one eye he could not offer him to the goddess Bhowanee. He came to me at Judson's hotel after he left the sugar on the counter and told me the goddess would not accept the offering of a maimed man. I did not know what to do. I went with my mother to Pash's office when she was arranging to prosecute Krill for bigamy. I met Tray there. He told me he had given the brooch to Pash and that it was in the inner office. My mother was talking to Pash within, and I chatted to Tray outside. I told Tray I wanted to kill Krill and that if he would help me I would give him a lot of money. He agreed, for he was a boy such as I was when a girl—fond of seeing things suffer. You can't wonder at it in me," went on Miss Krill coolly. "My grandmother was hanged for poisoning my grandfather, and I expect I inherit the love of murder from her."

"I won't listen," cried Sylvia, shuddering.

"Oh, yes, you will. I'll soon hasten," went on her prosecutor cruelly. "Well, then, when I found Tray was like myself I determined to get the brooch and hurt Krill—hurt him as he hurt me," she cried vehemently. "Tray told me of the cellar and of the side passage. When my mother and Pash came out of the inner office and went to the door I ran in and took the brooch. It was hidden under some papers and had escaped my mother's eye. But I searched till I got it. Then I made an appointment with Tray for 11 o'clock at the corner of Guyana street. I went back to Judson's hotel, and my mother and I went to the theater. We had supper and retired to bed—that is, my mother did. We had left the theater early, as my mother had a headache, and I had plenty of time. Mother fell asleep almost immediately. I went downstairs veiled and in dark clothes. I slipped past the night porter and met Tray. We went by the side passage to the cellar. Thinking we were customers, Krill let us in. Tray locked the door, and I threw myself on Krill. He had not been drinking much or I might not have mastered him. As it was he was too terrified when he recognised me to struggle. In fact, he fainted. With Tray's assistance I bound his hands behind his back, and then we enjoyed ourselves."

Sylvia rose and staggered to the door. "No more—no more!"

Maud pushed her back into her chair. "Stop where you are, you whimpering fool!" she snarled exultantly. "I have you safe." Then she continued quickly and with another glance at the clock, the long hand of which now pointed to a quarter to 4. "With Tray's assistance I carried Krill up to the shop. Tray found an auger and bored a hole in the floor. Then I picked up a coil of copper wire which was being used in packing things for Krill to make his escape. I took it up. We laid Krill's neck over the hole and passed the wire around his neck and through the hole. Tray went down and tied a cross stick on the end of the wire so that he could put his weight on it when we strangled"—

"Oh, great heavens!" moaned Sylvia, stopping her ears.

Maud beat over her and pulled her hands away. "You shall hear, you little beast," she snarled. "All the time Krill was unstable. He recovered his senses after he was bound. I prolonged his agony as much as possible.

PAIN

Pain in the head—pain anywhere, has its cause. Pain is congestion, pain is blood pressure—neuralgia usually. At least, so says Dr. Shoop, and proves it he has created a little pink tablet. The tablet—called Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablet—causes blood pressure away from pain centers. Its effect is charming, pleasingly delightful, (never, though safely, it surely equalizes the blood circulation.

If you have a headache, it's blood pressure.

If it's painful periods with women, same cause.

If you are sleepless, restless, nervous, it's blood congestion—blood pressure. That surely is a certainty, for Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets stop it in 20 minutes, and the tablets simply distribute the unnatural blood pressure.

Bruise your finger, and doesn't it get red, and swell, and pain you? Of course it does. It's congestion, blood pressure. You'll find it where pain is—always. It's simply Common Sense.

We sell at 25 cents, and cheerfully recommend

PRINCE RUPERT. It is almost needless to make any lengthy description on this place for we all know its the terminus of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, in B. C., situated on Kian Island, at the mouth of the Fraser River. It is estimated that owing to the great rush of gold seekers and others seeking wealth and new locations that Prince Rupert will have a population of 30,000 before next winter.

HAZELTON is another almost equally promising a city, situated at the head of navigation on the Skeena River, on the main line of the Grand Trunk Pacific, also being the junction point of the Line from Dawson City. With these and other existing natural conditions and the prospects of a great development, it is looked upon as a great place to advance.

It is not often an opportunity occurs at your door to see the latest Parisian and New York styles in Hair Goods, yet such is the case, as Prof. Dorenwend, of Toronto, is visiting this town, and invites your inspection of these goods at his private apartments reserved at the hotel.

These Hair Goods styles, when properly adjusted, protect and ornament the head, soften and beautify the expression of the face, and consequently make up an aged appearance. Be sure and see them at Oriental Hotel on Tuesday 21st April, 1908.

Troubles of English Immigrants

Of the last party of English immigrants to come west ten were ticketed through in charge of Mr. Howson, who placed them with farmers of this district with little or no delay. This local officer has still many applicants for help on their respective farmers and could place many more immigration. Most of those Mr. Howson places in farm jobs hold the same well. Unfortunately the immigrant seem to have a gypsy strain in their blood and want to move on towards the Rainbow gold of better chances.

urst opportunity. Indeed, the man's capacity for alienating the affections of his sons is so great that nearly one-half of them have left him to take service with their Uncle Sam.

But happily for his peace of mind Mr. Beaver is too deficient in imagination to ever arrive at the idea that the desertion of his sons might be a reflection upon himself as a parent; and he is too deficient in sentiment to worry over his loss. In the smug complacency born of the contemplation of his own distinguished virtues, he dismisses his truant sons from his thoughts, and sends forth and brings in a lot of foreigners, and puts them to work on his farms and in his workshops, and rubs his hands as if he had done a great stroke of business. "If I kept these addle-pated sons of mine at home," he growls, "they would only idle their time and dream dreams and see visions, and worry one with demands for interpretations thereof. Let their Uncle Sam take them if he can make use of them; and good riddance of bad rubbish, say I. These foreigners will serve my turn. They'll work hard, want little, and never trouble with silly questionings. I'm a business man first, last and all the time; and there's no sentiment in business. If my sons are not satisfied with being treated on business principles I can get lots of hired men."

But of Mr. Beaver and his business-is-business philosophy, and the strange things that have come to pass because of his practice of it, I shall have more to say anon. In the meantime, most worshipful master of the multitude, accept by these presents my humble and heartfelt felicitations. May your ancestors fill one-half of heaven, and your posterity crowd the other half!

CROSSING THE OCEAN

Queer Things That Happen on Atlantic Liners.

THE LURE OF THE DEEP SEA.

Passengers Oftentimes Vanish During a Voyage to Find a Grave Beneath the Waves—A Bibulous Man's Leisurely Swim in Midocean.

"Queer things continually happen during a voyage," said a veteran purser of an Atlantic liner.

"As you are probably aware, almost the commonest occurrence during a voyage is the mysterious and sudden disappearance of a passenger. Seven times has this happened while I have been following my profession, and in no single instance have we been able to satisfactorily account for the missing traveler. Most of them, of course, we put down to suicide, but I feel bound to say that I think in some instances we have been wrong. Now, here is a case in point. Six years ago we had on board a young Australian, a handsome, well set up fellow, who seemed to have more money than would satisfy his wants and who told me himself that he was going to the states to marry the prettiest and sweetest girl in all Pennsylvania.

"He was the brightest fellow on board, sang well, played well, was expert at all kinds of sport and a general favorite with every one. He had a cabin on the lower deck, a fine big room, where I smoked many a cigar with him. Well, on the fifth day out he didn't come on deck. People asked where he was, and the general impression seemed to be that he had been up rather late the night before and was doubtless taking a few extra minutes between the sheets. But about noon the bedroom steward came to me and stated that he couldn't get in No. 27—the stateroom occupied by the popular traveler. No one could get any response, so we sent for the carpenter. The door was smashed in, and the room was found to be empty. The portholes were wide open, and all we could assume was that he had crept out of one of these and met with a watery grave. Reason? We never discovered any, but my belief is that he acted in his sleep. He was too happy a man to take his own life.

"On another occasion two ladies, sisters, disappeared. Both were charming and pretty, though some of the passengers afterward remarked that they usually seemed somewhat sad and preoccupied. I had often conversed with them and regarded them as the most attractive women on board. The night before we docked was a beautiful one, though intensely dark, and it was evidently on this night that they left the ship. No one saw them after 10 o'clock. The lookout reported nothing. No splash was heard, no cry. But in the morning they had vanished as silently and mysteriously as the darkness, leaving no word behind.

"A strange thing happened once when we were two days from New York harbor. There was an American on board who seemed to possess many friends and who apparently was extremely popular. He spent half his time in the smoking room, standing drinks to any one and every one and imbibing rather more than was good for himself. Well, about 4 o'clock in the afternoon he was with several other men on the promenade deck—the weather was glorious and the sea with scarcely a ripple—when, throwing off his coat, he exclaimed, 'Here goes for a swim!' and disappeared over the side.

"There was a yell which almost put the wireless out of business, and the captain, who had witnessed the affair, stopped the ship almost in her own length. Boats were lowered, and willing arms pulled to where the man was supposed to be fighting for his life. Instead of any struggle, however, he was taking long, easy strokes and evidently thoroughly enjoying himself. When pulled into one of the boats he ejaculated the single word, 'Grand!' and almost immediately fell into a kind of comatose state. He was put to bed in hot blankets and soon recovered. After an interview with the captain he was allowed his liberty, though a strict watch was kept on him during the rest of the voyage.

"A tragic occurrence took place about four years ago, the facts of which you will perhaps recall. It was during a voyage east, and we had among the second cabin passengers a widow and her three young children—two boys and a girl. The woman appeared to be much depressed, though the youngsters were as lively and merry as children generally are on board. The woman, it appears, spoke to none of the other passengers, and for her aloofness she was regarded with some suspicion. However, she was very quiet, and, as she appeared to be reading all day, not much notice was taken of her.

"One morning she was standing with her children, looking over the side of the vessel, when, with no warning, she suddenly tossed them, one after the other, into the sea and immediately followed them herself. It was all done so expeditiously and quietly that those who saw the tragedy were for a few minutes too dazed to give the alarm. The ship was stopped in record time and boats lowered, but the entire quartet had disappeared as though some invisible force had dragged them down. After two hours the search was given up and the boats returned to the ship. Another secret had been bequeathed to the ocean's mighty bosom."—London Tit-Bits.

That languid, lifeless feeling that comes with spring and early summer, can be quickly changed to a feeling of buoyancy and energy by the judicious use of Dr. Shoop's Restorative.

The Restorative is a genuine tonic to tired, run-down nerves, and but a few doses is needed to satisfy the user that Dr. Shoop's Restorative is actually reaching that tired spot. The indoor life of winter nearly always leads to sluggish bowels, and to sluggish circulation in general. The customary lack of exercise and outdoor air ties up the liver, stagnates the kidneys, and oft-times weakens the heart's action. Use Dr. Shoop's Restoratives a few weeks and all will be changed. A few days test will tell you that you are using the right remedy. You will easily and surely note the change from day to day. Sold by all dealers.

MR. G. A. GILLESPIE SELECTED AS THE LIBERAL CANDIDATE

To Oppose T.E. Bradburn in West Peterboro for the Legislature

Hon. A.G. Mackay Speaks

Yesterday afternoon the convention of the Reform Association of West Peterborough, supposed to have got busy at 2 o'clock was somewhat delayed. Among those present in the Opera House were Messrs. R. R. Hall, M. P., Hon. J. R. Stratton, G. A. Gillespie, R. Kerr, Walter Davidson, J. B. McWilliams, E. S. Curry, W. Taylor, Rich. Hall, Adam Hall, Warden McNutty, of Havelock, G. S. Roger, Dawson Kennedy, W. Davidson and others. About two thirty the first floor of the Opera House was filled to the extent of about one-half. Mr. G. M. Roger, president of the Liberal Reform Association opened the meeting by calling the president to the front seats. He noted that Hon. Mr. Whitney had announced the coming Provincial elections. The first business to be transacted was nomination of officers. Hon. J. R. Stratton next said he thought the nominating committee had better retire and consider their nominations. He thought this committee could select officers acceptable to the meeting. It is very difficult to select officers for the rural constituencies. He though the officers of the various township associations should be ex officio, officers of the general association. The township could afterwards add such names as they thought proper.

Mr. J. J. Hartley was as a result of the committee's work, elected as President of the Liberal Reform Association of West Peterborough. Mr. Hartley in speaking to the resolution of the committee, said he had not sought the office, but he relied on the Liberals of West Peterborough to support him. He referred in kindly words to Hon. J. R. Stratton. It was moved by Mr. McFarlane Wilson, that a vote of thanks be tendered to the retiring officers. The resolution was carried amid applause.

Mr. G. M. Roger expressed the pleasure it gave him and his brother officers in doing their duty to the party. He read a resolution, moved by Mr. Riddle, seconded by Mr. McFarlane Wilson, replete with marks of confidence in the work done by the Reform party in Canada. Mr. Riddle next addressed the meeting, heartily agreeing with the resolution just carried. He has lived in South Monaghan until the past two years, since when he has lived in the city. He has given politics a thorough investigation and has weighed what the different political parties have done. He was not, however, a hide-bound politician.

Mr. Roland McWilliams moved a vote of confidence in the leaders of the Reform party in the Ontario Legislature. He referred to the third Reform leader in that house, Hon. Mr. McKay. He regretted, as far as his speech went, but Mr. McKay was present or he might say more about his ability. Mr. McKay will soon take the party back to power instead of being on the opposition benches. The speaker then went on to speak of the Ontario Government on to speak of the Ontario Gerrymander.

Mr. Andrew McFarlane spoke next and said the most business was the selection of a candidate for the West Riding of Peterborough in the Reform interests. Peterborough in the Reform interests. Many Liberals listened to Mr. Whitney's promises and voted for him and Hisp party. The McKenzie bands were touched on next. He proposed the name of Geo. A. Gillespie as the Liberal candidate in the Reform interests. (cheers) This motion was carried unanimously amid applause.

Mr. Gillespie was then called to the platform amid cheers and assured the meeting he was proud to get the nomination. He would have liked another man, who could spare more time, nominated. In going into the campaign, the only chance of success was by each man doing his duty. He was satisfied in his political leader.

Mr. McNutty, the Reform candidate for the east Riding next spoke. He had all his life been engaged in agriculture. After east Peterborough is congratulated on their selection of a candidate, West Peterborough is to be congratulated on the selection of Mr. Gillespie.

Hon. J. R. Stratton then spoke and said he was not on the program of the afternoon as a speaker. All present wanted to hear Mr. McKay. The speaker some years ago was the means of getting Mr. McKay to drop a County Crown Attorneyship in the County of Grey to go into politics and now Mr. McKay was leader of the opposition. The Whitney Government came into power under false pretenses. The government now in power has had the books to show up any supposed maladministrations. The Whitney Government as hidden their expenditures. The expenses for the Toronto University and the House are voted in a lump sum and no one knows how it is spent. There is as much illegal selling of liquor to-day as there was under the Ross Government. Mr. J. W. Flavelle, who as tried to restrict the sale of liquor,

The Hon. J. R. Stratton

had resigned. The ceding of South Monaghan to Northumberland County done to embarass Mr. Clarke. The Sudbury Railway grab was a bit too cheek. The great Northern Railway is to get many for terminals the road should spend money on itself. He was glad that Mr. Gillespie had accepted the nomination. Mr. Gillespie knows the farmers wants.

Hon. Mr. McKay then addressed the meeting. He had great pleasure being in West Peterborough. He was glad to learn from Mr. Gillespie's history that he is a candidate. He hears reaction: reports of Mr. McNulty and hopes to meet them both on the floor of the House next session. In the dying moments of the Ross Government he was a colleague of Hon. J. R. Stratton. Mr. Stratton gave a splendid business administration of his department. Regarding the Toronto University. Here a broad line was drawn between the Conservative and the Reform administrations. He himself is a graduate of Toronto University. The estimates for the expenses of the University should be brought down just as the expenses of this city are presented to the City Council. Every dollar of the expenditure should be scrutinized. In public school legislation he opposed that brought forward as class legislation. The people's representatives should be trusted in managing the finances of Toronto University. There should be no business done by nine men behind closed doors. On the question of local option, he believed in trusting the people of the various municipalities in managing their own affairs.

After Mr. McKay had finished, and applause several other important speakers, including Mr. R. R. Hall, M. P. were heard.

The meeting wound up with cheers for the candidate and the King

Siz Degrees of Frost For Peterborough

The present cold wave need cause no alarm in Peterborough. To be sure, this city is to have a dose of bad weather, but 'tis not for long. Atmospheric changes are very rapid at this season. Hence temperatures and conditions vary greatly from day to day, and while Peterborough will freeze to-morrow, the next day is likely to be comfortably mild.

Chicago had below freezing temperatures all day yesterday, but to-day, while Peterborough is holding its own, the Windy City will find a welcome relief.

"Old Bobs", promises a snow flurry or two and cold weather to-day and to-morrow. Peterborough will not have to stand it much lower than 26 degrees above zero (6 degrees of frost.) Even this is somewhat unseasonable.

Boad of Education Met in Special Session Last Night

To Deal with the Charge Made by Mr. E. R. Stocker re School Plumbing

Work Not Finished

The Board of Education met in special session last night and took up the charges made by E. R. Stocker who claimed that the plumbing in the Queen Alexandra School and the Collegiate Institute was defective and that the terms of the contract were not lived up to by the contractor Mr. Duncan. The following members of the Board were present, Chairman Rob Fair and trustees, Dumble, Nelson, Robinson Clark, Hayes, Morrison and Hill.

Chairman Fair read Mr. Stocker's report containing the charges, and considerable discussion arose over the question of what steps the Board should take in the matter. Mr. Dumble said he thought that owing to the fact that the matter was so complicated that the board could do nothing until the next meeting.

Mr. Dumble later made a motion to the effect that the chairman of the board be authorized to employ a disinterested expert to inspect the plumbing in the Queen Alexandra School and the Collegiate Institute.

The motion carried.

Mr. Stocker was present and stated that in his opinion that by the time an expert was appointed Mr. Deroncau would have altered the deficiencies in the work.

Mr. Dumble, "I think that Mr. Deroncau should have the privilege to make any alterations he liked until the contract is taken out of his hands.

Mr. Robinson was opposed to this.

Trustees Hill and Hayes stated Mr. Deroncau had the privilege to make any alterations he desired until the work was handed over and declared finished. Mr. Hayes "Until the time when the work is completed by Mr. Deroncau is reached, then will be time enough to have an inspection."

This was the only question before the Board and shortly after the meeting was adjourned.

IMPRISONED IN THE SEA.

Cases of Living Men Entombed in Sunken Ships.

A striking example of one among the many strange accidents that befall sailors was reported the other day from Newcastle, N. S. W.

The barkentine Kate Tatham turned turtle in a gale, and one of her crew was shut up in her hold. The survivors, who had climbed on her keel as she heeled over, naturally took it for granted that he was drowned. What was their surprise, therefore, to presently hear faint knockings from beneath their feet, evidently made by their imprisoned comrade.

Help was at hand, and a hole was cut through the ship's bottom, when the man was hauled out, little the worse for his terrible experience. He had, it appeared, been kept alive by the air which had been imprisoned in the hull when the vessel capsized and which, becoming compressed as the water rose, had eventually stopped its further encroachment. He had used a balk of floating timber to support himself.

His imprisonment lasted for two hours, and in the cabled reports sent to England the incident is characterized as unparalleled. This, however, is by no means correct. There are several cases on record of men having lived in similar circumstances in the hulks of capsized ships not hours only, but days, the most remarkable authenticated instance being that of Captain Engallandt of the Erndte, who was rescued alive after an entombment lasting altogether eleven days and eighteen hours.

During this period the derelict, drifting bottom uppermost, was sighted by the masters of several vessels, all of whom, however, passed nonchalantly by, none imagining for a moment that the semisubmerged and capsized hulk contained, shut up in its vitals, a living man.

Eventually the Erndte drifted ashore near Dantzic, and Captain Engallandt was taken out alive, although greatly emaciated.—Pearson's Weekly.

Athletic Baseball Club Organized Last Night--Officers Elected

Will Promote Purely Amatuer Sport for This City

A Midland League Team

A largely attended meeting of the baseball enthusiasts—those who have purely amateur sport at heart — was held last night for organization purposes. The team will be known as the "Athletics" Baseball Club of Peterborough. The following officers were elected:—

Patrons and Patronesses—Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Gillespie, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Green, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Monroe, Mr. and Mrs. H LeBrun.

President—M. Connors.

Vice-President—C. G. Graham.

Second Vice-President—T. W. McDonough.

Sec.-Treas.—E. Desautel.

Manager—Geo. Lynch.

This new organization will apply for admission to the Midland League and their application will no doubt be looked upon with favor by the other clubs in the League.

The personel of the officers of the club will appeal to every fan in the city who has the interest of amateur sport uppermost in his heart and is desirous of seeing a team representing this city composed entirely of Peterborough players. The club also recognizes the fact that the younger blood should be looked after and developed as there is plenty of good material in the city to have a winning team. There is not doubt that they will meet with every success and receive the hearty support of the citizens at large in this commendable move.

The baseball fans of this city want a team of "home-brews" and the Athletics will not doubt put a team in the Midland League composed entirely of Peterborough players that will give a good account of themselves.

Chewing Gum Factory for Peterborough

[What our City Fathers may do enough "chewing" in their sessions for any old reason there is still another common form of chewing apart from civic or parliament ry candidat's known best to the girl at the soda fount or a cash registrar or Remington type writer. This "chewing" refers to the gum that makes his usually mouth look like a near approach to that long sought source of rainbow gold prosperity, "perpetual motion". Apart from all nonsense however, Peterborough is to have a gum factory started in our midst. The building in which this gum will be made is a solid brick brick structure on Park street. Mr. Joseph Heynes of this city is the president of the company, and will be the general manager. The machinery to be used in the manufacture of the gum is of the latest design and is being imported from the United States. It is expected that the company will employ many men.

Marathon Trial Races May 23-25 and June 6

Toronto will get both Olympic trial Marathons.

On May 23 or May 25 the Provincial Marathon trials will be held in conjunction with the Ontario trials at Rosedale athletic field.

On June 6 the final Canadian trial Marathon, which will bring together the winners of the Provincial trial Marathons, from coast to coast, will run a full 26 mile course, and the men who make the best showing will go to England.

This announcement made by the C. A. A. U. committee in charge seems to rout the doubt about the dates of the Marathons, and runners now know just how long they have to round into shape.

Inquest on Elgin Weaver Was Again Adjourned

Last night the adjourned inquest on the body of the late Elgin Weaver was continued in the Police Court, with Coroner Dr. Grey in the chair. County Crown attorney noted that the Provincial Government was managing the matter now. He said no report had been received as yet from Prof. Ellis. The meeting was adjourned until Monday, April 27th. The jurymen were all present. One of them spoke about work ahead during the summer as he wanted to know if a quicker date could not be fixed. However, Mr. Ward again explained that the government had charge of this case and it could not be hurried. The jury were then dismissed.

It was generally supposed by the jurymen that the analysis had been made known to the local authorities, but this will be made sure at the adjourned meeting.

Tommy Burns to Fight Before 70,000 People

London, April 15. — Mrs. Playfair, known on the stage as Lena Ashwell, was to-day granted a divorce.

Tommy Burns left to-day for Paris. His fight with Squires will be held in the open air at Stamford Bridge, where 70,000 spectators can be accommodated.

Cheese and Butter Makers Meet

Yesterday morning the cheese and butter Makers' Association of the Trading Area in executive session in the Council Chamber with a fair representative assembly present, with President A. H. Campbell in the chair. Mr. H. J. Crowe acted as secretary. The minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted and the following officers were elected for the coming year:—

President—Daniel Oakley, Norwood.

Vice-President—E. Demorest, Lakefield.

Secretary-Treasurer — Ashley Andrews, Benafort.

Assistant Sec.-Treas. — H. Locke, Fraserville.

A discussion was then held concerning the question of placing a membership fee and thus strengthen the Association. The matter was left undecided for the present.

Mr. D. D. Cameron, of Garden Hill, next took up the matter of salting in which he answered questions from the assembly. He advised using a little less salt to obtain a fine velvety cheese. "Get rid of the moisture in cooking and cut a little finer," Mr. Cameron said.

Mr. Cameron spoke of experiments made at the school during the past winter. Three hundred and twenty-five lbs. of milk were procured from two farmers showed butter fat in the two lots at 3 per cent. in one and 4 per cent in the other, and the rich milk gave 23 lbs. of cheese, while the 3 per cent. milk gave only 20 lbs. Both lots of milk were from Holstein cows. Many experiments of this nature were made and the results proved that the milk with high percentage of butter fat, showed highest percentage of cheese and produced the most cheese. Mr. Ward, speaking of the Holstein cow, remarked that this breed seldom gave such a high percentage of butter fat. The first duty of cheese makers is to get out among the patrons and get them to send their milk in condition. A weasty curd is one in which the curd scribbles yeast and to overcome this is one of the most difficult problems in the cheese industry. The use of acid makes the fermentation worse and great care must be used to prevent acid here in this case.

Mr. Campbell added to Mr. Cameron's words, urging the makers to guard against flies.

The Mounted Police Pluckily Arrested Nine "Dreamers"

Medicine Hat, April 15. — The arrest of nine leaders of the sect known as "Dreamers" is causing a sensation.

Joseph Lehr, a farmer, is alleged in some way to have incurred the enmity of the sect. Lately he received letters in German signed "Revenge", threatening to burn his house on threatening to burn his house. On Saturday night his young son was awakened by hearing a noise, and discovered the house in flames. The family barely escaped with their lives and night gear, everything being consumed. The loss is estimated at five thousand. The loss is estimated at five thousand.

Constable Ashe, R.N. W.M.P., at Irvine, heard the story and rode out to investigate the occurrence. He immediately wired for reinforcements. Corp. Humby, two constables, and Ashe, after all night driving, arrested the heads of nine Dreamers' families.

A demonstration of force was necessary to overawe the other settlers, who thought the arrest was tantamount to conviction.

Fish, Pen and Ink.

"One year I found a lot of cuttlefish that ran into the surf," said a worker on one of the California beaches. "I was riding along the beach, and I got a pole and rode into them and killed about twenty, I guess. Some were eight or ten feet long. I hauled them up and showed them for four or five days in my whale tent; then I sold them to the fishermen, who salted them down for bait, taking out the bills, eyes and pens, which I sold as curios. Each cuttle, besides a sac of indelible ink, had a pen a foot long, a beautiful object, as delicate and fragile as a feather pen. The eyes when hardened looked like pearls, and they are mounted as pins. The bills are chestnut color and look like a parrot's bill."

What Was Left.

"Mostly of Chicago" is the way a man described his residence. His characterisation seems reasonable. When he was six years old, he cut off one of his toes with a scythe. When he was eight, he shot off two joints of one of his fingers. He ran away from home when he was fourteen, and the frost of a winter night took off three more toes and the tip of his nose. At twenty-five he lost his entire right foot. A drunken half breed bit off an ear in the Klondike, a Dakota corn sheller took his left forearm, and since then he has lost three fingers, a joint from another finger and one eye.

Almost a Death Struggle.

A large crowd had gradually formed around the two fashionably dressed and oblivious young girls, and at one time it seemed necessary to separate them.

"What can it mean?" said the stranger who had just come up.

"It took me," said the man addressed, "some time to learn; but, as I understand it now, one girl has been six months in Europe, and while she was gone the other one has learned to play golf, and they are trying to tell each other about it."—Life.

Flattered.

Editor (to Miss Oldgirl, age about forty)—Your work shows promise, but do you know, madam, good literary work is seldom done by a woman until she is thirty or thirty-five? Several years hence you will be able to write acceptable articles. Miss Oldgirl (as she leaves)—That was the most delightful thing I ever met.

Agonizing Piles

CURED BY ZAM-BUK.

Mr. F. Ashridge, of 3 St. Paul Street, St. Catharines, Ont., says: "For five years I suffered untold agony with protruding piles. No one knows the suffering one has to endure only those who are so unfortunate as to have them. The pain was so great at times I would almost scream. I went down in weight and had no appetite. I tried everything I heard of for piles, but got no relief. I went to several doctors, but they would give me little hope of ever getting rid of them and I finally gave up in despair. One day a friend gave me a sample of Zam-Buk salve and told me of some one who had been cured. I decided to try it, and the relief I got was encouraging. I bought a box, and the piles kept on diminishing and the pain was getting less. I used three boxes and am now completely cured. I wish I could have got Zam-Buk years ago. It would have saved me a great deal of misery. One thousand dollars would be no more too small an amount to give for such a cure as mine. I wish I could convince every sufferer of the value of Zam-Buk."

Zam-Buk cures cuts, burns, chapped hands, cold sores, itch, ulcers, eczema, running sores, ostarrh, piles, bad legs, abscesses, face sores, spring eruptions, and all skin diseases. It is good also rheumatism, sciatica, etc., when well rubbed in. Of all druggists and stores, 50c., or from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto.

An Expensive Commission.

The public service commission of New York city will require $1,000,000 for its expenses during this year. Eight hundred and fifty thousand dollars of this will be for salaries, $50,000 for rentals and telephones, $25,000 for employees and counsel, $100,000 for contingencies, rapid transit studies, special services and investigations. The remainder is wanted for supplies, instruments, maps, prints and advertising.—New York Herald.

Priests Direct Settlement of French Farmers in the Northwest

Montreal, April 15. — The activity employed by the Oblate Fathers in getting French-Canadian families to leave the Province of Quebec to settle in the North-West resulted in sixteen French-Canadian families leaving Montreal yesterday under the guidance of the Rev. Father Therrien of the Oblate Order. The colonists will settle in and around St. Paul de Metis, in Alberta, where there is already a French-Canadian colony of considerable size. Arrangements have been made to have several more French-Canadian families leave for the West during the next few weeks.

One of the men included in the party that left yesterday were farmers in the northern parishes above Montreal, where the locals have managed to save more than a few hundred dollars.

Blood-Cleansing Recommended in the Spring Time

In This Way The System is Strengthened and Better Health Assured.

From the earliest time it has been universally acknowledged that the transitory period between winter and spring is the seed time of disease.

Consequently it is necessary for us all to take suitable medicine.

A delay gives the germs and weakness a better chance to take hold.

Don't wait, think of our small resisting powers, and begin building up today. For weakness, overwork and debility the doctors prescribe Ferrozone; let it help you now.

Vitality and power are instilled into the blood; this means new strength for all weak organs.

The fire of youth will dance in your veins, and new found energy will increase your desire to work.

Ferrozone supplies the nourishing and tissue-building material your system lacks. Isn't this a reason why?

From Combermere, Ont., Mrs. Ino Oram writes as follows: "For a number of years I was sickly in the springtime. I felt tired, nervous and had headaches. My blood was weak and damp days brought on rheumatism. My nervous system was unstrung and I felt utterly worn out. Ferrozone revived me in a short time. In two days my appetite increased, and I could feel a building-up process going on. This great tonic made a new person of me and I don't think a more strengthening medicine for the spring can be found."

Wouldn't it be just fine for you to get back your old-time spirits and vigor. Easily done with "Ferrozone"; commence to-day. Sold by all dealers, 50c per box or six boxes for $2.50.

THE EDUCATED MAN.

Not All of His Knowledge Comes From Books and Schools.

The most important part of education comes from intercourse with people. From this side comes the education in love and duty and service. The actions of people stimulate imitation and emulation. By these men grow in power and skill. From observation of the character of people men form ideals of character for themselves and are transformed thereby. Herein lies the consummate educative power in Christianity—the transforming power of the divine man.

According to this new idea, education is not merely receiving, but giving; not learning alone, but doing. The educated man is open eyed and open minded, quick to respond to influences from without, learning from all his experiences and growing in power as he grows in knowledge. Charles Kingsley said of his father that "he possessed every faculty but the faculty of using his faculties." He was not an educated man, although he was a very learned one.

Education is an individual matter. No two men can be educated alike in manner or degree. They respond to different influences and grow in different ways. One becomes educated by way of schools and colleges and life, another by life alone. The measure of a man's education is the measure of his use in the world.—George W. Martin in Boston Globe.

A COSTLY NAP.

Slumber That Led to the Death of King Charles I.

In the middle of Holborn once stood an inn, the George and Blue Boar, and there took place an incident which entirely changed the whole tale of England's history.

As twilight was falling in October, 1648, a very tired post boy mounted on a sweating horse pulled up outside the old inn. The lad knew nothing of the importance of the letters which lay in his post bag. His orders were to convey them to a point on the Great North road, where he would be met by other messengers.

But Cromwell's spies had followed him from the south coast, for England's liberty depended upon his dispatches miscarrying. The boy had some supper and afterward fell asleep, his head pillowed on his post bag.

While he slept Cromwell's men took the bag and found in it a letter from King Charles I. to the Scottish generals arranging for his rescue, an immediate advance on London and the arrest and execution of Cromwell and his friends. That same evening Cromwell had the fatal letter and determined on Charles' death.—London Tit-Bits.

THE TIE THAT BINDS.

Marriage Not Heaven Nor Hell—A Lesson in Faith and Hope.

Suppose two people begin their married life on the plane of sanity and reasonableness," says Grace D. Goodwin in the course of a very interesting article. "They say marriage is not heaven nor hell; it is our chance to tutor our spirits in the great lessons of the soul, patience, charity, faith, hope. These things are to be learned by accepting life as it is and adjusting ourselves to it. Imperfections must be overlooked, blunders must be forgiven—aye, and sins. The man must be man enough to provide, to guard, to shield, to aid. Providing is not all. A full pocketbook is a poor substitute for a full heart. He must have a great store of courage and cheerfulness. These two virtues ought to blossom in the home from the man's planting. The woman must be woman enough to learn in its small details her business as manager and administrator of the home. It is not only behind the age, but, as Dr. Bushnell used to say, 'behind the ages,' to say what is now to be said. She must know how to cook and sew and spend money and care for children. That sentence does not read 'must spend money'—she must know how to spend money. And she must have endless patience with her imperfect husband, her imperfect children, her imperfect self; patience with the failures and blunders and mistakes and sins of everybody in that home; the unaggressive patience that does not say, 'You are all very trying, and I am behaving like a saint;' the patience that is a woman's first and middle and last qualification for a happy married life; the patience that takes even ill health and weakness with a smile, that does not play the martyr or call attention to the flames on which the family in its ignorance usually pours oil instead of water.

"Most necessary point of all, these two who are to build a home must have confidence in each other, must say 'we' and learn that, the two being one, everything must be shared. The sharing of joy and grief, the mingling of smiles and tears, the bits of humor that wake double laughter and make those trivial 'home jokes' which are signs by which you shall declare a happy family life—these are all so many ways of strengthening the walls. Everything must be shared. Those four words ought to take the place of the old 'God Bless Our Home' motto. Time must be shared; toils must be shared; play, opportunity, money, anxiety, loss, vigils, prayers—all these must be not for one, but for both."

HEALTH AND BEAUTY.

If you wish to look slim, do not dress in white or light colored clothes.

A receding chin may be improved by massage. Its symmetry may be greatly altered by using a little face cream.

A long central line of trimming from throat to hem adds a certain height; so does a single flounce at the bottom of a skirt.

Burns should be treated with oil mixed with limewater if procurable, and flour, which is easily to be had anywhere, is good, the object being to cover the surface of the burn and prevent the air affecting it.

To remove ink stains from the hands with oxalic acid put an ounce of the crystals in a pint bottle and fill up with water. Mark the bottle plainly with the name and also the word "Poison." Wet a piece of cloth with the acid solution and rub the stained places. Use a pointed orange wood stick beneath the nails. Follow with a thorough washing in clear water.

What woman does not wish for long, curling eyelashes? They are one of the details that make a homely woman attractive, and it does seem as though they could be cultivated. Vaseline—pure white vaseline—rubbed on with a small brush every night is a splendid tonic for these much desired beauties. Keep the eye tightly closed that the grease may reach the roots of the stubborn lashes, although if the vaseline is fresh and of good quality it cannot hurt the eye. In fact, one woman who has found the remedy successful says that, on the contrary, the eyes become brilliant under treatment, while the longer lashes make a marked improvement in the appearance.

For Keeping Ice.

Besides great anxiety sickness in the house causes a great deal of extra work. In any disease accompanied by fever arises the complication of how to keep ice water always at hand, so at any minute the patient may have a refreshing drink.

It is very tiring for the nurse to run down several flights of steps to the basement, where the refrigerator is generally kept, to say nothing of the invalid, who is apt to be restless and exacting, and the long wait on the overwrought imagination makes her feel as if she was being neglected.

The following method for keeping ice upstairs is very good and shows how besides being reading matter a newspaper can be turned into a very useful article. One often wonders if the ancient Romans who first introduced the daily journal ever realized to how many uses it was going to be put and what they would think if they could look on the present generation and see the thrifty housewife rolling up carpets with it to keep out the moths and covering the pantry shelves.

Fill a pitcher with ice and water and set in the center of a newspaper, then gather the four corners at the top, bringing the ends tightly together. Place a rubber band around them to hold close and exclude air. A pitcher of ice water treated in this manner will stand all night with scarcely a perceptible melting of ice.

PRINCE RUPERT, it is almost needless to make any lengthy description on this place, for we all know its the terminus of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railways, in B. C., situated on Kian Island, at the mouth of the Fraser River. It is estimated that owing to the great rush of gold seekers and others seeking wealth and new locations that Prince Rupert will have a population of 20,000 before next winter.

HAZELTON is another almost equally promising a city, situated at the head of navigation on the Skeena River, on the main line of the Grand Trunk Pacific, also being the junction point of the Line from Dawson City. With these and other existing natural conditions and the prospects of a great development, it is looked upon as a great place to advance.

NOW LISTEN!

Please read carefully what follows, and if you decide to take advantage of what the "Canada Southern Oil & Gas Co., Limited," of Tilbury, Ont (no personal liability), is now offering you, the result will be that instead of getting 3 per cent. for your savings, you will get at least from 10 to 25 per cent. that others are harvesting.

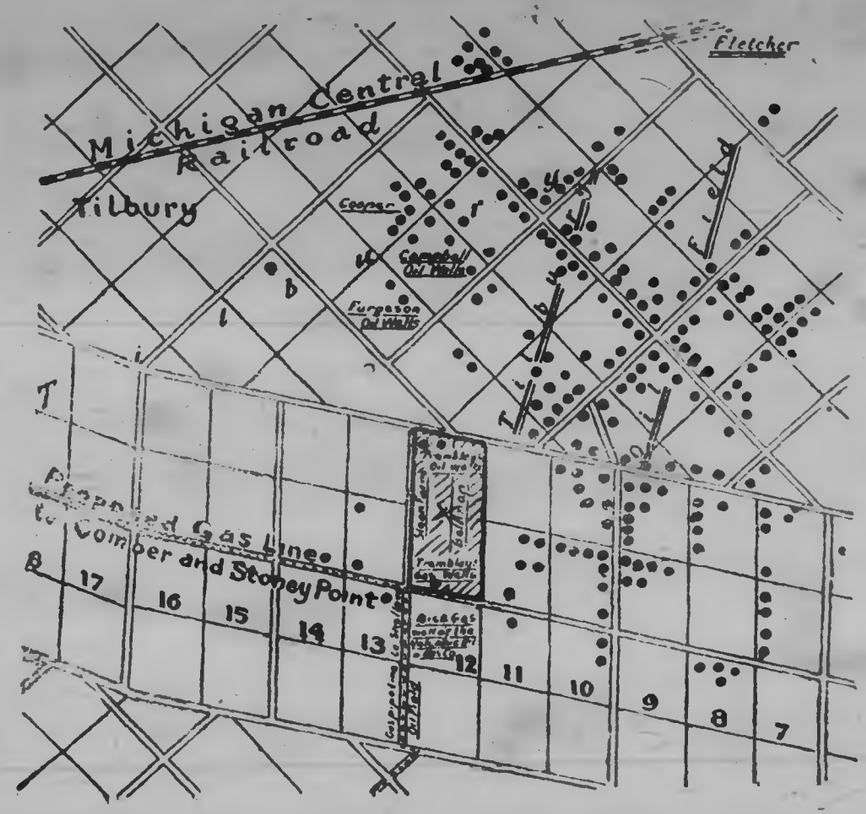
Your savings will be eight times more than the original amount by the mere fact of the higher rate of interest you will get.

Remember that this is no wildcat scheme, as you can see by the facts hereinafter mentioned.

Dr. Bell, the famous Canadian geologist, early in 1878 reported that there was an oil and gas field in the Townships of Tilbury and Romney County of Kent, Ont. As soon as the discovery of the oil was made in Tilbury in 1906, our American neighbors, who are experts in good things, did not hesitate to invest hundreds of thousands of dollars, and now, in fact, control the two thirds interest in our oil field of Tilbury; and this happened because we Canadians hesitated to invest a few thousand dollars in the exploration of the oil mines of Tilbury, which already give a monthly production valued at $75,000, without adding the revenue derived from the gas.

We have said that this is not a wildcat scheme, because the "Canadian Southern Oil & Gas Co., Limited," has secured an option at a very moderate price on properties situated in the oil and gas field of Tilbury, upon which three successful tests have been made, being Lot No. 12, M. R. N., Tilbury East, 200 acres, indicated with a cross upon the map of the field.

COUNTY of KENT, ONTARIO



Three wells only have been drilled at an average depth of 1,400 feet.

The first one proves to be a rich gas well, the two others are good oil wells, combined with a strong production of gas.

The Company has also secured the franchises for the distribution and sale of natural gas into the Townships of Romney, Tilbury East, North and West and also into the thriving villages of Comber and Stoney Point.

The gas well is properly equipped and already is supplying the motor power to the Romney oil field and is getting one-third of the gross revenue of the gas sold.

The oil wells are completely equipped with one 15 h. p. gas engine, derrick, tanks, boiler, pumps, tubing, pipe-line, jerk-line, jack, etc., and are producing daily. The oil is sold to The Imperial Oil Company, Limited, and is delivered at the tanks and shipped through its pipe-line to Port Marquette R. R. Station at Merlin, a distance of 3 miles.

Our properties are already giving daily a net revenue of about $35.00—that is to say, more than 10 per cent. of the whole capital stock of the Company.

This revenue may be made four times greater by the drilling of other wells and the construction of the gas-line to Comber and Stoney Point.

A. Cirkel, Esq., of Montreal, consulting mining engineer and mining expert to the Dominion Government, who lately made an inspection of said property, concluded his report as follows:

"In summarizing the actual results already obtained from the operation of said wells the writer is forced to the conclusion that the property under consideration is a very valuable one. Located as it is in the western extremity of the producing Tilbury oil field, in close proximity to wells which produce from 40 to 60 barrels of oil (and even more) per day of 24 hours (I refer to the Ferguson Campbell and Cooper properties, located about 2,000 feet distant to the north, see plan attached hereto), it bids fair to become a producer of oil and natural gas of no small measure.

The Tilbury field has already the reputation of being a large producer and powerful companies have entered the district with a view of securing properties of known and established value.

There is one factor to which I would like to draw your special attention and that is the future of natural gas. To-day, the market in that in that part of the country, for this commodity is not sufficiently large to dispose of all the gas the wells can produce but there is no question that in the near future factories will be established on central points, which will eventually consume for various purposes, especially for power, all the gas which can be produced in the field.

Besides this there are quite a number of towns and villages in the western part of the Niagara Peninsula, which may use the gas for heating, lighting, and also for power purposes and it is only a question of time when this will be realised.

The economy of the application of natural gas to power purposes is already evidenced all through the field, as coal or any other power cannot be regularly obtained, and that at high figures. Having therefore, a powerful gas well on the (Sloan) property, it is evident that a great saving is effected from this source alone; for instance, for the operation of ten oil wells, the cost of power required per day would amount to between twenty and twenty-five dollars, which, in 300 working days per year, would represent a saving of from six thousand to seven thousand five hundred dollars.

In conclusion, I may say that this property, with proper and economic management, can be made highly remunerative; I entertain, no doubt, that if properly developed, it will show similar results as those of so many other locations in the vicinity, whose developments have of so many other locations in the vicinity, whose developments have been so vigorously pushed in the past.

Respectfully submitted,
(Signed) FRITZ CIRKEL.

The property is situated at Mancos, Colo., and consists of 160 acres, fully paid for. The Company expects to secure at least 400 acres or more, we are negotiating for it now and the terms are satisfactory and there is coal on the same, and they also intend to secure some Coal Mines of which they have the refusal. Some of the best coal mines in Colorado are in this district, as well as some of the richest gold and silver mines. In fact this is one of the richest parts for mineral in the State of Colorado, and the Company has the refusal to several prospects on reasonable and easy terms.

In our opinion the prospects of the Company are very bright and a rapid advance in the price of the stock is sure to take place in the near future. Full information can be had by calling at our office.

When Tray went down to see after the wire, I knelt beside Krill and told him that I knew I was not his daughter; that I intended to strangle him as I had strangled Lady Rachel. He shrieked with horror. That was the cry you heard, you cat, and which brought you downstairs. I never expected that," cried Maud, clapping her hands. "That was a treat for Krill I never intended. I stopped his crying any more for assistance by pinning his mouth together, as he had done mine over twenty years before. Then I sat beside him and taunted him. I heard the policeman pass and the church clock strike the quarter. Then I heard footsteps and guessed you were coming. It occurred to me to give you a treat by strangling the man before your eyes and punish him more severely, since the brooch stopped him calling out—as it stopped me—me," she cried, striking her breast.

"Oh, how could you—how could"—

"You feeble thing," said Maud contemptuously and patting the girl's cheek, "you would not have done it, I know. But I loved it—I loved it! That was living indeed. I went down to the cellar and fastened the door behind me. Tray was already pressing on the cross stick at the end of the wire and laughed as he pressed. But I stopped him. I heard you and that woman enter the shop and heard what you said. I prolonged Krill's agony, and then I pressed the wire down myself for such a time as I thought it would take to squeeze the life out of the beast. Then, with Tray, I locked the cellar door and left by the side passage. We dodged all the police and got into the Strand. I did not return to the hotel, but walked about with Tray all the night, talking with—joy," cried Maud, clapping her hands, "with you, do you hear? When it was 8, I went to Judson's. The porter thought I had been out for an early walk. My mother"—

Here Maud broke off, for Sylvia, who was staring over her shoulder out of the window, saw a form she knew well at the gate. "Paul—Paul," she shrieked, "come—come!"

Maud whipped the black silk handkerchief round the girl's neck. "You shall never get that money," she whispered cruelly. "You shall never tell any one what I have told you. Now I'll show you how Hokar taught me." She jerked the handkerchief tight, but Sylvia got her hand under the cruel bandage and shrieked aloud in despair. At once she heard an answering shriek. It was the voice of Deborah.

"You shall never get that money."

Maud darted to the door and locked it. Then she returned and, flinging Sylvia down, tried again to tighten the handkerchief, her face white and fierce and her eyes glittering like a demon's.

"Help—help!" cried Sylvia, and her voice grew weaker. But she struggled and kept her hands between the handkerchief and her throat. Maud tried to drag them away fiercely. Deborah was battering frantically at the door. Paul ran round to the window. It was not locked, and Maud, struggling with Sylvia, had no time to close it. With a cry of alarm Paul threw up the window and jumped into the room. At the same moment Deborah, putting her sturdy shoulder to the frail door, burst it open. Beoret flung himself on the woman and dragged her back. But she clung like a leech to Sylvia with the black handkerchief in her grip. Deborah, silent and fierce, grabbed at the handkerchief and tore

Indigestion

Stomach trouble is but a symptom of, and in itself a true disease. We think of Dyspepsia, Heartburn, and Indigestion as real diseases, they are symptoms only of a certain form of Nerve sickness—nothing else.

It was this fact that first correctly led Dr. Shoop in the creation of that now very popular stomach Remedy—Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Going right to the stomach nerves, alone, I thought that was and later to Dr. Shoop and his Restorative. We found out that original and highly vital principle—such lasting accomplishments were ever to be.

For stomach distress, bloating, biliousness, bad breath and sallow complexion, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—and see for yourself what it can and will do. We sell and cheerfully recommend

THE CHINESE FARMER.

He is Slovenly, Twisted and Bent and Queerly Clad.

The Chinese farmer gives the impression of a man whose life has been spent in downright hard work. There is not a single ounce of spare flesh upon him. His face and hands are of a dark brown color, tanned into them by exposure to the fiery faced sun of the orient and to the open air influence amid which his daily life is spent. His hands, unless he is still young, are gnarled and twisted out of shape by the constant grasping of his hoe, the one implement that to the Chinese farmer takes the place of the spade, only in a more extensive degree. He never stands erect. He bends a little forward, having a slight list to the left. This is due to his having to do all his own carrying work. The manure to fertilize his fields and the water to irrigate them when the rains are insufficient are both borne on the left shoulder of the sturdy farmer, and when the ripened crops are housed and the surplus is to be disposed of in the city miles away it is the same mode of conveyance that has again to be employed. Railroads and carts and wagons and beasts of burden are luxuries that are still beyond the reach of the farmers of this land.

The whole look of the man is that of a worker, and the very pose that his body has taken is but an attempt to ease the strain that severe labor is constantly putting on it. Unfortunately his dress does not add to his personal appearance. It consists of a loose coat, buttoned by a flap on one side and reaching to a little below the hips. The trousers are loose and baggy and extend to the knees. These and his usual clothing are made of cotton cloth, which is dyed with the universal blue that seems to have such a fascination for the working classes. As the weather grows colder others of the same kind and, where the purse will allow of it, wadded garments are added, but the legs and the feet even in the coldest weather remain uncovered excepting on very special occasions when etiquette demands that both shoes and stockings shall be worn.

The Chinese farmer further adds to his far from prepossessing appearance by his utter neglect of all habits of neatness. His head is shaved only at considerable intervals of time, and so the place that among the residents of the towns is clear shaved is covered with a thick bristly undergrowth of black hair that has a most untidy and slovenly look. His pigtail, instead of being plaited and combed smoothly, is allowed to grow at its own sweet will, and, following the instincts of nature that longs for freedom, it sends out straggling tufts here and there and so gives the wearer an unkempt and disorderly aspect.—John McGowan in North China News.

A Fatalist, but Cautious.

A story is related of a minister of the foreordination school of belief on a Mississippi steamer in the good old fashioned days of river racing, when a negro sat on the safety valve and the furniture and woodwork of the boat fed the fire. The captain, seeing a rival boat half a mile ahead, ordered tar, pine knots, naval stores, bacon, etc., to be thrown in to kindle the fire as hot as possible. As the steam got higher and higher and the old boat trembled and groaned under the pressure the preacher drew nearer and nearer to the stern. Noticing this and never losing an opportunity to crack a joke, the bluff captain tapped the fatalist on the shoulder and said:

"Hello, Brother Blank! What's ailing you? I thought you was one of them fellows what believes what is to happen will happen nohow."

"So I do," replied the clergyman, drawing himself up. "So I do, but I want to be as near the stern as possible when it does happen."

What a Good Play Must Have.

"A play should have continuous action all the way through. When I allude to action I don't necessarily mean physical movement and pistol play," says Daniel Frohman in Harper's Weekly. "A successful play must contain continuous struggle and battle—the struggle of love with duty, to name the most frequent example. The characters may be sitting in their chairs, talking pleasantly together, and still fulfill this purpose. And the action must go forward by leaps and bounds from one climax to another. The ideal play will have the fewest characters, but it will hold the attention so that you won't know whether there are six or sixty, and two persons upon the stage will hold the audience entranced, as in the Greek drama. Like the Greek characters, too, they will appear as puppets upon a dark background of necessity, victims of the circumstances which they have helplessly brought into existence."

The Nobility.

The "nobility" goes back to the very beginning of human society, when "wild in woods the noble savage ran." At first the institution rested on brute force. The physically strongest were supreme. It was an aristocracy of muscle and brawn. By and by intellectual cunning was added to the brute strength, and the strongest and smartest became the "top of the heap." With the advantages accruing to it from the possession of the most strength and cunning the "nobility" intrenched itself so securely that it could not be shaken, and well down into the eighteenth century it was practically supreme. By the time of the French and American revolutions, however, the world was beginning to wake up to the fact that the "nobility" was a hoax and an imposition, and since those two famous events the ancient institution has been in a bad way.

Spring Fishing Number

With the advent of April the majority of sportsmen turn their thoughts to fishing, and "Rod and Gun & Motor Sports in Canada," published by W. J. Taylor Woodstock, Ont., has published a Spring Fishing number for the month. There are stories of fishing in Ontario, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Alberta and British Columbia, while an article descriptive of Kalki—the new rod wood—is of deep interest to fishermen. A fine survey of the whole question of International Control of International Waters by Mr. C. H. Wilson is worth careful perusal, embodying as it does a long and careful study of the whole question from both sides. A paper on Guides and Their Patrons, written from a guide's point of view by a veteran guide ought to lead to a controversy as exciting as that on dogs versus still hunters. Wolf hunting, moose hunting, deer hunting and deer preservation are but a few of the many good things in the number, while How One Settler Helps the Deer, should prove as widespread in its interest as the former paper by the same writer on How One Settler Treats the Deer. Indeed the many excellencies of the number are apparent from the opening paper to the closing page.

—The two Oddfellow Lodges, Peterborough and Otonabee, will attend St. John's church on Sunday, April 26, this being the 89th anniversary of the Order. Rev. Canon Davidson will preach a special Oddfellows' sermon.

Weary, Worn-out, Tired

If You Feel Poorly This Spring this Article is Worth Considering

Nothing in life keeps people from advancement like poor health. If the nerves are weak, if the stomach, liver, bowels or kidneys, fail to work properly, health surely suffers. Spring is the hardest time on health—the season when the system calls for a blood cleansing medicine.

The best plan is to entrust your condition to a physician of reputable condition to a physician of reputable ... Dr. Hamilton, who has had years of experience in compounding tonics. For the ills and tired feeling of spring Dr. Hamilton says nothing is better than Mandrake and Butternut Pills, and this is well proved in the case of James Burton, of Lewistown. "I had grip and it left me very weak. The disease settled in my back and side, which ached day and night. I had a nagging cough. My appetite was all gone. My nerves unstrung. I could not sleep well. I struggled against growing pale, thin and weak—but it was not good. Spring brought depression, overpowering weakness and bad headaches. But my life was rugbad headaches. But my life was spared, simply because I learned of the wonderful merit in Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut. The result was marvelous. I gained rapidly, became strong, ruddy, vigorous, perfectly well. I urge every man and woman to use Dr. Hamilton's Pills regularly.

You'll brighten up, have cleaner blood stronger nerves, better spirits after using Dr. Hamilton's Pills. 25c at all dealers. Guaranteed safe, sure, helpful for old and young.

Dog and Engine Mixed Up

Yesterday at noon a dog at the G.T.R. tried to emulate the example of one of the Western aborigines who tried to lasso an engine, and needless to say that whilst his lasso went over the smoke stack the Indians remains were easily gathered into an empty match box. Just the same, this dog yesterday disputed the right of way with a G.T.R. engine. There was hardly enough of the dog left for a Coroner, working on the job basis, to hold an inquest.

The Restorative is a genuine tonic to tired, run-down nerves, and but a few doses is needed to satisfy the user that Dr. Shoop's Restorative is actually reaching that tired spot. COMMON SENSE

Leads most intelligent people to use only medicines of known composition. Therefore it is that Dr. Pierce's medicines, the makers of which print every ingredient entering into them upon the bottle wrappers and attest its correctness under oath, are daily growing in favor. The composition of Dr. Pierce's medicines is open to everybody. Dr. Pierce being desirous of having the search light of investigation turned fully upon his formulæ, being confident that the better the composition of these medicines is known the more will their great curative merits be recognized. Being wholly made of the active medicinal principles extracted from native forest roots, by exact processes original with Dr. Pierce, and without the use of a drop of alcohol, triple-refined and chemically pure glycerine being used instead in extracting and preserving the curative virtues residing in the roots employed, these medicines are entirely free from the objection of doing harm by creating an appetite for either alcoholic beverages or habit-forming drugs. Examine the formula on their bottle wrappers—the same as sworn to by Dr. Pierce, and you will find that his "Golden Medical Discovery," the great, blood-purifier, stomach tonic and bowel regulator—the medicine which, while not recommended to cure consumption in its advanced stages (no medicine will do that) yet does cure all those catarrhal conditions of head and throat, weak stomach, torpid liver and bronchial troubles, weak lungs and hang-on-coughs, which, if neglected or badly treated lead up to and finally terminate in consumption.

Take the "Golden Medical Discovery" in time and it is not likely to disappoint you if only you give it a thorough and fair trial. Don't expect miracles. It won't do supernatural things. You must exercise your patience and persevere in its use for a reasonable length of time to get its full benefits. The ingredients of which Dr. Pierce's medicines are composed have the unqualified endorsement of scores of medical leaders—better than any amount of lay, or non-professional, testimonials. They are not given away to be experimented with but are sold by all dealers in medicines at reasonable prices.

Tom Slater Talks with a Reporter on the Coming Big Walk

Says the People of This Should Realize the Importance of This Great Event

Hartley is Game

A reporter had an interesting chat with Tom Slater, the American pedestrian, who is here for the walking tournament and the man who secured second money at the Kansas City walk. Slater is an intelligent young athlete of good address, and talks along general lines, adopting the commendable policy of not unduly boasting himself or registering any unnecessary knocks against anybody else.

RACING KEEPS HIM FIT.

"What is your special course of training?" Slater was asked by his interviewer.

"I'm not following a strict line of of condition. I find my racing keeps me fine enough, and there is the danger of becoming overtrained if I take very much special work."

LIKES THE TRACK.

Slater is very much impressed with the track at Brock street rink and thinks the course will be one of the finest ever made for an indoor walking competition. The Brock street rink is larger than most indoor buildings in which pedestrian tournaments are held, there being 13 laps to the mile. Slater says that in the United States the average indoor track is about 18 laps to the mile.

A GREAT EVENT.

"The people of Peterborough," said Slater, "should realize the importance of the tournament. The whole city should wake up to the fact that this is an international pedestrian tournament of the greatest importance. Men with such reputations as those who will start here will be able to give the spectators an exhibition of heel and toe walking worth going hundreds of miles to see. It will be one of the most important athletic events of the day."

And considering the personnel of the field, Slater's remarks seem beyond dispute.

HARTLEY IS GAME.

Slater was much impressed with Hartley's showing in Kansas City, and said he made a great race to get inside the money. He regards the Peterborough wonder as a man of great endurance, and thinks he will be a dangerous competitor. He thinks he should make a fine showing and be pretty near the top when the last lap is covered.

LIKES PETERBOROUGH.

That Peterborough has an ideal training climate is the opinion of Slater. He finds the air here much more bracing and invigorating than that of the South, where he has trained a great deal and says he will be in keen shape for the race here. On account of the ideal climatic conditions, he thinks the time will be very fast, and would not be in the least surprised to see a six day walking record established.

SWIMMING INSTRUCTOR.

Besides being a professional pedestrian Slater is a swimming instructor and conducts a swimming school in Syracuse, N.Y. He has never attempted any great swimming feats, the biggest swim of his life having been one of eight miles in the salt water, from Gloucester, Mass., to Long Beach. It was an exhibitionary feat against time, and was conducted under the auspices of the Gloucester street railway. An immense throng of people was on hand to see the finish.

A Former Local Boy Gets Rhodes Scholarship

The many friends in this city of Mr. Stanley Fife, son of Mr. James Fife of Edmonton, Alta., but formerly on the teaching staff of the local Collegiate Institute, will be pleased to hear that he has been awarded the Rhodes Scholarship for the Provinces of Alberta and Saskatchewan. Mr. Fife will go to Oxford University next fall.

On graduating from the Peterborough Collegiate Institute he went to Queen's University, where he studied arts during the scholastic terms of 1907 and 1908. He has been very successful in his studies at Queen's. He was also president of his year.

To be a Rhodes' scholar is a distinct honor, and Peterborough may well feel proud that one of her sons has been chosen to represent Queen's University at Oxford. Mr. Fife will take a two years' course at Oxford University.

The late Cecil Rhodes who amassed great wealth in the Kimberley diamond mines in South Africa, provided universities in Canada and the United States with these scholarships, a student to be chosen to each year to represent the university. The one to go to Oxford must be an all round good man, not a specialist in any one line but normally good in the course of study he is pursuing, athletics and other departments of his university training. By this means is brought together on all round body of men at Oxford.

Mr. Fife is quite a young man. He arrived in the city this morning and is the guest of relatives in Ashburnham for a few days, prior to having to join his parents at Edmonton.

long.

And will greet us again with "All Hail."

Annual Meeting C. G. E. Company

Toronto, April 15.—At the annual meeting of the Canadian General Electric Company today, Mr. W. R. Brock, the president, alluded to the recent reduction in the dividend, which, after having stood at ten per cent for nine years, was recently placed at seven per cent. It had been considered prudent, he said, to make the reduction, "in view of the present uncertainty of trade conditions."

The company, he added, had between 1899 until the end of 1907, paid out $2,478,469 in dividends. Since 1900, $1,161,501 had been written off. A surplus of undivided profits and premiums on stock issued were carried forward, amounting to $1,763,168, and there was a balance at the credit of profit and loss of $73,906.

"The total of all these items," said Brock, "not including payment of interest on borrowed capital, reaches the sum of $5,477,548, which, we believe, is a most creditable showing for a rapidly expanding industry which charges all experimental and development work to operating expenses."

The Drink Question

is by no means confined to the excessive use of alcoholic stimulants.

The amount of coffee containing a poisonous alkaloid—caffeine—which is consumed in this country, is said to be over ten million bags a year.

And there's more "nervous prostration" in America than anywhere on the globe.

If you really want strong nerves and a clear brain, stop coffee and use the wholesome cereal beverage

POLICE

Fred Rapier, John Armstrong, Darcy Dunlop, jr., and Bert. Findlay were each charged with being drunk and disorderly on Saturday last at police court yesterday morning. Findlay and Dunlop pleaded guilty, and were fined two dollars, but Rapier and Armstrong pleaded not guilty, and as there was not sufficient evidence against them to make a conviction, so they were discharged.

It appears that Rapier and a lad by the name of Young were quarrelling out in front of the New Oxford hotel on Saturday when Dunlop who was passing by, thought that Young was not getting fair play and rushed to his assistance. Armstrong, it was stated, was also mixed up in the row.

John Crowe of Cavan was a witness at the police court yesterday, and was much put out because he did not receive any fees for coming and giving his evidence. However, the case in which he was interested was dismissed without costs. He said that he had lost a whole day's work by having to attend court. "The time lost was worth two dollars to me," he said to P. C. Adams after the court was over.

An old man who was with Crowe said "I wouldn't come on any subpoena."

"Then we would arrest you" said P. C. Adams, "and you would have to pay a fine then or go to jail."

"I would go up on the hill," replied the old gentleman.

Mr. Crowe was informed that the highest fee he could get was seventy-five cents and the magistrate was not compelled to grant any witness' fee unless he desired.

Two Men Drown in the St. Lawrence River

Brockville, April 17.—Marshall Hazelton, aged twenty-four, and Clarence Chesmore, aged 19, two young men residing at Alexandria Bay, were drowned in the St. Lawrence yesterday.

The young men were duck shooting and had a camp at Goose Bay. In making for some nearby shoals their sail boat was overturned by a squall and nothing has been since heard of the men.

The boat was found by a farmer residing on the shore and gave every evidence of the men having made a struggle to save themselves. Grappling parties are out, but the bodies have not been recovered.

In the Realm of Sport

The best bouts in the history of the city are expected in the city amateur boxing championship tourney in Toronto, which commences Thursday night at Mutual street rink and will be continued Friday and Saturday. There are 77 entries.

The basketball game of the season is billed for to-morrow night, when the Peterborough "Y" team and the Midland quintette meet at the locally M.C.A. gymnasium.

Peterborough will be represented by a strong team and as the visitors are heralded as a particularly fast aggregation the contest should be a great one.

The ball will be faced at 8.30 sharp.

The game between the Quakers and the Britannias, which was to have taken place at the Driving Park tomorrow afternoon has been called off as the Reids cannot come here.

The C.L.A. convention will be held in Toronto today, and Peterborough has no candidate for the Council this year.

It is to be regretted that this city with its creditable lacrosse career and such a number of players to choose from, should not have a twelve on the field this summer. However, lacrosse is apparently a dead issue in Peterborough this year as far as a C.L.A. team as concerned.

It is up to the enthusiasts to organize a Trent Valley League, as they have proposed doing, and give the public of Peterborough a chance to see something of Canada's national game during the coming summer.

Hoagland will be Guest at Oriental

Hoagland, the champion walker of America, is sure to be here for the Brock street tournament, as is shown by the letter he has written to Mr. George N. Graham announcing the fact that he is going to come.

During his stay here he will be Mr. Graham's guest at the Oriental.

The letter is as follows:—

Auburn, N.Y.,
April 14, 1908.

Mr. Geo. N. Graham.

Dear Sir,—

I am about to leave for Peterborough. Will stop one day at Buffalo and one day at Toronto. Will probably arrive in your city Friday. I met a friend of yours last night; his name is John Pooley. He met you in Buffalo. Hope to see you soon.

Yours truly,
W. A. HOAGLAND.

Good Friday in Peterborough

The religious significance of Good Friday will not be overlooked in connection with the observance of the holiday in Peterborough. Services will be held in the Anglican Churches and at St. Peter's Cathedral and in the afternoon there will be an open air service at Central Park led by A. H. Brace and Rev. H. J. Keith. The musical portion of the service will be conducted by the massed choirs of the city.

The services in the churches are as follows;

St. John's—Morning Prayer, 11 a.m., 7 p.m., devotions to be followed by the rendition of Stainer's "Crucifixion."

All Saints'—Services at 10.30 am. and 8 p.m.

St. Luke's—10.30 o'clock, Morning Prayer; 12 to 3 p.m. three hours' devotional service to commemorate the agony of Jesus Christ on the cross. Addresses will be given by the rector, Rev. Dr. Langfeldt, and by Venerable Archdeacon Warren of Toronto.

St. Peter's Cathedral —9 o'clock, Mass of the Pre-Sanctified; 3 p.m. Stations of the Cross; 7 p.m., Stations of the Cross and sermon.

A special meeting will be held at the Salvation Army temple at eight o'clock p.m. The band will be in attendance and a large number are expected to be in attendance.

Backache is Nature's Danger Signal

Prescription it Taken in Time Prevents Kidney Disease

Many people succumb each year to some form of kidney trouble than any other cause. The slightest form of kidney derangement often develops into Bright's kidney disease, diabetes or dropsy. When either of these diseases are suspected the sufferer should at once seek the best medical attention possible. Consult only a good, first-class, physician, leave patent medicines alone.

There are many of the lesser symptoms of kidney trouble which can be treated at home as stated by a well-known authority. For some of these such as backache, pain in the region of the kidneys, weak bladder, frequency, (especially at night) painful washing and other urinary troubles, try the following simple home remedy; Fluid Extract Dandelion one-half ounce, Compound Kargon one ounce, Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. These simple ingredients are harmless, and can be obtained at any good prescription pharmacy and anyone can mix them by shaking well in a bottle. The dose for adults is a teaspoonful after each meal and again at bedtime.

There is no better general remedy known to relieve all forms of rheumatism either, because it acts directly upon the kidneys and blood. It cleans the clogged up pores in the kidneys so they can filter and strain from the blood the poisonous uric acid and waste matter which if not eliminated remain in the blood, decompose and settle about the joints and muscular tissues causing the untold suffering and deformity of rheumatism.

Backache is nature's signal notifying the sufferer that the kidneys are not acting properly. "Take care of your kidneys," is now the physician's advice to his patients.

Runaway Horse Meets With a Sudden Death

Yesterday afternoon a wagon load of coal was being delivered by Fitzgerald's coal company on Water street. As the men with the rig were engaged carrying in the coal to the consignee, a piece of paper blowing along the street or some such reason for a horse getting the "jiby-jigs" or whatever term might be applied to a horse that becomes frightened without real cause for its fright, caused the team attached to the coal wagon to take their respective bits in their mouths and run away. The equine combination sped down southwards along Water St. until they ran into a telephone pole on the south-east corner of Water and Brock streets. One of the horses was knocked over and, it is understood, had its front legs broken. Whether or not the animal quickly passed to that bourne whence no coal cart horse returns to assist the local coal barons in their philanthropic labor of dishing out dusky diamonds to the public at so much per ton. Enquiries at the stables of the owners established the fact that a valuable horse expired at the corner above mentioned. The driver of the rig chased his flying steeds afoot, at a pace that would entitle him to serious consideration in the coming walking match.

Shocking Cruelty of a Farmer Back of Brockville

Brockville, April 17.—The story of the inhumanity of an Elmsley township farmer has just come to light here, the details of which are shocking and most revolting in their cruelty.

The man lives about fifteen miles from here, on the northern part of the county. He had thirteen head of cattle, eleven cows, two yearlings, two horses, a colt and one pig. He was not a prosperous farmer, and not only was his farm mortgaged, but so was all his stock. Like many others in this section, he had a poor hay crop last year, and feed was scarce. A few days ago he was in town, and when told he was going away laughed at the idea, and denied it.

The next day he and his sister, who lived with him, left, and it is said, have gone to Dakota.

When the holders of the cattle mortgage heard that he had gone, they made an investigation, which disclosed one of the most revolting stories of man's inhumanity to dumb animals that has been heard for many a day. When they drove to the farm house there was no signs of life about the place. On entering they found six cows lying dead, five more cows and two heifers on the lower floor, two horses in another place, and the colt and pig in another. All were dead.

The bodies were little more than skeletons, and their protruding bones and emaciated forms told the story of the slow starvation that had come to them. Six of the cows were lying festooned on the sides, the colt had climbed into the granary, evidently in quest of something to eat, but no food for any kind of stock there was found about the place.

Doukhobors Let Loose, and Will Leave Fort William

Ottawa, April 17.—The Department of Justice has consented to the release of the seventeen Doukhobors, men and women, in Fort William, who have got into trouble through their unwillingness to conform to the conventions in the matter of dress. As a matter of fact, there is said to be no room for them either in Fort William jail or at the Central Prison. But the release is granted, not on that account, but on the representations of their friends, who have promised to return to Saskatchewan, and to give no more bother to the authorities.

Many Building Permits Issued

Whilst local pessimists have decried the future engagement of our city in some places and cases, it is worth noting to their confusion that many building permits have been issued at the city hall during the past ten days, the majority of them for substantial dwelling houses. Among these permits are the following;

Herbert McMillen, brick veneer dwelling on Rogers street, $2000.

Mrs. M. F. Reid, refacing foundation of verandah and shingling house on Lansdowne street, $150.

A. Weir, stable at 444 Mark street, $150.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

Jimmy Reynolds and Mark Spencely will Act as Refeeres

At a meeting of the officers and executive of the pedestrian tournament held at the Oriental Hotel last night, the secretary was instructed to forward an official communications to Jimmy Reynolds of Port Hope and one to Mark Spencely of this city, asking them to act as referees at the tournament under the supervision of E. S. Clary.

J. S. Kingman was appointed official scorer, with power to engage assistants if necessary.

It was decided by the meeting to allow only contestants, trainers and officials in the ring. All others must keep out.

The merchants of the town at their own request were given the privilege to issue a programme of the tournament, which will be distributed around the rink free of charge. It was decided not to allow any other advertising matter to be distributed.

The Quaker Tug of war team were represented at the meeting and were allowed the privilege of pulling the rope for a cup in a competition for all comers on Tuesday, Thursday and Friday evenings, or any one of those evenings, providing only one team is taken on.

Only one trainer's ticket will be issued to each contestant, and trainers will be compelled to wear their badges in a conspicuous place.

Secretary Yokoope was instructed to send complimentary tickets to each of the city clergymen and their presence at the rink is especially asked for.

A committee of two was appointed to see that a number of broken windows in the rink were fixed.

The scoring machine for the race will be in operation tomorrow afternoon at three o'clock and everybody will be admitted free, including the small boy. A number of the walkers entered in the tournament will be out for a trial jog on the track at the rink tomorrow afternoon and it is expected that many admirers of the men will be out to see their favorites work out.

How to Tell

If the Kidneys and Liver are Not Acting Right

Thousands die every year from aggravated kidney distress that could have been saved if they only knew.

Your back may ache, you think it's tiredness or physical weakness.

You grow irritable and nervous—it's put down to loss of sleep.

Joints ache, muscles get sore,—that's all put down to bad weather.

Then digestion goes poor, appetite fades away, color bleaches, spirit droop.

Can't you see it's all from your over-worked kidneys, which can't keep the body clear of poisons that are now surging through the whole system.

Cure your kidneys with Dr. Hamilton's pills.

"When I was so stooped and back weary, so lame and sore with kidney and bladder trouble, I cured myself quickly with Dr. Hamilton's Pills" writes C. C. Ferrier, a well known merchant in Plainville. "Dr. Hamilton's Pills touched the spot at once, gave my back ease, lifted depression and weariness, made a new man of me. I can also say for a good spring medicine to clear and enrich the blood Dr. Hamilton's Pills have no equal."

The housewife whose aching back makes every household duty a burden, the working man who is tired all day and can't rest at night, whose back aches, and whose feet swell—three people have kidney trouble. Women whose kidneys are sick, suffer continually from blind and sick headaches, faint and dizzy spells, bearing down pains, sharps twinges when stooping, distressing urinary troubles, aching muscles and joints, lack of appetite and loss of sleep. Reach the cause. Cure the kidneys. Use Dr. Hamilton's Mandrake and Butternut Pills, which have cured thousands. 25c. at all dealers.

Mrs. Spencer Walton to Speak at Bethany

Mrs. Spencer Walton who will speak at Bethany Tabernacle next Monday evening, is the wife of the late Mr. Spencer Walton, founder of the South African General Mission. For eight years Mrs. Walton has superintended the mission co-ordinately with her husband, after which Rev. Andrew Murray, became the president. Mrs. Walton is also the president of the Durham Y.W.C.A., during her residence there. As a refined practical, spiritual woman she has done most effective work in the jail, and has been a welcome messenger in the hospitals. She is also an impressive speaker, having addressed many open air services in the South African cities, and numerous large gatherings in the different denominations in the States. Mrs. Walton has left Africa for Africa's sake, that she might in England and America, win others to love it for Jesus sake.

Leaving her four girls in care of her mother on England, she comes to give us her vision of God's longings for Africa.

This is her third trip to America, the other two having been made her late husband, in which both were greatly owned of God.

Miss Ringland who accompanies her has also for some years been a missionary on the field, and has recently been appointed field-secretary with headquarters in New York City. Miss Ringland will speak in the afternoon at 3.30 o'clock, and Mrs. will speak at night o'clock. Song service will begin at 7.45. The public generally is cordially invited.

Stupid, absent-minded and dull, you feel the need of a stimulating tonic.

To impart quickness and great vitality to the entire system nothing acts like Ferrozone.

In a short time it makes you feel fit and fine, creates a feeling of youth and strength that's surprising.

Ferrozone revives and braces the sickly because it nourishes and builds up the organs that are weak. As a spring tonic appetizer and blood strengthener it is unequalled.

A well known resident of Utopia, Ont., Mr. H. H. Postle, writes: "From long experience I am convinced that everyone requires medicine in the spring. As a rule the blood is thin and impure and the whole system is congested with poisons that should be carried off. I use Ferrozone because it clears up the system, gives you an appetite and makes you feel well. One winter I had serious palpitation of the heart, nervous headaches, and an extreme tired feeling. Sleep was not restful and by spring I was in bad shape. I took six boxes of Ferrozone and was made the picture of health."

Ferrozone makes permanent cures. Absolutely safe because it is purely vegetable and contains no alcohol. Concentrated cure in tablet form, —that's Ferrozone, 50c per box or six boxes for $1.25 at all dealers.

A HAND AT WHIST.

The Story of the Result Put Bridge Yarns in the Fish Class.

At an uptown bridge whist party a man member told this story while the company was taking a bite between rubbers: "I had heard of a man holding a complete suit, but I never saw it until last week. I was invited to play at Dr. Blank's home, and it was my deal at the start of the second rubber. I looked at my cards and could hardly believe my eyes. There were thirteen cards all of the same suit. 'Gentlemen,' said I, 'this is embarrassing. I hate to make the trump.'

"'Why?' was asked.

"'Well,' said I, 'if I were playing with people who knew me less well I would dislike to show my hand.'

"'Now, after all this fuss, what do you make it?'

"'Hearts,' said I.

"Quick as a flash the man at my left said, 'I double,' and then I realized that in my excitement I miscalled my hand—I had all diamonds. They made a grand slam and said a few things to me also."

The day after he had told the story the man received a postal card on which this was written:

"The old rule that an affidavit should go with every fish story and a pepsin tablet with every piece of amateur mince pie has been changed to include bridge whist stories in the fish class."

SPANISH THRONE ROOM.

Outrivals in Splendor Anything of the Kind in Europe.

The throne room of Spain outrivals in splendor any in Europe.

The ancient throne stands in the apartment known as the room of ambassadors. The decorations of this apartment include vast crystal chandeliers, huge tables inlaid with precious marbles, vast plate glass mirrors, gildings, rich hangings and above all the painted ceiling representing the long line of Spanish kings in the various picturesque costumes of the provinces. Here Spanish kings receive on state occasions, and here, too, their bodies lie in state after death. The throne is of rich velvet, embroidered. Around it are grouped four great silver lions with their heads turned away as if guarding the occupant. Four broad steps lead up to the throne room from the polished floor of the room, and the crimson covered footstool is in itself a work of art.

In this room have been gathered for ages curios and gems from Spanish possessions the world over at a time when Spain was mistress of the world. And here in front of the throne hang chandeliers of rock crystal which have for generations been the envy of other European rulers.

Witchcraft in India.

The belief in witchcraft is widespread in India, especially among the tribes low in the scale of civilization. The ojha, or exorcist, is an important member of the community. His mummeries and incantations implies not only the lower classes, but even orthodox Rajputs and Kayasths. He is paid to denounce witches, and, with the cunning of his class, he usually chooses harmless old women whose existence is rather a burden upon the village. Some of these women, however, have as implicit belief in their powers for evil as the villagers themselves. Murder frequently follows the denunciation.

OPTICAL ILLUSIONS.

Striking Examples That May Be Observed In Daily Life.

Doubtless every one has observed while traveling by train that the trees or houses in the distance appear to be speeding along in the same direction as the train, while the nearer objects are fast receding. Many, too, have observed that the top of a level wall built on a steep incline appears to slope upward in a contrary direction to the hill itself at nearly the same angle to the apparent level, and some have curiously regarded the ghostlike gliding and vanishing of dark shadows while passing a double row of fencing, but the following are not so commonly remarked:

One might stand for several minutes watching the revolutions of the cups of an anemometer—for measuring the velocity of the wind—and still be puzzled as to the real way they are turning round. Gaze up at them when there is an uncertain breeze blowing. They revolve rapidly, and you are perhaps perplexed as to their direction. As the wind subsides you would expect to find it easier to tell the direction by the slower revolution; but, as a matter of fact, the difficulty is increased. With the varying speed your first impression is that such and such is the direction. A moment later you reverse that idea, and the longer you gaze the more it seems as if they are spinning round erratically in every possible direction, whereas, of course, they can only turn one way.

Standing immediately beneath a high wall of a building—the longer the wall the better for practical demonstration—many would aver on looking upward that it was not exactly perpendicular, but inclined toward them in a threatening manner. This illusion is the effect of perspective and would be seen to better advantage if you stood between two such walls which faced each other at short distance.

THE GONDOLA.

Its Gliding and Guiding Through Venice's Intricate Canals.

The gondola is so perfectly adapted to its purpose that it is like a sentient thing in the gondolier's control. It obeys the slightest impulse of the oar. Through the narrow and intricate lanes of Venice, with the sharp and baffling turns, it glides with unfailing accuracy. The boatmen have about ten different calls by which they announce their approach, as they come to a corner, the turn they will take in a crowd, their way to right and left and all that. And these calls, half song, half cry, echo day and night, and yet so musical are they that they seem to be merely a part of the brooding silence of Venice.

Indeed the wonder of Venice is how all things—the city and the sea, the boats and the people, the songs and the sky—combine to make one perfect whole, caressing and idle as one of Petrarch's sonnets, which one I care not. Here even death is not merely somber. It is friendly and familiar as well. I saw them put old Paolo to bed for the last time. He had been in his prime a stout gondolier of the traghetto of Santa Sofia, near the Rialto, but in old age was a ragged "hooker" of the gray. In his quarter, however, he was a respected man. Indeed to be old or to be a child is among the gondoliers a title to tenderness and respect. And so when a good man dies in the poorer quarters the neighbors combine and hire a brass band to celebrate his virtues.—Vance Thompson in Outing Magazine.

Sturgeons' Backbones.

From the dried backbone of sturgeon, which has the appearance of macaroni, an excellent Russian soup, called vesiga, is made. It is excessively nutritive and invigorating, almost as much so, indeed, as the famous beche de mar (not mer), otherwise the trapang, or edible sea slug. It is collected in large quantities throughout the Indian archipelago, especially to the eastward, for the China market. There are many varieties, such as the large scarlet trapang from Macassar, the Kuroke trapang from Borneo, the great black trapang from Leuconia and many more. Properly prepared, this is absolutely the most inspiring soup there is and is as superior to turtle as the latter is to water gruel. It costs about $2.50 per pound.

Why?

Is one always chilled to the marrow?
Is an explorer always intrepid?
Is a swoop always a fell swoop?
Is a statesman always eminent?
Is a newspaper man always a well known newspaper man?
Is a bargain always extra special?
Is drapery always clinging?
Is sweetness always cloying?
Is a ruffian always burly?
Is one always within an inch of death? Why not two inches?
And why, why, why, is a conclusion always foregone?

Mutually Helpful.

Husband—Smikeson's wife is away, and I'm going over there this evening to cheer him up. Wife—Why don't you bring him here? Husband—Well—er—I'm not feeling very well and need a little cheering up myself.

Might and Mane.

Tom Hood, the punster, once described the meeting of a man and a lion, and in doing so he said, "The man ran off with all his might and the lion with all his mane."

Manner is much. A man always looks better when he carries himself well than when a couple of friends are trying to carry him.

MUSIC AND THE MASSES.

Popular Opinion Should Be Educated to Be the Arbiter as to Merit.

Give me the approval of the masses, and I can survive without the aristocracy or the critics; not that the latter are to be despised or ignored, but their minority decision should not be final.

What makes or breaks great works on their first performance in Europe? Not the verdict of the aristocracy nor of the critics, but the masses, the common people. It is in the galleries that the battle is waged, with hisses and applause, and it is upon the prevailing opinion of this portion of the audience that the fate of a work depends. But in America, alas, the masses do nothing. It is the critic who assumes to tell this nation what is good work and what bad, and I believe and am daring enough to say that there is no man or small coterie of men capable of teaching a nation art. It needs the battle of minds among the people, and again I say, alas, our people, our masses, have not yet been musically educated, have not yet had an opportunity to live in the proper musical atmosphere.

One great drawback for the masses here is that the opera season lasts but a few months and that the prices of the limited number of representations during that brief period are so very high that the people generally cannot afford to go. It is dreadful to me to realize that it is the very people whose souls long for music and who sooner or later will, I believe, be the chief factors in building it up here as they have been in Europe and who are now denied the opportunity not only of satisfying themselves, but of lending their aid to the spread of art feeling and comprehension.—Mary Garden in Everybody's.

MOVING PICTURES.

Originated in the Spinning of a Coin by Sir John Herschel.

Sir John Herschel after dinner in 1826 asked his friend, Charles Babbage, how he would show both sides of a shilling at once. Babbage replied by taking a shilling from his pocket and holding it to a mirror. This did not satisfy Sir John, who set the shilling spinning upon the dinner table, at the same time pointing out that if the eye is placed on a level with the rotating coin both sides can be seen at once. Babbage was so struck by the experiment that the next day he described it to a friend, Dr. Fitton, who immediately made a working model. On one side of a disk was drawn a bird, on the other side an empty birdcage. When the card was revolved on a silk thread the bird appeared to be in the cage. This model showed the persistence of vision upon which all moving pictures depend for their effect. The eye retains the image of the object seen for a fraction of a second after the object has been removed. This model was called the thanmotrope. Next came the zoetrope, or wheel of life. A cylinder was perforated with a series of slots, and within the cylinder was placed a band of drawings of dancing men. On the apparatus being slowly rotated the figures seen through the slots appeared to be in motion. The first systematic photographs taken at regular intervals of men and animals were made by Muybridge in 1877.

Antiquity of Petroleum.

Though it is only within recent times that petroleum has become an article of commerce, there is abundant proof that it was used in the arts forty centuries ago. The mortar used in constructing the walls of Nineveh and Babylon had petroleum mixed with it for the purpose of securing greater cohesion and excluding dampness. Traces of the bituminous matter are very distinct in the ruins, and the existence of petroleum springs at Is, some 120 miles from old Babylon, indicates one source of the supply. In the ancient history of several eastern countries allusion is made in unmistakable terms to the existence of petroleum springs.

Strong Room Perils.

Before now people have been shut in strong rooms and have had narrow escapes. On one occasion a locksmith was repairing an interior safe in the strong room of a New York bank when the cashier closed the vault door. As it was worked by a time lock it meant that the door would remain closed until the following morning. Fortunately the man knew the secrets of his stronghold and by opening a manhole was able to obtain a sufficient supply of air. He then made a pillow of a bag of dollar bills and composed himself to sleep until the door was opened next morning.—Strand Magazine.

Easy Shopping.

There is little trouble attached to shopping in Buenos Aires. When a citizen with a plethoric purse goes to market he buys his vegetables in piles without regard to quantity or quality. Nothing is bought by weight. If a man wants beef he simply tells the butcher he wants some meat, and he gets a chunk, pays the price and goes home satisfied.

Knew Where It Went.

"Are you one of those mean spirited men who ask their wives what they do with the money they receive?"

"Certainly not," answered Mr. Meekton. "I don't have to ask my wife. She plays bridge whist."

Satisfaction.

"Why do you set your alarm clock? You never get up when it rings!"

"No, but I have the satisfaction of knowing I am sleeping late of my own free will and not by accident."—Exchange.

PATENTS PROMPTLY SECURED

NOW LISTEN!

Please read carefully what follows, and if you decide to take advantage of what the "Canada Southern Oil & Gas Co, Limited," of Tilbury, Ont (no personal liability), is now offering you, the result will be that instead of getting 3 per cent. for your savings, you will get at least from 10 to 25 per cent. that others are harvesting.

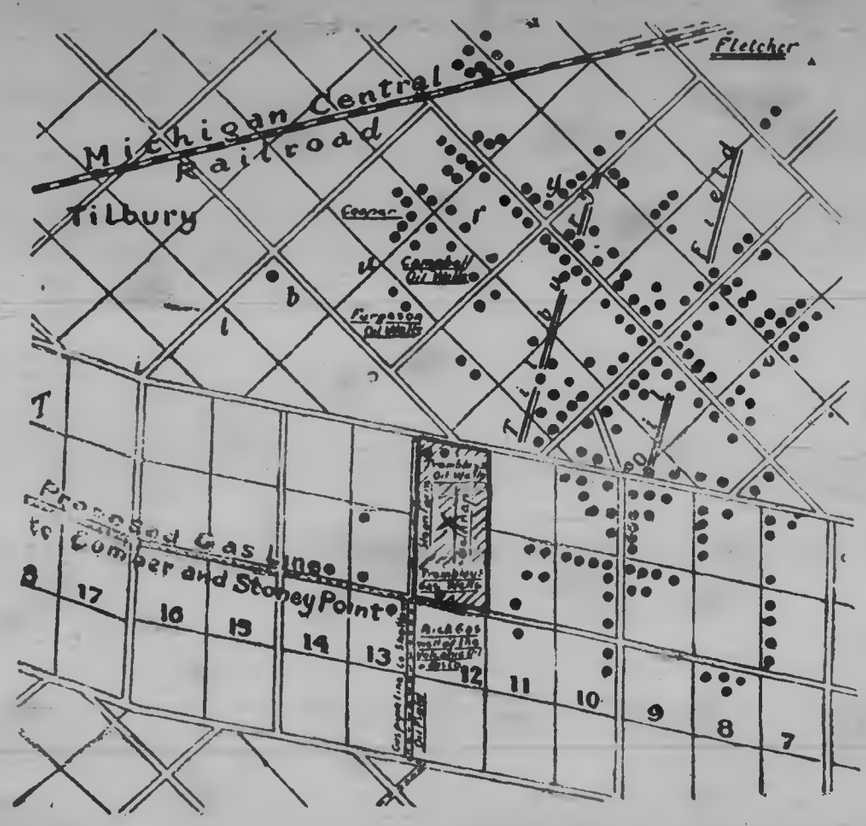
Your savings will be eight times more than the original amount by the mere fact of the higher rate of interest you will get.

Remember that this is no wildcat scheme, as you can see by the facts hereinafter mentioned.

Dr. Bell, the famous Canadian geologist, early in 1878 reported that there was an oil and gas field in the Townships of Tilbury and Romney County of Kent, Ont. As soon as the discovery of the oil was made in Tilbury in 1906, our American neighbors, who are experts in good things, did not hesitate to invest hundreds of thousands of dollars, and now, in fact, control the two thirds interest in our oil field of Tilbury; and this happened because we Canadians hesitated to invest a few thousand dollars in the exploration of the oil mines of Tilbury, which already give a monthly production valued at $75,000, without adding the revenue derived from the gas.

We have said that this is not a wildcat scheme, because the "Canadian Southern Oil & Gas Co., Limited," has secured an option at a very moderate price on properties situated in the oil and gas field of Tilbury, upon which three successful tests have been made, being Lot No. 12, M. R. N., Tilbury East, 200 acres, indicated with a cross upon the map of the field.

COUNTY of KENT, ONTARIO



Three wells only have been drilled at an average depth of 1,400 feet.

The first one proves to be a rich gas well, the two others are good oil wells, combined with a strong production of gas.

The Company has also secured the franchises for the distribution and sale of natural gas into the Townships of Romney, Tilbury East, North and West and also into the thriving villages of Comber and Stoney Point.

The gas well is properly equipped and already is supplying the motor power to the Romney oil well and is getting one-third of the gross revenue of the gas sold.

The oil wells are completely equipped with one 15 h. p. gas engine, derrick, tanks, boiler, pumps, tubing, pipe-line, jerk-line, jack, etc., and all producing daily. The oil is sold to The Imperial Oil Company, Limited, and is delivered at the tanks and shipped through its pipe-line to Lake Marquette R. R. Station at Merlin, a distance of 3 miles.

Our properties are already giving daily a net revenue of about $35.00—that is to say, more than 10 per cent. of the whole capital stock of the Company.

This revenue may be made four times greater by the drilling of other wells and the construction of the gas-line to Comber and Stoney Point.

Fritz Cirkel, Esq., of Montreal, consulting mining engineer and mining expert to the Dominion Government, who lately made an inspection of said property, concluded his report as follows:

"In summarizing the actual results already obtained from the operations on the Sloan (wells the writer is forced to the conclusion that the property under consideration is a very valuable one. Located as it is in the western extremity of the producing Tilbury oil field, in close proximity to wells which produce from 40 to 50 barrels of oil (and even more) per day of 24 hours (I refer to the Ferguson, Campbell and Cooper properties, located about 2,000 feet distant to the north, see plan attached hereto), it bids fair to become a producer of oil and natural gas of no small measure.

The Tilbury field has already the reputation of being a large producer and powerful companies have entered the district with a view of securing properties of known and established value.

There is one factor to which I would like to draw your special attention and that is the future of natural gas. To-day, the market in that in that part of the country, for this commodity is not sufficiently large to dispose of all the gas the wells can produce but there is no question that in the near future factories will be established on central points, which will eventually consume for various purposes, especially for power, all the gas which can be produced in the field.

Besides this there are quite a number of towns and villages in the western part of the Niagara Peninsula, which may use the gas for heating, lighting, and also for power purposes and it is only a question of time when this will be realised.

The economy of the application of natural gas to power purposes is already evidenced all through the field, as coal or any other power cannot be regularly obtained, and that at high figures. Having therefore, a powerful gas well on the (Sloan) property, it is evident that a great saving is effected from this source alone; for instance, for the operation of ten oil wells, the cost of power required per day would amount to between twenty and twenty-five dollars, which, in 300 working days per year, would represent a saving of from six thousand to seven thousand five hundred dollars.

In conclusion, I may say that this property, with proper and economic management, can be made highly remunerative; I entertain, no doubt, that if properly developed, it will show similar results as those of so many other locations in the vicinity, whose developments have of so many other locations in the vicinity, whose developments have been so vigorously pushed in the past.

Respectfully submitted,
(Signed) FRITZ CIRKEL.

The property is situated at Mancos, Colo., and consists of 160 acres, fully paid for. The Company expects to secure at least 400 acres or more, we are negotiating for it now and the terms are satisfactory and there is coal on the same, and they also intend to secure some Coal Mines of which they have the refusal. Some of the best coal mines in Colorado are in this district, as well as some of the richest gold and silver mines. In fact this is one of the richest parts for mineral in the State of Colorado, and the Company has the refusal to several prospects on reasonable and easy terms.

it from Maud's grasp. Sylvia, half strangled, fell back in a faint, white as a corpse, while Paul struggled with the savage and baffled woman.

"You've killed her," shouted Deborah and laid her strong hands on Maud, "you devil!" She shook her fiercely, "I'll kill you!" and she shook her again.

Paul threw himself on his knees beside the insensible form of Sylvia and left Deborah to deal with Maud. That creature was gasping as Mrs. Tawsey swung her to and fro. Then she began to fight, and the two women crashed around the little room, upsetting the furniture. Paul took Sylvia in his arms and shrank against the wall to protect her.

A new person suddenly appeared, no less a woman than Matilda. When she saw Maud in Deborah's grip she flew at her sister like a tigress and dragged her off. Maud was free for a moment. Seeing her chance, she scrambled out of the window and ran through the garden down the road toward the station. Perhaps she had a vague idea of escape. Deborah, exerting her great strength, threw Matilda aside and without a cry ran out of the house and after the assassin who had tried to strangle Sylvia. Matilda, true to her salt, ran also to help Maud Krill, and the two women sped in the wake of the insane creature who was swiftly running in the direction of the station. People began to look round, a crowd gathered like magic, and in a few moments Maud was being chased by quite a mob of people. She ran like a hare. Heaven only knows if she hoped to escape after her failure to kill Sylvia, but she ran on blindly. Into the new street of Jubilestown she sped, with the roaring mob at her heels. She darted down a side thoroughfare, but Deborah gained on her silently and with a savage look in her eyes. Several policemen joined in the chase, though no one knew what the flying woman had done. Maud turned suddenly up the slope that led to the station. She gained the door, darted through it, upset the man at the barrier and with clinched fists stood at bay, her back to the rails. Deborah darted forward.

Maud gave a wild scream and sprang aside. Then she reeled and fell over the platform. The next moment a train came slowly into the station, and immediately the wretched woman was under the cruel wheels. When she was picked up she was dead and almost cut to pieces. Lady Rachel and Lemuel Krill were revenged.

CHAPTER XXVI.

SYLVIA was ill for a long time after that terrible hour. Although Maud had not succeeded in strangling her, yet the black silk handkerchief left marks on her neck. Then the struggle, the shock and the remembrance of the horrors related by the miserable woman threw her into a nervous fever, and it was many weeks before she recovered sufficiently to enjoy life. Deborah never forgave herself for having left Sylvia alone and nursed her with a fierce tenderness which was the result of remorse.

"If that wretch 'ad killed my pretty," she said to Paul, "I'd ha' killed her, if I was hanged fur it five times over."

"God has punished the woman," said Paul solemnly.

"Serve 'er right," rejoined Deborah heartlessly. "What kin you expect fur good folk if wicked ones, as go strangulating people, don't git the Lord down on 'em. Oh, Mr. Beecot," Deborah broke down into noisy tears, "the 'orrers that my lovely one 'ave tole me. Sich murders and gory assassins!"

"I gathered something of this from what Sylvia let drop when we came back from the station," said Beecot anxiously. "Tell me exactly what she said, Deborah."

"Why that thing as is dead, an' may she rest in a peace she don't deserve, tole how she murdered Lady Rachel Sandal an' my ole master."

"Deborah," cried Beecot, amazed. "You must be mistaken."

"No, I ain't, sir. That thing guv my lily queen the 'orrors. Jes' you 'ear, Mr. Beecot, and creeps will go up your back. Lor' 'ave mercy on us as don't know the wickedness of the world."

"I think we have learned something of it lately, Mrs. Tawsey," was Paul's grim reply. "But tell me"—

"Wot my pure angel sunbeam said? I will, and if it gives you nightmares don't blame me," and Mrs. Tawsey, in her own vigorous, ungrammatical way, related what she had heard from Sylvia, who was now sleeping quietly.

Paul went to find Hard and related all that had taken place. The detective was equally horrified along with Beecot when he heard of Sylvia's danger and set to work to prove the truth of

Weak Kidneys

Weak Kidneys, surely point to weak kidney Nerves. The Kidneys, like the Heart, and the Stomach, feel their weakness, not in the organ itself, but in the nerves that control and guide and strengthen them. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is a medicine specifically prepared to reach these controlling nerves. To doctor the Kidneys alone, is futile. It is a waste of time, and of money as well.

If your back aches or is weak, if the urine scalds, or is dark and strong, if you have symptoms of Bright's or other distressing or dangerous kidney disease, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative a month—Tablets or Liquid—and see what it can and will do for you. Druggist recommend and sell

A TARDY RECOGNITION.

The Absentminded Professor and a Most Intelligent Woman

It was La Fontaine, the fable writer, who in his son's absence during several years in pursuit of an education quite forgot him and was not reminded of his existence until a friend arranged a surprise meeting.

The father was pleased with the manners and wit of the young man presented to him, but failed to recognize him and as soon as they parted promptly forgot him again.

La Fontaine was a genius and a kindly man, but one can hardly disever absentmindedness of such a sort from shallow heartedness. Nevertheless in the case of Professor, let us say, Jones, who failed to recognize his daughter after a year's separation, the bond of affection was both strong and deep.

Mary, his only daughter, married and went abroad with her husband. Their return was a week or two before the date appointed, and owing to a series of misunderstandings and errors the professor was not informed, was not at home when they arrived and met them first at the house of a neighbor, where they had gone to inquire about him.

A reception was in progress there, and he arrived some time after them as a guest and still unaware of their return. Strolling into his friend's library, away from the crowd, he became aware, as he was inspecting the books, of some ladies in conversation on the other side of a portiere, one of whom displayed an astonishing amount of knowledge of his own particular hobby. He was surprised and delighted.

"There's a lady in the next room you must positively present me to," he said eagerly to his host, who had joined him—"a most intelligent woman! She's been talking of the prehistoric races in a surprisingly discriminating manner. Who is she?"

"A Mrs. Smith, I believe," replied the host, much amused, since he knew who the lady was. "Come—I will present you now."

They passed the curtain, and the professor, who had failed to connect the name of Mrs. Smith with his Mary, was duly introduced, for the ladies had overheard his inquiry and the reply and were disposed to keep up the joke. Peering shortsightedly through his big glasses, which, by his usual mistake, were his reading glasses when they should have been his object glasses, he did not recognise Mary when he saw her, and the father and daughter actually opened a conversation on prehistoric man and carried it on for several minutes before the strain proved too much.

Then the listeners broke down in laughter, and Mary, with a cry that she could not keep it up any longer, caught the old gentleman around the neck and kissed him.

"Bless my soul, Mrs. Smith!" he gasped, bewildered. "Why—Mary!"

Reticence or Ignorance?

The inhabitants of Chinese villages are very ignorant of the places in their own neighborhood, according to an interview with W. J. Garnett, the third secretary of the British legation at Peking, which the Manchester Guardian prints. Mr. Garnett returned a little while ago from a journey through the provinces of Shantung and Kiangsu, and a sample of the conversation that took place when he asked the way from one village to another is below:

"Is this the way to Tsouhsein?"

"Are you going to Tsouhsein?"

"Yes. Is this the way?"

"Oh, you are going to Tsouhsein, are you? Where do you come from?"

"From Chiningchow. Please, is this the way to Tsouhsein?"

"Oh, you've come from Chiningchow, have you? Are you going into the city walls of Tsouhsein?"

Finally the native would admit that he did not know the way to Tsouhsein.

At the entrance to another village an ancient villager was asked what the name of the place was. After asking in turn who Mr. Garnett was, where he had come from, where he was going and why he wanted an inn, he considered the original question when repeated by the patient inquirer and finally closed the conversation by saying:

"How should I know? I am not a learned man."

When Children Went to War.

Among other improvements in the art of war as attained by the world in these later days is the abolition of the practice of sending children to sea, as was the case when the midshipmen of the old "oak walls" of England often were boys of less than fourteen years.

The Marquis of Dufferin and Ava in telling about the siege of Bomarsund, in the Crimean war, which he witnessed from the frigate Penelope, related this story of one of these little fellows.

"What pleased me most during the whole business," he says, "was the gallant behavior of a little midshipman, a mere child, thirteen or fourteen years of age. About the time when the fire became pretty hot I happened to come across him, and, as he seemed to be as much out of a job as myself, I touched my cap and took the liberty of observing that it was a fine day, to which he politely replied that it was.

"Encouraged by his urbanity, I ventured to ask him how long he had been at sea, to which he answered, 'I have only left my mamma six weeks, but I ain't going to cry on her majesty's quarter deck,' a remark which I think as worth recording as many a one made by more illustrious heroes. Soon after this, however, a man was killed close to him, and the little fellow fainted and was taken below."

Spring Fishing Number

With the advent of April the majority of sportsmen turn their thoughts to fishing, and "Rod and Gun & Motor Sports in Canada," published by W. J. Taylor Woodstock, Ont., has published a Spring Fishing number for the month. There are stories of fishing in Ontario, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Alberta and British Columbia, while an article descriptive of, Kalkil—the new rod wood—is of deep interest to fisherman. A fine survey of the whole question of International Control of International Waters by Mr. C. H. Wilson is worth careful perusal, embodying as it does a long and careful study of the whole question from both sides. A paper on Guides and Their Patrons, written from a guide's point of view by a veteran guide ought to lead to a controversy as exciting as that on dogs versus still hunters. Wolf hunting, moose hunting, deer hunting and deer preservation are but a few of the many good things in the number, while How One Settler Helps the Deer, should prove as widespread in its interest as the former paper by the same settler on How One Settler Treats the Deer. Indeed the many excellencies of the number are apparent from the opening paper to the closing page.

—The Igwo Oddfellow Lodges, Peterborough and Otonabee, will attend St. John's church on Sunday, April 26, this being the 89th anniversary of the Order. Rev. Canon Davidson will preach a special Oddfellows' sermon.

Millbrook After a Policeman

Yesterday the reeve of Millbrook was in the city looking for a policeman for that burg. It is generally understood that a well known local young man, Mr. "Bill Tommer was in Millbrook a few days ago in connection with this position. However, as far as The Times could learn yesterday, the annual salary attaching to this position, apart from the glory of the job would hardly keep Tom going in diamonds, let alone smoking tobacco for one month. If Millbrook wants a constable this city has got the right material therefor but to get such a man as Mr. "Tommer" or any other good man, competent to investigate possible criminal exigencies, the village will need more than a mechanic at so much per hour who may be called at a moment's notice to rival Sherlock Holmes if the village is prepared to pay a proper wage and back up their chief of police, when trouble comes, they could get no better man than the gentleman himself at above.

Strong as a Mule

Farmer Gets Power from Food

Anyone can better his condition by eating improper food, by changing to the right kind.

It is becoming well known among all classes of people in this country, that strength of mind and body come from the nourishment that is taken into the system in the form of food.

A cowboy whose stomach got all out of order on a ranch, went to farming and incidentally found the cause of his trouble and the way out of it. He writes:

"I was raised on a cow ranch, lived like the rest on beef and potatoes, often eating too much, until my stomach became so weak and I was so run down I had to quit the job.

"Then I tried farming but did not get any better. My nerves were all unstrung and I could not sleep at night. A year ago I saw an ad. about Grape-Nuts being such a wonderful food, and told my wife I was going to try it.

"So I bought a box of Grape-Nuts and by the time I had used this food two weeks, the weakness began to leave my stomach.

"Now I weigh 184 lbs., and am as strong as a mule. We eat Grape-Nuts for breakfast, and I also take some as a lunch between meals. I must say that Grape-Nuts is the best food there is, and nearly every one in town, seeing my improvement has taken to eating it."

"There's a Reason." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

That languid, lifeless feeling that comes with sprang and early summer, can be quickly changed to a feeling of buoyancy and energy by the judicious use of Dr. Shoop's Restorative.

The Restorative is a genuine tonic to tired, run-down nerves, and but a few dose is needed to satisfy the user that Dr. Shoop's Restorative is actually reaching that tired spot. The indoor life of winter nearly always leads to sluggish bowels, and to sluggish circulation in general. The customary lack of exercise and out door air ties up the liver, stagnates the kidneys, and oft-times weakens the heart's action. Use Dr. Shoop's Restorative a few weeks and all will be changed. A few days test will tell you that you are using the right remedy. You will easily and surely note the change from day to day. Sold by all dealers.

PRINCE RUPERT. It is almost needless to make any lengthy description on this place for we all know its the terminus of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, in B. C., situated on Kian Island, at the mouth of the Fraser River. It is estimated that owing to the great rush of gold seekers and others seeking wealth and new locations that Prince Rupert will have a population of 20,000 before next winter.

HAZELTON is another almost equally promising a city, situated at the head of navigation on the Skeena River, on the main line of the Grand Trunk Pacific also being the junction point of the Line from Dawson City. With these and other existing natural conditions and the prospects of a great development it is looked upon as a great place to advance.

Many of the Unemployed Will Start Work Today

The Peterborough Lumber company will start their mill in operation this morning. This will be welcome news to scores of unemployed who have been out of employment since the mill closed late in the fall.

The Peterborough Lumber Company employ from 80 to 100 hands in the mill and scores of men are employed in the woods and on the drives. Two teams will leave today with men for the back country to drive the logs down the Otonabee to the mill.

Scores of men were at the mill on Saturday looking for work.

Now if the Wm. Hamilton Foundry was started into operation the unemployed in Peterborough would be few.

Crowe Children Carried Off Five Proficiency Prizes

Yesterday afternoon prizes were awarded for general proficiency between Christmas and Easter Sunday to the Sunday school scholars of St. John's church. A peculiar feature, noted by Superintendent Poe, was that five children all of different classes, but all belonging to the same family won a prize each. These children winning the rewards of merit for regular attendance, good behaviour and general proficiency, are members of the family of ex-Alderman and Mrs. Crowe. Mr. Poe in making known the awards to five children of the same family spoke in high terms of the manner in which the children must have been brought up and trained by their parents. Three children of another family by name Collinson, also were awarded prizes of a similar nature. This speaks well for the home training of at least two local families.

Scow was Overloaded and Swamped--Four Men were Drowned

A Young English Contractor Lost His Life in Attempt at Rescue

A Plucky Contractor

Hardisty, Alta., April 18 — A drowning accident occurred yesterday at the Grand Trunk Pacific crossing of the Battle River, in which four men lost their lives by drowning.

The victims;

Woodford Readman, Northampton, England.

T. Kirby, homesteader, Alberta.

A. Lemmons, St. Boniface, Man.

E. Levis, Cambria, France.

BRIDGE SWEPT AWAY.

The temporary bridge had been swept away by the outgoing ice and a scow was afterwards built to ferry the workmen across the river. On returning from the day's work two scowloads got easily across. Just as the third boat of six men were leaving the bank three more men jumped in. This seemed to be too much for the scow in the swift current and when about mid-stream it swamped and threw the occupants into the water. Three swam ashore and two regained the scow and they rescued the third. The three remaining men were caught in the swift current and drowned.

A PLUCKY CONTRACTOR.

Woodford Readman, one of the contractors, had jumped into the water to save one of the drowning men. The latter caught Readman around the neck and both sank. A few others also jumped into the cold water and made gallant efforts to rescue the unfortunate men, but could do nothing against the rushing river.

Mr. Readman was a very promising young man. His death through trying to save his fellow workmen was doubly sad through the fact that he was to be married shortly, and his intended wife, Miss G. H. Means of Brurton, was to sail for Canada on April 24th. None of the bodies have been recovered.

U. S. OFFICER DROWNED.

Fort Frances, Ont., April 19.—A drowning accident took place yesterday at Pithers point, whereby William Brack, American Customs officer, was drowned. It appears that the unfortunate young man in company with William Jones, bridge superintendent, was trying a new canoe, and while endeavoring to run the rapids it upset in the strong current. Mr. Brack was only 27 years old, and came from St. Paul, where his parents reside.

"There's a Reason"

POLICE

Saturday being the day following a public holiday the Sons of Restraint have expected a large and interesting docket as they turned out in full strength at the police court.

A young man when asked wether he had been drunk in a public place on April 17th, said he did not quite know.

A waiter in Fowler's restaurant, said the prisoner claimed to have lost his money and blamed him, the waiter for stealing it. The police were sent for and put prisoner and another man out of the place. The other man "played the chief role" in the disturbance by using bad language. Here the first mentioned prisoner explained to the court the matter of the missing money arose through a mistake. He had tried to put his money into a vest pocket, but it slipped down into his trouser pocket, and he found he had not lost it at all. His worship remarked, "You young man claim not to have been drunk. By your own admissions you clearly created a disturbance by accussing an innocent man of stealing your money. I'll fix you down easy, $2 each." The $4 was paid.

Another young man named Roddy pleaded not guilty to having been drunk. The case was enlarged until this morning.

Thomas Henry of North Monaghan, pleaded not guilty to a similar charge. His case will also be tried this morning.

Mr. Grieve who has been here for some weeks organizing and assisting the local branch of the Sons of Scotland told The Times on Saturday that he is meeting with much success. At present the Sons of Scotland meet in the Orange Hall, pending the time when they can have a hall of their own. On Wednesday, night the Sons of Scotland will hold a banquet in the Sons of England hall at which Grand Chieftain Means of Toronto will be present. A special meeting of the order will be held tomorrow night in the Orange Hall.

A considerable space is devoted to a description of the club's premises at Ketcheeum Lake and also of the splendid sport to be had there.

GRAND MUSICAL FESTIVAL BY S. A. TEMPLE BAND

A Splendid Programme Rendered by This Famous Musical Combination

Leave for Port Hope

Saturday and Sunday was a great day for the Salvationists of Peterborough. That famous musical combination, the S.A. Temple Band of Toronto, landed in the city Saturday morning from Cobourg where they had spent Good Friday. From the time the band reached the station the citizens thronged about them to listen to their excellent music and were given a rare treat. On Saturday evening at 6.30 the local S. A. Band which has reached a high state of efficiency in the art of music together with the visiting band parade the streets en masse after which a musical entertainment was given on the street corner which was listened to by several hundred people.

The big event of the Temple band's visit was the grand musical festival given entirely by the visitors on Sunday. From 2.30 until 3 o'clock open air services was held—the local band being situated on the corner of Hunter and Water streets, and the visiting band on the corner of Simcoe and George. After these services hundreds of citizens followed the bands to the barracks where a musical festival was given. The crowd was so dense that in a few minutes the building was packed. The members of the Peterborough band turned out in their new uniforms and presented a "natty" appearance.

The afternoon's programme was heartily enjoyed by all those present. The first number was a march, "Under the Colors," composed by Bandsman Coles, and received hearty applause. The recitation, "The Butcher's Baby," by Bandsman Dunn deserves special mention and elicited much applause.

The whole programme both afternoon and evening was a splendid one and surely have the Peterborough citizens had such an opportunity afforded them to be entertained by such a musical organization. The band will leave for Port Hope this morning, where they will give a musical festival.

The officers in charge was Staff-Captain Walton and the Bandmaster, Jas. McGrath.

STAFF-CAPT. WALTON.
Officer in charge of the Temple Band.

THE TEMPLE BAND.

The band is recognized as one of the finest Musical Combinations in the Dominion of Canada.

The Band, like all other S. A. bands, consists entirely of working men, none of whom receive any remuneration for their services, but rather contribute to the upkeep of the band.

The complete set of first-class silver plated instruments the band possesses are the property of the S. A. Temple Corps, and are almost all S.A. make.

In 1906 the band successfully toured through Eastern Ontario visiting the following places: Peterborough, Tweed, Carleton Place, Ottawa, Smith's Falls, Montreal, Kingston, Kingston, Gananoque, Napanee, Desoronto, Picton, Trenton, Cobourg, Port Hope and Oshawa.

The men comprising the band represent between them about 500 years of soldiership, and 332 years' service as bandsmen. A number have been Salvationists all their lives.

Of the thirty-two men nearly all are Army converts, and all are Army made instrumentalists.

Four of the Bandsmen have completed over twenty years' continuous service as S.A. soldiers.

Over Eight Thousand Soldiers from Ontario To See Old Quebec

Draft plans for the mobilization of the troops in this military district have been prepared and sent to Ottawa in anticipation of the big parade in Battlefields Park at Quebec next July. The basis of representation is 50 per cent. of the corps strength, so that 7000 or 8000 men will be sent down to the old citadel from Ontario.

It was not possible to say just how many cars would be required to move the troops, and this appears to be the greatest difficulty in the way. During the summer all colonist cars are in constant use, and probably other than the usual passenger rolling stock will be required for the transportation of the men. The distance will, of course, involve the supply of sleeping accommodation on the cars and this problem is under consideration.

Quiet Wedding in St. Paul's Church

On Saturday afternoon a quiet wedding was solemnized in St. Paul's church when the pastor, Rev. Robert Pogue united in the holy bonds of matrimony Miss Mary Frances Pollock of the piano department of the Conservatory of Music, and Mr. William M. Thackery. The happy couple left the same evening for a wedding tour to New York. On her return Mrs. Thackery will resume her position at the Conservatory.

A Square Deal

Is assured you when you buy Dr. Pierce's family medicines—for all the ingredients entering into them are printed on the bottle-wrappers and their formulas are attested under oath as being complete and correct. You know just what you are paying for and that the ingredients are gathered from Nature's laboratory, being selected from the most valuable native medicinal roots found growing in our American forests and while potent to cure are perfectly harmless even to the most delicate women and children. Not a drop of alcohol enters into their composition. A much better agent is used both for extracting and preserving the medicinal principles used in them, viz.—pure triple-refined glycerine. This agent possesses intrinsic medicinal properties of its own, being a most valuable antiseptic and antiferment, nutritive and soothing demulcent.

Glycerine plays an important part in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery in the cure of indigestion, dyspepsia, sick or weak stomach, attended by sour risings, heartburn, foul breath, coated tongue, poor appetite, gnawing feeling in stomach, biliousness and kindred derangements of the stomach, liver and bowels.

Besides curing all the above distressing ailments, the "Golden Medical Discovery" is a specific for all diseases of the mucous membranes, as catarrh, whether of the nasal passages or of the stomach, bowels or pelvic organs. Even in its ulcerative stages it will yield to this sovereign remedy if its use be persevered in. In Chronic Catarrh of the Nasal passages, it is well, while taking the "Golden Medical Discovery" for the necessary constitutional treatment, to cleanse the passages freely two or three times a day with Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. This thorough course of treatment generally cures the worst cases.

In coughs and hoarseness caused by bronchial, throat and lung affections, except consumption in its advanced stages, the "Golden Medical Discovery" is a most efficient remedy, especially in those obstinate, hacking coughs caused by irritation and congesting of the bronchial mucous membranes. The "Discovery" is not so good for acute coughs arising from sudden colds, nor must it be expected to cure consumption in its advanced stages—no medicine will do this—but for all the obstinate, chronic coughs, which, if neglected, or badly treated, lead up to consumption, it is the best medicine that can be taken.

Gene Hurtubise Says He Will Crush Frank Kennedy

Toronto Star says;

Chris Graham of Peterborough, who is managing Gene Hurtubise, the Peterborough giant Rugby player player and amateur wrestler, now that he has turned pro. to meet Frank Kennedy, the masquerading German heavyweight wrestler at Mutual Street Rink next Wednesday, today forwarded his contract to the new Crescent Athletic Club, which is putting up the purse. Graham says that Hurtubise will go at Kennedy just like he did the animals—a rush a grab, and one of his famous rib-crushing hugs.

"Kennedy's reputation don't scare my man a little," says Graham.

A Tribute to Memory of Departed Pastor

At yesterday morning service in St. John's church a touching mark of esteem and pretty tribute to the memory of the late Rev. W. Tandy, was in evidence. This was a large and beautifully arranged floral cross about two feet six inches in length that was placed at the entrance to the pulpit. This cross was sent here as an Easter offering by friends of the departed clergyman, living in Kingston. It will be remembered that the late Mr. Tandy was appointed curate of St. John's church during 1907, but unfortunately contracted the illness that resulted in death after only filling the position for a short time.

Prince Rupert Sold to An American Syndicate

Vancouver, B.C., April 19.—Prince Rupert townsite has been sold outright. The sum involved is $100,000, and a substantial sum has been paid down to bind the bargain. The purchasers are Capt. Matthew Machatter, J. R. Patton, and associates, who are said to be New York capitalists.

The deal was consummated on Wednesday. There is ample capital behind the purchasing association, and work will be commenced at once on the construction of wharves, streets, approaches, etc. Arrangements have been made by which a regular first-class steamship line will call as soon as the wharves are ready to be tied up to, which will be in the near future.

Percy Bowin Wants To Turn Preacher To Warn Young Men

Expects to Enter a Theological Seminary in a Few Months

Give Men a Chance

Detroit, April 19.—Percy Bowin, the youth who was recently found not guilty of the murder of Mrs. Cornelia Welch, announces from the seclusion of the dear old vine-clad home of his boyhood in Woodville, Ont., that he is confident that he might shine as a star performer in the pulpit.

His aspirations, as well as his attitude towards those who participated in the tragic drama in which he played the star role while in Detroit, are best presented in the letter written by Bowin to a friend in this city.

The letter, with punctuation and spelling precisely as written, in part, follows;

"We reached our home Woodville, Ont., safely, and I believe our whole town were at the station, but mother and I stepped quietly into a bus and went directly to our home.

HIS GOOD TRAINING.

"No one knows what I felt like, when I once more entered my dear home where I had the good bringing up, the good father and mother, who when I left home to go about for myself, expect I would live the life of a good Christian boy, and abide by the early training which I had when with my parents.

"I can't account for my wrong doings only, that I was in a destitute condition, fell into the hands of the wicked women who had bad influence over me. I knew I did wrong to associate with them. I am sorry, very sorry to think I disgraced my poor mother, father, brother, and myself by so doing.

"I said while in jail that if they gave me another chance, I would show the public I was not as black as they painted me.

GIVE MEN A CHANCE.

"After the kind jurymen handed in the verdict, Judge Phalen said, they were giving me a chance to do worse than I had done before. I gladly say, the Hon. Judge Phalen is mistaken, I am through doing wrong. I have desire for higher things. I don't want to ever again do wrong.

Burglars Foiled at Grand Hotel

Burglars were foiled in an attempt to burglarize the Grand Hotel on Friday night or early Saturday morning. They forced an entrance into one section of the cellar but got no further.

That Injunction Before Judge Weler

Some excitement was caused on Saturday and yesterday over the alleged injunction served, or to be served by Mr. S. J. Sheridan of the Peterborough Rink Co., to prevent the walking match. It seems that there is some misunderstanding between Mr. Sheridan, who used to operate the now burnt down Charlotte street roller rink, and the Brock street rink management.

It appears that the Roller Rink Company leased the rink about a year ago for three years, and had intended having a roller rink there. Up to the present date, it is learned, that the rent has not been fully paid. Mr. A. P. Pousette has taken up the case for Mr. Sheridan and Mr. S. T. Medd, of Hall, Medd and Davidson, will look after the Peterborough Rink Company's interests.

It was said last night that the matter of the injunction will be argued before his Honor Judge Weller, in any case it is thought the matter will be so arranged that the walking match will not be interfered with.

Appetite Gone Nerves Badly Run Down

A Strong Moral Well Exemplified in Mrs. Wilson's Case.

Like thousands of other people at this season of the year Mrs. E. P. Wilson was tired and worn out—winter sorely tried her health and vigor. But now she is robust and well, eats well, sleeps well, feels invigorated and braced. "For some years," writes Mrs. Wilson of Waterloo, P.O., "I suffered from systematic weakness, billiousness and depressing headaches. I could take little nourishment and grew thin and pale. If I ate a hearty meal the result was dreadful. Pains started at my chest, and spread all through my body going across my stomach, back and right side. I was discouraged till a friend insisted on me taking Dr. Hamilton's Pills. They made a new woman of me, and for the past eight months my health has been perfect. For a good cleansing, rejuvenating medicine I urge every one to use Dr. Hamilton's Pills."

There is extraordinary and magic power in Dr. Hamilton's Pills; they bring vigor, tone, health, and spirits—are compounded from the most wonderful and healing juices and essence in vegetable life—are safe for young and old, and guaranteed to kindle renewed activity and strength in every system that is weak, sickly or run down from kidney, liver, stomach or bladder trouble. Get Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut—today—25c. at all dealers.

Mr. Wm. O'Brien, principal of the Matthews Separate schools, will spend the holidays with his parents Mr. and Mrs. Michael O'Brien, Gilmour street.

LOW SPRING FEVER

Doctors Report Many Cases.

Same thing happens every year. At winter's close the body is weak and run down. Damp spring weather brings out rheumatic tendencies, exhausts vitality, and simply demands everyone to use a bracing, strengthening tonic.

Time wont help; matters grow worse instead of better if your system isn't rid of its poisonous burden.

Your Blood is not only thin, but is contaminated with a whole winter's accumulation of wastes.

A stimulating blood tonic is required. What's it going to be?

Not bitters or alcoholic dope, but concentrated cure in the form of "Ferrozone" which is known as the best of all spring rejuvenators.

It creates keen appetite.
Produces prodigious digestion.
Converts food into nourishment.
Gives richness and vitality to the blood.
Makes strong nerves and hardy muscles.

Ferrozone possesses power that can't be doubted. It will do for you what it did for Walter Wood, of Beaufort, Cur. Co., N. B., who writes: "I can say that Ferrozone has given me a new lease of life. A year ago I suffered much from nervous weakness. I was really scarcely able to drag myself around. My appetite was gone, I had no color or ambition and felt generally used up. The first box of Ferrozone started me back to health. I took a number of boxes, but it was worth while as my health was completely restored.

PETERBOROUGH, April 30 1903

An English Amenity.

A striking difference between our manners and those of our English cousins was shown one day at a garden party. The hostess, an American, was speaking to one of her guests, an Englishwoman of rank.

"Dear Lady B.," she said, "here are some sandwiches which I made with my own hands, particularly for you. You know I've often told you about our American sandwiches and how good they are. Here are different sorts, lettuce and cucumbers, if you care for 'grass,' or if you like a savory better try the cream cheese ones with pimentoes. I've some sweet ones, too, raisins and nuts chopped together—which will you try first?"

She held a plate in each hand, a plate filled with dainty looking sandwiches, and they were extended invitingly toward her guest, who looked at them critically, then said in the clear, high pitched voice of the well bred Englishwoman:

"Oh, thank you, no kind of you, but do you know I never touch the newsy things?"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

"Whipped" From a Lunatic Asylum.

Among the amusing anecdotes told of parliamentary life Sir Henry Drummond Wolff in "Rambling Recollections" gives the following as an example of skillful "whipping:"

"At the time of an important division a member happened to be confined in a lunatic asylum. Every vote was necessary. Arrangements were therefore made to deliver him at the house at the moment required, and he was received by the 'whip' of his party, who induced him to walk through the lobby by preceding him with a stick of barley sugar in his hand. This I believe to be a perfectly true story."

Jack Ketch.

Jack Ketch has long been a synonym for the public executioner and is derived from Richard Jaquett, who formerly owned the Manor of Tyburn, now the ground upon which stands the marble arch and where the Bayswater and Edgware roads meet.

Here some few yards westward of the arch stood Tyburn tree, and to it and to the tender mercies of its owner and presiding genius, Jaquett, came the highwayman or the horse thief or the housebreaker in a tumbrel from Newgate.—London Mail.

A Canine Suicide.

"What has become of that fine greyhound your wife gave you?"

"Suicide."

"Honest?"

"Yes. He tried to nab a flea on the small of his back and, miscalculating, bit himself in two."—Exchange.

Pride Sets the Pace.

We are a great people because we make such a hullabaloo about the things to do, because we accomplish them to the music of the band. Our pride has set the pace, and it's our pride that keeps us up till we drop.

No Brother Needed.

"But I shall always be a brother to you," he murmured.

"If I had any use for a brother," she replied sweetly, "I could reach under the sofa and get one right now."

Manner is everything with some people and something with everybody.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

THE SIMPLE LIFE.

Are We Returning to the Walnut Furniture Age?

We have been told of late that we should presently be afflicted with a revival of the walnut furniture of fifty years ago. There seem really to be no indications that this calamity is to befall us; hence one is inclined to conclude that the rumor is merely the fanciful fruit of a recent reminiscent fondness evinced by certain of our literary men for that period in American life which coincided with the vogue of black walnut. Mr. Howells has for some time made no bones of an apparent conviction that those were the halcyon days of America—the truly representative, honestly American days. In the pages of Scribner's Magazine Henry Fuller has imagined a rich and cultivated western woman who reverts to type after years of travel and sophistication and discards her artistic refinements, one and all, in favor of the monstrous carpets and the "boiled dinners" of the earlier life of the country.

One fancies that Mr. Fuller has made a slight mistake in giving this lady's age as forty. The reversion, if reversion there be, is apt to occur somewhat later. But in hinting that her case is not singular, that by seeking one might find a good many like her, it is quite probable that he is not so far from the mark. The psychology of such instances, however, is likely not to be just what the subjects may think. It may seem to them that what they wish is to go back to a simpler life. Was American life in the walnut period really simpler? That depends on our understanding of the term. Many foolish things have been said about the simple life. There is only one simple life, and that is the unified life, the life set toward and in one purpose and letting the nonessentials go. That sort of life may be possible when one washes one's own dishes, but no one will deny that it was equally possible to Marcus Aurelius. In point of fact, it is possibly more apt to be realized in its perfection in a high and tense state of civilization than not. There are theories and theorists to the contrary, but the practical demonstration of history points to a number of philosophers and also of saints who lived without bondage to the world while making no fuss about wanting to do away with its superfluities.

PAPER BAG WITH HANDLE.

Novel Way of Carrying Twelve Bags at Once.

In the near future the up to date grocer, baker, etc., will be handing goods to his customers in the novel paper bag shown below. This bag is similar in shape and size to the usual paper bag, except that the sides and the bottom are foldable. The sides of the bag are perforated near the top. When the bag is flat the perforations will form two holes adapted to receive a loop of string having the ends tied.

A NOVEL BAG.

When the bag is filled the string forms a handle by which the bag can be carried. The length of the string forming the handle is sufficient to permit the bag to be fully opened for the insertion or removal of the contents. The bag is of course re-enforced and strengthened at the perforations for the purpose of preventing tearing of the sides of the bag by the flexible handle. It will be obvious that one person could readily carry a dozen such bags filled with articles with one hand, whereas with the ordinary bag the carrying capacity would be limited.

The Awkward Mrs.

A curiously awkward word, if it be a word, is "Mrs." It is not spelled as it is pronounced—no one but a Welshman or a Pole would be equal to pronouncing it as it is spelled—and its pronunciation is a clumsy contraction of the good old English designation "mistress."

In days of old, when leisure had not become, as it is now, almost a forgotten luxury and people were less anxious to clip their speech, the full pronunciation was often used, and "mistress" was not altogether elbowed out of existence by the vulgar "missis."

But nowadays "mistress" has become as much a term of opprobrium as honor, and consequently the contracted pronunciation of "Mrs." has prevailed and holds the field.

Another point worth noting in the history of the designation is that about 150 years ago and earlier "Mrs." was applied quite impartially to unmarried as well as married ladies. Even children were sometimes styled "Mrs."

The burial of an infant daughter of John Milton, who died at the age of five months, is recorded in the parish register of St. Margaret, Westminster, and her name is entered as "Mrs. Katherine Milton," followed by a small "c" to indicate that a child is meant. But this may be regarded as an exceptional use of the title.

Woman's World

PRINCESS LWOFF PARLAGHY.

Hungarian Artist Who Is Making a Sketch of President Roosevelt.

The Princess Iitina Lwoff Parlaghy—by birth Hungarian and a genius, by marriage Russian and a princess—is in this country for a few weeks before taking her way westward to the Pacific coast en route for Japan and ultimately for India.

The princess is probably the most "decorated" woman in Europe outside of the ladies of the royal families, who receive orders and coloneicies and things of that sort merely as perquisites of their position. Her decorations are in recognition not of her birth, but of her art. Even so, they might be regarded as largely the product of social "pull," the grateful and perhaps overcordial acknowledgment of too rare talent in the nobility were it not for the fact that many of her portraits have been bought for the great galleries of Europe, a tribute to genius which is never granted to mere social pull.

Her unusual talent gained her when less than ten years old admission to the classes of the great Von Linbach, in Munich, where women were rarely and children never received. Since then she has painted the portraits of more royal and princely persons, more persons of distinction in all lines of human endeavor—statesmen, scientists, philosophers, philanthropists, lions literary and lions artistic—than any one living. It is noticeable, however, that she has painted few women and that those whom she has painted have been elderly if not actually old women. The smooth skin and shining hair, the roses and lilies of youth, the purple and fine linen of wealth do not appeal to her as subjects for her brush. She is credited with being over here now to paint a portrait of President Roosevelt, but she herself says not.

"I do not expect to paint M. le President," she says. "I have not time to do it even if he had time to give me sittings. I hope to make a sketch of him—for my own pleasure, you understand—but not a finished portrait.

Furniture Stains.

A knowledge of how to make and apply furniture stains and varnishes is valuable to a young housekeeper whose income is limited, for with slight practice it is often possible to make artistic pieces of furniture out of plain white wood chairs, tables, etc.

In making very dark coloring a half pound of madder and two ounces of logwood chips should be boiled gently for an hour in a gallon of water. This should then be strained and applied to the wood while hot. It should be put on evenly with a flat brush. The finish requires a pearl ash solution that is made by putting two drams of the ash into a quart of water. This is not applied until the stained wood is dry.

For a light shade two ounces of bruised dragon's blood are put into a bottle with a quart of turpentine. The jar is corked and placed in a warm spot, near or on a radiator, is shaken occasionally until the blood is dissolved and then applied with a brush.

The other mahogany stain is apt to be understood best by those who know something of mixing colors. Raw sienna is ground and then mixed with beer, thus making a light shade.

Then burnt sienna that has been ground is added in proportion to the tint wished and put on rather thin with a soft brush, wiping it over immediately with a piece of cotton or other soft substance.

When quite dry the surface may be oiled or varnished. Cold drawn linseed oil is a good varnish or polisher. To stain a new piece of furniture is simple work for an amateur, but success is not so certain when an old chair or table is to be renovated. However, doing over an old piece would not be difficult if it were understood that the wood will not take new stain until all the old varnish, whatever it may be, is removed.

The easiest way of getting off the old finish is to put on a saturated solution of sal soda—that is, as much soda as can be dissolved in water. With a stiff scrub brush this liquid should be applied while hot, so it will eat off the surface coat. A stiff scrub brush is best for putting it on with.

Then the article must be allowed to dry before the new finish is applied.

Don't Get Into a Rut.

The woman who sinks into a domestic rut is really the victim of her own sense of duty. She neglects her back hair, wears frayed shoe laces and leaves the pages of the last magazine uncut in her determination to make her house a fit abode for her husband.

—Tenders will be received for the erection of the new curling rink until Saturday, April 25th. This is an extension of the time.

NOW LISTEN!

Please read carefully what follows, and if you decide to take advantage of what the "Canada Southern Oil & Gas Co, Limited," of Tilbury, Ont (no personal liability), is now offering you, the result will be that instead of getting 3 per cent. for your savings, you will get at least from 10 to 25 per cent. that others are harvesting.

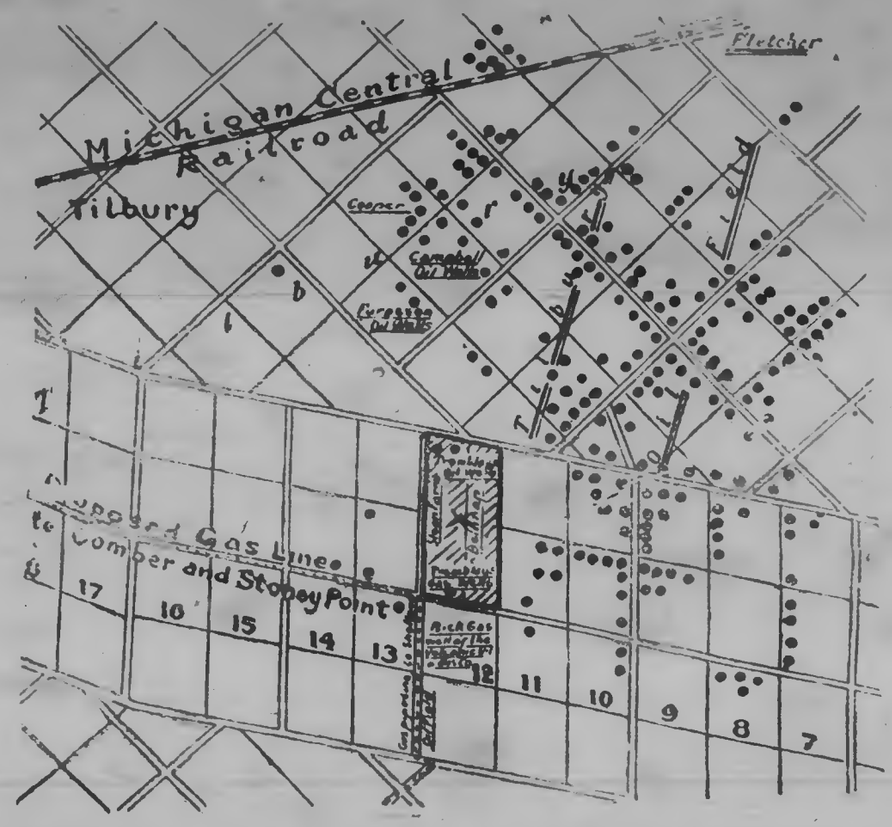
Your savings will be eight times more than the original amount by the mere fact of the higher rate of interest you will get.

Remember that this is no wildcat scheme, as you can see by the facts hereinafter mentioned.

Dr. Bell, the famous Canadian geologist, early in 1878 reported that there was an oil and gas field in the Townships of Tilbury and Romney County of Kent, Ont. As soon as the discovery of the oil was made in Tilbury in 1906, our American neighbors, who are experts in good things, did not hesitate to invest hundreds of thousands of dollars, and now, in fact, control the two thirds interest in our oil field of Tilbury, and this happened because we Canadians hesitated to invest a few thousand dollars in the exploration of the oil mines of Tilbury, which already give a monthly production valued at $75,000, without adding the revenue derived from the gas.

We have said that this is not a wildcat scheme because the "Canadian Southern Oil & Gas Co., Limited," has secured an option at a very moderate price on properties situate in the oil and gas field of Tilbury, upon which three successful tests have been made, being Lot No. 12, M. R. N., Tilbury East, 200 acres, indicated with a cross upon the map of the field.

COUNTY of KENT, ONTARIO



Three wells only have been drilled at an average depth of 1,400 feet.

The first one proves to be a rich gas well, the two others are good oil wells, combined with a strong production of gas.

The Company has also secured the franchises for the distribution and sale of natural gas into the Townships of Romney, Tilbury East, North and West and also into the thriving villages of Comber and Stoney Point.

The gas well is properly equipped and already is supplying the motor power to the Romney oil field and is getting one-third of the gross revenue of the gas sold.

The oil wells are completely equipped with one 15 h. p. gas engine, derrick, tanks, boiler, pumps, tubing, pipe-line, jerk-line, jack, etc., and are producing daily. The oil is sold to The Imperial Oil Company, Sarnia, and is delivered at the tanks and shipped through its pipe-line to Port Marquette R. R. Station at Merlin, a distance of 3 miles.

Our properties are already giving daily a net revenue of about $35.00—that is to say, more than 10 per cent. of the whole capital stock of the Company.

This revenue may be made four times greater by the drilling of other wells and the construction of the gas-line to Comber and Stoney Point.

Fritz Cirkel, Esq., of Montreal, consulting mining engineer and mining expert to the Dominion Government, who lately made an inspection of the said property, concluded his report as follows:

"In summarizing the actual results already obtained from the operations on the Sloan wells the writer is forced to the conclusion that the property under consideration is a very valuable one. Located as it is in the western extremity of the producing Tilbury oil field, in close proximity to wells which produce from 40 to 50 barrels of oil (and even more) per day of 24 hours (I refer to the Ferguson (Campbell) and Cooper properties, located about 2,000 feet distant to the north, see plan attached hereto), it bids fair to become a producer of oil and natural gas of no small measure.

The Tilbury field has already the reputation of being a large producer and powerful companies have entered the district with a view of securing properties of known and established value.

There is one factor to which I would like to draw your special attention and that is the future of natural gas. To-day, the market in that in that part of the country, for this commodity is not sufficiently large to dispose of all the gas the wells can produce but there is no question that in the near future factories will be established on central points, which will eventually consume for various purposes, especially for power, all the gas which can be produced in the field.

Besides this there are quite a number of towns and villages in the western part of the Niagara Peninsula, which may use the gas for heating, lighting, and also for power purposes and it is only a question of time when this will be realized.

The economy of the application of natural gas to power purposes is already evidenced all through the field, as coal or any other power cannot be regularly obtained, and that at high figures. Having therefore, a powerful gas well on the (Sloan) property, it is evident that a great saving is effected from this source alone; for instance, for the operation of ten oil wells, the cost of power required per day would amount to between twenty and twenty-five dollars, which, in 300 working days per year, would represent a saving of from six thousand to seven thousand six hundred dollars.

In conclusion, I may say that this property, with proper and economic management, can be made highly remunerative; I entertain, no doubt, that if properly developed, it will show similar results as those of so many other locations in the vicinity, whose developments have of so many other locations in the vicinity, whose developments have been so vigorously pushed in the past.

Respectfully submitted,
(Signed) FRITZ CIRKEL.

The property is situated at Mancos, Colo., and consists of 160 acres, fully paid for. The Company expects to secure at least 400 acres or more, we are negotiating for it now and the terms are satisfactory and there is coal on the same, and they also intend to secure some Coal Mines of which they have the refusal. Some of the best coal mines in Colorado are in this district, as well as some of the richest gold and silver mines. In fact this is one of the richest parts for mineral in the State of Colorado, and the Company has the refusal to several prospects on reasonable and easy terms.

what Krill had told the girl. He succeeded so well that within a comparatively short space of time the whole matter was made clear. Mrs. Jessop, alias Mrs. Krill, was examined; Tray was found and questioned; Matilda was made to speak out, and both Jessop and Hokar had to make clean breasts of it. The evidence thus procured proved the truth of the terrible confession made by Maud Jessop to the girl she thought to strangle. Hurd was amazed at the revelation.

"Never call me a detective again," he said to Paul, "for I am an ass. I thought Jessop might be guilty or that Hokar might have done it. I could have taken my Bible oath that Mrs. Krill strangled the man, but I never for one moment suspected that smiling young woman."

"Oh," Paul shrugged his shoulders, "she was mad."

"Whatever made her tell Miss Norman what she had done?" said Hurd.

"Because she never thought that Sylvia would live to tell any one else. That was why she spoke and thought to torture Sylvia, as she did, in the same way as she tortured that wretched man, Lemuel. If I hadn't come earlier to Rose cottage than usual, and if Deborah had not met me unexpectedly at the station, Sylvia would certainly have been killed. And then Maud might have escaped. She laid her plans well. It was she who induced Matilda to get her sister to come to Kensington for a chat."

"But Matilda didn't know what Maud was up to?"

"No. Matilda never guessed that Maud was guilty of two murders or designed to strangle Sylvia. But Maud made use of her to get Deborah out of the house, and it was Maud who made Tray send the letter asking Mrs. Purr to come to him, so that she also might be out of the way."

"Well," said Hurd, "I went with the old woman to the address given in that letter which Tray got written for him. He wasn't there, however, so I might have guessed it was a do."

"But you have caught him?"

"Yes, in Hunter street. He was loafing about there at night waiting for Maud and quite ignorant of her death. I made him tell me everything of his connection with the matter. He's as bad a lot as that girl, but she had some excuse, seeing her grandmother was a murderess; Tray is nothing but a wicked little imp."

"Will he be hanged?"

"No, I think not. His youth will be in his favor, though I'd hang him myself if I had the chance and so put him beyond the reach of hurting any one. But I expect he'll get a long sentence."

"And Mrs. Krill?"

"Mrs. Jessop you mean. Hum! I don't know. She apparently was ignorant that Maud killed Krill, though she might have guessed it, after the way in which Lady Rachel was murdered. I dare say she'll get off. I'm going to see her shortly and tell her of the terrible death of her daughter."

Paul did not pursue the conversation. He was sick with the horror of the business, and, moreover, was too anxious about Sylvia's health to take much interest in the winding up of the case. That he left in the hands of Hurd and assured him that the £1,000 reward which Mrs. Krill had offered, would be paid to him by Miss Norman.

Of course, Paul had known for some time that Maud was too old to have been born of Mrs. Jessop's second marriage with Krill; but he never knew that the widow had committed bigamy. He counted on keeping her under his thumb by threatening to prove that Maud was not legally entitled to the money. But when the discovery was made at Beechill and Stowley churches by Miss Qian, the monkey faced lawyer could do nothing. Beecot could have exposed him and for his malpractices have got him struck off the rolls; but he simply punished him by taking away Sylvia's business and giving it to Ford. That enterprising young solicitor speedily placed the monetary affairs on a proper basis and saw that Sylvia was properly reinstated in her rights. Seeing that she was the only child and legal heiress of Krill, this was not difficult. The two women who had illegally secured possession of the money had spent a great deal in a very wasteful manner, but the dead man's investments were so excellent and judicious that Sylvia lost comparatively little and became possessed of nearly five thousand a year, with a prospect of her income increasing. But she was too ill to appreciate this good fortune.

The case got into the papers, and every one was astonished at the strange sequel to the Gwynne street mystery. Beecot senior, reading the

In Germany—with a Chemist in the City of Darmstadt—I found the last ingredient with which Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy was made a perfected, dependable prescription. Aboard the liner the last goodbys were being said. Some of the more cautious among the home stayers had already gathered at the end of the pier to wave farewells cut short on the deck through the fear of being carried off, and others were trooping down the gangplank.

Now and then a couple of cabin stewards rushed up the gangway bearing the steamer trunks and parcels of some belated arrival, and from the pier the sharp exhaust of the donkey engines punctuated the farewells as the busy drums coiled and uncoiled the ropes by which the last of the hold luggage was being rushed to the cavernous depths of the huge ship.

Busy little tugs puffed about the end of the pier to assist in turning the huge bulk of the steamer, and a man in a rowboat paddled about the stern to be on hand in case of an accident.

To Nella Wynn the scene was decidedly novel. Only the day before she had arrived in New York from her inland home for the purpose of embarking, and for the first time she had realized what a steamer really was. Now she could scarcely believe that presently this great black vessel would slip down the bay and so out to the broad ocean beyond the sight of land. For a time she was absorbed in watching the crowds, but the very presence of this crush of humanity presently began to weigh upon her spirits.

It had been hard to raise the funds to send her abroad, so none of the family had been able to accompany her to New York. She had no acquaintances in the city, and she was absolutely alone in this mob of leave takers. There was no one to stand on the edge of the pier and wave farewell, no one to give her a friendly farewell kiss. She was even more alone than the little crowd of returning emigrants huddled on the lower deck forward.

Back in Cressville it had seemed a great thing to be going to Paris to study music. Now that the venture was fairly under way only pride prevented Nella from turning back. The bigness of the city and the vastness of the sea made her feel how small and utterly insignificant she was. She wanted to lay her head on her mother's shoulder and be petted into contentment again.

Quietly she moved from the port to the starboard side of the ship, where she could watch the loading of a cargo steamer from a lighter. She tried to forget that on the port side were men and women who were to be her associates for a few days saying goodby to their friends, while she fought back the tears of lonesomeness.

Then slowly the big ship began to slip out of her berth, the hoarse whistles sounding an alarm to the traffic of the harbor. Now they were in midstream, and one of the tugs had pressed her nose against the towering black side of the ship and begun to pant and labor as slowly the stern was pushed upstream, while the sister tug forced the bow in the direction of the Narrows.

Then the engines took on a more steady beat, and the noise of the shouting on the pier grew fainter until it could no longer be heard. The voyage was begun.

Nella waited on deck until the last faint trace of land disappeared; then she stumbled with tear blinded eyes through the narrow gangways to the little cabin which she occupied alone. She threw herself upon the cushioned seat that formed one side of the narrow compartment and gave herself up to her grief.

Even as a child her dream had been a musical career, and she had saved toward this end. Her parents, too, had pinched and denied themselves that her ambition might be gratified, and now that she was at last on her way to Paris loneliness beat down ambition and she could only sob miserably as she thought of the loved ones she was leaving behind.

The departure with no kindly word of farewell had been the last drop in her cup of unhappiness, and now she could see the familiar railroad station at Crossville, with its yellow, shedlike structure and unsheltered platform, and her friends standing there to wave the last farewell. It had been so different from the boat a few hours before, and she wished herself back with her parents and the girls and—Harry Temple.

She could still see Temple's hurt look when he received her gentle "No" to his proposal. He had always sought to oppose her career, contending that she would be far happier in her own home than as a choir singer or platform star. She had hated him for his apparent disbelief in her powers, and her refusal had been promptly given. She was sure that if he asked her now she would gladly abandon her career and go back to Crossville with him, but Harry was with the rest of the dear ones nearly a thousand miles away.

There was a gentle tapping on the door, and she arose to admit the stewardess.

"There's a gentleman who would like to see you on deck," she said, with a touch of accent. "He is M. Temple, and he asks that he may have the pleasure of your society."

"Temple!" gasped Nella. "A tall man?"

"With a light mustache and such handsome gray eyes," assented the stewardess, mindful of the generous tip and scenting a romance. "He is on the port side of the upper deck. Permit me to assist mademoiselle with her toilet."

Without waiting for reply the woman bathed the girl's swollen eyelids and removed traces of tears from her cheeks, smoothing the hair and refreshing the crumpled bows on the hat, which had been tossed into the berth with never a thought of the ribbons.

Nella emerged from the gangway to find Temple pacing the deck impatiently. He hurried toward her as she appeared and led her to a cosy corner, where two steamer chairs were placed close together.

"I am content that you are here. That is enough for me," she said shyly. "But how did you ever get here?"

"Next train after you left," was the prompt response. "My chum at college, Jack Harkwright, is representing his father's business in Paris, and when you prepared to come I wrote asking him if he could find a place for me. I got an answer by cable to come at once."

"And you never let me know?" she said reproachfully. Temple smiled.

"I had an idea," he said softly, "that perhaps it would be better to wait until after we had left port. It's lonesome work sailing alone and"—

"You were right," said Nella. "It has shown me many things in a new light. Perhaps if you were to ask a certain question over again"—

"I do ask the question over again," he declared earnestly. "I shall never cease asking that question until your answer is 'Yes.'"

"It is 'Yes' now," she said shyly. "I see life more clearly, and love is better than a career, after all."

"And heaven's blessing on the new perspective," he said fervently as his hand clasped hers in the early dusk that was settling down upon the sea.

When It Hurt.

A German surgeon in the Franco-Prussian war had occasion to lance an abscess for a poor fellow, and, as the sore was obstinate, it became necessary to use the knife twice. The operation was not a very painful one, but the patient declared that it had nearly killed him, and when a third resort to the lancet was proposed he protested that he could never go through the operation alive.

The surgeon promised to make it easy for him and, calling up a few of the loungers, ordered one of them to hold his hands close over the patient's eyes and two others to grasp his hands firmly.

"This arrangement," explained the doctor, "is said to prevent pain in such an operation. Now, lie perfectly quiet, and when I say 'Now!' prepare yourself."

The surgeon at once began quietly with his work and in a short time had completed the operation without the least trouble, the patient lying as quiet as though in sleep.

When all was done the surgeon laid aside the knife and said, "Now!" Such a roar came from the lips of the sick man as seldom is heard from any human being. He struggled to free himself, yelling, "Oh, doctor, you're killing me!"

Shouts of laughter soon drowned his cries, and he was told that the operation had been all over before the signal was given. It was a good joke, but it is doubtful if the poor fellow could ever be made to believe that he did not feel actual pain immediately after that fatal "Now!"

Chinese Eating.

It is probably true that the Chinese use a greater variety of meats than do the people of other countries, although but little land is set apart for grazing or for the cultivation of food for live stock. Beef is not a common meat, principally because of the Buddhistic prejudice against killing any animal and particularly such a useful one. Since hogs can be so economically reared, pork is undoubtedly, after rice, the leading article of food. This is eaten in every form, and one may say that every part of the animal is utilized for food. Horseflesh, venison, antelope and bear are often seen, but in passing through the markets pork, mutton and fowls are the most conspicuous. For fish the Chinese have an omnivorous appetite, nothing from the water, either fresh or salt, being rejected. A few kittens and puppies may be offered for sale in cages. These which are intended for the table are fed upon grain and clean food, so that if the nature of this food be considered it is far more wholesome than is the unclean hog. To assert that cats and dogs form a staple article of food is pure fiction.—London Standard.

Spring Fishing Number

With the advent of April the majority of sportsmen turn their thoughts to fishing, and "Rod and Gun & Motor Sports in Canada," published by W. J. Taylor Woodstock, Ont., has published a Spring Fishing number for the month. There are stories of fishing in Ontario, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Alberta and British Columbia, while an article descriptive of Kalki—the new rod wood—is of deep interest to fishermen. A fine survey of the whole question of International Control of International Waters by Mr. C. H. Wilson is worth careful perusal, embodying as it does a long and careful study of the whole question from both sides. A paper on Guides and Their Patrons, written from a guide's point of view by a veteran guide ought to lead to a controversy as exciting as that on dogs versus still hunters. Wolf hunting, moose hunting, deer hunting and deer preservation are but a few of the many good things in the number, while How One Settler Helps the Deer, should prove as widespread in its interest as the former paper by the same settler on How One Settler Treats the Deer. Besides the many excellencies of the number are apparent from the opening page to the closing page.

PRINCE RUPERT. It is almost needless to make any lengthy description on this place for we all know its the terminus of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, in B. C., situated on Kian Island, at the mouth of the Fraser River. It is estimated that owing to the great rush of gold seekers and others seeking wealth and new locations that Prince Rupert will have a population of 20,000 before next winter.

HAZELTON is another almost equally promising a city, situated at the head of navigation on the Skeena River, on the main line of the Grand Trunk Pacific also being the junction point of the Line from Dawson City. With these and other existing natural conditions and the prospects of a great development it is looked upon as a great place to advance.

If you want to get in right and on the bottom prices and get the pick of the stuff, write and accept this opportunity.

That languid, lifeless feeling that comes with spring and early summer, can be quickly changed to a feeling of buoyancy and energy by the judicious use of Dr. Shoop's Restorative.

The Restorative is a genuine tonic to tired, run-down nerves, and but a few doses is needed to satisfy the user that Dr. Shoop's Restorative is actually reaching that tired spot. The indoor life of winter nearly always leads to sluggish bowels, and to sluggish circulation in general. The customary lack of exercise and outdoor air ties up the liver, stagnates the kidneys, and oft-times weakens the heart's action. Use Dr Shoop's Restorative a few weeks and all will be changed. A few days test will tell you that you are using the right remedy. You will easily and surely note the change from day to day. Sold by all dealers.

Hurtubise Looks Good But will Have His Troubles

Toronto News says:

The chances are that the main preliminary bout to the heavyweight wrestling match between Eugene Hurtubise, the Peterborough grant, and Frank Kennedy, the New Yorker, at Mutual street rink Wednesday night will be another contest for the welterweight championship of Toronto. Harry Gatenby, who defeated Charles La Rush and Jack Edmunds, and claims the title, will meet Charles Daw, who challenged for it last week. The Gatenby-Edmunds go was a lively affair, and the Daw-Gatenby affair promises to be just as lively. Gatenby is not a man the challengers are afraid of, and they go right at him. Reports from Peterborough are that Hurtubise is working hard for the Kennedy battle. Kennedy is getting into shape with his fellow-countrymen in Berlin.

Acreage in Canadian Northwest Promises to be Greatly Enlarged

Ottawa, Ont., April 15.—Reports received from various points in the three provinces of Western Canada tell a story of great activity in the preparations for seeding. The wheat crop outlook in these prairie provinces is excellent, although the spring is late. The disappointments of last season have apparently inspired the farmers to make stronger efforts, and there is a general determination to break all records during the coming harvest time. The chief interest in the question of crops is directed toward the production of wheat, because that cereal is the export commodity. The aggregate yield of wheat in Manitoba, Alberta and Saskatchewan last year, according to the latest government returns, was 74,464,636 bushels, as compared with 70,000,000 bushels in the year immediately preceding. Practically all last year's crop of wheat has been marketed, the amount now being held by farmers, exclusive of grain for seed, being estimated at less than 6,460,000 bushels. At this time last year nearly 12,000,000 bushels remained in farmers' hands. It is expected that the total area for wheat in the three provinces this year will be close on to 6,000,000 acres. The wheat area in Ontario and the other provinces of the dominion will be considerably enlarged.

The big American concern, the New England Fish Company, that has hitherto practically monopolized the deep sea fishing on the Pacific coast, is to have a powerful Canadian rival, which is styled the Canadian Fish and Cold Storage Company, with headquarters at Prince Rupert, the terminal of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway on the Pacific coast. This company will erect the largest plan for cold storage of fish in the world. The company is capitalized at $1,500,000 and the managing director is Grier Stewart, once a manager of the New England Fish Company. The plant will have a capacity of 6,000,000 pounds and the company will ship its products to all parts of the world.

Some fifty gentlemen of France, composed of parliamentarians, political economists, ex-ministers and financial and commercial magnates, are about to visit this country with a view to a thorough inspection of Canada's resources. They will be shown over the three great transcontinental railway systems, as far as built, besides looking in at the Cobalt silver mines and the other mining camps extending from Nova Scotia to British Columbia.

Turkey Has Yielded to the Threats Made by Italy

London, April 21.—A despatch received here from Rome says orders have been issued countermanding the sending of an Italian squadron to Turkish waters for the purpose of coercing the Sultan into granting Italy certain postal privileges in Turkish territory.

The Turkish Ambassador to Rome, Mouatpha Rechad, gave Foreign Minister Tittoni satisfactory assurance that Italy would be accorded the same treatment with regard to post offices as that enjoyed by the other powers. The Foreign Minister expressed his satisfaction at this equitable settlement, and his action countermanded the orders for the naval demonstration.

ITALY NOT SATISFIED

Rome, April 21.—Turkey has ceded to the Italian demand for Italian post offices in Turkish territory in order to avoid a naval demonstration by her warships. Italy insists, however, that her other claims against the Ottoman Empire be recognized and an active exchange of despatches between Constantinople and Rome is going on.

Man, Wife, and Child Drowned in Icy River

Edmonton, April 21.—While traveling with a dog train on ice Saturday six miles from Arthabaska Landing, the ice broken precipitating Emile Cardinal, his wife and child, and Michel Desjarais into the icy stream. Desjarais with great difficulty scaped, and reported at the landing that the other three were swept under the ice by the strong stream.

And the Walking Match Goes On

As quite a number of our readers feared that the Sheridan injunction against the Peterborough Skating Rink Co. might result in a stoppage of the walking match, it might be noted that his Honor Judge Weller after hearing Mr. Pousette for the complainant and Mr. Madd for the defense, changed the motion for injunction into a "judgment." No tangible amount was shown yet given to Mr. Sheridan and the contract between the latter gentleman and the Rink Company was dismissed. Thus all legal bars were removed from the holding of the great match.

Peterborough Should Have a Dry Dock

Now that Peterborough is fast becoming a steamboat centre, it is necessary that a dry dock be built so that vessels may be repaired without loss of time. Heretofore the steamers requiring repairs are obliged to go to Bobcaygeon, where there is no foundry or machine shop situated. This means that a steamer going into the dry dock was obliged to shipp her broken parts to Peterborough or Toronto for repairs.

As an instance near the end of last season the steamer Otonabee had the misfortune to bend her main shaft and on account of having to go to Bobcaygeon, was unable to take time to get repaired. Consequently the steamer was in no shape to make the speed necessary to the comforts of travelling.

Yesterday afternoon, Mr. J. G. Sing, Government engineer, was in town and his attention was called to the need of such a dock at Peterborough. Mr. R. R. Hall, M.P., accompanied by Mayor Rush, Aldermen Elliott and Bradburn, and Mr. W. H. Robertson, president of the Otonabee Navigation Company, visited the canal and looked over the ground at the entrance to the canal at Little Lake. Here a dry dock could be constructed at a very little expense.

Mr. Hall with his usual enterprise and regard for the requirements of his constituents, will talk this matter up with the Department of Railways and Canals at Ottawa, and we hope in the near future to see the much needed dock in operation.

—Messrs. Jas. Ruth, Wm. Morris and U. Breckenridge yesterday shipped a number of car loads of hogs to Montreal.

Prescription Hurts Sale of Medicine

Simple Prescription to Make Home Made Medicine Cure

To make up enough of the "Dandelion treatment," which is claimed to be relieving nearly every sufferer who uses it for backache, kidney complaint, sore weak bladder and rheumatism; get from any good prescription pharmacy one-half ounce Fluid Extract Dandelion, one ounce Compound Kargon and three ounces Compound Syrup of Sarsaparilla. Shake well in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and again at bedtime.

Those who have tried it claim that it acts gently but thoroughly on the kidneys, relieving backache and bladder trouble and urinary difficulties almost instantly. Many cases of rheumatism are known to have been relieved within a few days, the pain and swelling diminishing with each dose.

A well-known local druggist, who is in a position to know, says its that this prescription, wherever it becomes known, always ruins the sale of the numerous patent medicine rheumatism cures, kidney cures, etc. It is a recipe which the majority of patent medicine manufacturers, and even certain physicians dislike to see published. Few cases, indeed, which will fail to fully yield to its peculiarly soothing and healing influence.

THE BIG SIX DAY WALK IS ON, HOAGLAND LEADS BY ONE LAP

James Harrison, of this City, Right After the Famous Champion

Stevens' Sensational Spurt

The start in the big six-day walk in the Brock street rink, was made at 7.31 p.m. last night, and 14 well trained pedestrians faced the starter. At the signal "Dave" Hartley jumped to the front and encouraged by the cheering of 1500 people he set a dazzling hot pace. It retain[ed] this lead for the first nine laps, when he was overhauled by Cooper, who led at the end of the first mile, which was completed in 7.42, the fast[est] of the evening.

Blake, the dark horse of the race, was leading at the end of the second and third miles, after which he surrendered his lead to Charlie Stevens. Walter Bruce, of Watson, after going the first three miles of the journey, dropped out of the race.

At intervals the walkers would sprint and at these times the excitement became intense; Stevens held the lead for the next eight miles, closely followed by Blake, Hoagland, Slater and Harrison. Between the twelfth and thirteenth mile, Hoagland, walking at a terrific rate, passed Stevens and took the lead.

He Courted Nun Under Difficulties--Wore the Garb of Sisterhood

And Thereby Won a Pretty Wife--Their Plan was Discovered at First

Successful in the End

Des Moines, Ia., April 21.—Courted by her lover wearing one of the nun gowns, Blanche Turley, sister of the convent of the Good Shepherd at Omaha, Neb., was cut out into the waiting arms of Maxwell Hirsch, formerly of Chicago, freed by writ of habeas corpus secured on a showing that the girl was over age.

While stood on the roof of the convent, Hirsch now the young girl looking over the elevator shaft on the floor above. Observing the subject of conversation with the lady, the nun yesterday took off to the shaft to watch for the young man. Three months ago they began a correspondence by notes secreted in the bundles of laundry sent by each nun to Hirsch's department. Two weeks ago the girl dropped a duplicate of her nun's garb down the shaft to her lover, who, by donning it and dropping the veil that the nuns wear when outside their corridors, entered the hall where Sister Florence roomed.

Words of love won the girl, and she planned other meetings. Hirsch, who is a Chicago blonde of twenty-five, brought her books and magazines and told stories of the outside world that sounded like fairyland to the nun. She had not been outside the walls since entering, and her daily life in the open court was taken in silence and under guard of the supervisor. A flashing brunette, the hot-headed girl fell in love with her wooer.

Sunday, April 12 Wearing boys' clothes, and with a pup in her mouth, the nun was on the point of leaving with her husband when the mother superior discovered them. She locked the girl in her room and discharged Hirsch, threatening arrest because the girl was under legal age.

Hirsch wired to Mrs. Drummer, remarried mother of the girl in Salt Lake City, and secured proof that Florence was over eighteen. On this evidence he today secured a writ of habeas corpus and the nun-wife was released shortly before noon.

Making Good.

There is no way of making lasting friends like "Making Good;" and Doctor Pierce's medicines well exemplify this, and their friends, after more than two decades of popularity, are numbered by the hundreds of thousands. They have "made good" and they have not made drunkards.

A good, honest, square-deal medicine of known composition is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It still enjoys an immense sale, while most of the preparations that have come into prominence in the earlier period of its popularity have "gone by the board" and are never more heard of. There must be some reason for this long-time popularity and that is to be found in its superior merits. When once given a fair trial for weak stomach, or for liver and blood affections, its superior curative qualities are soon manifest; hence it has survived and grown in popular favor, while scores of less meritorious articles have suddenly flashed into favor for a brief period and then been as soon forgotten.

For a torpid liver with its attendant indigestion, dyspepsia, headache, perhaps dizziness, foul breath, nasty coated tongue, with bitter taste, loss of appetite, with distress after eating, nervousness and debility, nothing is so good as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It's an honest, square-deal medicine with all its ingredients printed on bottle-wrapper—no secret, no hocus-pocus humbug, therefore don't accept a substitute that the dealer may possibly make a little bigger profit. Insist on your right to have what you call for.

Don't buy Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription expecting it to prove a "cure-all." It is only advised for woman's special ailments. It makes weak women strong and sick women well. Less advertised than some preparations sold for like purposes, its sterling curative virtues still maintain its position in the front ranks, where it stood over two decades ago. As an invigorating tonic and strengthening nervine it is unequaled. It won't satisfy those who want "booze," for there is not a drop of alcohol in it.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, the original Little Liver Pills, although the first pill of their kind in the market, still lead, and when once tried are ever afterwards in favor. Easy to take as candy—one to three a dose. Made sweetened but never sprinkled.

Fall Wheat Does Well In Ontario--Blue Reports from Hastings

And One or Two Other Districts--Most Districts Report Favorably

Fine Around Peterboro

Owen Sound, April 21.—The outlook for good crops in this district is very bright. Spring plowing is almost completed, and seeding is under way in some parts. Fall wheat wintered well, there being [illegible] of snow and no [illegible]. A downpour of rain Saturday night was welcomed by the farmers, it being the first April shower of the year. Everyone is well pleased with the prospects for 1908.

Kingston, April 21.—The farmers have not yet begun spring seeding. They have been plowing and rolling the ground for the grain, but so far the weather has been cold and backward. Last week hard frost was experienced. Yesterday was bright, but this morning a half-inch of snow fell before nine o'clock. The winds have been northerly and easterly for several weeks, but are now westerly, with hope of warmer weather.

WHEAT ONLY FAIR

Lindsay, April 21.—Two inches of light snow have fallen. The weather is mild. Clover promises an average crop. Fall wheat on high land is good, but on low land is not promising.

Belleville, April 21.—Crop prospects generally are not favorable. Fall wheat came through fairly well, but clover will be a failure. Timothy looks well, and no loss is due, especially on high and dry lands. Taken altogether, prospects for the general crop are pessimistic. This applies to both Hastings and Prince Edward counties.

FINE AROUND PETERBOROUGH.

Peterborough, April 21. —Although it is rather early in the season to judge, the farmers of this district regard the crop probabilities as excellent. Rye will be splendid, and an exceptionally good year is expected in fall wheat, owing to the fact that there has been so much snow during the winter. Plowing has commenced in several of the surrounding townships. The weather has been favorable, and although there was a light snow storm this morning, it is rapidly becoming warmer, and the snow is expected to prove a decided benefit to the crops.

King Edward The VII

London, April 21.—King Edward and Queen Alexandra left London this morning for a visit to Copenhagen, Stockholm and Christiania, where they will be the guests of the Royal families at these capitals.

St. John's Vestry--Satisfactoy Financial Standing

The annual vestry meeting of St. John's church was held in the school house last night with a good attendance.

Rev. Canon Davidson, rector, presided and opened the meeting with devotions.

After routine business, Mr. C. H. J. Mitchell, people's church warden, stated that the wardens had appealed to the congregation for an Easter offering of $1000 to balance a vestry building account, and that of this the sum of $1019.27 had been contributed, the principal part in cash, and the balance in the form of written promises, payable before October 15th of this year.

The warden's financial statement was read, showing receipts for the year of $4,717.30, and expenditures of $4607.23., leaving a credit balance of $710.07.

The statement was received and referred to the auditors.

A vote of thanks was passed in recognition of the faithful and efficient devotion of the organist and choir in connection with the musical portion of the services of the church.

A similar vote of thanks was passed to Mr. Fred L. Roy for his contribution of an excellent framed group photograph of Assistant Bishop Reeve, Rev. Canon Davidson, Dr. E. A. Langfeldt and the two deacons recently ordained in St. John's, the picture having been hung in the rector's room in the vestry.

A vote of thanks was also passed to the members of the Chancel Guild for their services in connection with the furnishing and decoration of the new vestry.

The name of Mr. Harry Long was added to the Rectory Building Committee.

The report of the Vestry Building Committee was referred to the auditors.

The meeting adjourned to meet on Tuesday evening, April 28th, when the new wardens will be appointed.

At the subsequent meeting of the congregation the following gentlemen were appointed lay delegates to the Synod:—Dr. Boucher, Messrs Jos. S. Bell and F. R. Yokmc.

Government Engineer Inspects Local Wharves

Yesterday afternoon Mr. J. G. Sing, Government engineer, of the Public Works Department, Ottawa, arrived in the city and inspected the Wolfe street and Ashburnham wharves, which are badly in need of repairs.

It is understood that the Wolfe street wharf will be raised a foot, it being at present several inches under water.

The Ashburnham wharf is so badly flooded that no measurements were taken. Mr. Sing promised to send an engineer to take measurements and to furnish estimates as to the probable cost of the repairs needed. It is hoped that there will be no unnecessary delay in making these much needed repairs.

Mr. Sing was accompanied by Mr. R. R. Hall, M.P., Mayor Rush, Aldermen Elliott and Bradburn, and Mr. W. H. Robertson, president of the Otonabee Navigation Company.

—Yesterday a large number of people rode down on the street cars to view the high overflow of the river at the foot of Lock street. Here the water is partly over the road and within a few inches of the street car tracks. Mr. Learmouth, however, expects no trouble with the tracks.

—Your eyes and quicky backed with Dr. Shoop's Magic Ointment. To prove it I will mail a small trial box as a convincing test. Simply address Dr. Shoop, Racine, Wis. I surely would not send it free unless I was certain that Dr. Shoop's Magic Ointment would stand the test. Remember it is made expressly and alone for swollen painful, bleeding or itching piles, either external or internal. Large jar 50c. Sold by all druggists. By all dealers.

Election of Wardens at St. Luke's Vestry Meeting

The vestry meeting of St. Luke's church was well attended last night by a representative gathering of the congregation.

The financial report showed a very satisfactory year with an expenditure of $3,700.

Mr. Alex Fitzgerald was re-elected rector's warden, and Mr. J. R. Browning was the people's choice. Mr. Harry Adams was appointed vestry clerk. Messrs Geo. F. Wurtele, F. Adams and Wm. Manuee were elected lay delegates to the Synod.

holding it for the next four miles. At this stage of the race, the fast pace began to tell on the novices. At the 12th mile, Cooper dropped out, and, and before the 15th mile was reached Brooks (the grand old man) was forced to quit the race-lust.

Harrison at the 17 1-2 mile mark passed Slater, and two minutes later overhauled the champion Hoagland. Then these two went at it "hammer and tongs," and greatly to the delight of the music rendered by the 57th Band, "hit it up," and the crowd yelled themselves hoarse. Inch after inch the champion gained and by the end of the next mile he had again assumed the lead, with Harrison, a close second.

Slater who had up to this time been walking a fine race, suddenly dropped back, as also did the black wonder, Blake. Stevens then retired from the track, and a few minutes after the boy wonder, Fenton, was seized with a cramp in the leg and retired.

At the 21st mile Harrison again took the lead and for the next mile another merry battle for first place ensued. Hoagland went after Harrison with a rapid stride and in a whirlwind sprint passed him at the end of the 22nd mile.

Dave Hartley who had been a lap or two behind the leaders all the evening, then began to shake himself and soon reduced the gap of seven laps between him and Blake to a paltry two.

Charlie Stevens jumped on the track again after a short rest and started in behind Hoagland. At the end of a lap he had passed him and for a mile and a quarter held his lead by a couple of inches, both men walking at an 11-2 mile an hour clip. At the 22 1-2 mile mark, Hoagland passed him, and for the remaining 3-4 of a mile that he walked he gave the spectators an exhibition of fast walking, the kind that wins the world's champions. Hoagland was still leading at 11.31 p.m., when the men were called off the track until tonight at 7 p.m.

WALKERITIS.

A large number of the fair sex were present at the walk.

Tonight the rule that only "officials," the "press" and trainers are to be allowed in the ring will be enforced.

The interior of the rink looked very pretty, being decorated with flags and bunting.

Blake, the colored walker, received a great reception from the crowd.

Jimmy Reynolds is an efficient referee.

Horrors of Fat Girls Coming Out

Coming out is the first great event of a girl's life. She thinks and dreams about it, from the hour she understands what it means. It is to be her first triumphal social hour. Then how terrible must be the anticipations of the over-fat young maiden, who realizes her proportions are far from conforming to the standard of fascination set by the more shapely girls with whom she is about to compete. Hence comes desperate efforts, by means of rigid dieting, curtailment of fudge and chocolate delights, strenuous exercising at the risk of developing a squared set and angular outline of figure, to take off the excess of matronly fat. Or else the distracted debutante flies for succor to the "patent" and "secret" advertised remedies.

The result only too frequently is that the so-called remedies and starvation diet ruin her stomach, while the exercise makes her coarse and boyish, and may be accompanied by serious physical danger. A far better plan, one which other fat folks, by the way, whether male or female, old or young, may adopt with equal benefit, is to go to the druggist, get these three simple remedies, viz: 1-2 ounce Marmola, 3-4 ounce Fluid Extract Cascara Aromatic, and 4-4 ounces Syrup Simplex, mix them together and take one teaspoonful after meals and at bedtime.

With the aid of this harmless receipt one can reduce as much or as little as one pleases, quickly and safely. It works naturally, does not cause wrinkles and reduces the body symmetrically. Furthermore, it depends on neither exercising nor diet to help it do the work, and it will not distress the stomach. On the contrary, it is beneficial to the system, cleansing the blood and clearing the complexion. Finally it saves a girl's money, for any druggist will fill this receipt for a small sum.

—Yesterday new planks were inserted in the eastern sidewalk on the market square in the spot where a lady on Saturday had her foot caught and sustained a severe sprain of one of her ankles.

VARICOCELE CURED

Confined to His Home for Weeks.

"Heavy work, severe straining and evil habits in youth brought on a double varicocele. When I worked hard the ailing would become severe and I was often laid up for a week at a time. My family physician told me an operation was my only hope—but I dreaded it. I tried several specialists, but soon found out all they wanted was my money. I commenced to look upon all doctors as little better than rogues. One day my boss asked me why I was off work so much and I told him my condition. He advised me to consult Drs. Kennedy & Kennedy, as he had taken treatment from them himself and knew they were square and skilful. I wrote them and got THE NEW METHOD TREATMENT. My progress was somewhat slow and during the first month's treatment I was somewhat discouraged. However, I continued treatment for three months longer and was rewarded with a complete cure. I could only earn $18 a week in a machine shop before treatment, now I am earning $21 and never lose a day. I wish all sufferers knew of your valuable treatment.

Spring Tiredness Cured By Harmless Remedy

Many are Using it and receiving benefit from its strength-giving power.

All winter long you work'd hard. Tired took lots of nerve force. It lasted so far, but now it's all gone, and you feel half dead.

Somehow you must get new vitality and more nerve force. The sugar in your blood must be turned into strength and building material. Your fretful appetite must be braced up. Sadly new power must be imparted to your weak body.

This is just what happens in using Ferrozone, which is an instant blood maker, blood-enricher and nerve builder.

Ferrozone not only creates keen appetite, it goes further, improves digestion and assimilation, so that every particle of food is converted into nerve and muscle tissue.

By building up nerve force and making each organ do the work that nature expects of it, Ferrozone quickly increases your weight and instils a reserve of vigor into the system that defies weariness, exhaustion, spring debility or sickness of any kind.

To prove the enormous strengthening power of Ferrozone we quote the following letter from Mrs. Cecil P. Gourmally, well known in Medleyville: "Last March I was very run down and thin. I had no appetite and scarcely felt like eating at all. My face was pallid and haggard and I had dark circles under my eyes. My weight was seven pounds under normal, and day by day that awful spring weariness dragged me down. The change Ferrozone wrought was surprising. It must certainly contain wonderful building and strengthening properties, because I gained strength, flesh and appetite from the day I started it. I speedily came back to vigorous buoyant health with Ferrozone, and recommend it as the best medicine any person in weak health can take."

Ferrozone strengthens the weak, restores the anaemia, soothes the nervous, assists men, women and children to better health. Try it 50c. per box or six for $2.50, at all dealers.

everybody suited.

He prided himself on having the largest general store in the county.

"If Man Wishes It and It Is Made I Have It," was the sign over his store and the motto which capped all his advertisements in the newspapers.

"William," said he one morning as he was giving instructions to a green clerk, "no one must ever leave this store without making a purchase. If a person doesn't know what he wants, suggest something. And, remember, we have everything, from carpet tacks to mausoleums."

William's first customer was a leisurely chap who gazed about curiously, but had no definite object in view.

"Just looking around," he explained.

"Wouldn't you like to take a look at our new line of post cards?" suggested the eager clerk.

"No, not this time," answered the stranger. "I'm just a little short this morning."

"Ah," urged the new clerk, who was not familiar with the wonderful slang terms of the language, "then perhaps you'd like to look at our line of new and handsome stretchers." — Sketchy Bits.

The Swaying Skyscraper.

Through the chance perfect adjustment in the way of balance of a row of large photographs that hang on the wall of an office on the twenty-second floor of an office building downtown the clerks in the place have a good deal of quiet amusement with persons who visit the place for the first time. Owing to this balance the pictures are easily swayed by the wind that blows through the open windows, and since the office force goes in for fresh air the year round the pictures are never still. The joke lies in catching the horrified expression on the faces of the callers when they get a sight of the swinging frames. Then it is always explained with due solemnity if the boss is not around that the swaying of the frames is due to the oscillation of the structure. It usually takes some time for the object of the joke to see the point. Meanwhile he has suffered a considerable shock.—New York Press.

Rifle and Smooth Bore.

The chief difference between a rifle and a smooth bore gun is that the inner surface of the rifle barrel has one or more spiral grooves cut into it. The object of this is to permit a portion of the material of the bullet or projectile to sink into the grooves. As the projectile is forced out of the barrel these projections into the grooves tend to remain there, thus giving rise to a spinning motion. In fact, it is not only going forward, but is rotating rapidly as it goes. The axis will tend—in accordance with the gyroscopic principle—to maintain without change its direction. Put that in really saying that the projectile will tend to remain in its true course. So this is why a rifled gun shoots straighter than a smooth bore.—Sc. Monthly.

Oyster Shortcake.—Make a soft, smooth shortcake dough with baking powder, using milk instead of water. Bake in thinner layers than you would for the regular fruit shortcake and split and butter generously as soon as baked. While the cake is baking, scald the liquor that you have drained from a quart of oysters, and in another saucepan heat a cupful of milk and half a cupful of cream. Just as this mixture begins to boil add a tablespoonful of butter and a tablespoonful of flour that have previously been rubbed together and stir until it becomes smooth and thick. Now, turn to the scalding oyster liquor and, having skimmed it carefully, add a tablespoonful of butter, some salt and pepper and finally the oysters. Let them stay but a few minutes only; then remove them. Cover the layers of the shortcake with them. Place the two layers together, one on top of the other, and pour the hot sauce over all. Serve immediately that it may have no time in which to cool.

Oysters With Parmesan.—Oysters with Parmesan cheese is another unique culinary concoction that is meeting with considerable favor. To prepare it butter a baking dish, spread a layer of toasted bread crumbs over the bottom, upon this arrange a layer of oysters, and over these sprinkle a thin layer of minced parsley and grated Parmesan cheese. Repeat this operation, add an extra layer of crumbs, with many bits of butter; pour half a glassful of mild white wine over the mixture and bake as you would scalloped oysters.

Oysters In Jelly.—A dainty suggestion was furnished at a banquet recently, when each guest was served with an individual mold of aspic in the center of which there were several appetising looking oysters. The molds were of different shapes and were served on beds of watercress, while the aspic had been generously flavored with lemon juice. The combination, therefore, was as tasty as it was attractive.

Recipes For Chafing Dish Parties.

One of the simplest chafing dish recipes, yet one with which very few are successful in making, is a cheese omelet. To prepare this take three eggs, three desert spoonfuls of sifted flour, a small quantity of grated Parmesan cheese, pepper, salt and butter. Beat the eggs, flour, pepper and salt together until quite smooth, and then add the cheese. Melt the butter in the upper pan of the chafing dish, pour in the omelet, stir until it begins to set, roll out on a small platter, slit across the top and sprinkle over it more of the grated cheese.

Grilled sardines are easily made and are an excellent dish to prepare in a hurry. Take a can of very firm, large sardines, remove the skin if desired, and fry the fish in melted butter which has begun to brown. After they have cooked a few minutes, not very fast, add a tablespoonful of Worcestershire sauce, some paprika and a little mustard.

An oyster roast fancy is made by taking six large sized oysters, melting a lump of butter in the chafing dish and laying the drained oysters in the hot pan to fry until brown on both sides. Then add more butter as it is needed, and when the oysters are brown on both sides put in two tablespoonfuls of ketchup, a teaspoonful of Worcestershire and sprinkle with paprika.

To prepare a Welsh rabbit take a pound of plain American cream cheese that is fresh, but not too soft, and cut it into tiny dice. Put a half teaspoonful of butter in the chafing dish and let it melt. Then add a teaspoonful of paprika and a half teacup of beer, and when this is hot put in the cheese and let it melt slowly. When the dice are almost entirely melted, begin to stir vigorously for a few minutes, or until the cheese is smooth. Have ready to add just before serving an after dinner coffee cup with a teaspoonful of beer, a saltspoonful or more of salt, some cayenne, a pinch of mustard, all well mixed. While the rabbit is hot pour in this seasoning and stir. Then serve on thin slices of toast. Some persons use milk instead of beer.

A Pipe Table.

A small, complete table for the den is the pipe table. Its lower shelf contains a match safe and ash tray combined, while four holes at the corners are for the pipes. On top one finds the stationary tobacco jar of brass, lined with porus wood and having a sponge in the lid.

NOW LISTEN!

Please read carefully what follows, and if you decide to take advantage of what the "Canada Southern Oil & Gas Co., Limited," of Tilbury, Ont (no personal liability), is now offering you, ths result will be that instead of getting 3 per cent. for your savings, you will get at least from 10 to 25 per cent. that others are harvesting.

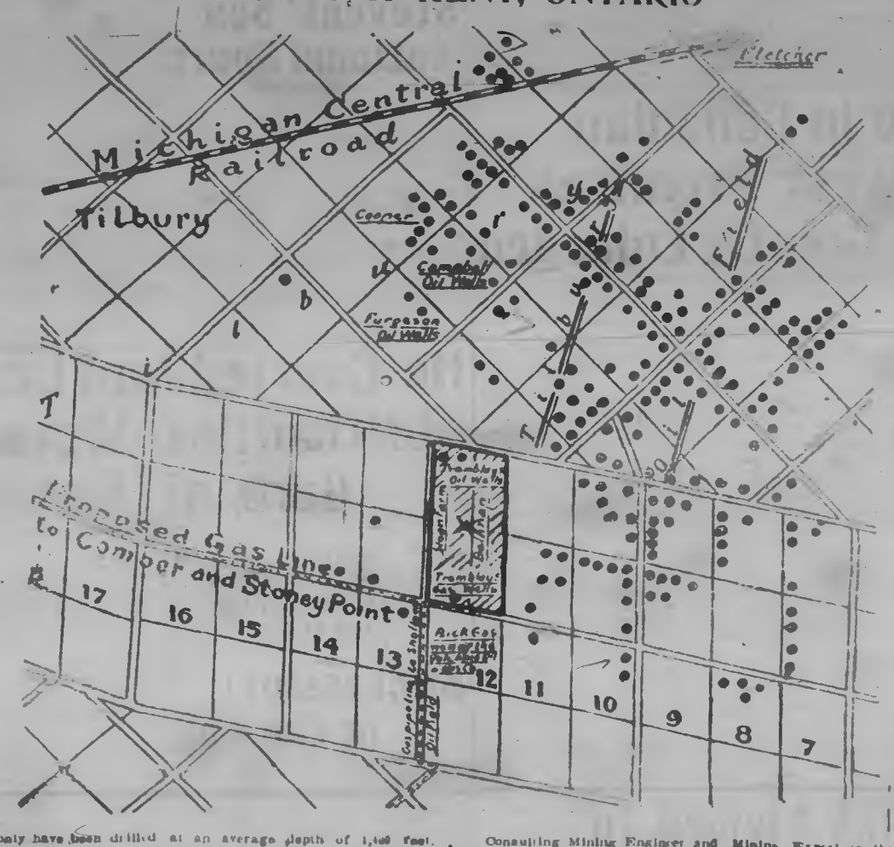
Your savings will be eight times more than the original amount by the mere fact of the higher rate of interest you will get.

Remember that this is no wildcat scheme, as you can see by the facts hereinafter mentioned.

Dr. Bell, the famous Canadian geologist, early in 1878 reported that there was an oil and gas field in the Townships of Tilbury and Romney County of Kent, Ont. As soon as the discovery of the oil was made in Tilbury in 1956, our American neighbors, who are experts in good things, did not hesitate to invest hundreds of thousands of dollars, and now, in fact, control the two thirds interest in our oil field of Tilbury; and this happened because we Canadians hesitated to invest a few thousand dollars in the exploration of the oil mines of Tilbury, which already give a monthly production valued at $75,000, without adding the revenue derived from the gas.

We have said that this is not a wildcat scheme, because the "Canadian Southern Oil & Gas Co., Limited," has secured an option at a very moderate price on properties situated in the oil and gas field of Tilbury, upon which three successful tests have been made, being Lot No. 12, M. R. N., Tilbury East, 200 acres, indicated with a cross upon the map of the field.

COUNTY of KENT, ONTARIO



Three wells only have been drilled at an average depth of 1,400 feet.

The first one proves to be a rich gas well, the two others are good oil wells, combined with a strong production of gas.

The Company has also secured the franchises for the distribution and sale of natural gas into the Townships of Romney, Tilbury East, North and West and also into the thriving villages of Comber and Stoney Point.

The gas well is properly equipped and already is supplying the motor power to the Romney oil field and is getting one-third of the gross revenue of the gas sold.

The oil wells are completely equipped with one 15 h. p. gas engines, derrick, tanks, boiler, pumps, tubing, pipe-line, jerk-line, jack, etc., and are producing daily. The oil is sold to The Imperial Oil Company, Sarnia, and is delivered at the tanks and shipped through its pipe-line to Port Marquette R. R. Station at Merlin, a distance of 3 miles.

Our properties are already giving daily a net revenue of about $35.00—that is to say, more than 10 per cent. of the whole capital stock of the Company.

This revenue may be made four times greater by the drilling of other wells and the construction of the gas-line to Comber and Stoney Point.

Fritz Cirkel, Esq., of Montreal, consulting mining engineer and mineralogist to the Dominion Government, who lately made an inspection of the said property, concluded his report as follows:

"In summarizing the actual results already obtained from the operations on the Sloan wells the writer is forced to the conclusion that the property under consideration is a very valuable one. Located as it is in the western extremity of the producing Tilbury oil field, in close proximity to wells which produce from 40 to 60 barrels of oil (and even more) per day of 24 hours (I refer to the Ferguson Campbell and Cooper properties, located about 2,000 feet distant to the north, see plan attached hereto), it bids fair to become a producer of oil and natural gas of no small measure.

The Tilbury field has already the reputation of being a large producer and powerful companies have entered the district with a view of securing properties of known and established value.

There is one factor to which I would like to draw your special attention and that is the future of natural gas. To-day, the market in that in that part of the country, for this commodity is not sufficiently large to dispose of all the gas the wells can produce but there is no question that in the near future factories will be established on central points, which will eventually consume for various purposes, especially for power, all the gas which can be produced in the field.

Besides this there are quite a number of towns and villages in the western part of the Niagara Peninsula, which may use the gas for heating, lighting, and also for power purposes and it is only a question of time when this will be realized.

The economy of the application of natural gas to power purposes is already evidenced all through the field, as coal or any other power cannot be regularly obtained, and that at high figures. Having therefore, a powerful gas well on the (Sloan) property, it is evident that a great saving is effected from this source alone; for instance, for the operation of ten oil wells, the cost of power required per day would amount to between twenty and twenty-five dollars, which, in 300 working days per year, would represent a saving of from six thousand to seven thousand five hundred dollars.

In conclusion, I may say that this property, with proper and economic management, can be made highly remunerative; I entertain, no doubt, that if properly developed, it will show similar results as those of so many other locations in the vicinity, whose developments have of so many other locations in the vicinity, whose developments have been so vigorously pushed in the past.

Respectfully submitted,
(Signed) FRITZ CIRKEL.

What they offer at 25c per Share for a short time

The property is situated at Mancos, Colo., and consists of 160 acres, fully paid for. The Company expects to secure at least 400 acres or more, we are negotiating for it now and the terms are satisfactory and there is coal on the same, and they also intend to secure some Coal Mines of which they have the refusal. Some of the best coal mines in Colorado are in this district, as well as some of the richest gold and silver mines. In fact this is one of the richest parts for mineral in the State of Colorado, and the Company has the refusal to several prospects on reasonable and easy terms.

In our opinion the prospects of the Company are very bright and a rapid advance in the price of the stock is sure to take place in the near future. Full information can be had by calling at our office.

papers, learned that Sylvia was once more an heiress and forthwith held out an olive branch to Paul. Moreover, the frantic old gentleman, as Deborah called him, really began to feel his years and to feel also that he had treated his only son rather harshly. So he magnanimously offered to forgive Paul on no conditions whatsoever. For the sake of his mother the young man buried the past and went down to be received in a stately manner by his father and with joyful tears by his mother.

Paul and his respected father sat up till late discussing the matter.

"And now, sir," said Beecot senior, grasping the stem of his wineglass as though he intended to hurl it at his son, "let us gather up the threads of this infamous case. This atrocious woman who tried to struggle your future wife?"

"She has been buried quietly. Her mother was at the funeral, and so was the father."

"A pretty pair," gobbled the turkey-cock, growing red. "I suppose the government will hang the pair."

"No; Captain Jessop can't be touched, as he had nothing to do with the murder, and Sylvia and myself are not going to prosecute him for his attempt to get the jewels from Pash. Mrs. Jessop, much broken in health because of her daughter's terrible end, has gone back with her husband to live at his house in Stowley."

"What!" shouted Beecot senior. "Is that she devil to go free too?"

"I don't think she was so bad as we thought," said Paul. "I fancied she was a thoroughly bad woman, but she really was not. She certainly committed bigamy, but then she thought Jessop was drowned. When he came to life she preferred to live with Krill, as he had more money than Jessop."

"And therefore Jessop, as you say, had free quarters at the Red Pig. A most immoral woman, sir—most immoral. She ought to be ducked."

"Poor wretch," said Paul, "her mind has nearly given way under the shock of her daughter's death. She loved that child and shielded her from the consequences of killing Lady Rachel. The Sandal family don't want the case revived, especially as Maud is dead, so Mrs. Jessop—as she is now—can end her days in peace. The government decided to let her go. She knew that her daughter had killed Lady Rachel and shielded her. But she was never sure if Maud had strangled Krill, as she feared to ask her. But as the girl was out all night at the time of the murder, Mrs. Jessop, I think, knows more than she chooses to admit. However, the treasury won't prosecute her, and her mind is now weak. Let the poor creature end her days with Jessop, father. Is there anything else you wish to know?"

"When?" he asked, taking her in his arms.

"That boy, Tray?"

"He was tried for being an accessory before the crime, but his counsel put forward the plea of his age and that he had been under the influence of Maud. He has been sent to a reformatory for a good number of years. He may improve."

"Huh!" grunted the old gentleman. "Now that—that blackguard, Hay?"

"He has gone abroad and is likely to remain abroad. Sandal and Tempest kept their word, but I think Hurd put it about that Hay was a cheat and a scoundrel. Poor Hay," sighed Paul, "he has ruined his career."

Rheumatism

I have found a tried and tested cure for Rheumatism! Not a remedy that will straighten the twisted limbs of chronic cripples, nor bring back to life lost limbs, but a remedy that will relieve the agonising pains and pangs of this deplorable disease.

In Germany—with a Chemist in the City of Darmstadt—I found the last ingredient with which Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy was made a perfected, dependable prescription. Without that last ingredient, I purposefully treated many, many cases of Rheumatism; but now, at last, it unfailingly cures all curable cases of this horrible, often dreaded disease. Those acid-like germs which, found in Rheumatic Blood seem to dissolve and pass away under the action of this remedy as freely as does sugar when added to pure water. And then, when dissolved, these poisonous waste, fresh pass from the system, and the cause of Rheumatism is gone forever. There is now no reason—no actual excuse to suffer longer without help. We will, and in confidence recommend

GUESTS' CARDS.

A New Style Lately Brought Over From Paris.

For even an informal luncheon or dinner guest cards at each plate do much to facilitate the seating of the different members of the party. Even the most clever hostess will frequently forget at the last moment just where she has decided that each guest would find the most congenial neighbor, and a mistake of this sort might have really serious consequences were there any reason why any two persons should be separated, while it would be a pity for two persons who had been carefully chosen for each other beforehand to be placed by mistake at opposite ends of the table. When she is constantly entertaining, however, albeit in an informal manner, elaborate dinner cards will come to quite an item in the course of the winter, yet it must be acknowledged that there is nothing especially pretty about the plain gilt edged card, and certainly it does nothing to make the table more attractive.

A new style of dinner card lately brought over from Paris is certainly ingenious, for not only does it answer all requirements from an economical standpoint, but it also adds much to the effect of the table. This little novelty consisted of a tiny wire rack on the order of a tripod or miniature artist's easel, with one leg in back and two in front and a tiny rack to hold the cards. Tied or wired to this small rack is a tiny cluster of artificial flowers made with the perfection only attained by French workmen, which completely cover the wire stand, while on the rack reposes an ordinary pasteboard card with the name of the guest inscribed upon it. The flowers may be changed according to the decoration of the table—roses, marguerites, ferns, carnations, etc.—and if desired fresh flowers may be tied to the rack with bright colored ribbon, and for a large luncheon or dinner this little ornamentation will do much to help out the picture given by the flowers, crystal, gold and silver.

These little racks could be quite easily made with soft copper wire, and the few clusters of artificial flowers would cost little or nothing and would be delightfully easy to make up. The dinner cards are but a small item and altogether make a quite charming addition to the table, but the hostess had better be watchful lest these card racks be taken away as souvenirs, as is said to have happened once in the case of individual silver saltcellars when they were first introduced.

HOUSEHOLD HELPS.

Little mats of felt or soft material keep fine plates and dishes from being scratched or nicked by piling on shelves.

To make a rice pudding both unusual and good stir raw eggs into the boiled product in the proportion of one egg to each person.

A recipe for paste that will never dry nor turn sour is one teaspoonful of powdered alum and ten drops of clove oil added to a pint of very smooth, thick paste.

When filling oil lamps place a small lump of camphor in the oil vessel. It will greatly improve the light and make the flame clearer and brighter. If you have no camphor, add a few drops of vinegar occasionally.

Lace window curtains should always be soaked for an hour in cold water to which a little borax has been added before being put into warm suds. This gets out the smoky smell that is sometimes so noticeable in curtains that have been used in a town.

Flaked soap is expensive to buy. But you can flake your own by scraping down ordinary soap with a suet scraper. These scrapers are also useful for flaking dripping when in winter it gets too hard to be easily rubbed into flour when making pastry or cakes.

Coffee stains, even when there is cream in the coffee, can be removed from the most delicate silk or woolen fabrics by brushing the spots with pure glycerin. Rinse in lukewarm water and press on the wrong side until quite dry. The glycerin absorbs both the coloring matter and the grease.

If after washing your painted walls you find they have become streaky and dull, use the following: Take equal parts of boiled linseed oil and turpentine. Dip a woolen rag lightly in this and rub well into the wall. The streaks will disappear, the luster return and your walls look like newly painted.

Bloodmaking Goods.

Raw beef is good and may be made palatable in sandwiches. To make raw beef sandwiches grate round steak. This makes a paste which is seasoned only with salt. This mixture may be spread on thin bread or on salted crackers. They may be eaten at any time during the day.

Raw eggs are bloodmakers and may be taken in any way one wishes. The simplest is to take a shallow wineglass, put in a drop of lemon juice and break the egg in this, taking care not to injure the yolk. Over this put four drops of lemon to make the egg go down easily with one swallow. Hold the head back and toss the contents of the glass into the back of the mouth. Eight eggs a day are none too much when one is trying to recuperate.

Says This Medicine Has Mystic Powers

Will Assist Anyone in Work, Pale Nervous, Condition to Robust, Hearty Health.

It's in the spring that health rives out—that folks begin to feel draggy, weary, restless,—hate to eat, look pale, feel discouraged.

If you've reached this state, read what W. Jewell, well known in Meaford town has to say about the medicine that cured him. "Last winter I caught a heavy cold that settled in my back. My kidneys and liver were affected and my health failed. By spring I was in bad shape—couldn't sleep like I used to—felt tired in the morning—ate very little—was terribly depressed, pale and anxious looking. Two doses of rheumatism, frequent neuralgia attacks over the temples made matters worse. The doctor prescribed three times, but didn't help. Then I heard of Dr. Hamilton's Pills,—they possess mystic power surely, for I gained and improved day by day and now am in perfect health again. I will praise and use Dr. Hamilton's Pills till I die."

The ingredients in Dr. Hamilton's Pills are pure and wholesome,—come right from the storehouse of Nature in the form of vegetable juices and extracts,—consequently this gentle, invigorating laxative tonic and blood purifier is safe for old and young alike. We assure you of enormous benefit from Dr. Hamilton's Pills which revitalize delicate glands, search out the seat of hidden disease, flood the body with vigor and health that has caused thousands of broken-down, despairing men and women to join in a mighty song of praise for the beneficient, aid that comes from this king of all tonics. Get Dr. Hamilton's Pills—today—25c. at all dealers.

PRINCE RUPERT. It is almost needless to make any lengthy description on this place for we all know its the terminus of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, in B. C., situated on Kian Island, at the mouth of the Fraser River. It is estimated that owing to the great rush of gold seekers and others seeking wealth and new locations that Prince Rupert will have a population of 20,000 before next winter.

HAZELTON is another almost equally promising a city, situated at the head of navigation on the Skeena River, on the main line of the Grand Trunk Pacific, also being the junction point of the Line from Dawson City. With these and other existing natural conditions and the prospects of a great development, it is looked upon as a great place to advance.

If you want to get in right and on the bottom prices and get the pick of the stuff, write and accept this opportunity.

Suggestion as to City Revenue

Yesterday afternoon the usual crowd of cattle buyers and others who congregat daily in the market weigh scales office got talking about the market building. They thought that the large hall, only used on Wednesdays and Saturdays should make more money for the city. It was suggested that the city might put down a hardwood floor and rent the hall to some one to operate a roller skating rink there during the time that the hall is vacant. But possibly those occupying the stores beneath might object to the noise of the skaters above.
